

BLECHYPEDIA

Second Edition – November 2023

The Ancestral Blechynden family originated in County Kent, England.

Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus emigrated from Kent to the Swan River Colony, Western Australia in 1830.

This is their story.

Compiled by members of the Blechynden and associated families

*Coordinated and produced by Dianne Black,
assisted by Ken and Angela Blechynden,
all proud Blechynden descendants.*

Designed and produced by Dianne Black, Perth, WA.

Style manual: For authors, editors and printers, sixth edition, 2002, was used as a general guideline for preparing this document.

Introduction

This project begins with the earliest history of the name Blechynden from a derivative of that name back in Ethelbert's year 863 era in ancient England. It continues through the traceable connection of our immediate family line from 1470; then, it explores the family's mixed history in Kent, England.

The central part of the project then follows up with the migration to the Swan River Colony of our Australian ancestors, Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus. It continues with the massive expansion of the family in WA since their arrival. Our nearby New Zealand cousins are also included.

Thousands of Harrison and Charlotte's descendants are now dispersed through many other famous early settler and pioneering families in WA - Edwards, Muir, Giblett, Green, Needs, Page, Reilly, Davies, Dunham and Hancock, to name just a few.

Many years of work have gone into this project. It is just the beginning for other family members to expand their history and continue with their own family stories.

The main project covers the family branches down as far as the great-grandchildren of Harrison and Charlotte. To include currently living generations would have expanded into thousands of pages plus, for privacy purposes, project producer Di stopped including details of the living. People can continue from here to include details of current generations if they wish. Therefore, there is much more to tell and record from all the current living generations, i.e., the thousands of great-great-great and great-great-great-grandchildren. We hope they take up the challenge to keep this history growing.

This second edition has many refinements made since the first edition was released on 28th August 2023. Feedback from users has been greatly appreciated. This is now the version suggested for users to print from. Lindsay Adams a descendant from Charles Edwin Blechynden has also worked very hard to make this edition more user friendly and fixed a few issues found in the first release.

Project coordinator Di Black, a direct descendant of John Blechynden of Bridgedale in Bridgetown, is to be commended for her unending exhausting work and commitment. Without her staggering effort, this project would still be in the "we must do that some-day" stage. I urge you to read Di's 'An Amazing Journey' section two pages further on which explains in detail what this project was and the main people involved.

We thank Di Black immensely and hope you find this updated expansive project exciting and helpful in exploring and recording your history and family.

‘BLECHYPEDIA’

BLECHYNDEN
An Ancient Kentish Family

The story of the Western Australian
BLECHYNDENS,
Our ancestors in Kent, England and our New Zealand cousins.

This ongoing project has been compiled by members of the Blechynden and associated families.

Coordinated and produced by Dianne Black,
assisted by Ken and Angela Blechynden:
All proud Blechynden descendants.

A brief report of the launch of the first edition of Blechypedia can be found at Appendix One.

An Amazing Journey

The story of the Blechynden family in Kent, England, in Section One, has been put together and cross-referenced with that of our own research, the research shared by family trees passed down by our ancestors, Family Trees in Ancestry and Ancestral Wills letters and documents. This has been reinforced by using genealogical websites and sourcing from the Internet. We were fortunate to be able to cross reference much of the research with that shared by Gerald Fox on his website. We are hoping that, as more material becomes accessible that any errors and discrepancies may be rectified in the future.

The large section on WA is split into primary family group sections. The first extensive and reasonably comprehensive section is on Harrison and Charlotte and their pioneering days, experiencing hardship and disappointment with initially little or no infrastructure in this new colony. On their move to the Beverley district, there are many quotes from the book Beverley - Our journey through time. This chapter is more about Harrison and Charlotte and briefly touches on the children, their marriages and their lives.

There are individual chapters on each of the children following. In each chapter, to avoid repetition, there are references in the first paragraph to read the first chapter as to their parents' early days and history.

Each of the chapters is entirely different, and the children of Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden had totally different experiences owing to their place born in the family. The firstborn, John's life and experiences were totally different from Joseph's, the lastborn.

I initially hoped to write it all up in story form. I have done so in some sections, but the facts get quickly lost within the story. When I began, I had a few half-handwritten pages to start with. We have come a long way since then. The data needs to be in place for others to reference and see where it has come from. With almost every birth, death and marriage, I have been able to reference where the information has come from. It became apparent that the in-laws were just as important to the story, and all were pioneers of the South-West in their own right.

Those with computer skills will be easily able to move from one section to another using the Table of Contents or the search tool. Those who have it printed will need a comprehensive index and contents list to find their areas of interest. Most members will be mainly interested in their own line. Very few will ever read it all.

There will be errors, and probably lots of them, no matter how carefully we try. I doubt anyone will follow up on all the Registration numbers. The idea is to present and share what we have and for the family in each section to be able to go on from there, correcting any errors or discrepancies and adding their own research and family stories.

Helping to compile this history for me has been an amazing journey. What an intriguing story finding out so much about this family and being able to trace its roots right back to the 14th Century and beyond. The fact that the early Blechynden families owned property has made it much easier to trace them. The name has been recorded in many different areas, including manuscripts, articles, church inscriptions and headstones, newspapers and Wills. The fact that almost all the families in Australia are descended from one couple, Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus, has made the sharing of data much more straightforward.

The shipping records provided a beginning in tracing where our ancestors came from. The WA Index of births, deaths and marriages dating from 1841 has provided accurate and essential information on each individual following their immigration to the Swan River Colony, which was later named Perth. Blechynden cousins have been generous in sharing their research and information. It has been wonderful getting to know them: Initially, Angela and Ken Blechynden, Jill Feutrill (nee Blechynden), Mary Coulthard (nee Blechynden) and Debbie Miles are just a few. Gerald Fox (dec.) is also to be commended for his compilation of worldwide Blechyndens.

For me, this has been a learning experience in many ways. Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden and their children were amongst the pioneers of this new colony. So much was promised. They came to a land that had not been explored by Europeans. The climate was harsh as they battled with the weather, sand, thick bush and enormous trees. Interaction with the Aboriginal inhabitants was sometimes hostile, sometimes friendly. Unfortunately, there was never any formal acknowledgement of the Aboriginals by the Crown or the settlers as the original custodians or traditional owners of the land. There was no infrastructure and no facilities. What a hard life they had at the beginning.

Newspaper cuttings of their births, engagements, weddings, death notices and memoirs helped to tell the story. They told of much courage and fortitude as they spread out and pioneered the farming areas of the South-West of WA. From reading this manuscript, you will see that the Blechyndens and their extended families were good honest people and outstanding citizens helping and working hard to build and provide facilities in each town and farming area.

I was moved to tears as I read about: the story of a little girl who was kicked in the head by a horse and tragically died; the husband and wife who lost their last three babies; the story of the Blechynden on his horse who was forced up against a barb wire fence by a charging bull and was saved by his dog, and the little girl who was burnt to death at Lake Muir, just to mention a few. The emerging story of Harrison's cousin George Blechynden's son, also named George, born to an unknown Aboriginal woman, surviving between two worlds was a sad and disturbing one.

The memoirs of John William Blechynden, a pioneer of Bridgetown, spoke of a man of such humility and strength, with the desire to help others. This was also reflected in his sisters, May and Amy, and the memoirs of his brothers and made me proud to be a Blechynden.

The advent of the computer and the discovery of DNA has brought the world so much closer together in sharing information.

Blechypedia consists of a compilation of data, research and knowledge from many sources and the result of contributions from hundreds of descendants of Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus and their extended families. The expertise and research recorded and passed down by our ancestors to their families has been invaluable.

Acknowledging everyone is an essential addition to our book. Our wholehearted thanks go to all who made written and oral contributions to the text and those who provided copies of documents, letters, stories, poems, photographs, or allowed us to photograph memorabilia, etc. It would take another book to thank everyone personally. Proceeding through each chapter, their names and contributions will become apparent.

A special thank you to Ken and Angela Blechynden, Jill Feutrill, and Mary Coulthard, who contributed many years of research and shared their collections at the beginning of this journey, making the base and core of this Blechynden story. Thank you to the many other members who have come aboard, contributed their research, and helped assemble their family tree lines. It has been wonderful getting to know you all. That special bond is definitely there.

Most of the information in the New Zealand section came from Jill Blechynden of New Zealand and her father, John Newton Blechynden, who shared their research on Harrison's cousin, John Blechynden, who migrated from Kent to Shanghai and then to New Zealand. Contact was made in a letter from cousin John to John William Blechynden in 1901, and visits between both countries eventuated. Jill visited WA in 1994 and was made most welcome.

Thank you to Debbie Miles and her daughter Tiffany for creating the Blechynden Family Tree Facebook group and Western Australian Pioneers and Settlers Facebook group making new members feel very welcome and encouraging participation. Debbie enthusiastically followed up on every subject with great zest.

Thank you to the many members of the Blechynden Family Tree Facebook group for their interest and those who made an extensive range of contributions to this Project.

A special mention also to Tracey Currigan for managing the Bygone Beverley Facebook Page and looking for and adding articles on the history of Beverley and information, especially regarding the Edwards family relating to our Blechynden family in many ways.

Thank you to John Andrewartha for his ongoing support and who stalwartly added data and corrected information to WikiTree with every piece of information that came into the Blechynden Family Tree Facebook group. This will continue to be of great value to other researchers in the future.

The names in this list in alphabetical order are an attempt to thank all those who have shared and contributed in many different ways.

There are many others. So many people have been in touch over the past three years; my apologies if I have missed you. A special mention to Angela Blechynden, Mary Coulthard, Jill and Doug Feutrill, Lindsay Adams, Jeff Osborne, Mervyn Beacham, John Andrewartha, and Liz Blechynden, who have been a tower of strength.

I would like to especially thank Ken Blechynden who was a huge part from the commencement five years ago to the final culmination of this enormous project. Thank you to Ken for his extensive hours and patience helping by going through this Project with its ever-expanding and changing details numerous times. It has been a massive effort and though more refinement and corrections could be done we had to stop sometime. His wife, Angela Blechynden, also from the very beginning has been very supportive offering advice and encouragement all the way.

Congratulations to us all. What a magnificent outcome. What a magnificent team!

Di Black

Perth, August 2023

Principal Compilers

Dianne Black, RN

Dianne worked as a Registered Nurse in hospitals in Perth, Wyndham and Kununurra in the Kimberley and as far south as Esperance. An interest in her family tree involved many years of research at the Battye Library, Genealogy Centres and via the Internet. Dianne's extensive genealogy web pages included those of the Blechynden and associated families resulted in making contact with researchers world-wide. Using Photoshop, many old photos from family albums were scanned and digitally repaired. She is a sixth-generation descendant from a number of family tree lines who emigrated to the Swan River Colony and were pioneers in the settlement of Western Australia. Dianne is the great-great-great granddaughter of Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus. She is descended from their first child John Blechynden who married Elizabeth Green.

Di is the compiler and publisher of Pioneers of the Preston and Yornup from the Heart.

Ken Blechynden

Born and bred in Bridgetown, Ken is a proud descendant of Harrison and Charlotte's eldest son John Blechynden and his wife, Elizabeth, who established Bridgedale in Bridgetown. In the 1970s, Ken expanded his interest in his family history, prompted by receiving many old and fascinating documents and photos from his father, Ray and his Uncle Reuben Blechynden. He then began expanding his knowledge to the various other descendants of his great-great Grandparents Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus), who emigrated to the Swan River Colony in 1830. In 1983 Ken visited Kent, England, exploring many family-related historic sites, and found documents that spoke of the Blechynden name in Kent going back to the 13th Century. By then, this "Blechynden Collection", as he called it, was becoming quite large and continued expanding. A few years ago, his cousin Di Black offered to produce the whole Blechynden history using Ken's collection. Ken happily passed it on and offered to help. Blechypedia has been its result.

Angela Blechynden

Born on the Isle of Man, a small island in the Irish Sea with a historic Parliament over 1000 years old, Angela was always interested in history, especially family history. When an illness forced her to retire early from her government job in the 1980s, she started a collection of photos and stories for her parents, the Jones and Joyce families. She also began filing away death notices and articles from newspapers and the WA Battye Library, plus photos and items for her husband Ken Blechynden's family history. Soon, she found a few fellow researchers and collectors in Polly (Ruby) Blechynden and her daughter Mary Coulthard, Debbie Miles and Jill Feutrill nee Blechynden, daughter of Ken's Uncle Reuben. She and Ken also communicated with descendants of the Blechynden family in England, New Zealand, and South Africa. They all sent each other their research, and the basis of the vast Blechynden Collection she and Ken had collected was established and is now extensively expanded into Blechypedia.

Editor

Lindsay Adams

Born in Beverley and raised on 'Red Hill', Lindsay is the grandson of Frank Robus Blechynden, a proud descendent of Charles Edwin, the seventh child of Harrison and Charlotte. He has immensely enjoyed contributing to Blechypedia and working with its principal compilers, Dianne, Ken and Angela. He looks forward to helping with future editions and then, hopefully, a hard copy 'concise' history of the Blechynden family in Western Australia.

Notes from Di Black

Contents:

The Table of Contents is just a hint of the multiple entries in Blechypedia. In order to save space, the entries in Part 1 – An Ancient Kentish Family have been limited to the direct line of Blechynden descends from William Blechynden (~1470-1514) and Agnes Godfrey in Kent to Harrison Blechynden (1802-1873) who emigrated to the Swan River Colony on the Minstrel in 1830.

The Ten Lines of Descendants from Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus became much more complex as the story progressed, children married, and in-laws became involved. I found it best to tell the parents' story and briefly mention the children. After the death and burial of the parents then, an individual section was written about each of the children and their partners. A few family tree lines have become quite long with the amount of research and information shared. The Table of Contents gives a good overview.

To move quickly about the document, if reading online you can use the Table of Contents by simply holding down the control then click on the item. You can also use the MS Word 'Search' function to hone in on what you are looking for. For those reading a hard copy, there is a detailed Index at the end. To save space and complexity, this Index focuses on the key location where a Blechynden (or related family member) is mentioned. It does not include place names.

In addition to the Ten Lines of Descendants, there are also sections on George Blechynden, who emigrated with Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus, and John Blechynden, who emigrated from Kent to Shanghai and eventually settled in New Zealand.

Appendix Two might be of interest to Blechynden descendants regarding historical Blechynden agricultural and pastoral leases. The second is recommended for working out what can sometimes be complex relationship terminology for ancestors or even current cousins.

Accuracy:

Researching the history of our ancestors is not an easy task. There will be discrepancies and inaccuracies. This is a continuing project. It is hoped with the sharing of this information, family members can correct any errors in the future. We have endeavoured to show the source of our data.

Privacy and Confidentiality:

In these documents, we have included names and dates of our ancestors and more immediate Blechyndens in Kent, England and the South-West of WA. Being aware of privacy and confidentiality, we have provided minimal information on the living.

Trove:

Much of our valuable information about our Blechyndens in the South-West has come from cuttings out of newspapers and articles written in the past. In particular, Trove has been an excellent medium for sourcing these articles and has provided the answer to many questions. The delightful style of writing in the 1800s and early 1900s has helped present a vision of how life was in that era at the beginning and shows dramatically the development of WA. Of note, Dr Judith Pearce worked at the Canberra Library for many years, one of her main objectives being looking into saving archives for the future. Judith was the primary instigator of Trove. She is the sister of Blechypedia publisher Di Black, and both are proud descendants of John and Elizabeth Blechynden of Bridgetown.

Images and Photographs:

Many of the images throughout this book have been provided from personal family collections. People are named from left to right unless otherwise stated. Adding the source to some photos has been difficult as, over the years, many of the images have been duplicated and shared in the family, and it is almost impossible to name the original owner. Where possible, we have added the source of the image or material. The passage of time has taken an inevitable toll, and a few of the photos are of poor quality. With the use of Photoshop, many have been improved.

Births, Marriages and Deaths:

WA BMDS Registration indicates the number given to each individual when their birth, marriage or death has been registered. In some cases where the month was December, the event was not recorded until the following year. At times the names have been misspelled.

I have spent thousands of hours looking up each individual's birth, death and marriage. Wherever possible, I have added the registration number as WA [Reg.---] or NSW [Reg.---]. In some family tree lines, names were complicated, with many also being known by nicknames and different spellings. You will see I have added explanations where this is so. I also have written where the name is spelled differently in WA BDMS.

The names have been mostly sorted out by cross-referencing between WA births, marriages, deaths, Ancestry family trees, and family records. There will still be errors, but I have tried to show where the information has come from in every case. There are repeated errors in some Ancestry family trees, and sometimes the headstones have incorrect information. Often there are differences in the day and month. Sometimes only a birth certificate will correct this.

To avoid repetition, in most cases, Western Australia has been shortened to WA. The same is for the other states (NSW), Victoria (VIC), South Australia (SA), etc. In adding the family tree data, I have shortened the spelling of the day and the month: For example, Monday to Mon and August to Aug.

In the National Archive records, we have found instances of people being recorded as enlisted but, being farmers, telephonists and in other vital occupations, being requested to stay where they were most needed, providing services to support the country at home. In these few cases, Service records have not been included.

Conversion Tables:

Our ancestors used imperial measurements, and it was not until 1973 that the metric system came into use in Australia. In 1966, when the monetary unit of Australia changed from pounds to dollars, one pound was worth two dollars.

12 pennies = 10 cents	1 foot = 30 centimetres	1 acre = 0.40 hectare
1 shilling = 10 cents	1 yard = 0.91metre	1 pound = 454 grams
10 shillings = 1 dollar	1 chain = 20 metres	1 ton = 1,016 kilograms
1 pound (£) = 2 dollars ($)	1 mile = 1.61 kilometres	1 bushel = 36.4 litres

Blechynden Ancestors - Kent

Our Blechynden ancestors originated from Kent, England. We are fortunate that they owned property and, as such, were written into many old manuscripts recording English history. Their wills were a story unto their own, holding a lot of information on their family members and giving us some idea of their lifestyle.

Many family connections over many years - including Gerald Fox, Dr John and Angela Blechynden of Crawley, England, and a range of visiting Australian descendants over the past 50-100 years - have amassed an extensive range of research material about the Blechyndens of Kent and shared it within the family.

Particular mention is made of Gerald Fox, who compiled and shared the excellent The Blechynden Story - A Kentish Family of Landed Gentry (See <http://www.blechynden.co.uk/index60.html>). Gerald was a Blechynden descendant whose branch went to India from Kent. He extensively researched the English and Indian lines of the Blechynden family but also did much great work on those who migrated to New Zealand, Australia, the USA and the UK. His work has significantly added to our project and is greatly appreciated. See more on Gerald below.

Edward Hasted's, The History and Topographical Survey of the County of Kent, 2nd Ed, Vol 7, Canterbury, 1798, Vol VII 598, plus numerous others mentioned below, have been invaluable.

Note that if you plan to do further research, the word "Kent" is often auto-translated into "Kentucky" in some family tree websites. This tendency can get quite confusing. Similarly, WA, has sometimes been interpreted as Washington. Hopefully, as individual families research their lines over time, the family history will be expanded even further.

Our ancestral Blechynden information has also come from many other researchers. Church records in England are excellent, but due to the repetition of names handed down over many years, there is occasionally confusion and inaccuracies.

Blechynden Descendants – Western Australia

The information we have on our Western Australian Blechyndens is reasonably accurate. Most Blechynden descendants originate from Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus, who migrated from Kent in England to WA on the Minstrel, arriving in the colony on 20 Jan 1830. They were married in Perth on 3 Mar 1832 and had nine surviving children. With them was Harrison's cousin George Blechynden, who had a son named George, born to an unidentified Aboriginal woman. George Blechynden (junior) was married in Busselton in 1864 to an Aboriginal woman by the name of Jane Nilgie. It is thought no children resulted from this marriage; however, Aboriginal records were not recorded at this time. Researching this relationship provided quite a challenge. Despite many efforts, we have not been able to verify the details of the birth or death of George Junior or his Aboriginal mother. You will see in the section on Cousin George that records sourced via Trove have captured many eventful moments of his life as an adult.

Much of the data on the Western Australian Blechynden and associated families has been compiled from Shipping Records, the Western Australian Indexes, family histories and hand-written family trees, old photos and newspaper archives and various records and publications in the UK. With the advent of the world of computers and the discovery of DNA, the sharing of research has become much more manageable.

Blechynden Researchers

The information in this compilation on the Blechynden family comes from a multitude of sources. Thank you to all those who have contributed and shared their data. It is to be hoped that by adding to and correcting any discrepancies that we will gradually see this jigsaw come together.

Swan River Colony - Early Burials

Together with the just previously mentioned research websites, the following links to early burials in the Colony are excellent resources.

East Perth Cemeteries: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/East_Perth_Cemeteries East Perth Cemeteries was the first cemetery established for the Swan River Colony in 1829. It is estimated that as many as 10,000 people were buried there between 1829 and 1919 in seven independently administered denominations or sections which is why the place is known as 'East Perth Cemeteries'. Only around 800 gravesites have been identified. A large section of the original site has since been built over, leaving about five hectares (12.5 acres) remaining.

The site, which is a short distance from Gloucester Park and the WACA Ground, is now bounded by Plain Street, East Perth, Wittenoom Street, Bronte Street and Waterloo Crescent.

The cemetery site was surveyed by John Septimus Roe on 24 Dec 1829 soon after the central portions of the Perth townsite had been surveyed. The area was originally known as Cemetery Hill and was established in 1830. The first burial was of Private John Mitchell from the 63rd regiment. Mitchell died on 6 Jan 1830.

Google map image of the entry of East Perth cemetery.

The Trustees of the Church of England were granted Perth Town Lot R1 as a general cemetery in 1842. The cemetery was consecrated in 1848, and over the following decades sections of this were granted to various other denominations and ethnic groups with each cemetery being owned and controlled separately. The subsequent grants were: Roman Catholic (1848); "Wesleyanism" (i.e. Methodist; 1854); Congregational (1854); "Hebrew" (i.e. Jewish 1867); Presbyterian (1881); and Chinese (1888). Each of the grants were administered independently, with the exception of the Chinese section.

In 1899, Karrakatta Cemetery became the main burial ground in close proximity to Perth, and from July that year burials officially ceased at East Perth, except where special applications were made to use family graves. The cemetery was used intermittently from then until the last burial in 1919.

Alma Street Cemetery: <https://fremantlestuff.info/cemeteries/alma.html>

The Alma Street Cemetery served Fremantle from 1831-1855. Fremantle Primary School now occupies the city block bounded by what are now Alma, Brennan, Stevens, and Attfield Streets.

Alma Street Cemetery

The first recognised cemetery, the old burying ground in Alma Street, was opened in 1831, and was in use for over twenty years. After the opening of a cemetery in Skinner Street, the only interments permitted in Alma Street were those of persons who had near relatives buried there.

History:

*Thomas Peel proposed that a township to be known as Clarence be established at Woodman Point. Early maps show the Clarence Town site occupying the area between Cockburn Sound and Lake Coogee. Peel brought 490 settlers with him from England on the Gilmore in order to establish his new colony. Owing to a series of disasters and mistiming the settlement was abandoned within three years, leaving approximately sixty graves behind. This is, however, still some dispute as to where exactly's earliest arrivals established Clarence Town in 1829.*

THE CLARENCE SETTLEMENT

495 members of Thomas Peel's failed venture, arrived aboard three ships, Gilmore, Hooghly and Rockingham between Dec 1829 and May 1830. They set up makeshift camps in primitive conditions at Clarence. In the first year some 40 settlers died of scurvy, dysentery, other ailments and 6 from childbirth. The majority of the deceased were buried in the vicinity and a number later re-interred in the old Alma Street, Cemetery, Fremantle.

ABORIGINAL GROUPS OF THE SOUTH WEST OF WESTERN AUSTRALIA

PART 1 – An Ancient Kentish Family

The initial pages of this part contain a range of interesting background items about the family in Kent. Details regarding our direct connections to our Australian line start from William Blechynden (~1470-1514).

The Name of Blechynden

From old family records

THE NAME OF BLECHYNDEN (written 1936)

Sometimes spelt Blechenden, Blechinden, Bletchinden, and in other ways, the name may have been derived from the name of the village or parish in the Lewes district of East Sussex called Blatchington, formerly called Bletchington (also many other spellings).

The "de" before Edwin Bletchinden's name indicated that the family came from a place of that name, and he, or an ancestor, probably gave the name to the Manor near Headcorn still (1936) marked Bletchenden on some maps of Kent.

There is also a parish called Blatchington or Blechington in the district of Bicester, Oxford.

Kent is full of "Dennes". Headcorn alone has about twenty of them and one can easily count a dozen or more parishes whose names end in "den". Biddenden, Frittenden, Marden, Rolvenden, Tenterden etc. Each represents the clearing of land. Presumably Blechynden means forest made up by or belonging to the Blech family, Blechen being plural of Blech.

COMPLEX DESCRIPTION OF THE ORIGIN OF THE NAME BLECHYNDEN JOHANNES KNUT WALLENBERG

<https://books.google.com.au/books?id=Odv-zQEACAAJ&dq=editions:LCCN34004237>

Below is another interesting but complex description of the origin of the name BLECHYNDEN. It is possibly where the previous description was interpreted from.

This comes from pages 216 and 217 in a book by J. K. Wallenburg published by Uppsala in 1931 called "Kentish Place Names" or "A topographical and etymological study of the place name material in Kentish Charters dated before the Conquest."

An attempt has been made at a translation from the article, relating to the name Blechynden, for easier reading.

"From OF. Herewic "dwelling, camp." — Of the pastures Bleccingden has been identified with Bletchenden 126 C5 (de Blechinden '1240 Ass; de Blechindenn '1254 Ass; de Blechyndenn '1292 Ass; de Blechindene 1327 Subs, etc). Karistrom, p. 135 derives the name from OE Blecca, Blacca, pers.n + den. There is a turbid pool at Bletchenden and a stream a little to the south of the place. The name must just as well be derived from a r-n formed from the base of OE blec "black, dark, or blec "pale, pallid".

Cf. discussion of bleccing BCS 214. — Pafindenn (Kemble and Thorpe read Waf-) has been identified with Wanden 126 B7 (de Wandenn '1278 Ass; de wandenne 1292 ...

The last two places return in 946 BCS 1345 þ scaltærnstall steal at here pit sub Swalecliffe manor. here pit should evidently be read here vic.¹ From OE herewic "dwelling, camp". — Of the pastures bleccingdenn has been identified with Bletchenden 126 C5 (de Blechinden '1240 Ass; de Blechindenn '1254 Ass; de Blechyndenn '1292 Ass; de Blechindene 1327 Subs, etc.). Karistrom, p. 136, derives the name from OE Blecca, Blacca, pers.n. + den. There is a turbid pool at Bletchenden and a stream a little to the south of the place. The name may just as well be derived from a r-n formed from the base of OE blec "black, dark" or blac "pale, pallid". Cf. discussion of bleccing BCS 214. — Pafingdenn (Kemble and Thorpe read Waf-) has been identified with Wanden 126 B7 (de Wandenn '1278 Ass; de Wandenne 1292 Ass; 1327 Subs, etc.).² Assuming that the charter form should be read Wafingdenn, it seems to me rather doubtful whether this form should have been reduced as early as in ME to Wandenn. It may be questioned whether the suggested identity is correct. If no connection is assumed with the charter form Wanden may perhaps contain as a first el. OE wann "dark, dusky" or a r-n Wand-* from the stem of OE windan "to wind, turn". Wanden is close on the winding River Sherway. — As regards Pafingdenn, I suggest as a possibility identity with Povenden (lost) in Bethersden, but still used by Hasted, III, 238, as an alternative name of Engesham 126 E9. Early forms: Ponyndenne 1253-4 FeesKn; Pouinden ' (2 x), Puninden ' (1 x) 1254 Ass; Pouinden ' 1278 Ass; Pouyndenn(e) 1292 Ass; Powyndenn ' 1313 Ass; de Pouyndenn(e) 1327, 1334 Subs; de Powyndenn, -dene 1346, 1347 Subs. The isolated Pun-form may probably be disregarded. Connection assumed with the charter form the basis must be OE Pafing-. There

FIRST RECORDING OF THE NAME BLETCHENDEN, 0863

The following articles refer to ÆTHELBERHT KING OF WESSEX, mentioned in the KENTISH EXPRESS LETTER. Via T. WITHERDEN BURDEN, 23 Jan 1904, plus other sections in Blechypedia. It also shows THE FIRST RECORDING (we know of) for the name Bletchenden in 0863:

ÆTHELBERHT KING OF WESSEX

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Æthelberht,_King_of_Wessex

Æthelberht (Old English pronunciation: [ˈæðelberˈxt]; also spelled Ethelbert or Aethelberht) was the King of Wessex from 860 until his death in 865. He was the third son of King Æthelwulf by his first wife, Osburh. Æthelberht was first recorded as a witness to a charter in 854. The following year Æthelwulf went on pilgrimage to Rome and appointed his oldest surviving son, Æthelbald, as king of Wessex while Æthelberht became king of the recently conquered territory of Kent. Æthelberht may have surrendered his position to his father when he returned from pilgrimage, but resumed (or kept) the south-eastern kingship when his father died in 858.

The Ancient House of Bletchenden

"Headcorn - A Scrap Book of Village History", 1955 - Women's Institute:-

The ancient house of Bletchenden now standing is built of Bethersden marble, brick and half-timber. It has a delightfully picturesque appearance. Richard Culpepper was the owner in 1450, and was one of those who received pardon for his part in Cade's rising. ...

In the thirteenth century there was a Kentish family named Blechynden, who without doubt owed that name to the place of their original dwelling.

A Miss Margery Kengdon of "The Old House" Bilsington Ashford writes - (1980) "The Blechyndens came to Bilsington in about 1786 when they rented "Priory Farm" from the Barnham family who then owned the manor of Bilsington. From then on they came down in the world but remained at Priory Farm till 1830 or so. In 1811 George Blechynden was overseer of the poor (Bilsington). A post he held for some years. He helped Thomas Spain, churchwarden, make the census of that year. There was a burglary at Priory Farm in 1828 but nothing of value was stolen. Georges son caught the burglars but they hit him and got away. By 1840 there were other tenants at Priory Farm and George Blechynden (possibly the son) was living in a small cottage in Bilsington near the canal where the village shoemaker used to live. By the census of 1851 there is no mention of George in the village but Philpott Blechynden is game-keeper living in "Keepers Cottage" on Priory Farm. Somewhere about this time a Mr Higgins, a farmer doing well, lent one of the Blechyndens some money and in return was given a very beautiful silver mug with the Blechynden Crest on it. I don't know if it still exists. About 1908 Bill Blechynden lodged with a Mr Higgins at Bonnington and was able to lend a woodman - Charles Lukehurst - some money to buy a cart of wood. Actually he shared in the profits and didn't lose anything. Bill eventually went to Canada."

Bletchenden is referred to in a Charter of Ethelbert 863: In 1450 the Manor of Bletchenden is mentioned in Hasted's History of Kent, Vol. v, pages 332-333. This manor is still in use today (2020) and is located about 2.5 kilometres south of Headcorn off the Biddenden Road.

The left entrance photo to the large estate, taken from Google Street View, was taken from Bletchenden Road where it bends 90 degrees at the bottom of the right image. It appears all the area above that point in the right photo is included in the estate. You can look it up easily by searching for it on Google maps (note the spelling). The sign reads: PRIVATE ROAD BLETCHENDEN PLEASE DRIVE SLOWLY. Please drive slowly.

This Period Manor House of Bethersden marble, brick and half-timber stands away from all traffic in a delightfully picturesque, secluded garden, with a pond, moat and woodland paths. . .

Below is a sales marketing brochure describing the building. It is not known what year that was. It was no later than the 1970's but was most likely much earlier.

Bletchenden is referred to in a Charter of Ethelbert 863: In 1450 Richard Culpeper was the owner of Bletchenden, and erected the tower and aisles of Headcorn Church.

The Manor of Bletchenden is mentioned in Hasted's History of Kent.

"We stayed there in 1997. Originally built in 1450 (the black & white part) with a large dining room with fireplace large enough to roast a deer on the spit! Low doorways and sloping floors now. The property is now subdivided with others named "little Blechynden Farm" or minor B. Farm, etc. There are the remnants of a moat around the fields - to protect stock from wolves."

BLETCHENDEN HOUSE, HEADCORN, KENT, ENGLAND

Liz Blechynden who is a contributor to this project stayed at Bletchenden House in 1997 and took this photo:

*Bletchenden House,
Headcorn, Kent*

Headcorn is a village and civil parish in the borough of Maidstone in Kent, England.

HEADCORNE Note the difference in spelling of Hedcorn / Headcorn in some articles.

<http://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-kent/vol5/pp324-336>

HEDCORNE (spelling as in article)

pp1. NORTH-EASTWARD from the hundred of Brenchley and Horsemonden, a small space of the hundred of Marden and lath of Scray only intervening, lies the parish of Hedcorne. . .

pp3. The manor of Tenham claims over a considerable part of this parish, and the manor of Ospringe over another part of it.

pp4. It appears by the roll of knights fees, taken anno 7 Edward I. that the archbishop of Canterbury, and the master of the Maison Dieu, at Ospringe, were returned as lords of this parish. . .

pp6. The village or town of Hedcorne, with the church at the west end of it, situated nearly in the centre of the parish, is an unfrequented dull place. There are several small hamlets built round the different greens or fostalls in the parish. . .

LIST OF WILLS – BLECHYNDEN – KENT – 1396-1558

<https://www.kentarchives.org.uk/wills-probate-records/>

A couple of lists list of wills which shows the Blechynden name was widespread in Kent during the mid 1400's to the mid 1500's. They are from the area referred to in the next few pages and the era we start the story of our specific ancestors from.

Items in the chart on the right are no longer available at the Canterbury Cathedral Probate Records office but some details can be viewed so it still a good website to use.

For specific Wills an approach can now be made to: Archive Collection Officer | Archives and Local History | Kent County Council | Kent History and Library Centre, James Whatman Way, Maidstone, ME14 1LQ | Tel: 03000420215

Records are supposed to be available at <https://www.kentarchives.org.uk/> however a detailed search there has failed to locate for example the Will mentioned below of James Blechinden, even using all the reference numbers. Many other items can be viewed so it still a good website to use.

The following three pages contain a list of Blechynden UK events found in Ken and Angela Blechynden's collection. It is assumed they were from the old Mormon Church microfilm lists. These films are no longer available as they were replaced by digital format. These lists also confirm the Blechynden name was quite prolific in Kent in the 1500's and 1600's. It is also presumed many would have lived and died without events being recorded herein.

BLECHYNDEN, JOHN

Please advise any errors or omissions to blechypedia@gmail.com

The name BLECHYNDEN appears in numerous web searches but of course our direct line and the theme of this project does not include many of these search results. Following are two examples.

There is a BLECHYNDEN ALMSHOUSE in Salisbury which was built with money donated by a Margaret Blechynden Aldersey in 1682/1683. Her husband was a Thomas Blechynden D.D. but the Thomas Blechynden of the 1600's in our line married a Margaret Lynch. A century earlier there was a Margaret Blechynden from our line but she married John Blechynden 1563-1607 and her maiden name was Ashenden. Both these are detailed further on. Also, as confirmed by her will, the Margaret of the Almshouse fame had numerous children which do not appear in our line.

The Almshouse story is an interesting one. British History Online has the following story of the establishment:

SALISBURY CHARITIES: CHARITIES FOR THE POOR

<https://www.british-history.ac.uk/vch/wilts/vol6/pp168-178>

Blechynden's Almshouses.

¶ These almshouses were founded by Margaret Blechynden, who, by her will dated 1682, bequeathed £566 1s. 3d. to build an almshouse for six poor widows. In 1684 Samuel Eyre, Margaret's nephew and executor, purchased a site in Winchester Street for £120 10s. and built the almshouse on it for £99 15s. 9d., but the residue of the bequest was not invested until 1752 when Robert Eyre, grandson of Samuel, conveyed to trustees the almshouses and lands in Laverstock and Temple Combe (Som.) worth £20 a year. Widows admitted to the almshouse were to be at least 50 years old, and they were to receive 12s. every twelfth week for the repair of their dwellings. The funds of the almshouse were augmented by a bequest of £300 by Elizabeth Lee in 1755, and bequests of £100 by Edward Smith, and £20 by Mrs. Barford made some time before 1778 and 1809 respectively. The charity was not confined to widows from any particular area, but Elizabeth Lee asked that, wherever possible, two of the widows should come from Whiteparish and Downton respectively.

In 1833 income from rents and dividends amounted to £80, and each widow received 5s. a week and 3s. at Christmas. In 1900 12 a. of land at Laverstock were sold, and in 1956 the only real property belonging to the charity were some 13 a. at Temple Combe then let for £30 a year. (fn. 6) At the end of 1956 the almswomen were still receiving a weekly pension of 5s. One of the houses was vacant. (fn. 7) The almshouses were rebuilt in 1857, and a legacy of £900 from Edward Wilkes Gawthorne was used for their renovation in 1950. (fn. 8) They comprise two blocks of single-story houses standing at right angles to each other facing a small garden at the corner of Greencroft and Winchester Streets.

It still exists and operates in 2020. The street image below is snipped from Google Maps.

On 1 June 1847 the London and South Western Railway opened a station in Southampton as part of its plan to run trains from the Southampton area to London, Waterloo. The new station was given the name Blechynden Station. However, eleven years later when the line had expanded, and another new station built in Southampton to accommodate the increase in the number of passengers, Blechynden Station was renamed to Southampton West.

There do not appear to have been any Blechyndens living in Southampton prior to Charlotte and William settling there. The archive staff at Southampton believe that it was William's son James who was responsible for the Blechynden name being found in several locations in the Southampton area. He was no doubt honouring his mother.

The Southampton Council have been contacted but could not confirm the origin of the naming.

Blechynden Terrace Park or Blechynden Gardens is a park in Southampton, Hampshire, England. It lies within the remains of the Emperia Building, which was destroyed by German bombing during World War II. As part of a 2018 beautification scheme, a 4.9m steel arch 'Blechynden Arch' was placed over the main path through the park.

Blechynden:

Blechynden is a district represented today by the surviving street names of Blechynden Street and Blechynden Terrace, thus localising it in the extremely small district covering the east part of the Southampton Central railway station site and the steep slope west of the railway tunnel. Presumably, Blechynden was restricted to the east or Southampton bank of the Rolles Brook, since Sidford (in Millbrook) occupied the west bank.

Before the coming of the railway there were plans to make Blechynden into a pleasant suburb with rows of good houses with ornamental gardens facing the water. Blechynden Terrace actually dates from this time but the coming of the railway prevented the completion of the project. An artist's impression of the scheme can be seen in Townsman's Occasional Notes, page 32.

BLECHYNDEN STATION

The original station at Blechynden stood further east than the present Central Station stretching nearly to the entrance of the tunnel. It was built soon after the opening of the Southampton-Dorchester line in 1847. Its name was changed to Southampton West in 1858 and then to Southampton Central in 1935. Philip Brannon's print of 1848, titled BLECHYNDEN AND THE WESTERN SHORE SOUTHAMPTON, shows the station with the Great Tunnel in the distance. (Edit The tunnel doesn't seem visible)

AN OLD KENTISH FAMILY – THE BLECHYNDENS
BY MR HENRY RIGDEN OF ASHFORD

(From "Kentish Express and Ashford News," January 2, 1904.)

[FOR PRIVATE CIRCULATION].

(From "Kentish Express and Ashford News," January 2, 1904.)

Mr Henry Rigden, of Ashford, sends us the following interesting account of the family of Blechynden: "In your last issue I read the following announcement—'December 22nd, at Norwood Farm, Newchurch, John Blechynden, aged 84 years.' This old gentleman was the last of his generation, and one of the few remaining descendants of one of our very oldest Kent families, and it may not be uninteresting to trace, in a few remarks, the history of this family from the time it was first mentioned in Hasted's 'History of Kent.' In his account of Mersham he speaks of one Nicholas Blechen-den, who was possessed of the ancient manor of Quarrington or Quatherington, in that parish, in the latter part of the reign of Edward I.—temp. 1300-1307. The name has in history been variously spelled, but Blechynden is most common, and has been latterly adopted. When the late Lord Brabourne on his elevation to the peerage was in search of a title, it is said he originally chose that of Quarrington, but found a difficulty with the initial letter in his signature, and consequently took the title of Brabourne. But I should think it more probable that, knowing his county history so thoroughly, he was aware that there were living representatives of a family that had owned land in Mersham long before the Knatchbulls possessed any there. For did he not write in one (Moonshine, 1871) of those well-known books for children, in which he treated us to much county history, past and present, as follows—

'In fact the master of Quarrington was not a man to put easily out of his way. The head of one of the oldest Saxon families in Kent, he . . . dwelt in the ancient manor house of Quarrington and owned the extensive manor of that name, situate upon the north-west side of Mersham Hatch. Although not one of the great nobles of his day, he was still among the most powerful of the lay proprietors in that part of Kent, the Knatchbull property being then comparatively small and John de Baliol's family as yet not gathered round them the vast estates which were afterwards attached to their mansion [at Scott's Hall. And although Blechynden's habits of life were simple and he made no great display he was looked upon with respect as one of gentle birth, and withal not ill to do as far as this world's wealth was concerned. Moreover, he stood well with his neighbors generally, although he was on no friendly terms with De Baliol, whom he looked upon as an intruding Scotchman, whose family had no business to settle in the south country.

'It appears that this manor remained in the family of Blechynden till the end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, but it is clear that the family did not long reside there, as the grandson of Nicholas left this place on his marriage with Agnes, one of the co-heiresses of Thomas and Humphrey Godfrey, of Ruffins Hill, Aldington, where they and their descendants resided till the year 1677, when this property was ceded to Julius Deedes, of Hythe, in whose family it remains. The Blechyndens also possessed as part of the portion of Agnes Godfrey the manor of Simnell, in Aldington, but this passed out of the family in 1715 and is now merged in the Deedes estate. In the church of Aldington there are many of the family buried, and the south chancel has for many generations been known as the Blechynden Chancel. We next hear of this family as occupiers of Bilsington Priory and Farm, where they resided for many years, but, as the poet says, 'Moons wane and races wither to the tomb.' So old families gradually disappear, but there are representatives living who can claim direct male descent from the original Nicholas in the year 1300: and very few of our families can do this. One of the members of this family will be remembered by inhabitants of Ashford as occupying a shop in High-street, now Mr Marsh's, and an old lady, the last representative of the Canterbury branch, died some years since."

Kentish Express Letters - 1904

Following are a series of letters exchanged in the Kentish Express in 1904 triggered by the above article by Henry Rigden.

Note: More details and images of the various properties mentioned above and below are included in the family histories following these letters and the Moonshine section.

KENTISH EXPRESS LETTER VIA, H. BLECHYNDEN KNELL, JANUARY 9th, 1904

"KENTISH EXPRESS" JANUARY (9th, 1904).

THE BLECHYNDENS.

"to the Editor of the Kentish Express".

Sir:-

I have been interested in reading the article in the last weeks issue on an ancient Kentish family the "Blechyndens".

Though I do not recollect the gentleman whose demise you refer to, I have no doubt he was connected with the family from which surname I feel particularly interested in anything that concerns the family, which once held a good position in the country.

My objection writing to you is to say that the family is certainly not extinct though I believe the male descendants to be very few. My grandmother Jones Blechynden who you have referred to as living in High Street, Ashford, for many years and had several brothers, two of whom, Vincent and Alfred, lived at Bilsington, the former died many years ago but left several sons, whom however I have quite lost sight of. The other brother Alfred died a few years ago, a bachelor. Another brother, John, also a bachelor lived until recently at Brighton, but I have not seen him for some considerable time. There was yet another brother, Edward, who formally lived at Newcastle on Tyne, but died many years since, leaving two sons, one John I think died in China. I do not know of his descendants, though I have some recollection that he left children. The other son Alfred died about five years since, leaving one son.

This is as far as my knowledge goes, I have no record of the female descendants of the family, who were I believe more numerous, but have become scattered and of course do not bear the family name.

I should be pleased to know of any further details relating to the family, if any of your readers can supply them.

Yours faithfully,

(Sgd) H. Blechynden Knell.

THE ANCIENT FAMILY OF BLECHYNDEN.

To the Editor of the "Kentish Express".

Sir:-

In reply to your correspondent's letter in last week's issue with reference to the Blechynden family I think I can supply some information concerning them.

The John Blechynden he mentioned as having known in Brighton is the one whose death was referred to in the paper. A slight mistake having been made in the first letter, the christian name being sent in as Edward, instead of John. He was the youngest of that family, the eldest son Edward died at Newcastle on Tyme in 1864, leaving two sons and two daughters, one son Alfred is dead, the other son John is still living in Shanghai, China, and has a family of six. One daughter is married and living in New Zealand, the other is in Scotland. George the second son went to the Swan River, Australia, in company with a cousin Harrison Blechynden, when quite a young man (about 18 years old).

He kept up no correspondence after he went away, but about two years ago John Blechynden in China met a timber merchant from Australia, who informed him that George never married, Harrison Blechynden married and his descendants numbered about eighty in a radius of twenty miles from Bridgetown, W.A. They went out with a Mr. Brockman about the year 1830. Vincent Blechynden died in St Georges hospital Belgrave in May 1869. He was a bachelor.

Philpott Blechynden (my father) died in Bilsington in July, 1893, and Jones Blechynden at Ashford, January 1886. They had one sister, Mrs. Chas. Chandler who died in London in October 1872.

The family left Bilsington about 76 years ago. There had been Blechyndens living there, we are told, for about 200 years.

Yours faithfully,

(sgd) Williams Blechynden.

KENTISH EXPRESS LETTER VIA, T. WITHERDEN BURDEN, JANUARY 23rd 1904: TRIGGERED BY THE ARTICLE BY HENRY RIGDEN

"KENTISH EXPRESS"

January 23rd 1904.

To the Editor of the Kentish Express

Sir:-

I have felt much interested by the paper of Mr. Rigden and also that of Mr. Blechynden Knell; respecting the above family; and living as I do in a parish which formerly held in its precincts many of this name and at a date considerably anterior to those mentioned in your correspondents, I felt that perhaps I might add to their information.

There is in the south of Headcorn still the old mated farm residence called and now spelled "Bletchenden" which is used as a summer residence by its present owner J.H. Grant, Esq.

In the reign of Ethelbert who describes himself as King of the West Saxons, he granted to his Shane Ethelred about the year 868, certain lands at Mersham with appertinances, as swing, pastures or denes, in the Wealden of Kent called and then spelled Bleccingdenn, with others, viz, Fritheinged, etc etc., and I may say that anyone who may examine the present Blechenden premises will venture to think they have but little to prevent him from identifying, even at this still quite time the site of this ancient "denbera". The old moat is still quite half in existence being overgrown with timber and underwood at the present time, and there is southward the remains of an old road or trackway to Frittenden of (Fritheingden). So far as regards the place, and now the family:-

In the reign of Henry III, Hundres of Barclay, in which Blechenden is situated (Vice Plea Rools, Henry III), Richard de Blechinden fell from a certain horse, so that he died, Henry de Tropicdene, the first discovered comes and is not suspected, nor any other judgement - misfortune. Horse is fined 5/-s, for which the Sherriff of Kent was liable.

About the same date Nicholas de Blechinden with another was indicated, for a robbery of horses at Hormonden and put themselves on the country and the jurors agreed they were not guilty.

Now from the residence in the Hundres of Barkley I think it may be taken that Richard, as foresaid, was of (de Bleccingdenn or Blechynden order). In 1450 reign of Henry VI, Richard Colepepper was the owner of Blechynden (300 to 400 acres), and to whom is still existant an alter tomb under the south window of Headcorn Church. He was one of the principle leaders and of Cade in his rebellion and we find with him among the pardon for participation Radus Blechynden, Thomas Blechynden, Radus Blechynden (no doubt junior) and John Blechynden. Incidentally there is little doubt they were tenants of Richard Colepepper, or Yoemen leaseholders under him, hence there following.

These Blechyndens in common with those of East Kent were without doubt good yoemen, and their descendants have filled positions and also given their names to places, as Blechynden Head at South Hampton.

I think I may not take up further space, but by showing by the foregoing that this very old family had there derivation from the den Blecaingden after which they are named, and therefore that Headcorn may claim the honour of giving them that name.

The arms of Blechynden were "Asure and fess embattled argent between three lions heads raised". The authorities for the foregoing are chiefly Furly, History of the Weald of Kent Archeologia, Cantania Papworth, Harris, Hasted, etc.

Yours truly,

(sgd) T. Witherden Burden.

"KENTISH EXPRESS"

Headcorn. Jan 23 1904.

To the Editor of the Kentish Express.

Sir:-

In the "visitation of Kent 1619" I see that Thomas Blechynden of Simnelles married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Edward Boyes of Nonington; That John Blechynden of Mersham married Margaret, daughter of John Crisps of Quex. That Andrew Mennis of Sandwich married Jane, daughter of John Blechynden by Margaret, sister of Sir. Wm. Ashenden. That John Wright of Aldington married Jane, daughter of Thomas Blechynden of Ruffins Hall in Aldington and has a son aged 23 in 1619; and that Thomas Tourney of Brookhill in Saltwood married Alice, daughter of John Blechynden of Aldington and Mersham. From the Archaeologia Cantiana I find that John Blechynden was Captain of 100 footmen among the forces raised in Kent to repell the Spanish Invasion of 1588 and that Thos. Blechynden was one of the County magistrates who sat at Canterbury, January 12th, 1635.

THE ANCIENT FAMILY OF BLECHYNDEN.

To the Editor of the "Kentish Express".

Sir,

In connection with the interesting letter of Mr. T. Burden, in your last letter on the above subject, I may point out that the name in "Hasred" previous to the reign of King Henry III under Boughton Malherbe, Folio II, page 435 we find the name of Edward de Bletchendenne in the paragraph referring to the grant of the tiles of the Monor was ancient called of the possessions of William Fitz-Mamonas appears by the register of the neighbouring Priory of Leders.

MOONSHINE 1871 BY EDWARD KNATCHBULL:

"Featured on above page in the article by HENRY RIGDEN".

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Edward_Knatchbull-Hugessen,_1st_Baron_Brabourne#Literary_work

Edward Hugessen Knatchbull-Hugessen, 1st Baron Brabourne PC (29 Apr 1829 – 6 Feb 1893), known as E. H. Knatchbull-Hugessen, was a British Liberal politician. He served as Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department under Lord Russell in 1866 and under William Ewart Gladstone from 1868 to 1871 and was also Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies under Gladstone from 1871 to 1874. In 1880 he was elevated to the peerage as Baron Brabourne.

LITERATURE:

Though forgotten and unread today, Knatchbull-Hugessen wrote many well-known short stories of fantasy and faery. He produced a book or two of these stories each year from 1869 to 1894. Some sources on his life, such as Encyclopaedia of Fantasy say 12 such books. Others, such as Oxford Regerence, say 15. The collections were popular and commercial successes in the Christmas book market, and his publishers illustrated them with the leading illustrators of their time such as Gustav Doré and Richard Doyle. Far from being the blandly moralistic fare of the later Victorian period, The Times newspaper noted that his stories... "are of a very high order; light and brilliant narrative flow from his pen and is fed by an invention as graceful as it is inexhaustible." He was widely likened by the reviewers to masters of the fairy-tale such as Grimm and Andersen, and his prolific output of the tales even led a critic at The British Quarterly Review to question his dedication to his job at the Colonial Office... "We should like to know whether Mr. Knatchbull-Hugessen maintains his intercourse with the fairies of the Colonial Office. If so, what department of office duty is specially favourable to them; whether, too, they come when Parliament breaks up, or whether their visits are intermittent all the year round."^[5]

In a letter of 1971, J. R. R. Tolkien recalled that as a small child, his bedtime reading was the fairy stories of Knatchbull-Hugessen. He recalled especially being read one story of an ogre who catches his dinner by disguising himself as a tree.^[6]

Brabourne also edited the first edition of the novelist Jane Austen's letters, published in 1884. This edition included about two-thirds of her surviving letters and was dedicated to Queen Victoria. He inherited the letters after his mother's death in December 1882.^[7]

Knatchbull's book "Moonshine" contains a fascinating story called "The Wizard of Bockhanger" which has the Blechynden family featured. The fairy story is believed to be based around real facts and real people.

MOONSHINE: "The Wizard of Bockhanger"

Edward Hugessen Knatchbull- Hugessen \(1st baron Brabourne.\)

Moonshine - Google Books

It takes up 80 pages in the book "Moonshine" so is a bit large to include it all here. Here is a two-page summary written by Angela Blechynden of what you can expect if you get to read the full story:

THE WIZARD OF BOCKHANGER

Precis: (P numbers are from the actual book.)

The Wizard of Bockhanger is set in the strangely beautiful Bockhanger Wood near Mersham Hatch between Ashford and Hythe in Kent England. There are legends of fairies, highwaymen and women, and ghosts who walk these woods.

In the old times the wood and country belonged to the Canterbury Monks and the writer Knatchbull said he learned of the legends and stories from the magical moorhens and rabbits. In the woods, near Quilletts Pond and Spring is an Ancient Oak- The Wizard's Oak, known and dreaded by all including Nicholas Blechynden from Quarrington Manor. The monks couldn't stop the poaching in the woods and enlisted the help of Nicholas Blechynden of Quarrington and John De Baliol of Scotts Hall to police the poachers in return for hunting rights in the woods.

It was said the Wizard could take on many forms and disguises from young to old and short to tall. The story was set in the time when Richard the Second was King of England (1377-1399).

One day Nicholas Blechynden, "The Head of One of the oldest Saxon Families in Kent" (p202) passed Quilletts Pond and came across an old man and asked him why he was sleeping there and threatened him when he was slow to reply causing the old man to reply "Thou art hasty, good Master Blechynden. Hot and Hasty like all thy Race". (p199). Nicholas wanted to know how he knew all about his past and present and asked him for a prediction for his future. The Old man told Nicholas "Beware thou man of Ancient name" and warned of the interloping Scot (De Baliol who had only lived in the area for 100 years) and told him not to hunt in the woods without the protection of his men at arms. The old man then disappeared into the pond and reappeared on the other side on a pony. Nicholas then realized that he had met the Wizard.

One story of the Wizard involved the local poachers when the Wizard appeared before them as a dwarf and beat them up. Another story involved a local miser when the Wizard appeared before him and turned all his treasures into toads. The owners of the woods, the monks came across an old man who was crying and instead of helping him, forgave him of all of his sins if he would donate money to Canterbury. The old man confessed to poaching a deer and the Monks changed their tune and condemned him to be hanged at once. Then the old man turned into the Wizard and made all their mules take off so they couldn't ride through to Bockhanger.

Knatchbull and De Baliol had an encounter with the Wizard as a frail old woman that only Knatchbull helped and a speaking tree later predicted loudly that De Baliol and friends' houses would fall in battle and Mersham Hatch would win.

Nicholas Blechynden had planned a hunt and the Wizard warned Knatchbull of the planned attack. Nicholas Blechynden's "tall and fair" (p229) daughter Alice was also warned of De Baliol's planned attack in a poem while riding through the woods on her horse Bessie. The time came when De Baliol and friends faced Blechynden and friends in the wood. Alice went to fetch Knatchbull to help her father and wouldn't go back to Quarrington for safety. (p240) "Never", cried she, "Shall it be said that the daughter of a Blechynden tarried in safety whilst her father fought at odds on the battlefield." When defeat threatened Blechynden did not retreat.

The Blechyndens were always better hands at advancing than retreating, and bold Nicholas never allowed such a thought to enter his head." Alice and Knatchbull brought help just in time after Blechynden was wounded. The fight continued and was interrupted by strange music and the weird sight of deer marching two by two between the fighting ranks. The Wizard appeared amongst them with his wand and told Blechynden and De Baliol to disperse accompanied by thunder and lightning. Then the deer herd and the Wizard disappeared and both sides headed for home with their injured.

The Monks had an inquiry into the fight and agreed to a boundary for hunting between De Baliol and Blechynden in return for a handsome rent of venison and other game. John De Brent was sent to chop down the Wizard's Oak and fill up the spring and drain and level the pond. The Prior got 200 men with axes and spades but a flood of rain came and surrounded the Oak so they couldn't cut it down. De Brent struck the Oak with his axe and the axe turned into a snake and the tree laughed. When the workers tried to dig the pond turned into a water spout. Eventually the men returned to Ashford defeated and The Prior agreed to let the Wizard win and reside in the Oak and woods.

Meanwhile Blechynden and De Baliol settled their quarrel and Thomas Knatchbull, having been impressed by Alice's beauty and courage, married Alice Blechynden. The Wizard surprised them and attended the wedding in his carriage drawn by nobly antlered bucks and approved of the wedding with a poem in which he predicted "Red shall become the Knatchbull Hand", which came true when "The Head of the house of Knatchbull was created a Baronet, the crest and token of which dignity, as all the world knows, is a blood red hand."

When Nicholas Blechynden later died at a good old age the Manor of Quarrington became merged with the estates of Mersham Hatch. True to the Wizard's prediction Knatchbull's Mersham Hatch stood longer than the houses of De Baliol and his friends even though De Baliol was more successful in the short term. "But the name of Blechynden, De Laurence, and De Poynings are with us no longer, save as memories of the long-buried past."(p268)

The Wizard of Bockhanger has long since left the place but "some of the mystery of his presence seems to cling to it yet." (p269)

To the left is a cropped section of the Detailed Old Victorian Ordnance Survey 6 inch to 1-mile Old Map (1888-1913) of Quarrington Farm, Kent, TR0541, TR 05 41, United Kingdom.

This more modern Ordnance Survey map, included for reference purposes only, shows Quarrington Farm and Bockhanger Wood where the earlier fairy story is based. The Quarrington Manor building from the Blechynden era has long gone but the farm still exists. See also a couple of pages further on.

Note. Many dates and some family links in the rest of the Kent history section can be confusing and possibly wrong in some cases. They are the best we can come up with at the moment using data currently available.

William Blechynden was born about 1470 in Mersham, Kent, England, and grandson (*more probably great-great grandson) of Nicholas Blechynden. His grandfather, Nicholas Blechynden came into possession and resided at Quarrington, a small manor in Mersham, once the property of the Quarrington family.

Map showing Mersham, Bonnington and Bilsington

Note, Quarrington is sometimes spelt Quarington. Also, do not get confused with the small village of Quarrington located about 170 kilometres north of London.

William Blechynden lived at Quarrington and according to Hasted's History of Kent was the first person recorded in the actual deeds. Apparently, he left the manor when he married Agnes Godfrey to live at Simnells, in about 1507. It is also recorded that William and his new wife Agnes went to live at Ruffins Hill after they were married. The Godfrey's owned both properties so it is assumed they lived in both manors sometime during their marriage. See further accounts below. There are some issues with when they moved out of Quarrington. It must have been well before the 1507 stated above because Agnes died before 1511 and apparently had at least 10 children before she died. Obviously, most of these must have been born before she moved to Simnells about 1507.

EDWARD HASTED: THE HISTORY AND TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEY OF THE COUNTY OF KENT, 2nd ED, VOL 7 CANTERBURY 1798, Vol VII 598

<https://books.google.com.au/books?id=twwHAAAAQAAJ&pg=PA388&lpg=PA388&dq=QUARRINGTON,+or+Quatherington,+as+it+was+some-times+written,&source>

QUARRINGTON, or Quatherington, as it was some-times written, is a small manor, lying in the valley in the northern part of this parish, near the stream, which was once the property of owners of that name, one of whom, Simon de Quarrington, resided at it in the 4th year of king Edward I. anno 1275, as appears by the chartularie of Christ-church. Soon after which, this name became extinct here, and it came into the possession of Nicholas Blechenden, who resided here at the latter end of that reign, whose grandson William Blechenden being the earliest possessor of this manor that is mentioned in the deeds of it, was owner of it in the reign of king Richard II. He married Agnes, daughter and coheir of Godfrey, of Simnells, in Aldington, of which becoming possessed in her right, he left this place and removed thither, though his descendants seem to have continued proprietors of it till the latter end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, when it was alienated by one of them . . . to Claget, of Canterbury, and George Claget, alderman, and thrice mayor of that city, son of Robert Claget, of Malling, who bore for his arms, Ermine, on a fess, sable, three pheons, or, e passed it away by sale, in the reign of James I. to Henry Estday, of Saltwood, whose arms were, Azure, a griffin segreant, argent, a chief of the second./ He sold it to Sir Norton Knatchbull, of Hatch; since which it has continued in the same family, resident at Hatch, and baronets, down to the present owner of it, Sir Edward Knatchbull, bart. of Mersham-hatch.

King Edward I: (17/18 Jun 1239 – 7 Jul 1307) reigned 1272 to 1307.

King Richard II: (6 Jan 1367 – c. 14 Feb 1400) reigned 1377 to 1399,

King James (19 Jun 1566 – 27 Mar 1625) ruled as James I, King of England and Ireland, from 24 Mar 1603 until his death. He also ruled as James VI, King of Scotland, from 24 Jul 1567 until his death.

*Given the years of reign of King Edward I and King Richard II, the dates in Hasted's survey do not tally with what we know about William Blechynden and Agnes Godfrey. They are too early for William to have been a grandson of this Nicholas. It is highly likely William was a great-great-grandson of Nicholas Blechynden. It is feasible that his actual grandfather may very well have been a Nicholas.

Wills of the era are not readily available on-line so we and others have not determined quite who William Blechynden's father was. Several wills are probably available off the list below but obtaining them is a difficult and possibly expensive process and would take time. Maybe a researcher will pursue them in the future.

Using the possible dates it is not inconceivable from these two lists of wills now held at <https://www.kentarchives.org.uk/> that any of: John Blechynden who died in 1476, Edmund who died in 1477, Nicholas who died in 1521, Nicholas who died in 1510, Ralph who died in 1477, William who died in 1507 or William who died in 1510 could be the father of William who married Agnes Godfrey. Mersham is where both William and his grandparents mentioned herein lived. Note, Mersham, Quarrington, Aldington and most other locations referred to in this section are only a few kilometres apart. These wills are duplicated from an earlier page for ease of reference.

Note however that a detailed search of <https://www.kentarchives.org.uk/> there has failed to locate for example the Will mentioned above of James Blechinden, even using all the reference numbers. Many other items can be viewed so it still a good website to use.

Following is an extraction from pages 234 and 235 from this book which also outlines the history of Quarrington. This also confirms other records of that era.

(Note: the letter "s" was usually used as a "f" in this era.)

Quatberington in this parish, vulgarly called Quarington, was the ancient residence of the Blechendens, till William Blechenden by marriage with Agnes, daughter and co-heir of Godfrey, of Aldington. became in her right, master of Simnell in that parish, and so left his habitation at Mersham, to enjoy his new acquisitions at Aldington; certainly they were very anciently seated if not at this place, yet in this parish, for I have seen the draught of a pedigree united together by Clarencieux Cooke, wherein they are brought down from Nicholas de Blechenden, who flourished flourished here at Mersham, in the reign of Edward the first; though I confess the evidences of Quarington reach no higher then William Blechenden, who is made in the pedigree, to be grand-child to the abovefaid Nicholas, and who flourished in the reign of Richard the second: after the Blechendens, the Cleggates of Canterbury became in our grand-fathers memory, to be lords of the fee; but not long after alienated their right in it to Eastday and Saltwood, from whom the like current of succession wafted it over to Knatchbull, from whom the right descended to Sir Norton Knatchbull, a person who for his favour and love to learning and antiquity, in times when they are both fallen under such cheapness and contempt, cannot be mentioned without an epithet equivalent to so just a merit.

LETTER – QUARRINGTON MANOR

Below is a letter sent to two of our project compilers, Ken and Angela Blechynden in 1982 when they were researching the Blechynden's in Kent.

Quarrington Farm
West Brabourne
Nr Ashford
Kent
10 November 1982

Dear Mr and Mrs Blechynden,

Thank you for your letter about Quarrington Manor which reached my wife and me at Quarrington Farm. Unfortunately the Manor referred to in Hasted no longer exists and I cannot tell you when it ceased to exist, nor do I know exactly where it stood, although I have done a little research on the question in the local libraries. I enclose a photocopy of part of Ordnance survey map 189 from which you can see the location of the farmhouse (next to the letter "n" of Quarrington) and the farm buildings (next to the "m" of "Fm"). Below them on the map a moat is marked. The moat is clearly visible on the ground, but the mound it surrounds is covered by trees and nothing else, in the moat is in the middle of a field. I suppose the Manor stood on the mound, but if so it was not very big, and was surprisingly close to a stream running through low marshy ground. I enclose 2 photographs, one of the farmhouse close up and one a view taken from the road near the "H" of Hatch Park. The moat is next to the tree on the extreme left of the view picture in the low ground. The farm buildings are now used only for storage and the rearing of pheasants and partridges. The land and the farmhouse are still owned by the Knatchbull family, as it was in the time of Hasted. The present owner is the second Lord Brabourne who married Lord Mountbatten's daughter who is now Countess Mountbatten. My wife and I are only tenants of the farmhouse. The Brabournes live in Mersham and could probably give you much more information about the Manor than I can.

It is a pleasure to help your work on your family and I hope you come to Quarrington one day.

Yours sincerely,

Photo of a view taken from the road near the "H" of Hatch Park, description as per the letter above.

Unfortunately, we do not have the Ordinance Survey copy referred to in the letter, however, below is a more modern one which shows where the moat was located and presumably is where Quarrington Manor was.

The Google Earth image left seems to confirm that possibility where the clump of trees referred to in the letter above has a square shape in the middle, see arrow. The current Quarrington Farm home is at the top of that image.

GODFREY, AGNES (1489-bef.1511)

Agnes was born 8 Oct 1489 in Aldington, daughter of Thomas Godfrey (1453-1490) and Alice Godfrey (1440-). Agnes and her sister Rabage were the co-heiresses of Simnells in Aldington. Their sister Rebecca and brothers, Thomas and Humphrey, predeceased their father's death. Their father Thomas Godfrey owned Simnells, the Manor of Hurst and Ruffin's Hill.

<http://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-kent/vol8/pp314-327>

SIMNELLS or Simnolds, as it is sometimes spelt, is an antient seat in this parish, about a mile from the church, which had formerly owners, who gave name to it, one of whom, Robert Simnell, as I find by a will in the Prerogative-office, in Canterbury, was possessed of it as late as the reign of king Henry VI. and then sold it to Thomas Crosby, of Aldington, who died possessed of it in 1460, and left it to his son Thomas. After which it passed into the possession of the Godfreys, and in King Henry VII.'s reign, Agnes, daughter of Thomas Godfrey, and coheir of her brothers, entitled her husband William Blechenden to the possession of it. How long it continued in his descendants does not appear, but before the restoration of King Charles II. it was to become the property of John Cason, esq. of Woodnesborough, who in 1663 alienated it to Thomas Blechynden, gent. of Aldington, who afterwards resided here. His son John Blechynden likewise resided at Simnells, who left Anne his wife surviving, and she joined with her eldest son Thomas, gent. of New Romney, in 1715, in the sale of this estate to Stephen Hassenden, clerk, of Egerton, whose grandson Stephen Greenhill, his daughter's son, succeeded him in it, and his grandson of the same name is now entitled to it.*

Note: The dates of the reigns of the kings correlate with what we know about the Godfrey family in this article.

Henry VI (6 Dec 1421 – 21 May 1471) reigned 1422 to 1461 and from 1470 to 1471.

King Henry VII: (28 Jan 1457 – 21 Apr 1509) reigned 22 Aug 1485 to his death on 1509.

Henry VIII (28 Jun 1491 – 28 Jan 1547) reigned (1509–47).

King Charles II: (29 May 1630 – 6 Feb 1685) king of Scotland 1649 until his deposition in 1651, king of England from the restoration 1658 - 1660 until his death in 1685.

Queen Elizabeth I: (7 Sep 1533 – 24 Mar 1603)

MANOR OF HURST AND COPPERHURST:

Hasted's History of Kent refers to the Manor of Hurst adjoining Ruffins Hill. In 2020 there doesn't appear to be any building identified as this manor but older maps (see one example below and map in Ruffins Hill paragraph a little further on.) show there is an area called "Copperhurst" nearby which could be the place. It is located not much more than half a kilometre's walk south west of Ruffins Hill and Simnells. There is a Manor of Hurst located in Berkshire east of London but that is obviously not the property associated with the Blechynden history. It seems possible, unless further information comes forward identifying buildings, that the Aldington "Manor of Hurst" has since been demolished when taken over by subdivision or other uses. For our family historians this would be unfortunate.

As mentioned Copperhurst still exists on some maps where there is a small group of country properties spread along Knoll Hill Road and it is possible that one of the buildings in that area was the one referred to as the Manor of Hurst but that would require much on the ground research. You may be able to see from this very old map there are several buildings at Copperhurst with Hurst in their name: Warden Hurst, Bracken Hurst, Golden Hurst to name just a few. The map covers an area of just a little over one square kilometre so you can see the proximity to Ruffins Hill which is at the top of the map. Enthusiasts could "street view" where Copperhurst Kent is in Google Maps. It is road B2067, Knoll Road, off Roman Road Aldington, but not actually named Copperhurst. See also more recent survey map following.

Map showing Copperhurst, located not much more than half a kilometre's walk south of Ruffins Hill and Simnells

See further on in the Thomas Blechynden and Annie Ashburnham section where Humphrey Blechynden who was born in Aldington Kent had a second marriage to a Mary Toke leading to him becoming Lord of the Manor of Hurst and a Lord of Romney. Romney is a huge area adjoining the Aldington area.

Quote VIA Gerald Fox: "The marriage to Mary Toke was a good one. She was heiress to the Copperhurst, Hurst and other estates in the region of Aldington in Kent. Through this marriage Humphrey Blechenden became owner of almost all the land in Aldington that was not directly owned by the King. It was Humphrey, by now Lord of the Manor of Hurst and a Lord of Romney Marsh....."

RUFFINS HILL:

It is also written that William and Agnes Blechynden nee Godfrey lived at Ruffin's Hill, Aldington, Kent, England after their marriage. Earlier it is said they lived at Simnells after their marriage. It seems likely they lived at both places at sometime early in their marriage. Both manors were part of the Godfrey estate which William married in to.

Ruffins Hill Farm is now called "Ruffyns Oast" or Ruffyns Barn – see download from Google Maps right. The whole property has been restored starting in 2007 and contains a very magnificently restored large barn which operates as a wedding, concert and function venue seating 150 people. Undoubtedly our bygone relatives would be delighted to see this restoration. You can go to <http://ruffynsbarn.com> if you want to read more but beware their version of the history is not as per the history books.

RUFFIN'S HILL: BHO BRITISH HISTORY ONLINE

<http://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-kent/vol8/pp314-327>

RUFFIN'S HILL is an antient mansion here, on the hill, at a small distance from the church (300 metres), which took its name from a family, who were the early possessors of it, one of whom, Robert Ruffyn, as appears by the register of St. Radigund's abbey, was in very early times constable of Saltwood castle, in this neighbourhood. After this name was extinct here, the Godfreys, owners of the adjoining manor of Hurst, under which a farther account of them will be given, became possessed of it, in which it continued down to Thomas Godfrey, who died in 1490, anno 6 Henry VII. and was buried in this church, leaving two sons, Thomas and Humphry, who both dying s. p. their two sisters succeeded to their inheritance, Agnes, married to William Blechenden, of Mersham, and Rabeg, to John Clerke, gent. of this parish, and on the division of their estates, the latter had Cophurst, in this parish, and the former had this seat of Ruffin's hill, (fn. 8) and in his descendants it remained down to Humphry Blechenden, esq. descended from Nicholas de Blechenden, of Mersham, in King Edward the 1st's reign.

Map of Ruffin's Hill.

He rebuilt this mansion, and died possessed of it in 1639, leaving several children, of whom the eldest, Thomas Blechynden, prebendary of Canterbury, succeeded him in it, and resided mostly here. He died possessed of it in 1663 and was buried at the upper end of the little chancel, at the feet of his father, in this church. His son of the same name, in the year 1677, alienated it to Julius Deedes, esq. of Hythe, whose descendant William Deedes, esq. of Hythe, is the present owner.

William Blechynden's Will begins with the following:

This is the last Will of William Blechynden of the parishe of Mersham made the first day of the month of August in the year and reigne of King Henry the viijth the second yere upon dyde. .
Henry VIII became king 22 Apr 1509. In the Will William refers to Margaret his wiff.

One can assume his wife Agnes Godfrey died before his Will, dated 1 Aug 1511, Aldington, Kent, England. Following Agnes' death William Blechynden married Margaret Fox.

William Blechynden and Agnes Godfrey are thought to have had ten children at least. Nine children were mentioned who were still living when his Will was written.

In his will, William confirms that his second wife Margaret has property from her marriage. The rest of the family land and money is given to children: Humphrey, John, Edward, Cristofer, James, Anne, Johanne, Sibell, Myldred. Two other children Alice and Thomas Blechynden believed to have been from this union were not mentioned so must have died prior to the writing of the will. (John is thought to have been from William's second marriage.)

These old-style trees seem to be based from Latin trees in 'The Visitation of Kent, 1619' and can be quite hard to follow. Often the names are out of birth sequence and confusing. There are seven in the Kent section and Gerald Fox used them. Below is a slightly more simple 'best guess' sequential tree. Some of the simple trees in next generations are more accurate than the one below.

The order of birth in this tree cannot be correctly determined. Below is what is believed to be a possible sequence for the males as mentioned in the Will. Sequence for the birth of the females is only a guess from the very old-style chart above and order of mention in Williams Will.

William Blechynden and Margaret Fox are thought to have one child they named John. John Blechynden was born in 1510, Mersham, Kent, England and was married in 1526/1533 to Margaret Crisp, the daughter of John Crispe (1482-1534) and Avice Denne (1486-1509). John Blechynden (~1510-1596) and Margaret Crisp (~1509-1595) had four known children: Robert, Alice, Henry and Reginald. John Blechynden died in 1596 in Thanet, Kent, England. His wife Margaret Crisp predeceased him in 1595, also in Thanet, Kent, England.

James is treated somewhat as a special case by getting land immediately on his father's decease. The next chapter has much more detail re James Blechynden who the Australian Blechynden's are believed to be descended from.

William Blechynden died about 1514, Kent, England. Probate was granted 6 Jan 1514.

Probate

SUMMARY by Gerald Fox:

William confirms that Margaret has property from her marriage. The rest of the family land and money is given to children: Humphrey, John, Edward, Cristofer, James, Anne, Johanne, Sibell and Myldred.

James is treated somewhat as a special case by getting land immediately on his father's decease, so presumably he is the oldest son.

After 11 years:

John gets the interest etc of land in Mersham and Brabourne, once the property of William Fox. It was not purchased so it probably came as dowry from the reported marriage to a Fox. It would appear to be Margaret Fox in the Will.

If no heir (Humphrey (Edward (Cristofer (James

After the death of Margaret, he, John, son of Margaret, gets:

Sandhurst Mill and Hoggyham? land, Coldisland land

15 acres of meadow called Longland

11 acres of meadow called Pylmede

2 acres of meadow called Healdmede?
 1 acre and 1 rod of meadow called Goldmede
 2½ acres of meadow called Brodemedede
 Humphrey Gets the profits etc from land once owned by Simon Manning, Kynett
 After age 21 he gets some estate
 If he dies, his bequest goes to James
 Edward gets the profits etc from "Jenkyns" in Mersham
 After age 21 he gets some estate
 After the death of Margaret, he gets:
 15 acres called Hobby's in Mersham
 If he dies, his bequest goes to James

Cristofer gets an annuity of 6 shillings 7 pence from land at Eachelande?
 Land called Barre? Purchased from Alice Goddard. Another part of the same land was bought by George Essherst of Kingsnorth.
 After age 21 he gets some estate and if possible, the above land of Esshurst is to be obtained for Cristopher by a land exchange.
 After the death of Margaret, he gets:
 The messuage and land called Blechynden in Rotherysden. Note, no place called Rotherysden comes up in any internet searches so presumably there has been a name change. Messuage means "dwelling house". Maybe this is the place now called BLETCHENDEN in Headcorn – see elsewhere in this document.
 If no heir (John (Humphrey (Edward (Cristofer!! (James – Presumably it only goes to James if Cristopher dies and has no heir!

James. Immediately on the decease of his father, he gets:
 10 acres purchased from William Ledmer? In Aldington
 15 acres of marshland at Extbrigge? Can find no trace of a place called Extbrigge.
 Land form Aqrnold Bergh (to pay £10 at the marriage of Johanne)
 Land called Goldbell
 Land called Wallistrest?
 15½ acres of other land
 After the death of Margaret, he gets:
 Meadow near Everyntemyll? Can find no trace of a place called Everyntemyll.

It does not mention John and James reaching age 21, so perhaps at least James is that age already. So which children are Margaret's? A document at the SOG says John but that does not fit the Will very well if he is near 21.

Based on the Will the order of seniority for the boys according to Gerald seems to be James, John, Humphrey, Edward, Cristopher. This is unlikely however as John was presumably not born until after Agnes died and William had remarried to Margaret Crispe.

As indicated in James's section following there are still errors in all this. If James was the eldest child of William and Agnes there would not have been enough time after James's approximate date of birth of 1508 – see next page – for his father to have had another 11 children and remarried by the time he wrote his will in 1511 and dying in 1514.

Regardless of all the confusion with the foregoing, James, son of William and Agnes has been traced as the next ancestor of Harrison.

2. JAMES BLECHYNDEN (~1508-1566) & URSULA WHETENHALL (~1512-1584)

JAMES being the son of WILLIAM BLECHYNDEN & his first wife AGNES GODFREY

James Blechynden was born about 1508 in Aldington, Kent England, son of William Blechynden (~1470-1514) and Agnes Godfrey (1489-bef.1511). Note. There is a recording on a microfiche record which shows him born on "abt 1497" but that cannot be verified at the moment. If that date was correct his mother would only have been eight years of age when he was born so it is presumably not correct. He was one of at least nine children, mentioned in his father's Will: Humphrey, John, Edward, Cristofer, James, Anne, Johanne, Sibell, Myldred.

Two other children Alice and Thomas Blechynden believed to have been from this union were not mentioned so must have died prior to the writing of the will. His mother Agnes died prior to the writing of the Will and his father William was remarried to Margaret Fox. It is thought they had one child, John Blechynden. The children all grew up at Ruffin's Hill Farm. His father died in about 1514, probate being granted on 6 Jan 1514.

As mentioned above in his father William Blechynden's Will:

"James is treated somewhat as a special case by getting land immediately on his father's decease, so presumably he is the oldest son. One would think that he has attained 21 years. If so, he must have been born prior to 1508 or he would only be 6 years of age when probate was granted on his fathers will on 6 January 1514. This is one of the confusing details mentioned at the beginning of the specific family section – see William.

James.

Immediately on the decease of his father, he gets:

15 acres of marshland at Extbrigge?

Land from Aqrnold Bergh (to pay £10 at the marriage of Johanne)

Land called Goldbell

15½ acres of other land

After the death of Margaret, he gets:

Meadow near Everyntemyl?"

James Blechynden was a gentleman of Aldington and resided at Simnells. He was also a Prebend at Peckham, Kent. (The part of the revenues of a cathedral or collegiate Church paid as a clergyman's salary or the property of tax that yields such revenue.)

It is believed that James Blechynden was married twice. His first wife's name is not known. She was thought to have been from the Finch family. James and his first wife had one child:

William Blechynden. "William was married to a member of the Sea (or Gee) family and they had three children: Anne, Margaret and Humphrey. There were no known descendants from these children."

His first wife must have died. James was then married to Ursula Whetenhall (~1512-1584).

WHETENHALL, URSULA (~1512-1584)

Ursula was born about 1512 at Ruffin's Hill, Aldington, England, daughter of William Whetenhall and Anne Cromer or Crowmer. Note that many family tree site references also state Ursula was born in 1501 but do not provide evidence.

JAMES AND URSULA HAD ELEVEN KNOWN CHILDREN: James, Thomas, Daughter, William, George (died as a baby), George, Mary, Arthur, Humphrey, John and Anne Blechynden. Name spelt as Blechinden.

Gerald Fox wrote: "At least four of these married. One daughter's forename is not known though she is said to have married a John Knight. Arthur married Joan Hales of Thanington, Kent. Mary's husband was Daniel Nethersole, who she married 1579 in Dymchurch, Kent. They had at least three children, Arthur, Humphrey and John. The son of James Blechynden and Ursula to make the most obviously advantageous marriage was Thomas: he married Anne Ashburnham."

For more details re Thomas proceed to the next section.

James Blechynden died abt 13 November 1566, Aldington, Kent, England. (From Will).
His wife Ursula Whetenhall died 26 Dec 1584 at Aldington, Kent, England.

James and Ursula Blechynden's son Thomas born abt 1534, married Anne Ashburnham. That marriage continues Harrison's ancestry line.

Based on the data copied from the web sites acknowledged below, here is a simple chart of James's family tree. <https://ancestors.familysearch.org/en/L4TT-HRM/james-blechynden-1497-1556>

Note the different spelling of Blechynden. These spellings are not confirmed.

WILL OF JAMES BLECHYNDEN

Will of James Blechynden as obtained from the Kent Archives Office in Maidstone. The first name in the right column doesn't look like James but the content certainly suggests it is. The mixture of Latin and English styles doesn't make it easy to read. Attempts to interpret this Will have been difficult and only a very small number of words and partial sentences figured out. It has therefore been left to interested persons to try for themselves. Some similarly written wills further on in this Kent section have been worked out by persons unknown so it can be done.

Copy of the three pages of the Will of William James Blechynden.

Following are larger copies of each page with cropped edges for easier reading. An attempt at interpretation of the Will is following the larger copies of the pages.

3. THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (~1534-1610) & ANNE ASHBURNHAM (~1526-~1555)

SON OF JAMES BLECHYNDEN (~1508-1566) & URSULA WHETENHALL (~1512-1584)

Thomas Blechynden was born about 1534 in Aldington, Kent, England, son of James Blechynden (~1508-1566) and Ursula Whetenhall (~1512-1584).

He was one of eleven known children: William, James, Thomas, Daughter, George (died as a baby), George, Mary, Arthur, Humphrey, John and Anne Blechynden. His father had married twice, his step brother William being from the first marriage.

Thomas grew up with his brothers and sisters at Ruffin's Hill, Alderton, Kent, England.

THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (~1534-1610) was married about 1555 in Aldington, to ANNE ASHBURNHAM (~1526-), of Geslings Earls Ashburnham –

ASHBURNHAM, ANNE (~1526-)

Anne was born about 1526 in Barnham, Sussex, England, daughter of Thomas Ashburnham of Broomham, Sussex, and Benett Cromer, daughter of John Cromer of Tunstall Kent. There is an area called Broomham about 20 kilometres North West of Ruffins Hill and Tunstall is about 30 kilometres North West of Ruffins Hill. Anne resided in Geslings Earls when she married Thomas Blechynden. There is also a place called Guestling about 30 kilometres South West of Ruffins Hill near Hastings and Winchelsea where her father had several official roles. It is also located about 30 kilometres from Ruffins Hill but near Rye, see below.

LANDED FAMILIES OF BRITAIN AND IRELAND - Ashburnham family of Broomham, baronets

<https://landedfamilies.blogspot.com/2015/12/201-ashburnham-of-broomham-baronets.html>:

Ashburnham, Thomas (c.1460-1523). Elder son of Richard Ashburnham (fl. c.1450-60) of Broomham* and his wife, born by 1462. High Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex, 1499-1500; jurat of Winchelsea, 1508-23 (Mayor 1509-10, 1521-22); MP for Winchelsea, 1510, 1523; JP for Sussex, 1511-23. He married, by 1483, Elizabeth (1458-1523), daughter of John Dudley and aunt of John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, and had issue:

(1) Thomas Ashburnham (b. c.1483) (q.v.);

(2) Ellen Ashburnham (d. by 1523); married, by 1520, as his first wife, Sir Walter Hendley MP (d. 1550) (who m2, 1527, Margery, daughter of Thomas Pigott of Whaddon (Bucks) and widow of Thomas Cotton of Landwade (Cambs), and had issue three daughters; died before Apr 1523;

(3) Anne Ashburnham (fl. 1523); unmarried in 1523.

He inherited the Broomham estate from his father. He died between April and Jun 1523; his will was proved 27 Jun 1523. His widow was living when his will was written but apparently died shortly afterwards.

* The History of Parliament says he was the son of Thomas Ashburnham (fl. 1434) of Ashburnham (see Ashburnham of Ashburnham), but this appears to omit a generation.

Ashburnham, Thomas (b. c.1483; fl. 1552). Only son of Thomas Ashburnham (d. 1523) and his wife Elizabeth, daughter of John Dudley, born about 1483. Comptroller of Customs for the Chichester district, 1504-14 or later; MP for Winchelsea, 1512, 1515; jurat for Winchelsea, 1515; bailiff of Yarmouth, 1515. He married Bennet, eldest daughter and heiress of John Cromer of Tunstall (Kent) and had issue:

- (1) Alice Ashburnham; married Hugh Good;
- (2) Anne Ashburnham; married Thomas Bletchington of Allington (Kent)
- (3) Lawrence Ashburnham (d. 1565) (q.v.);
- (4) Elinor Ashburnham; married Hugh Waller;
- (5) Katherine Ashburnham;
- (6) Thomas Ashburnham;
- (7) William Ashburnham;
- (8) Jane Ashburnham; married Henry Shoebridge;
- (9) John Ashburnham (fl. 1577);
- (10) Robert Ashburnham (fl. 1577);
- (11) Elizabeth Ashburnham.

This Thomas inherited the Broomham estate from his father also Thomas in 1523.

*He was living in 1552 but his date of death is unknown.

*The History of Parliament says he died between 1518 and 1523 and probably before 1521, but his father's will, written in April 1523, makes it clear that he was then living, and he and his son Lawrence are parties to a final concord dated the Quindeme of Easter 1552 [East Sussex RO, FRE/7003-4]. Perhaps the Parliament records referred to another Thomas Ashburnham.

Thomas Blechynden and Annie Ashburnham had at least ten children, eight of which appear to have survived to adulthood: Anne, Lena, Margaret, Katherine, Lawrence (1562-1562), died at 4 weeks of age, John died as a baby, John (1563-1607), Jane (~1565-), Humphrey (1567-1639), Frances (1565-~1611)

Gerald Fox summarised thus: “The first son to be born to Thomas Blechynden and Anne Ashburnham was Lawrence though he died before he was four weeks old. A second son, John, appears to have suffered the same fate but in his case, he died within a day. Very little is known about Katherine, Margaret and Anne, three daughters of Thomas and Anne Ashburnham, though apparently another daughter, Lena, married a Thomas Tyndale.”

“Jane, who was born 23 March 1565, married John Wright of Aldington 31 December 1588. They had four known children, Francis, Thomas, Anne and John. John married Priscilla Byfield and the couple appear to have emigrated to America, or at least visited there, since their son Joseph was born in Woburn, Massachusetts.”

“The third son of Thomas Blechynden and Anne Ashburnham was again named John but this time the couple succeeded in raising the boy as the heir, though he survived only into his forties. John is described as a gentleman of Simnells, their property in Aldington.”

John Blechynden (1563-1607) was married to Margaret Ashenden (~1563-1596), 26 May 1578.” For more details see next section.

Humphrey Blechynden (1567-1639) Lord of the Manor of Hurst was born 8 Jun 1567 in Aldington, Kent.

Gerald Fox has written: “Some accounts say Humphrey had a wife called Lena. This is an unusual name for the period. However, he is also said to have a sister Lena. Perhaps there was no wife Lena.”

If Humphrey was married to Elizabeth (Lena) she must have died before his second marriage.

In 1592 Humphrey Blechynden (1567-1639) married Mary Toke (-bef. 1639).

Gerald Fox wrote: The marriage to Mary Toke was a good one. She was heiress to the Copperhust, Hurst and other estates in the region of Aldington in Kent. Through this marriage Humphrey Blechenden became owner of almost all the land in Aldington that was not directly owned by the King. It was Humphrey, by now Lord of the Manor of Hurst and a Lord of Romney Marsh, who caused Ruffin’s Hill to be rebuilt in what is largely the style that we know today. He also had interests in London where he, and sons Richard and Henry, are known to have been Merchant Taylors. Humphrey had at least ten children of whom Thomas became the most influential. See Blechynden of London for the descendants of Humphrey."

"Frances Blechynden (1565-~1611) was born 12 January 1564/65, is said to have married three times. Her first marriage was to Thomas Epps, gentleman of New Romney, 2 Jul 1584 in Aldington. Her second marriage was to Nicholas Robinson (~1594), gentleman of Monkton in Thanet. The third marriage was to John Blechynden. Clearly, he was a relative, but the exact relationship has not been ascertained."

Gerald Fox commented: "It is at this generation that there appeared two distinct Blechynden branches. Descendants of Humphrey settled in London, several of whom became merchants. One of the London branch went to India and remained in Calcutta for the remainder of his life. Descendants of John eventually crossed the world to Australia, New Zealand and the U.S.A."

Thomas Blechynden (~1534-1610) died 11 Jun 1610 in Aldington, Kent, England. Anne Ashburnham (~1526-~) died in Aldington, Kent, England.

4. JOHN BLECHYNDEN (~1563-1607) & MARGARET ASHENDEN (~1563-1596)

SON OF THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (~1534-1610) AND ANNE ASHBURNHAM (~1526-)

John Blechynden was born about 1563, and christened 3 Apr 1563 in Aldington, Kent, England. He was the son on Thomas Blechynden (~1534-1610) and Anne Ashburnham (~1526-) who were married about 1555 in Aldington Kent. He was the eldest surviving son of eight out of ten children which appear to have survived to adulthood: Anne, Lena, Margaret, Katherine, Lawrence (1562-1562), died at 4 weeks of age, John died as a baby, John (1563-1607), Jane (~1565-), Humphrey (1567-1639), Frances (1565-~1611).

He grew up on Simnells, his father's property.
He was a Gentleman of Simnells, their property in Aldington.

"In a letter to the Kentish Express, A.J. Pearman of Rochester said in 1904:

From the Archeologia Cantania I find that John Blechynden was Captain of one hundred footmen among the forces raised in Kent to repel the Spanish invasion of 1588. Pearman is probably referring to the John son of Thomas Blechynden and Anne Ashburnham."

<https://northandsouthroots.com/.../john-blechenden-of-.../>

John Blechynden (~1563-1607) married Margaret Ashenden (~1563-1596) on 26th May 1578, in Nonington, Kent.

Margaret Ashenden was born about 1563 and was the daughter of Richard Ashenden of Tenterden, Kent. Her mother was possibly Joane Engham but this could not be easily confirmed. Apparently, she had a brother Sir William Ashenden who was also a soldier. It is highly likely that this is how she met John Blechynden.

In the first four years Margaret Ashenden and John Blechynden had four children: Anne Blechynden, Jane Blechynden born 18 Jan 1578/79 who married Andreas Mennis about 1596, Margaret Blechynden born about 1580 who married John Griffin on 2 Oct 1615 and Thomas Blechynden who was born about 1582 and married Elizabeth Boys on 26 Aug 1607.

Gerald wrote: "Little is known about two of the three known sons, John and William. The third son, Thomas, married Elizabeth Boys of Nonington 26 August 1607." For more details on Thomas, see next section.

John Blechynden and Margaret had other children not recorded here. After eighteen years of marriage and bearing children, Margaret Ashenden died 30 Jun 1596 in Aldington, Kent, England. The monument- to Margaret states: "who had by her sayd husband five sonnes and eight daughters."

Following his wife Margaret's death John Blechynden married again but the name of his second wife has not yet been determined. In his later life he moved to Monkton in Thanet.

....a monument for John Blechynden Esq of Simnells who died an immature death, being then married to his second wife and father of numerous issue. He lived the latter part of his life at Monkton in Thanet, abt. 1607, arms Blechynden impaling a lion rampant, gules. See maps of Thanet below.

Via Martin Easton, researcher from England: Records show that John Blechynden was a JP. ASSIZES RECORD, from a published volume – assizes. a trial session, civil or criminal, held periodically in specific locations in England, usually by a judge of a superior court.

"Following is a record of John Blechynden's attendance at the Assizes as JP in the Home Circuit from 1600 to 1607? In March 1607 he was absent due to illness (and he died on 19 Sep 1607). He seems to me to be one of the leading members of his family. The wish of his great grandson Thomas to be buried near to his memorial in the South Chancel suggests his lasting reputation."

NB. Two Assize Judges rode each circuit. The Home Circuit covered the SE Counties. Within this the Kent Assizes usually lasted 3 days, 17 days in total. Assizes records include a list of officers including JPs, both 'honorary' and 'working' JPs ("members of the Peace Commission"). JPs had to examine suspects and witnesses and certify this to the Assizes."

John Blechynden died 19 Sep 1607 in Monkton in Thanet, Kent, Eng. There are memorials to him and his wife Margaret in Aldington Church.

1. A small brass plate about head height on the west wall of the South chapel:

Here lieth buried that religious and modest gentlewoman Margaret Blechenden the late wife of John Blechenden of Simnels in Alldington gent and daughter of Richard Ashenden late of Tenderden gent: who had by her sayd husband five sonnes and eight daughters. She departed this life in the faith of Christ the 30th of Jun 1596

2. A stone inscription above head height on the south wall of the south chapel, framed with decorative panels of different stone and with a shield above (not decipherable):

Gerald Fox wrote:

The transcription of the Latin from John Blechynden's tomb in Aldington Church is inaccurate in one or two places, as Martin's photograph of it shows. Also, we now use the word 'armiger' to indicate someone who has the right to a coat of arms. Hence armiger on the memorial is probably best translated as simply 'armiger'. Though 'gent' is surely implicit in 'armiger', it is not explicitly stated on the memorial.

The said lands belong to Jane Fenwicke, by indenture made between Edward Boys of Nonington, Kent, Jane his wife, on the first part, John Blechynden of Kennington, Kent, on the second part, Mary Ashendon daughter of Jane on the third part, and Edward Boys the younger of the Edward Boys, on the fourth part, on 10 January 1586. . . .

5. THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (~1582-1661) & ELIZABETH BOYS (1587-1618)

SON OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN (~1563-1607) & MARGARET ASHENDEN (~1563-1596)

Thomas Blechynden, the son of John Blechynden (~1563-1607) and Margaret Ashenden (~1563-1596) was born about 1582 in Nonington, Kent, England. He was the eldest son of a large family. His mother died on 30 Jun 1596 at the age of about 33 years. An inscription on a small brass plate in the South Chapel of the Aldington Church tells of his mother as being a religious and modest gentlewoman who bore her husband five sons and eight daughters. Following his mother's death his father married again. The name of his second wife is not known.

Thomas became a Gent of Woodnesborough & Bishopsborne.

Thomas Blechynden owned Simnells and Woodnesborough but sold Ruffin's Hill and entered Gray's Inn 1604 as recorded in the Register of Admissions to Gray's Inn 1520 - 1869 (pg 107): "Oct 24, 1604. Thomas Blechenden, son and heir of John Blechenden, of the Isle of Thanet, esq."

SOCIETY OF GRAY'S INN:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gray%27s_Inn

The Honourable Society of Gray's Inn, commonly known as Gray's Inn, is one of the four Inns of Court (professional associations for barristers and judges) in London. To be called to the bar and practice as a barrister in England and Wales, an individual must belong to one of these Inns. Located at the intersection of High Holborn and Gray's Inn Road in Central London, the Inn is both a professional body and a provider of office accommodation (chambers) for many barristers. It is ruled by a governing council called "Pension", made up of the Masters of the Bench (or "Benchers"), and led by the Treasurer, who is elected to serve a one-year term. The Inn is known for its gardens, or Walks, which have existed since at least 1597.

Gray's Inn does not claim a specific foundation date; there is a tradition that none of the Inns of Court claims to be any older than the others. Law clerks and their apprentices have been established on the present site since at least 1370, with records dating from 1381. During the 15th and 16th centuries, the Inn grew steadily with great prestige, reaching its pinnacle during the reign of Elizabeth I . . .

Thomas Blechynden (~1582-1661) married Elizabeth Boys (1587-1618) 26 Aug 1607, Nonington, Kent, England.

Elizabeth was born in 1587, Nonington, Kent, England, the daughter of Edward Boys (1556-1599) and Mary Wentworth (1557-1616) who were married 16 Sep 1578, in Nonington. Nonington is located about 12 kilometres north west of Dover and about 97 kilometres from the centre of London.

Gerald Fox wrote:

"Elizabeth had a very good pedigree, being the daughter of Sir Edward Boys of Nonington and sometime Sheriff of Kent. Her mother was Mary of the Wentworth family, her father being Sir Peter Wentworth of Lillingstone, Lovell, County Oxford. Sir Peter's wife was Elizabeth Walsingham, sister of the 'Spymaster' of Queen Elizabeth I, Sir Francis Walsingham."

Three years later Thomas's father John Blechynden died 19 Sep 1607 in Monkton in Thanet, Kent, Eng.

Thomas Blechynden and Elizabeth Boys had five known children: Mary, Edward, John, Elizabeth and Thomas:

1. BLECHYNDEN, MARY (1608 -) was baptised 21 Aug 1608 in Nonington, Kent, England. She married Edward Cason, born about 1607, Esquire Furneaux, Pelham, Hertfordshire, the son of Edward Cason of Hertfordshire and the Middle Temple. Edward Cason and Mary Blechynden had sons Edward and Henry and a daughter Mary.

MIDDLE TEMPLE

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Middle_Temple

The Honourable Society of the Middle Temple, commonly known simply as Middle Temple, is one of the four Inns of Court exclusively entitled to call their members to the English Bar as barristers, the others being the Inner Temple, Gray's Inn and Lincoln's Inn. It is located in the wider Temple area of London, near the Royal Courts of Justice, and within the City of London.

2. BLECHYNDEN, EDWARD (1610-) was baptised 16 Apr 1610 in Woodnesborough. An Edward is mentioned in his brother John's Will in 1672.

3. JOHN BLECHYNDEN, (1612-~1672) was born about 1612 at Woodnesborough. John was educated and attended the Oxford University. He married Ann Glover. More details can be read about John and Ann Blechynden in the next section.

4. BLECHYNDEN ELIZABETH, (1614-) was baptised 26 Jun 1614 and married John Cason (1609-1675), (Edward's brother), on 12 Sep 1633 at Woodnesborough.

"John Cason was also a barrister, having been admitted to Gray's Inn 1629. John and his wife lived at Woodnesborough. After the Restoration of Charles II to the throne of England, John Cason acquired the Manor of Simnells, which he alienated in 1663 to his nephew Thomas Blechynden husband of Margaret Lynch."

Thomas' mother Elizabeth Boys died 1618, Nonington, Kent, England, buried 7 Nov 1618 – per Boys family tree. Assuming this date is correct, she possibly died in childbirth giving birth to Thomas. The children were all very young; Mary aged 10 years, Edward 8 years, John 6 years, Elizabeth 4 years and Thomas - a baby. Thomas Blechynden died after 27 Nov 1661, Woodnesborough, Kent, England. Name spelt Blechindin.

THE RECTORY or PARSONAGE, together with THE MANOR OF THE RECTORY OF WOODNESBOROUGH, which still continues part of the possessions of the dean and chapter of Rochester, has been from time to time demised by them, on a beneficial lease. It was formerly held by the family of Appleton, and, afterwards by that of Blechynden, both of whom resided at the parsonage; at length the heirs of the latter, who passed away their interest in it to John Cason, esq. who resided here . . .

Note: John and Edward Cason both had property and marriage associations with the Blechynden family.

Jane, Margaret and Anne are the known daughters of John Blechynden and Margaret Ashenden. Jane was born 18 January 1578/79 and in about 1596 she married Andreas (Andrew) Mennis. The 3rd son of Andreas and Jane was Sir John Mennis. John was Comptroller of the Navy from 1660 until 1671, having entered the navy as a youth and by 1642 he was Rear-Admiral. He was a Royalist and commanded a troop of horse for the King in the Civil War and leaving England became a Royalist Agent abroad. After the Restoration of the monarchy, he became Governor of Dover castle. In contrast to his 'man of action' reputation, he was also a writer of comic and sometimes coarse verse.

Dover Castle commands the Strait of Dover, the shortest sea crossing between England and continental Europe, a position of strategic importance throughout history. Castle Hill was shaped into massive defences capped by medieval walls and towers and later, from the mid 18th century, by the earthworks of a garrisoned infantry and artillery fortress. Beneath the surface, cut into the chalk of the North Downs, are networks of tunnels to enable the garrison to move, plan and live in safety.

King Henry II began to build the present castle in the 1180s, and over the next 800 years its buildings, defences and tunnels were adapted to meet the changing demands of warfare, right into the era of nuclear weapons.

More summarising re verifying by me that this will is the correct one. Most of it corresponds: If we knew his son John had a second wife Jane it would correspond. Thomas's children: John and Thomas - still alive. Possibly John has remarried to Jane. John's children John, Thomas, Edward and Anne: Perhaps Thomas the only one still alive. I think this John died fairly young. John may have had other children from his second? wife Jane. Grandchildren John, Thomas, Elizabeth and Jane. The other three could be via John and Edward Cason. Mary and Edward Cason alive. Elizabeth and John Cason John Cason still alive, most probably Mary and Elizabeth have died.

6. JOHN BLECHYNDEN (~1612-~1672) & ANNE GLOVER (1608-)

SON OF THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (~1582-1661) AND ELIZABETH BOYS (1587-1617)

John Blechynden was born about 1612 in Woodnesborough, near Sandwich, Kent, England. He was said to be the eldest son of Thomas Blechynden (~1582-1661) and Elizabeth Boys (1587-1617). It appears however that there was an elder son EDWARD who is mentioned several times – baptised 1610 in the family tree in the previous generation above then mentioned in John's will in 1672.

His parents had five known children: Mary, Edward, John, Elizabeth and Thomas. His sisters Mary and Elizabeth were both married to Cason brothers Edward and John. Nothing is known about Edward and Thomas. There is opinion that John's brother Edward died young however as there is an Edward Blechynden mentioned in John's will in 1672 that is unlikely – see below for the difficult to interpret Will.

John was well educated and attended Oxford University at the age of 15 years in 1627. He was described as "John, son of Thomas of Bishopsbourne, Kent, in Alumni Oxoniensis."

His residence was Woodnesborough. His sister Elizabeth's husband John Cason was a Barrister and they lived at Woodnesborough. See area map a few pages earlier for the location of Woodnesborough.

UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD Introduction and history

<https://www.ox.ac.uk/about/organisation/history>

As the oldest university in the English-speaking world, Oxford is a unique and historic institution. There is no clear date of foundation, but teaching existed at Oxford in some form in 1096 and developed rapidly from 1167, when Henry II banned English students from attending the University of Paris...

University of Oxford, image, as per link above.

From its early days, Oxford was a centre for lively controversy, with scholars involved in religious and political disputes. John Wyclif, a 14th-century Master of Balliol, campaigned for a Bible in the vernacular, against the wishes of the papacy. In 1530, Henry VIII forced the University to accept his divorce from Catherine of Aragon, and during the Reformation in the 16th century, the Anglican churchmen Cranmer, Latimer and Ridley were tried for heresy and burnt at the stake in Oxford.

John Blechynden (~1612~1672) was married in about 1634 to Anne Glover (1608-) from Canterbury.

PARISHES – WOODNESBOROUGH

<https://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-kent/vol10/pp121-144#p48>

THOMAS APPLETON, yeoman, of Eastry, by his will in 1593. gave to the relief of the poor 5l (sic.) to be paid to the churchwardens yearly, to be distributed by them to the poor people, inhabitants here, fourteen days before Christmas day, to be paid out of lands belonging to him, called Hardiles, in this parish.

The poor constantly relieved are about sixty, casually one hundred.

THIS PARISH is within the ECCLESIASTICAL JURISDICTION of the diocese of Canterbury, and deanry of Sandwich.

The church, which is dedicated to St. Mary, consists of a nave, and two isles, having a square tower steeple at the west end, with a modern wooden turret and vane at the top of it, in which are five bells, made in 1676. It had a high spire on the tower, which was taken down some years ago. At the east end of the chancel is a marble tablet for John Cason, esq. of this place, justice of the peace, obt. 1718; John Cason, esq. his son, obt. 1755; arms, Argent, a chevron, sable, between three wolves' heads, erased, gules, on an escutcheon of pretence, sable, a chevron, between three fleurs de lis, of the field; another for Thomas Blechenden, of the antient family of that name, of Aldington, in Kent, obt. 1661; arms, Azure, a fess nebulee, argent, between three lions' heads erased, or, attired, gules, impaling Boys.

"BISHOPSBOURNE, a parish in the hundred of Kinghamford, lathe of St. Augustine, in the county of Kent, 3 miles to the S.E. of Canterbury, its post town. It is watered by the Little Stour. The manor of Bourne was formerly held by the archbishops of Canterbury, one of whom entertained Henry I. here when prevented by a storm from embarking for the Continent. Part of the land is laid out in hop-grounds. The living is a rectory in the diocese of Canterbury, of the value of £700, in the gift of the archbishop. The church is dedicated to St. Mary, and contains the grave and a bust of Richard Hooker, who held the rectory the last five years of his life, and died here in November, 1600.

GLOVER, ANNE (1608-) was born /baptised 2 Oct 1608 in Borden, father William Glover (this may be the Anne who married John Blechynden). Marriage date is approximated with the birth of their first child. Perhaps this was a second marriage for Anne as records are not showing a marriage under the surname Glover between her and John Blechynden.

John Blechynden and Anne Glover had about four children: Thomas, John, Edward and Anne. Mother's name is written as Anne with an 'e' on children's christenings.

- 1. BLECHYNDEN, THOMAS (1634-1690) was born / baptised 6 Mar 1634, Woodnesborough, Kent, England. He married Margaret Lynch, 28 Dec 1658, in Staple, Kent England. More details on Thomas and Margaret Lynch can be viewed in the next section.
- 2. BLECHYNDEN, JOHN (1635-) was born/baptised 14 Feb 1635 at Woodnesborough, Kent, England. Father, John Blechynden, mother, Anne. There is no obvious other information regarding this man. It has been suggested he died young although there is a John Blechynden jnr mentioned in the Will below.
- 3. BLECHYNDEN, EDWARD, (1637~1711) was baptised 21 Jan 1637 at Woodnesborough.
- 4. BLECHYNDEN, ANNE (1641-) was baptised 20 Feb 1641, also at Woodnesborough, father, John Blechynden, mother, Anne. Little more is known of these two children at this stage.

We do not have a date re the death of Anne Blechynden (nee Glover). As they only had four children one wonders if she died fairly soon after Anne was born in 1641.

Many hours have been spent researching this branch for more information but with little success. At least we have John Blechynden's very difficult to read Will on the following pages.

John Blechynden's Will was dated 2 Dec 1672. Probate date 17 Jan 1672, Woodnesborough, Kent, England. His wife Anne does not appear to be in the will so she must have died prior to this. England & Wales, Prerogative Court of Canterbury Wills, 1384-1858

WILL OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN, 2 DEC 1672

WILL OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN, 2 DEC 1672

England & Wales, Prerogative Court of Canterbury Wills, 1384-1858

The will is hard to read and transcribe. People mentioned are his brother Thomas, his brother Edward, his sister Elizabeth and John Blechynden Junior. Thomas and Edward are mentioned more than once. Also, there is a Margaret Blechynden, John Cotton, and others too difficult to easily interpret accurately. Several names could be interpreted as those of his grandchildren. John's sister Elizabeth Blechynden appears to be the Executor.

7. THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (1636- ~1690) & MARGARET LYNCH (1629/30- aft.1690)

SON OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN (~1612-~1672) AND ANN GLOVER (1608-)

Thomas Blechynden was born / baptised 6 Mar 1634, Woodnesborough, Kent, England, the son of John Blechynden (~1612-~1672) and Anne Glover (1608-). He was one of four children: John, Thomas, Edward and Anne.

THOMAS BLECHYNDEN married MARGARET LYNCH on 28 Dec 1658 in Staple, Kent, England.

LYNCH, MARGARET (1629/30-aft.1690)

Margaret was the daughter of the Reverend John Lynch (1591 - 1680) and Grace Bromfield. Margaret was baptised 13 Mar 1630, Staple, Kent, England.

Map showing Aldington, Canterbury, Deal, Harrietsham, Mersham, Staple, Sandwich and Woodnesborough.

Gerald Fox wrote:

Grace Bromfield was the sister of Sir Edward Lynch, merchant and Lord Mayor of London in 1636. She was the sister-in-law of Sir John Spencer, merchant and citizen of London, of St. Helen's Parish, Bishopsgate. Sir John was also a Lord Mayor of London. Sir John Spencer was of a different family from that of the Earls Spencer of Althorpe.

Thomas Blechynden acquired Simnells in 1663, when it was alienated to him by his uncle John Cason. See Thomas's ancestors William 1470 – 1514 and Agnes Godfrey section at the start of the family line for more information regarding Simnells. See also: SIMNELLS: <http://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-kent/vol8/pp314-327>

(Simnells) was to become the property of John Cason, esq. of Woodnesborough, who in 1663 alienated it to Thomas Blechynden, gent. of Aldington, who afterwards resided here.

Thomas and his wife Margaret moved to Simnells and brought up their family there.

Gerald Fox wrote: "Thomas and Margaret had at least eleven children and all were born either at Woodnesborough or Aldington in Kent. Of the daughters of Thomas and Margaret, Only Margaret is known to have married.

Of the sons, Aylmer married three times, but no children have been found in the records. A wife for Thomas jnr has not been discovered, though it is believed he died after the age of 15 years. Gratian married Ann Robinson at All Hallows Church in London on the 9th December 1700.

They had a daughter Elizabeth in 1703 at Folkestone in Kent. John, born in Woodnesborough, married Anne Lanes of New Romney and raised children in Aldington, Kent. They had at least eight children."

Note: Child nine, Gratian, does not appear in the above chart.

2. BLECHYNDEN, GRACE (1660-) was baptised 10 Dec 1660 Woodnesborough, Kent, England. She died before 9 Jun 1681,  father's Will.

3. BLECHYNDEN, JOHN (~1662-) was baptised 1 Jan 1662, Woodnesborough, Father Thomas, mother Margaret. Surname spelt Blechindon. John Blechynden married Ann Lanes (~1662-1715+) 26 Feb 1690, Cheriton, Kent, England. Eldest son, mentioned in his  father's Will.

The History and Topographical Survey of the County of Kent, Volume 8, pages 322 and 323 By Edward Hasted has the following information about the ownership of Simnells.

The names correlate with family connections which have been detailed in these pages and shows John lived there. It seems his and Anne's son Thomas was the last Blechynden living there.

SIMNELLS, or Simnolds, as it is sometimes spelt, is an antient feat in this parish, about a mile from the church, which had formerly owners, who gave name to it, one of whom, Robert Simnell, as I find by a will in the Prerogative-office, in Canterbury, was possessed of it as late as the reign of king Henry VI. and then sold it to Thomas Crosby, of Aldington, who died possessed of it in 1460, and left it to his son Thomas. After which it passed into the possession of the Godfreys, and in king Henry VII.'s reign, Agnes, daughter of Thomas Godfrey, and coheir of her brothers, entitled her husband William Blechenden to the possession of it. How long it continued in his descendants does not appear, but before the restoration of king Charles II. it was become the property of John Cafon, esq. of Woodnesborough, who in 1663 alienated it to Thomas Blechynden, gent. of Aldington; who afterwards resided here. His son John Blechynden likewise resided at Simnells, who left Anne his wife surviving, and she joined with her eldest son Thomas, gent. of New Romney, in 1715, in the sale of this estate to Stephen Haffenden, clerk, of Egerton, whose grandson Stephen Greenhill, his daughter's son, succeeded him in it, and his grandson of the same name is now entitled to it.

4. BLECHYNDEN, THOMAS (1664-) was baptised 8 May 1664, Harrietsham, Kent, England, father Thomas, mother Margaret. Thomas Blechynden died after 9 Jun 1681,  father's Will)

5. BLECHYNDEN, MARGARET (1666-) was baptised 27 Mar 1666 in Harrietsham, Kent, England, father, Thomas Blechynden, mother, Margaret. Margaret married William Brooke (1672-1707), 29 Sep 1696, Mersham, England. She died after 9 Jun 1681, father's Will.

6. BLECHYNDEN, EDWARD TOOKEY (1668-1720) was born 14 May 1688, Aldington, Kent, England and baptised on 1 Jun 1668, Kent, England. Edward Tookey Blechynden (1668-1720) married Elizabeth Lancefield (1673-1746), 12 Mar 1694/95 Sevington, Kent, England. For more details see next section.

7. BLECHYNDEN, AYLMEY (1670-) was baptised on 26 Apr 1670, Aldington, Kent, England. Found the baptism recorded under Elmor, father, Thomas Blechynden. This is possibly him.

m.1 Aylmer Blechynden married Jane Stowe 24 Jul 1694, Bekesbourne, Kent, England.

m.2 Aylmer Blechynden married Mary Saffory (sic) Sattory, 15 Mar 1696, Deal, Kent, England.

m.3 Alymer Blechynden married Mary Eastes 15 Mar 1708, Parish Church of Deal, Kent, England.

A child named Ailmer (sic) Blechinden (sic) was baptised 31 Dec 1703, father Aylmer Blechinden (sic), mother, Mary in the Parish Church of Deal, Kent, England.

Life did not go well for Aylmer and by Jun 1709, he found himself in debt and was declared bankrupt.

11. BLECHYNDEN, ELIZABETH. Can't find a birth for Elizabeth with parents Thomas Blechynden and Margaret Lynch. Unfortunately, very little is known about Elizabeth.

The children all grew up on Simnells and six of them were still alive at the time their father wrote his Will dated, 9 Jun 1681. Much can be gleaned about Thomas and his family by reading his Will – following.

Thomas Blechynden died about 1690. Probate to his Will being settled 29 Jul 1690. Margaret Lynch died aft 9 Jun 1681 (Husband's Will). Both have a monument to them on the east wall of the Staple Church, the church where she was baptised. St James Church Staple is located in Thanet – see map a few pages earlier.]

8. EDWARD TOOKEY BLECHYNDEN (1668-1720) & ELIZABETH LANCEFIELD (~1673-1746)

SON OF THOMAS BLECHYNDEN (1634-1690) AND MARGARET LYNCH (~1630-aft.1690)

Edward Tookey was born / baptised on 14 May 1668 Aldington, Kent, England, the third son of Thomas Blechynden (1634 - 1690) and Margaret Lynch (1629/30-aft.1690). He was one of eleven children, seven still living at the time of his father's Will in 1681. John, Thomas, Margaret, Edward Tookey, Aylmer, Gratian and Anne. Edward Tookey was about 22 years when his father died.

... and bequeath unto my six youngest children Margaret Thomas Edward Tookey Aylmer Gratian and Anne Blechynden the sume of ffifty pounds of lawfull English money apeice to be paid at their severall and respective age and ages of one and twentie years . . .

Via researcher Martin Easton: I have a copy of the marriage licence from Canterbury Archives which dates to 1694/5, but I don't have the day, which says in the standard language that Edward Tookey Blechynden aged about 27 wishes to marry Elizabeth Lancefield of Seavington Kent spinster and her father consents, in Cundall Aldington or Seavington.

Edward Tooky (sic) Blechynden married Elizabeth Lancefield on 12 Mar 1695 at Sevington, Kent, England.

LANCEFIELD, ELIZABETH: (~1665-1746) was born about 3 Oct 1665, Crundale, Kent, England. (Not sure this baptism is our Elizabeth). Her parents: George Lancefield (1634-1719) from Crundale, and Rebecca Lott (1642-1675) from Mersham, were married on 8 Jul 1662 at St Mary Bredin, Canterbury, Kent, England. George and Rebecca Lancefield had six children: Mary, Elizabeth married Edward Tookey Blechynden, George (died as a baby), Thomas, Rebecca married Stephen Hatch, and George married Margaret Elvy. Her mother Rebecca died the same day her brother George was baptised so probably died in childbirth. Her father George Lancefield was married a second time to on 5 Feb 1778-79 at St Mary Bredin, Canterbury to Catherine Brett (1640-1725), widow, from Wye. George and Catherine had one child; John Lancefield born 1680. Harrison Blechynden who emigrated to WA was baptised in the same church, St Mary Bredin.

Via Gerald Fox:

"Elizabeth was the daughter of George Lancefield. Her father left her land at Sevington, Kent, and this land became the property of Edward. Whereas most of the Blechyndens of Kent tended to be land-owning farmers, Edward Tookey was a Malster. Presumably he owned just the one Mill, since his heir George is described as a yeoman, rather than a land-owning 'esquire'."

7.3.3 Graziers at Sevington (Generations 13 to 15)

The other son of Stephen (b 1591), namely George (b1634), also left Crundale to set up home elsewhere — as a grazier in Sevington near Ashford, some ten miles away.

In July 1662 George married Rebecca Lott¹ from Mersham who died in 1675². She was buried on the same day that her sixth child, George, was baptised — so, probably, she died in childbirth. In February 1678/9 George married for a second time, to Catherine Brett, a widow³. The Brett family (of Wye ?) had connections with France; one of the family was a dissenting minister, quite a famous person, travelling to and from France. In his will, George refers to the purchase of property from a William Brett, gentleman, who may have been a brother-in-law or father-in-law of Catherine Brett. George and Catherine had just one child together, a son John (b1680). George was a churchwarden in Sevington during the periods 1668 to 1673, 1681 to 1688, and 1694 to 1697, passing away in 1719 at the ripe old age of 85, survived by his wife who died in 1725. Two of his adult children by Rebecca Lott, namely Thomas (b1663) and Mary (b 1664), had already predeceased him and George (b 1671/72) had died in infancy.

George, 'as residual legatee', had inherited Sole Street Farm from his father who was living with him when he died in 1674 but he was also specifically given half an acre adjacent to the orchard at the farm and Nordens field in Kake Street in Waltham. Within less than a year George had sold Nordens to a John Browning, as recorded in the Court Book of Petham Manor in 1681, bringing to an end the association of Nordens with Sole Street Farm from at least 1513 when Thomas Pilcher mentioned it in his will.

From the time that Stephen Lancefield left Sole Street Farm to live at Sevington with his son, George (b1634), the farm must have been rented out and a certain Thomas Amis seems to have been the first tenant. In May 1679 George Lancefield of Sevington went to the Manor Court at Whiteacre to be acknowledged as the new owner of the 25 acres within that manor which belonged to Sole Street Farm and the land was stated to be in the occupation of Thomas Amis. How much longer Thomas Amis remained in residence is not known but no more of his children were baptised in the parish church at Crundale⁴. In any case, in 1700, George Lancefield decided to sell Sole Street Farm to John Lancefield (b 1677) of Crundale — the son of his cousin George Lancefield of Simonwell Farm. At the time one Stephen Cullen was the occupier of Sole Street Farm, although he may not have been actually resident in the farmhouse as there is no mention of him in the Crundale parish registers and he may

⁴ In 1716, a Thomas Amis, a widower of Chilham, was married in Crundale to Susannah Pilcher of Hastingleigh.

have been using the farmhouse to house his farmworkers, living himself most probably in Waltham.

In the 1713 and 1714 Poll Books, George appears as being of Mearsham and holding property in Crundale. [This could also refer to George (b1668)]

George has amassed a considerable portfolio of property by the time he died and in his will he describes himself as “gentleman”. He bequeathed £80 to his daughter Rebecca who had married Stephen Hatch with a further £20 for Rebecca’s son, Thomas, when he came of age. His daughter, Elizabeth had married Edward Tookey Bletchyden, Maltster, and they were bequeathed a dwelling house, barn and an adjoining four acres which George had purchased from William Brett (ibid); George decreed that this should pass to their sons Edward and John in due course, but with a condition that the parents should pay over £100 to George’s youngest son, John (b 1680). In accordance with George’s wishes, the Will of Edward Tookey Blechynden, dated 27 June 1719, includes instructions for £100 to be paid over to John Lancefeild (sic), albeit that he refers to the property as a messuage, barn and about twenty acres of land in Seavington. George’s son George (b 1675), married to Margaret Elvy, inherited my ffarm house wherein I now dwell with the barns, stables, outhouses, courts yards, gardens, lands and premises in Seavington and Mersham, subject to paying an annuity of £6 a year to Rebecca; also a messuage and land occupied by Joan Morris, widow; and a messuage and land in Eggarton which he directed George to sell and hold the proceeds in trust against a possible claim on other property in Mersham that he had bequeathed to son John (b 1680), his only child by Catherine Brett.

To John (b 1680), in addition to the £100 mentioned above, and the 30 acres of land in Mersham¹ that were subject of the possible claim, George bequeathed 5 acres of meadowland in Wye and a moiety (ie half share) in a messuage and lands in Willesborough. Together with his mother, Catherine, John was to share £20 and my best bed with the furniture of the same being at the time of my death, two pair of my best sheets and pillow coats, one Chest of linen, one case of drawers, one large looking glass, and all my silver plate. Finally Rebecca, Elizabeth and John were to each have a feather bed making their choice in order of age. His pewter and brass was to be divided equally between his four children and to each of them a milk pan, a lead to milk in.

George (b1675) and Margaret Elvy had five children. Three girls: Frances who married John Lambin, a butcher; Margaret who married George Graham²; and Mary. Also George (b1712) who died in infancy; and George (b1716) who appears to have remained single (he appears

² Margaret (b 1709) appears to have been the first Lancefield to have “emigrated” to London; being married at St Anne’s, Soho when she was residing in the parish of St Bartholomew the Less. She was followed by Sarah (b 1733) who married Thomas Morris at St James, Westminster in 1765. It may be that they were in service to one of the local Crundale gentry who had property or business or social connections in London.

in the Poll Books of 1734 holding freehold in Sevington, was a churchwarden in Sevington in 1751-2 and died in 1752. George (b 1675) was buried 17 January 1748/49 with probate being granted to his wife, Margaret (Elvy), on 9 February 1749/50. When she died, Margaret (Elvy) bequeathed £25 to her daughter Margaret Graham with the stipulation that it should be handed to Margaret personally, not to her husband; £50 and a diamond ring went to her daughter Francis Lambin (who was granted probate on 28 March 1754 in respect of the administration of her mother's and her brother's estates). It seems that the Lancefield name died in this branch of the family with the death of George (b 1716) in 1752.

John, (b1680), was also a grazier, living in nearby Sevington Mersham. He married Frances Hammond¹ in November 1711 at Eastwell near Charing. As mentioned in the will of Attained Goudhurst, tanner, dated 24 February 1715/16, her father was Attained Hammond, a tanner of Faversham; the will also refers to John Lancefield as "gentleman" of Sevington. John and Frances lived in Newchurch where, in the 1713 Poll Books, John is recorded as holding property. For a period up to 1717 Frances and John were joint owners of a house at 49 Tanners Street in Faversham² which was almost certainly an inheritance from Frances' family. Indeed Frances's father, Attained, and her grandfather, Joseph, are both recorded in the title deeds of 49 Tanners Street, and there certainly was at least one tannery in Tanners Street at that time. This delightful house still stands, in excellent condition, on the "Faversham Gunpowder Trail"; it started life as an oast house when hops were grown nearby and later became a home for workers at the nearby Home Gunpowder works. See Figure 7.2.

Frances gave birth to at least four children including Attained³ (b1715) and George (b1718) who both died in infancy and John (b1721) who moved away to the Isle of Thanet in northeast Kent where he became a butcher, the first of a number of butchers in that branch of the family. The first three children were baptised in Newchurch but the baptism of John (b 1721) has not been located. However, a 1727 Poll Book shows John (b 1680) as being of Willesborough with freehold property at Merzam. This suggests that John (b 1721) may have been born at Willesborough.

A Poll Book of 1734 shows John (b 1680) of Sellinge holding freehold property at Mersham. It seems that perhaps he tenanted farms in Willesborough and Sellinge on (say) seven-year leases but he could vote because of his freehold property at Mersham. He must have died

³ Attained is an alternative for Etienne, the French for Stephen though it may also have a meaning "having attained a state of grace" against a non-Conformist/Baptist background if the Hammonds were a Weald family. The will of Attained Goudhurst mentioned in the main text above actually uses the spelling Attained for both Attained Goudhurst and Attained Hammond. The dictionary quotes the act of attainting, or the state of being attainted; the extinction of the civil rights and capacities of a person, consequent upon sentence of death or outlawry; as, an act of attainer. However, it seems unlikely that Attained is the correct spelling as the deeds for 49 Tanners Street use the spelling Attained, as do subsequent records of the Lancefield children called Attained. Just conceivably, there is a link with the Bretts (mentioned earlier) who travelled between France and England and married into the Lancefield family.

George Lancefield, Elizabeth's father bequeathed Elizabeth and Edward Tookey Blechynden a dwelling house, barn (about twenty acres of land and an adjoining four acres in Seavington. George decreed that this should pass on to their sons Edward and John in due course, but with a condition that the parents should pay over one hundred pounds to be paid to George's youngest son John. . .

CHILDREN OF EDWARD TOOKEY BLECHYNDEN AND ELIZABETH LANCEFIELD

It is said Edward Tookey and Elizabeth had eleven children however the above out of order chart suggests 12 children not 11. Also, Gratiana mentioned below is not in the chart. So, there could have been 13 children. Apparently, there were nine children when Edward died – see paragraph below.

Of the daughters, only Mary and Elizabeth are known to have married. Mary married Bartholomew Tookey, who most probably would have been her relative because the Tookey family name was given to her father by her grandparents, though the exact connection has not been found. It could simply have been given to honour a godparent but that is unlikely in England at that time.

1. BLECHYNDEN, GEORGE (1695-1743) the son and heir, was baptised on 8 Dec 1695, Mersham, Kent, England. George married ELIZABETH HORN (~1695-1766), 26 Dec 1723, Sevington, Kent, England. He was described as a Yeoman, rather than a land-owning squire. (Yeoman: a man holding and cultivating a small, landed estate; a freeholder). For more details see next section.

2. BLECHYNDEN, MARY (1698-1776) was baptised 9 Feb 1698, Mersham, Kent, England. Edward Tookey Blechynden wrote in his will: "to my eldest daughter Mary: one Guinea in gold to buy her a ring to wear in remembrance of me." Mary married Bartholomew Tookey Snr. Via the Langdon/Arnold Family Tree, Ancestry, they had one child: BARTHOLOMEW TOOKEY (1731-1797). Bartholomew Tookey was born 1731, Sevington, Kent, England. He married Jane Blechynden (1739-1790) 8 Oct 1776, Sevington and He died 30 Jul 1797, Mersham, Ashford Borough, Kent, England. Mary Tookey (nee Blechynden) died 25 Dec 1776, Sevington, Kent, England. Buried 1 Jan 1777 Mersham, Kent, England.

3. BLECHYNDEN, ELIZABETH (1700-1763) was baptised 18 Apr 1700 Kent, England. Edward Tookey Blechynden wrote in his will to my two daughters Elizabeth and Catharine [sic] Blechynden: my woodland of nine acres in one or both of Bilsington and Rucking "joining to the highway leading from Bilsington Cross to Rucking towards the South and East to Sir Barnham Rider's wood towards the East and North" and £10 apiece." Elizabeth Blechynden married Anthony Skinner of Faversham, Kent in 1730. They had five surviving children, three boys and two girls. The boys were Anthony, William and George and the girls, Mary and Sarah. All the children were born in Faversham. Elizabeth Blechynden died 8 Jul 1763, Kent, England.

4. BLECHYNDEN, CATHARINE (1701-1776) was born 1701 Kent, England. She died 25 Dec 1776, Sevington, Kent, England. Edward Tookey Blechynden wrote in his will to my two daughters Elizabeth and Catharine [sic] Blechynden: my woodland of 9 acres in one or both of Bilsington and Rucking "joining to the highway leading from Bilsington Cross to Rucking towards the South and East to Sir Barnham Rider's wood towards the East and North" and £10 apiece."

5. BLECHYNDEN, GRATIANA (1704-1711) was baptised 21 May 1704, Mersham, Kent, England. She died 27 Oct 1711, Mersham, Kent, England at the age of about seven years.

6. BLECHYNDEN, JANE (1706-aft. 1720) was baptised 5 May 1706 Kent, England. Edward Tookey Blechynden wrote in his will: "to my daughter Jane Blechynden: my woodland of 7 acres in one or both of Bilsington and Ruckinge "lyeing [illegible...Sir Barnham Rider's Wood both aforesaid pieces of woodland I purchased of Wm Horne", or if she dies without lawful issue before the age of 21, the wood goes to Margaret and Anne. Jane Blechynden married William Kingsnorth, 5 Aug 1730.

Angela McMurtry is descended from this line.

"William was bap 1706 in Pluckley. He was a Carpenter. William died May 1750 in Bilsington and Jane remarried to William Moore 8 Dec 1753 in Bilsington. He was a Yeoman and he died 1782 (no issue from second marriage that I can find).

William K and Jane had the following issue all bap Bilsington with the exception of Sarah who I knew nothing about until I read William Kingsnorth's will. No bap for her that I can find.

Jane 1736 - 1815

Thomas 1734 (apprentice Carpenter)

William 1738

Margaret 1740 d 1742

Mary 1745 d 1753

Sarah (mentioned in Will)

I am a descendant of Jane b 1746 who married Peter Waddell 28 Sep 1758 Bilsington. He was born 1737 in Ruckinge and died in 1812 Bilsington. Jane had the license for the pub in Bilsington in her own right in 1788 and in 1795+ her son Peter took over the license. Jane died in 1815 leaving a will (I have a copy). Jane also owned Fagg Farm and Cross Farm which were attached to the White Horse pub."

9. GEORGE BLECHYNDEN (1695-1743) & ELIZABETH HORNE (~1695-1766)

SON OF EDWARD TOOKEY BLECHYNDEN (1668-1720) AND ELIZABETH LANCEFIELD (1673-1746)

George Blechynden was a cattle and sheep farmer and yeoman grazier of Mersham. (Yeoman: a man holding and cultivating a small, landed estate; a freeholder.)

He was baptised 8 Dec 1695 Mersham, Kent, England, the eldest child and son of Edward Tookey Blechynden (1668-1720) and Elizabeth Lancefield (1673-1746) who had eleven children.

Gratiana died at the age of about four years and Thomas Tookey died at the age of about seven years. His parents named their 10th child Edward Tookey after the child they had lost. He and his brothers and sisters were all baptised and grew up in Mersham.

His father Edward Tookey died in 1720 when George was about 25 years of age. The older girls in the family were aged as follows: Mary 22 years, Elizabeth 20 years and Catherine 19 years. His mother was left to care for the younger ones: Jane 14 years, Margaret 11 years, Ann 10 years, Edward seven years and John four years of age.

His father Edward Tookey wrote in his will: I appoint my good and trusty friends Edward Horne of Seavington, aforesaid Yeoman and John ... of Ashford Malster as overseers of my will to assist my wife, desiring her to pay them for their care and pains.

Three years later on 26 Dec 1723, George Blechynden married Elizabeth Horne (1695-1776) in Servington, Kent, England.

HORNE, ELIZABETH (1695-1776)

Elizabeth Horne was born about 1695, her father, one of the “trusty friends” Edward Horne. John and William Horne (possibly her brothers), were appointed as executors of Edward Tookey Blechynden’s Will.

George Blechynden and Elizabeth Horne had seven children: Elizabeth, George, Mary, Catherine, Edward, Jane and John Blechynden.

1. BLECHYNDEN, ELIZABETH (1725-) was baptised 30 Mar 1725, Sevington, Kent, England. George Blechynden wrote in his will: “the residue of my goods chattels cattle ...equally to my youngest sons Edward and John and my daughters Elizabeth, Mary, Catherine and Jane when they reach their respective majority.”

2. BLECHYNDEN, GEORGE (1728-1765) was born about 1728, Mersham, Kent, England. George Blechynden snr. wrote in his will: “to my eldest son George: my lease of the farm and land at Bilsington Priory and the Marshland and tythes belonging to it which I hold from Lady Rider; and my lease of the Marshland in Newchurch, Rucking and Bilsington held from Thomas Brett; £350; fourscore sheep now at Bilsington in several fields called [husses?]; a large silver tankard, three beds, six pair of sheets, a large silver spoon, and all the goods and chattels standing in the Oasthouse room in the house I now dwell at in Mersham.” Via Gerald Fox: George, who was described as a gentleman, lived at Bilsington Priory. George Blechynden died unmarried, 21 Jan 1765 at the age of about 37 years, Burial 26 Jan 1765, Mersham, Kent, England.

4. BLECHYNDEN, CATHERINE (1731-) was baptised 18 Feb 1731 Mersham, Kent, England. George Blechynden wrote in his will: “the residue of my goods chattels cattle ...equally to my youngest sons Edward and John and my daughters Elizabeth, Mary, Catherine and Jane when they reach their respective majority.”

5. BLECHYNDEN, EDWARD (1736-1788+) was baptised 20 Dec 1736 Mersham, Kent, England. George Blechynden wrote in his will: “the residue of my goods chattels cattle ...equally to my youngest sons Edward and John and my daughters Elizabeth, Mary, Catherine and Jane when they reach their respective majority.” “to my son Edward Blechinden: £100; a silver salver, a large silver spoon and my little [brown?] horse.” Edward Blechynden married Ann Vinset, 7 Dec 1758 Aldington, Kent, England. For more details on Edward Blechynden and Ann Vinset see next section.

6. BLECHYNDEN, JANE (1739-) was baptised 30 Aug 1739, Mersham, Kent, England. She married Bartholemew Tookey (1731-1797). George Blechynden wrote in his will: "the residue of my goods chattels cattle ...equally to my youngest sons Edward and John and my daughters Elizabeth, Mary, Catherine and Jane when they reach their respective majority."

Jane Tookey (nee Blechynden) died 29 Dec 1790, Mersham, Ashford Borough, Kent, England.

SUMMARY

1. My late father Edward Horne entered into an article before my marriage to my late husband George Blechynden to spend £100 to purchase lands and tenements for the purposes set out in the Article. The lands (comprising a messuage and lands in Kingsnorth, Kent) were not purchased, but my father gave the £100 to my husband (who gave my father a bond indemnifying the payment). The £100 came to me following my husband's death and I gave his executors a bond to pay the £100 in accordance with my father's Article. I now charge my executrix to pay the £100 in accordance with the Article.
2. To my son Edward Blechynden £40 [line 30]
3. To my granddaughter Elizabeth Blechynden 2 Guineas in Gold
4. To my niece Elizabeth Bix [?] one Guinea in gold

5. To my son John Blechynden all my parts and shares in tenements and lands in Rucking which is leased from the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church Canterbury
6. To my daughter Jane Blechynden £20 (charged on the above leasehold land)
7. To my granddaughter Elizabeth Kennett £15 which I advanced for her apprenticeship; plus £10; plus, a further £10 when she reaches 21
8. To my granddaughter Katherine Kennett [63] £25 plus a further £10 when she reaches 21 (deducting any monies which I may advance for her apprenticeship)
9. It is proposed to fell some timber on a farm in Mersham and Bilsington [82] which belongs partly to my granddaughters Elizabeth and Katherine Kennet and partly to their cousin Mrs Dorothy Kennett. It is also proposed that half (about £20) of the proceeds of sale will be paid to me for the benefit of my above granddaughters, and that I will give a memorandum to pay them the sum when they reach 21. If I do enter such a memorandum, my executrix shall make the payments to my granddaughters.
10. To my grandson James Elliot [117] son of my daughter Mary Elliot one Guinea
11. To my son Edward Blechynden in trust for my daughter Mary Elliott a yearly rent or sum of £3-4-0 for her life from my messuage, barn, lands and premises in Seavington which I purchased to myself from William Maborn (to be paid into her own hands and not to her husband Reverend Richard Elliott)
12. To my sons Edward B and John B [157] my said messuage, barn, lands and premises in Seavington, for 100 years from the death of my daughter Mary Elliott, on trust for the purposes below and paying the annual sum of £3-4-0; and
13. To my daughter Jane Blechynden my said messuage, barn, lands and premises in Seavington, subject to the above trust, forever [176];
14. my sons Edward B and John B as trustees shall sell the 100-year lease after my daughter Mary Elliott's death to raise the sum of £80 to be shared equally between all the children of my daughter Mary then living.
15. If any of my children sues my executrix for the aforesaid timber which I felled on the farm in Kingsnorth after my husband's death [194], then they shall receive nothing under this will
16. my executrix is my daughter Jane Blechynden
17. To my daughter Jane Blechynden, all the residue of my goods chattels and personal estate [207] (except anything in a Note written by me appended to this will).
18. My trustees under this will may deduct all lawful expenses etc dated 28 September 1765, witnessed by John Horne, Mary Horne and Elizabeth Webb Proved at London on 12 September 1776 and admon granted to Jane Blechynden the executrix.

10. EDWARD BLECHYNDEN (1736-1788) & ANN VINSET (1738-1793)

SON OF GEORGE BLECHYNDEN (1695-1743) AND ELIZABETH HORN (~1695-1766):

Edward Blechynden was a sheep farmer and yeoman grazier of Mersham. (Yeoman: a man holding and cultivating a small landed estate; a freeholder.)

He was baptised 20 Dec 1736 Aldington, Mersham, Kent, England, the second son of seven children born to George Blechynden (1695-1743) and Elizabeth Horn (~1695-1766): Elizabeth, George, Mary, Catherine, Edward, Jane and John Blechynden. The children were all baptised and grew up in Mersham. His father, George Blechynden, died when he was just seven years of age.

When he was 22 years of age, Edward Blechynden (1736-1788) married Ann Vinset (1738-1793), aged 19 years, on 12 Dec 1758 in Aldington, Kent, England. Marriage license 7 Dec 1758. Ann was baptised 5 Feb 1738, Aldington, Kent, England, one of four daughters of Jeremiah Vinset. Her parents Jeremiah Vinset (1704-1765) and Mary Rigden (1698-1763) were married 27 Jul 1730, Shadoxhurst, Kent, England. Her father Jeremiah Vinset, born about 1704 was a yeoman of Orlestone, Kent. He died 14 Jul 1765, Oare, Kent, England. Her mother Mary was born in 1698, Kent, England and died 12 May 1763, Oare, Kent, England.

There is a MONUMENTAL INSCRIPT - ORLESTONE CHURCH, KENT

Elizabeth STAPLEY died 14 May 1814 aged 78. Mary Vinset her sister died 24 February 1818 aged 86. Mary wife of Jeremiah VINSET? died 5 May 1763 aged 65 issue 4 daughters Margaret, Mary, Elizabeth and Ann. Jeremiah Vinset? died 14 Jul 1765 aged 61.

CHILDREN OF JEREMIAH VINSET AND MARY RIGDEN:

1. VINSET, MARGARET (~1731-)

2. VINSET, MARY (1732-1818) was born about 1732 and died 24 Feb 1818, Oare, Kent, England.

3. VINSET, ELIZABETH (1736-1814) was born 1736, Oare, Kent, England. She was married 14 Oct 1760 East Guildford, Sussex, England to John Stapley. Elizabeth died 14 May 1814, Kent, England.

4. VINSET, ANN (1738-1793) was baptised 5 Feb 1738, Aldington, Kent, England. Ann died Nov 1793, Bilsington, Kent, England. More details about Ann in this section.

EDWARD BLECHYNDEN (1736-1788) and ANN VINSET (1738-1793) had ten children: Six girls and four boys, all born in Mersham.

Note: The next section can be quite confusing as three Blechynden sisters, daughters of Edward Blechynden (1736-1788) and Ann Vinset (1738-1793) were married to or partnered a Giles. Elizabeth Blechynden (1760-1824) was spouse to William Giles, (Elizabeth had no children?), Sarah Blechynden (1774-1796) married Horne Giles. Ann Vinset Blechynden (1777-1806) married William Giles. This can be read in more detail in their own sections.

1. BLECHYNDEN, ELIZABETH (1760-1824) was baptised 17 Jun 1760, Aldington, Kent, England. Following her sister Ann's death in Aug 1806, Elizabeth eloped with William Giles (1767-1831) and helped to bring up his children. It is not known if she was married previously. Elizabeth's will states that she was a spinster.

GILES, WILLIAM (1767-1831) was a farmer. He was baptised 18 Mar 1767, Canterbury, Kent, England. m1. William Giles married Ann Vinset Blechynden, 28 Feb 1794, Hackington, Kent, England. Ann Vinset Blechynden died August 1806, and following this William eloped with her sister. m.2 William Giles married Elizabeth Blechynden – Eloped. William Giles died Nov 1831, Buried 27 Nov 1831, Hackington, Kent, England.

Researcher from England, Martin Easton wrote:

"The story handed down in my family of how Elizabeth Blechynden eloped with William Giles:

No wonder Elizabeth & William "eloped". William had very young children to look after and they needed a mother. Aunty Elizabeth would have been devastated at losing her sister and would have loved her nieces & nephews. Elizabeth would have been 46 when she eloped with William Giles. (I wonder if she had been married before?)

Because of her being first born I had assumed without much thought Elizabeth and William were together first. Obviously, this was not so.

I often wondered why she didn't have any children. She was 46 years old when her sister died and was obviously too busy mothering looking after the children of William and her sister Ann.

I also wondered why they featured in her will. Obviously, she acted as mother to them and loved them until she died."

Elizabeth Blechynden died Jul 1824, Canterbury, Kent, England. Burial 30 Jul 1824, Mersham, Kent, England. Burial date 30 Jul 1824.

JONES, MARY (1779-1856) was baptised 12 Nov 1779, Saint Mary the Virgin, Aldermanbury, London, England. She was the daughter of John Jones and Mary. Family Trees have her mother as Ann Philpott.

GEORGE BLECHYNDEN (1772-1850) and MARY JONES (1779-1856) had at least eight children:

1. BLECHYNDEN, EDWARD (1805-1864) was baptised 3 Aug 1805, Bilsington, Kent, England.

Gerald Fox wrote:

"In March 1828 Edward left any ideas of farming behind and joined the Customs and Excise, nominating George Blechynden of Bilsington Priory Farm, farmer, of Bilsington Priory (presumably his father) and John Blechynden, farmer, of Aldington as guarantors. He held positions in Kent between 1828 and 1829 and was then posted to Northumberland."

Edward Blechynden married Elizabeth Anderson, 8 Mar 1832 at Northampton Tweed Church, Northam, Northumberland, England.

"From this union began a branch of the family in the North East of England. The Newcastle Journal of the 4 Apr 1864 is the report: "Death at Wooler on the 1st inst. after a short illness, aged 57 years, Mr Edward Blechynden, Excise Officer."

Edward Blechynden died April 1864, Glendale, Northumberland, England.

EDWARD and ELIZABETH had seven children as follows:

John travelled all over the world. Places mentioned: England, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Japan and China. In 1919 he was residing in Nelson, New Zealand.

John Blechynden died 8 Jan 1924, Nelson, New Zealand. Burial 9 Jan 1924, Nelson, New Zealand. Sarah Jane Blechynden (nee Newton) died 2 Feb 1957, Nelson, New Zealand. See the New Zealand section for more details about this family.

7. ALFRED BLECHYNDEN (1849-1897) was baptised 1 Jun 1849. He died 20 Feb 1897 at Blackheath, London, England.

2. BLECHYNDEN, GEORGE (1806-1889) was born in 1806, Kent, England. George, the son of George and Mary Jones emigrated to WA with his cousin Harrison, arriving there in 1830. George Blechynden died 11 Feb 1889, Bridgetown, WA. In 1864, some 34 years later, George's son, named George, born 1833, Perth, married an aboriginal girl, Jane Nilgie (or Nyilgee), born 1844, 19 Jul 1864, at St. Mary's Cathedral, Busselton, WA. See also George's own section for details about his life.

3. BLECHYNDEN, JONES (1809-1886) was baptised 8 Feb 1809, Bilsington, Kent, England. Jones Blechynden married Mary Ann Gore, 1858, Westminster, Kent, England. Grandmother of H Blechynden Knell of Brighton. Jones Blechynden died Jan 1886, West Ashford, Bilsington, Kent, England.

4. BLECHYNDEN, VINCENT (1811-1869) was baptised 24 Feb 1811, Bilsington, Kent, England. He does not appear to have married. Vincent Blechynden died April 1869, St George Hospital, Belgrave, Hanover Square, London, England.

5. BLECHYNDEN, PHILPOT (1812-1864) was baptised 6 Dec 1812, Bilsington, Kent, England. Philpot Blechynden married Maria Strand 1847, Bilsington Church, Kent, England. They had three boys and four girls. Gamekeeper of Priory Farm. Philpot Blechynden died 1883, Bilsington, Kent, England. Had a son William of 'Norwich Farm', Newchurch. See Letter of 1904 written by his son William Blechynden of Norwood farm, to the Kentish Express 16 Jan 1904. Gerald Fox World-wide Blechyndens: P.40-41.

KENTISH EXPRESS, JAN 16th 1904

THE ANCIENT FAMILY OF BLECHYNDEN

"To the Editor of the Kentish Express."

Sir:- In reply to your correspondents letter in last week's issue with reference to the Blechynden family, I think I can supply some information concerning them.

The John Blechynden he mentioned as having known in Brighton is the one whose death was referred to in the paper. A slight mistake having been made in the first letter, the Christian name being sent is an Edward, instead of John. He was the youngest of that family, the eldest son Edward died at Newcastle on Tyne in 1864 leaving two sons and two daughters, one son Alfred is dead, the other son John is still living in Shanghai, China and has a family of six, one daughter is married and living in New Zealand, the other is in Scotland, George the second son, went to the Swan River, Western Australia in company with a cousin Harrison Blechynden, when quite a young man (about 18 years old).

He kept up no correspondence after he went away, but about two years ago John Blechynden in China met a timber merchant from Australia who informed him that George Blechynden had been dead about twelve years. He was never married¹. Harrison Blechynden married and has descendants numbered about eighty in a radius of twenty miles from Bridgetown, W.A. They went out with a Mr. Brookman about the year 1830.

Vincent Blechynden died in "St George's Hospital", Belgrave in May 1869, he was a bachelor too. Philpott Blechynden (my father) died in Bilsington in Jul 1893, and Jones Blechynden at Ashford, January 1886, they had one sister Mrs. Chandler who died in London in Oct. 1872.

The family left Bilsington about 76 years ago. There had been Blechyndens living there, we are told, for about 200 years.

*yours faithfully
(Sgd) William Blechynden

6. BLECHYNDEN, ALFRED (~1815-1893) was born about 1815, Bilsington, Kent, England. He does not appear to have married. Alfred Blechynden died 18 Jul 1893, East Ashford, Kent, England.

7. BLECHYNDEN, ANNE (~1817-1914) was born about 1817, Bilsington, Kent, England. Anne Blechynden married m.2 Frederick Chandler, 22 Jul 1856, St Saviour, Southwark, Surrey, England. Via Miller Family Tree Gallery. Born 1813, Bap. 21 Mar 1813, Capel, St John, Surrey, England. Tobacconist/licensed victualer. m.1 Frederick Chandler married Margaret (1813-1852). Margaret Chandler died March 1852, Southwark, Surrey, England. Three children: James (1838-1878), Phillip (1840-1876), Henry (1842-1874). m.2 Frederick Chandler married Ann Blechynden. Quite soon after the marriage, Anne Blechynden and Frederick Chandler emigrated to Australia where two girls were born in Melbourne and three boys in Sydney between about 1863 and 1876.

It is probable that Anne returned to England, since she apparently died in 1914 in Northumberland, the death being registered at Tynemouth." As did Frederick Chandler. Frederick Chandler died March 1852, Southwark, London, Anne Blechynden died Tynemouth, Northumberland, England.

8. BLECHYNDEN, JOHN (1819-1893) was born abt. 1819, Bilsington, Kent, England. John Blechynden died 1893, Ashford, Kent, England. Refer letter written by William Blechynden, son of Philpott Blechynden to the Kentish Express, 1904. Also, Gerald's World-wide Blechynden Family. P.41-42.

9. BLECHYNDEN, SARAH (1774-1796) was baptised 7 Apr 1774, Bilsington, Kent, England. Sarah Blechynden married Horn Giles on 30 Jul 1793 Place Bilsington, Kent, England. The marriage was witnessed by John and George Blechynden. Marriage Licence 16 Jul 1793, Bilsington, Kent, England.

GILES, HORN (1772-1828) was a butcher from Canterbury. Kent, England. Trade Directory 1770-1941. (Gallery). He was baptised 14 Jun 1772, Canterbury, Kent, England. Parents: Father Hercules Giles (1741-1795), mother Catherine Horn (1741-1814). Siblings: Hercules Giles, Anne Catherine Giles, Elizabeth Giles, John Giles.

m.1 HORN GILES married SARAH BLECHYNDEN, 30 Jul 1793. Sarah gave birth to a son, John Giles (1795-1796) who was baptised 1 Mar 1795, Canterbury, Kent, England. John Giles died in April 1796, burial 24 Apr 1796, Thanington, Kent, England. They appear to have had no other children between 1793 and 1796. Sarah Giles (nee Blechynden) died 23 Feb 1796 at Bilsington, Kent, England, possibly in childbirth. A very sad time for Giles Horne.

m.2 HORN GILES married ELIZABETH SMITH, 22 Apr 1826, St Mary Lambeth, Surrey, England. Elizabeth Smith (~1791-1826) Elizabeth Smith died Oct 1827, buried 11 Oct Southwark, England. She appears to have died the same year she was married.

m.3 HORN GILES married JANE PRINGLE, 13 May 1827, St Mary's Church, Lambeth, Surrey, England. Jane born about 1772. Perhaps a marriage of convenience. Horn appears to have died about a year later. Horn Giles died Feb 1828, aged 63 years, Southwark, Surrey, England. Buried 17 Feb 1828, St George, Southwark, Surrey, England.

Banns of the second two marriages were 1826 and 1827-, 18- and 19-years following Sarah's death.

Gallery records show Giles, fell into hard times and in 1808, a year after Sarah's death going into bankruptcy.

From the Kentish Gazette of Fri 8 Jul 1808:

The Creditors who have proved their debts under a Commission of Bankrupt issued against Horn Giles, late of Canterbury, grazier, dealer and chapman, may receive a Dividend of Two Shillings in the Pound on their respective debts, by application to Kinderley, Long and Ince, Gray's Inn, London, on Tuesday, 26th day of Jul instant, and every succeeding Tuesday, between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock in the forenoon.

London England, King's Bench and Fleet Prison Discharge Books and prisoner Lists, 1734-1862 for Horn Giles: 6 Apr 1812 Horn Giles and Elizabeth Smith before the courts for the sum of 30.00 pounds.

Horn Giles and Elizabeth Smith were committed at King's Bench Prison 6 Apr 1812 - thirty pounds, and discharged, 1812. Their relationship was over a reasonable period of time prior to their marriage. Jury-Qualifies Freeholders and Copyholders, 1813 London Road.

One feels sorry for Horn Giles who financially fell on hard times.

9. BLECHYNDEN, ANN (1776-1776) was baptised 25 Feb 1776, Bilsington, Kent, England. Father Edward Blychendon (sic) and mother Ann. Anne was buried 26 Sep 1776, Mersham, Kent, England. If this is her, she died as a baby, which accounts for the two different Baptism dates for Ann Vinset Blechynden.

10. BLECHYNDEN, ANN VINSET (1777-1806) was baptised 28 May 1777 Bilsington, Kent, England. Father Edward Blechynden, mother Ann. Two records: 26 and 28 May 1777. Ann was only eleven years of age when her father died in 1788 and 16 years of age when her mother died in 1793. Note: This Ann Vinset Blechynden is the daughter of William and Ann (nee Vinset) Blechynden whom this whole chapter is about. Based on the above information she is the aunt of Harrison Blechynden of Australia who also has Anne Blechynden (nee Vinset) as his grandmother. This can be quite confusing, so I have explained that here to clarify it a little.

Gerald Fox wrote:

"Ann Vinset Blechynden married William Giles, "of Ashford Spinster a Minor with consent of Guardians" by licence on 6 Mar 1794, in Hackington Parish Church near Canterbury [par 5]. The Guardians, appointed under her father's will, were Edward Hughes of Mersham, William Chittenden of Bilsington, and Edward Coleman of Burmarsh [will 2] Sam Giles a witness at the marriage of William Giles and Ann Vinset Blechynden on 6 Mar 1794 in Hackington PC [par 5]."

GILES, WILLIAM (1767-1831) was baptised 18 Mar 1767, Canterbury, Kent, England. Parents: father, Samuel Giles (1733-1815) and mother, Elizabeth Speed (1736-1801). m1. WILLIAM GILES married

ANN VINSET BLECHYNDEN, 28 Feb 1794, Hackington, Kent, England. Ann Vinset Blechynden died Aug 1806, and following this William eloped with her sister Elizabeth. m.2 WILLIAM GILES married ELIZABETH BLECHYNDEN – Eloped. William died Nov 1831, buried 27 Nov 1831, Hackington, Kent, England. ANN and WILLIAM had five children as follows:

1. GILES, JOHN (1795-1877) was baptised 20 Jul 1795, Canterbury, Kent, England. John's mother Ann Vinset Giles (nee Blechynden) died 9 Aug 1806 John was 11 years of age. John Giles died 12 Sep 1877, 14, Redman's Row, Mile End, Middlesex, England.

2. GILES, MARY ANN (1798-1874) was baptised 21 Dec 1798, Hackington, Kent, England. Mary Ann Giles married Alfred Hubbard, 9 Mar 1825, St Stephen, Coleman Street, London, England. Tailor. Alfred Hubbard (1804-1892) was born 1804, Canterbury, Kent, England. Alfred Hubbard died 29 Jan 1892, Holborn Union Infirmary, Hoxton, London, England. Mary Ann Giles died abt. 3. GILES, GEORGE (1801-1871) was born 1801, Canterbury, Kent, England. GEORGE GILES married JEMIMA BATEMAN, 6 May 1840, St Mildred, Canterbury, Kent, England. JEMIMA BATEMAN (~1814-1847) was born abt. 1814, Kent, England. Jemima Bateman died 8 Jun 1847, Sun Street, Canterbury, Kent, England. George Giles and Jemima Bateman had two children: 1. JEMIMA GILES (1841-1886) 2. JOHN SAMUEL GILES (1843-1908) George Giles died 21 Oct 1871, Stepney area, Middlesex, England.

4. GILES, ELIZABETH (1803-1884) was born 1803, Canterbury, England. Baptised 11 Jun 1803, Hackington, Kent, England. 1803, Canterbury, Kent, England. Elizabeth's mother Ann Vinset Giles (nee Blechynden) died 9 Aug 1806; Elizabeth was only three years of age. ELIZABETH GILES (1804-1884) married m.2 DAVID EASTON (1797-1877), 7 Jun 1842, Thanington PC, Kent, England. (Martin Easton has a copy of the marriage certificate). DAVID was born 1797, Winchelsea, Sussex, England. m.1 DAVID EASTON married SARAH GILES, 1827. Following Sarah's death, David married her sister Elizabeth. m.2 DAVID EASTON married ELIZABETH GILES, 1842. David Easton died Sep 1877, East Ashford area, Kent, England. Elizabeth Giles died 18 Feb 1884, Aldington, Kent, England. Elizabeth and David had one child, EASTON, WILLIAM GILES (1842-1881) was baptised 5 Mar 1843, Aldington, Kent, England. William Giles married Martha A Bull, in 1866. William Giles died, 1 Feb 1881, Woodford, Essex, England.

5. GILES, SARAH (1804-1884) was born 1804, baptised 29 Aug 1804, Hackington, Kent, England. SARAH GILES married DAVID EASTON (1797-1877) 30 Nov 1827, Ruckinge, Kent, England. DAVID was born 1797, Winchelsea, Sussex, England. m.1 DAVID EASTON married SARAH GILES, 1827. Following Sarah's death in 1839, David married her sister Elizabeth. m.2 DAVID EASTON married ELIZABETH BLECHYNDEN, 1842. David Easton died Sep 1877, East Ashford area, Kent, England. Sarah Giles died Oct 1839, East Ashford area, Kent, England. Burial 25 Oct 1839, Aldington, Kent, England. SARAH and DAVID (via Easton Family Tree) had five children as follows:

1. EASTON, JOHN GILES BLECHYNDEN (1827-1854) was born 1827, Aldington, Kent, England. He died Jul 1854, Elham, Kent, England.

2. EASTON, MARY ANN (1830-1861) was born 1830, Aldington, Kent, England. She died 13 Jul 1861, Aldington, Kent, England.

3. EASTON, GEORGE GILES (1833-1885) was born 1833, Aldington, Kent, England. Bapt. 15 Sep 1833, Bonnington, Kent, England. He died 21 Aug 1885, Widnes, Lancashire, England.

4. EASTON, THOMAS (1836-) was born 1836, Bonnington, Kent, England. Bapt. 17 Apr 1836, Bonnington, Kent, England.

11. BLECHYNDEN, M CHILD DANILE\ DANIEL. M Child Danile\ Daniel Blechynden. Probably died young.

Martin Easton, researcher from England is descended from the line of Sarah - one of the daughters of Ann Vinset Blechynden & William Giles. See the quote from some of his notes below.

"It is curious that two sisters married the same man (sequentially of course!) in two successive generations: The story handed down in my family of how Elizabeth Blechynden eloped with William Giles is very romantic! That was after her sister Ann Vinset's death (William's first wife). Sarah, the sister of the 2 Blechynden girls above, married Horn Giles.

Then in the next generation, William and Ann's daughters Sarah and Elizabeth Giles both married David Easton – which is where my family comes in. Sarah named one of her sons John Giles Blechynden Easton – they obviously felt it was worth remembering the connection back to the well-bred Blechynden family."

Martin Easton continues: "Annie and Winnie Tutt wrote: "There is a tombstone at the door of the church [Aldington] to (A.B.) Annie Blitchindon (E.B.) Elizabeth Blitchindon and William Giles" [let. 3]." They have elaborated on this as follows:

"A certain William Giles had a wife, who died. Later, he and his dead wife's sister wished to marry.

However, this was frowned upon, so they eloped secretly: he took her away on horseback one night from where she lived (perhaps as a maid), at Bilsington Priory. "The sisters' names were Annie and Elizabeth Blitchindon.

Gerald Fox wrote: "Marian Johnson of Nottingham, a descendant of Edward Blechynden and Ann Vinset, said the following concerning William Giles and Sarah and Elizabeth Blechynden:"

"I have a memorial ring of a lady pointing at a gravestone with the initials EB, AB and WG on it. The story goes that William Giles Married Elizabeth Blechynden and then eloped with her sister Annie [Ann Vinset - GJF]. The original gravestones are up against the wall of Aldington Church but nearly covered with grass.

Marian then poses the questions:

"1. Who are Elizabeth and Annie? I have them as daughters of Edward and Ann (Vinset) Blechynden but have no marriage for Elizabeth [Elizabeth may have been betrothed to William Giles but not married. Elizabeth's Will states she was a spinster - GJF]

2. Why do the gravestones have their maiden names rather than their married names?" In answer to these questions, Marian is probably correct in her suggestion that the initials refer to Elizabeth and Ann Vinset Blechynden and William Giles. As for the use of maiden name initials on headstones, this is not without precedent."

The Will of Harrison Blechynden's grandfather, Edward Blechynden, was dated 17 May 1788. Edward Blechynden died in Oct 1788. Burial, 29 Oct 178, Mersham, Kent, England. Name in records via Ancestry spelt Blychanden and Blychenden. His Will was proven, 29 Nov 1788.

Ann Blechynden (nee Vinset) died 26 Nov 1793, Bilsington, County of Kent, England. Burial, 29 Nov 1793, Mersham, Canterbury, England. Probate date 1 Feb 1794, Bilsington, Kent, England.

There is an amazing amount of information to be found in these wills.

SUMMARY:

THE WILL OF EDWARD BLECHYNDEN (1736-1788+)

This valuable document is a fascinating piece of writing, nine pages long, written in legal language and is full of information re his family, land and holdings. Below are a few quotations.

"THIS IS THE LAST WILL & TESTAMENT of Edward Blechynden of Bilsington in the County of Kent. Grazier. made in writing in manner that is to say . . ."

"Unto my dear wife Ann Blechynden . . ."

"I give and bequeath to my said Three Eldest Daughters Elizabeth Blechynden  Mary Blechynden and Catherine Blechynden the sum of . . ."

I give and devise the same unto my Two Youngest Daughters Sarah Blechynden and Ann Vinset Blechynden. . ."

"Unto my said ffive Daughters and to my said Two sons . . ."

Note: *Mary & *Catherine could be added to the family group report above:

"I give and bequeath to my Two sons John Blechynden & George Blechynden and the survivor of them Two ffields known by the several Names of the Twelve Acres and Six Acres Den? Land being part and parcel of the ffarm held by me"

"I give and bequeath to my * Brother John Blechynden the Sum of Ten pounds to buy him a suit of mourning to be paid to him within Three Calendar Months next after my decease."

"containing by Estimation fifteen Acres . . . being in Aldington in the said County of Kent at or near Aldington ffrith. . . " "being in the several parishes of Bonnington and Bilsington . . . Two pieces called Pinnock? Leares? containing by estimation twenty ffive Acres . . . within the several parishes of Snave? and Brenzett . . . " "Two equal parts to be divided of and in all that one piece of Wood or Woodland with the Ground and Soil thereof containing by Estimation Nine Acres more or less with the Appurtenances situate lying and being in the several parishes of Bilsington aforesaid and Ruckinge in the said county of Kent or in one of them formerly called or known by the name of Queen? Sheets . . . " and so on. (It would be interesting to see if one could exactly pinpoint these areas today. I'm sure people in the local area could make sense of it all.)

Note the use of ff in the words ffrith ffarm ffields and ffive.

Note: Aldington, Aldington Frith, Bonnington etc. can be viewed in the Web Site on Kent: see below. It also has excellent links to other valuable information relating to Kent.

SUMMARY:

WILL OF ELIZABETH BLECHYNDEN: (1760-1824)

The Will of Elizabeth Blechynden contained the proof needed to show Harrison Blechynden, was actually, descended from this line. Thank you, Mary Coulthard.

SOME QUOTES FROM THIS WILL:

"Elizabeth Blechynden: Of the city of Canterbury, Spinster . . .

"I give and bequeath unto the several persons herewith named the several legacies of sums of lawful money of Great Britain hereinafter named mentioned / That is to say / To my said brother George Blechynden Fifty Pounds to my nephew Edward Blechynden son of my said brother George Blechynden Ten Pounds for mourning, to my nephew Harrison Blechynden son of my said brother John Blechynden Ten Pounds for mourning."

SHE MENTIONS THE FOLLOWING NAMES AS WELL AS THOSE ABOVE:

Nieces of Elizabeth Blechynden (mentioned in her will) Mary Ann Giles: Elizabeth Giles: Sarah Giles:

Nephews of Elizabeth Blechynden (mentioned in her will) John Giles: George Giles: Harrison Blechynden:

Note: Both of her sisters married a Giles: Sister Sarah married Horne Giles. Sister Ann Vinset married William Giles:

Susanna Rigdon Widow: Ann the wife of William Marshall: Elizabeth Francis Widow: Susanna Rigdon: & Elizabeth Francis:

Mary Blechynden her Sister in Law: To which brother was Mary married? Child 7, brother George Blechynden married a Mary Jones so presumably this is whom she is referring to.

11. JOHN BLECHYNDEN (1771-1834) & SARAH HARRISON (~1776-1866)

SON OF EDWARD BLECHYNDEN (1736-1788) & ANN VINSET (1738-1793)

Discrepancies with John Blechynden's date of birth. Originally it was quoted that he was born in 1764 in Bonnington, Kent, England.

John Blechynden was baptised 24 Jan 1771 at Bilsington, the son of Edward Blechynden (1736-1788) and Ann Vinset (1738-1793).

The following articles and maps are based on some of the places mentioned in connection with the Blechynden family in Kent, England.

BONNINGTON: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bonnington>

The small parish of Bonnington in the English county of Kent lies between the town of Ashford to the west (5 miles distant) and the coastal town of Hythe to the east (6 miles distant). To the north, the parish is bordered by the parish of Aldington, to the west, it borders the parish of Bilsington and to the south, the parish stretches into the low-lying coastal region of Romney Marsh. There has never been a village of Bonnington, and thus the parish has no obvious centre.

UK Genealogy Archives - Bilsington, Kent Historical Description

<https://ukga.org/england/Kent/towns/Bilsington.html>

Bilsington, a parish in Kent, on the Military Canal, and partly in Romney Marsh. . . The manor of Bilsington-Inferior was given to the Earls of Arundel, in the time of Edward III., on the tenure of serving the king as butler at Whitsunday and belongs now to the Hallidays. A priory of Augustinian canons was founded on Bilsington-Superior about 1253, by John Mansell, provost of Beverley, and the manor connected with it was held- by a tenure similar to that of Bilsington-Inferior. Remains of the priory still stand, partly appropriated into a farmhouse, on high ground, commanding a good view over the marsh. The living is a vicarage, consolidated with the rectory of Bonnington, in the diocese of Canterbury; net value, £182. The church is good and was well restored in 1883.

This is a Google Street View of Bonnington in 2020. The sign “Bonnington” doesn’t come out very well but the image shows it is a quaint place in the Kent countryside. A sign on the brick building in the foreground has “Old School House” written on it so there was certainly a school there at some stage.

“St Rumwold’s Bonnington Church” located in farmland just out of Bonnington. Images from Google Maps, 2020.

JOHN BLECHYNDEN (~1764-1835) Esquire married 6 Aug 1805 (license date), in the parish of All Saints Church, Canterbury, Kent, England to SARAH HARRISON (~1766-1866). John being a bachelor at the age of 21 years and upwards, and Sarah being a Spinster at the age of 21 years and upwards.

Copy of marriage certificate of John Blechynden and Sarah Harrison, 1805

(Interesting to note that this is where Harrison, their first child got his first name and the name, continued, through several generations.)

We seem to have two different copies of John and Sarah's marriage certificate. Both included for interest.

HARRISON, SARAH (~1776-1866)

Sarah Harrison was born about 1776, in Kent, England. Family Tree Ancestry, information on Sarah varies on her birth from 1774-1788.

Her parents' names mentioned in these family trees also vary and the mother's birth date makes them unrealistic. At this time, we will leave them out until more information comes forward.

Sarah Blechynden (nee Harrison) died 13 Jun 1866, Canterbury Dist., Kent, England.

Copy of death certificate: Widow of John Blechynden, farmer. Age 91 years, which makes her birth date approx 1775. Signature by Matilda Boys, her granddaughter.

1851 Census: Widow aged 75 years.

1861 Census: Widow aged 85 years.

These dates also indicate she was born about 1776.

Following are copies of Census 1851 and Census 1861, plus her death certificate.

JOHN BLECHYNDEN OF ALDINGTON WAS CALLED TO THE ASSIZES OF KENT

FOR RICHARD BAYLEY WHO HAD TO “APPEAR AND ANSWER”.

David Boulding a member of the Aldington Facebook community group advises that on 13 Sep 1821 regarding the Newchurch Riots, Harrison's father John Blechynden of Aldington was called to the Assizes of Kent for Richard Bayley who had to “appear and answer”. He was researching his own connections to the riots which were against imported cheaper Irish labour. This is the hard environment Harrison was raised in. Things were a little tough in Kent and the whole UK in that era.

Here is a little more regarding the riots as advised by David Boulding

The Richard Bolden mentioned is brother to my direct line.

They were pretty serious riots and several were jailed for it. It's the time leading to the Swing Riots against mechanisation (and cheap imported labour). I imagine that as the Military Canal was finished in 1809 many of the Irish navvies who built it were still around.

...Kent parish of Newchurch as a case study and looks at the events that day, Two of the mob, Thomas Hart and Richard Bolden, forced open the granary.

[Abstract: The years of agricultural depression between the end of the Napoleonic wars in 1815 and the Swing riots in 1830 were also years in which there were few agricultural disturbances. Although rural crime increased, possibly demonstrating growing social tension, actual riots have only been reported in East Anglia in 1816 and 1822. Work by Snell (2003) suggests these years also saw the peak of a culture of local xenophobia as labouring communities looked to their own parishes both for their primary sense of belonging and as a resource for customary rights. This article reflects on exclusion as a factor in the precipitation of a riot in rural Kent in the summer of 1821. Quarter sessions records are used to reconstruct the events of that day. Although the rioters gave the impression of wanting more money for their work at harvest, the riot was fueled by the presence of labourers from outside the immediate area and in this respect illustrates the presence of a culture of local xenophobia. However, the involvement of labourers from various neighbouring parishes in the riot simultaneously suggests that horizons may have extended further than the parish boundary.]

This about riots in Newchurch against imported - cheaper - Irish labour.

John Blechynden's Will Of 1834 was transcribed from the original copy by Angela Blechynden.

Note on John's Will:

Thanks to Jim Boyce (Boys) for providing a Boys Family Tree chart, see chart under Emily, which confirms that Emily Grace Boys nee Blechynden had a brother-in-law named George. This George Boys of Willesborough had children born in Sellinge. This does seem to confirm that this George is not only John Blechynden's son-in-law Edward's brother, but also presumably the George of Sellinge who was mentioned in John Blechynden's Will of 1834 as his good friend who was to inherit significant property. This George was 33 years younger than John but we surmise that doesn't mean he couldn't be a main beneficiary. Perhaps he was overseer or caretaker of Harrison's parents' property as Harrison had gone to make his own life in Australia.

Via a record in the My Heritage web site it appears John Blechynden, Harrison Blechynden's father, is buried at "St John the Baptist" Church in Mersham Kent but many internet searches have failed to find his headstone or other record of that. Could be a good thing for a traveller to try and find it if it exists.

Sarah Blechynden (nee HARRISON) died 30 Jun 1866 at Watling Street St, Mildred, England aged 91 years. See death certificate below. Mildred appears to be a former location in the middle of Canterbury. She is shown as the widow of JB (John Blechynden) Farmer. She died with extreme disability and was in a coma for 24 hours. Her granddaughter Matilda Boys was present at her death. Address following - is Matilda's - 1881 census, 47 Watling St. Canterbury St Mildred, Kent, England. 47 Watling Street appears in 2020 to be a café or a carpark.

“Canterbury Kent Burial Records”, a free online service starts from 1877 so they are no help in proving where Harrison’s mother Sarah is actually buried. A “Find my Past” web site reference says she was buried in Canterbury in St Gregory Church.

The “Kent Family History Society” has St. Gregory The Great burials, for sale from 1852 through to 1939, if anyone wants to follow up Sarah’s and other burials.

PART 2 – Harrison & CharlotteHARRISON BLECHYNDEN (1802-1873) &
CHARLOTTE ROBUS (1812-1889)

Harrison¹ was the first child of John Blechynden and Sarah Harrison. He was born in 1802 in Bonnington, Kent, England.

On 3 Mar 1832, Harrison married Charlotte Augusta Robus in Perth, in what was then officially known as the Colony of Western Australia.

They went on to have ten children together.

Harrison passed away on 17 Jul 1873 at 'Babbyalla', and Charlotte on 13 Sep 1889 at 'Roesland', both in Beverley, Western Australia. They are buried together at the Edwards Crossing Cemetery in Beverley.

The Canterbury Connection

Harrison Blechynden, son of John Blechynden (1771-1834) and Sarah Harrison (~1776-1866) was born in 1802, in Bonnington, Kent, England. He was baptised 26 May 1802, St Mary Bredman, Bilsington, England.

Copy of Baptism: Harrison, son of John Blechynden & Sarah his wife, of the Parish of Bilsington.

John Blechynden Esq. of Bonnington, Kent was a member of a family whose name appears in English records as early as the reign of Edward 1st when Nicholas Blechynden was in possession of the Manor of Quarrington. See previous sections.

"St Mary Breadman (Bredman) church was situated on the south side of High Street, Canterbury Kent. As per the plaque it was demolished in 1900. A part of the stone wall which it appears was the north west wall has been preserved.

Remaining wall of St Mary Breadman (also spelt Bredman), Church and Plaque, site of the of St. Mary Bredman, built before 1100, rebuilt 1828, demolished 1900

It seems the church had a plain front with three pointed windows and was built on the site of an ancient Norman building which was built before 1160. Harrison Blechynden was baptised in the old Norman Church on 26 May 1802. The new church wasn't built until 1828.

Harrison's parents, John and Sarah Blechynden (nee Harrison) would have driven by horse and carriage the 25 kms from where they had a farming and grazing business in Bonnington to Canterbury to have him baptised when he was about a month old.

The church was called St Mary Breadman (Bredman) to distinguish it from other St Mary churches in and around Canterbury, Breadman being named after a nearby bread market.

It is presumed Harrison was baptised in Canterbury instead of Aldington because Sarah Harrison, as previously was mentioned, was baptised in Canterbury, her parents were married in Canterbury, and Sarah was buried in Canterbury at St Gregory's Churchyard.

"The Map of Canterbury"

The Blechynden family also had a strong connection to Canterbury through Thomas Blechynden, who was prebendary of Canterbury to 1663 and also to the Yeomanry through one of their ancestors who supplied footmen for the crown. The Yeomanry were a group of men who held and cultivated small landed estates. In Britain a volunteer cavalry force was raised from the Yeomanry from 1794 until the Great War, WW1. A previous John Blechynden was Captain of one hundred footmen among the forces raised in Kent to repel the Spanish invasion of 1588. Blechynden and the 100 footmen were said to have kept watch for the Spanish Armada from Ruffins Hill in Aldington.

St Mary Bredman Church is at number 28. This is where Harrison Blechynden was baptized. It is in the middle of the map. See also the enlargement right with the number circled.

Harrison's mother Sarah Blechynden, nee Harrison, was buried at St Gregory's Churchyard at number 14 on the north east of map outside the City wall.

Harrison and his sisters grew up on the farm acreages in Aldington, Bonnington and Bilsington, Kent, left by their grandfather Edward Blechynden to their father John and brother George. The exact location of John and Sarah Blechynden's farming and grazing business in Bonnington where Harrison lived is not known. Working with his father Harrison would have learned many of the skills needed to help him in the future.

BONNINGTON: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bonnington>

The small parish of Bonnington in the English county of Kent lies between the town of Ashford to the north (five miles distant) and the coastal town of Hythe to the southeast (six miles distant). To the north, the parish is bordered by the parish of Aldington, to the west, it borders the parish of Bilsington and to the south, the parish stretches into the low-lying coastal region of Romney Marsh.

Harrison's Situation before Emigration

In 1829 Harrison Blechynden decided to emigrate to Australia. Although he was descended from one of the oldest families in Kent - his ancestors had owned various manors in Quarrington, Simnels and Mersham - in recent times, his family was not so affluent. Harrison could possibly see no way of improving his financial position by remaining in England. In addition, it has been handed down that Harrison as a young man, went a bit wild. On one occasion, he is said to have ridden his horse into the local pub. It was also known that he and his father had strong words.

At the time, England was in a state of social discontent. The middle and privileged classes feared that a revolution, similar to the French Revolution, would break out and they would lose everything they owned. People experiencing poverty lived in fear that any failure to pay debts would land them in prison, an unpleasant possibility, to say the least. Many gaols were overcrowded, and there were instances of poorhouses and gaols renting out old hulks to serve as prisons.

People were starving; there were riots in Kent about cheap imported Irish labour. Opportunities were looking bleak. A future in a new Colony would have appealed to Harrison and his cousin George, both relatively young men at the time, Harrison being 28 and George 24 when they emigrated.

Some of Harrison's cousins had a property named Norward Farm in the Romney Marsh, and it could have been in this district that Harrison met William Locke Brockman, who had inherited property in the area.

Via Richard Corboy:

Bessie Blechynden's oral history: Our branch's oral history from Bessie Blechynden has Harrison as a "remittance man" - a form of assisted migration:

Remittance Man: https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/Remittance_man

Within Victorian British culture, a remittance man was usually the black sheep of an upper or middle-class family who was sent away (from the United Kingdom to the Empire) and paid to stay away. These men were generally of dissolute or drunken character and may have been sent overseas after disgraces at home.

"He was a wild horseman and used the local market as a steeple chase". His father reportedly said, "the Swan River Colony needs horseman - out you go!" This was apparently a big issue. Later, Harrison's father's will divided the estate between his sisters in Kent, with Harrison only receiving five pounds. At the time, single men had to be sponsored, so the neighbour Mr Brockman supported him as a carpenter.

As a young man from a privileged home, it was passed down that Harrison attended university. Like many young men obtaining higher education, it appears that socially he adopted a 'drunken' don't care attitude. (We have not been able to find a record of his attendance. He may not have graduated due to his altercation over his actions with his father.)

His life was about to change enormously. Harrison's cousins had a property named Norward Farm in the Romney Marsh, and it could have been in this district that Harrison met William Locke Brockman, who had inherited property in the area.

Brockman was still in disgrace following his elopement with Anne Hamersley in 1827, and the couple decided to emigrate to escape the wrath of their families. The Brockmans enthused their friends and employees with a scheme of going to the Swan River Colony. This colony had recently been founded without convict labour, and substantial land grants were available depending on how much capital and labour was brought out from England.

Harrison Blechynden and his first cousin, George Blechynden, seized the opportunity of joining Brockman. Harrison accepted the offer of acting as Brockman's foreman on his new property in the Swan River Colony and George as a carpenter. Brockman paid for their passage. The first-class fare was 80 guineas for adults, and the steerage class was 20 guineas. Brockman was to provide free food and lodging for four years for the Blechyndens and, in return, did not have to pay them wages. After those four years, the Blechyndens would be free to be gentlemen, take up land and make their own way in the colony.

Harrison's future bride Charlotte Robus was a maid for William Brockman's wife, Anne, and that no doubt is where the two would have met.

The sailing ship Minstrel put to sea from St. Katherine's Dock, in central London, on 17 Sep 1829 with Captain Charles Arckoll at the helm. She was a 359-tonne copper-sheathed wooden sailing barque launched at Hull in 1811. See https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Minstrel_\(1811_ship\)). She picked up the Brockmans and their large cargo at Portsmouth. Accompanying the Brockmans were seven servants, including Harrison and George Blechynden and Mrs Brockman's maid, Charlotte Augusta Robus. On 3 Mar 1832, Harrison and Charlotte would marry in the new settlement of Perth.

Although Harrison only received 5 pounds from his father's will, it appears they departed on good terms. Many years later, Jill Blechynden, a great-great-granddaughter of Harrison Blechynden, was working as a young journalist in Busselton. One of her special memories is of an interview with a Mr and Mrs Brockman, a retired couple celebrating an important occasion. Mr Brockman was a descendant of William Locke Brockman, who came to the colony in 1830 on the ship Minstrel.

When Jill introduced herself, she was greeted warmly as a descendant of Harrison Blechynden, who arrived in the colony under the auspices of W.L. Brockman on the same ship. The Brockmans made particular mention of it being passed down that Harrison's father, John Blechynden, accompanied his son and Harrison's cousin George to the vessel and asked W. L. Brockman to 'Look after the lads.'

Jill commented: "I had heard this story before as it was passed down in the Blechynden family too, but it was very nice to hear it again from this charming couple. The stories also go to show that Harrison and his father parted on good terms."

The Minstrel carried 14 children and 33 adult passengers. On the 1 Oct 1829, she set sail for the Swan River Colony.

ST KATHERINE DOCKS, LONDON:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/St_Katharine_Docks.

St Katharine Docks took their name from the former hospital of St Katharine's by the Tower, built in the 12th century, which stood on the site. An intensely built-up 23-acre (9.5 hectares) site was earmarked for redevelopment by an Act of Parliament in 1825, with construction commencing in May 1827. Some 1250 houses were demolished, together with the medieval hospital of St. Katharine. Around 11,300 inhabitants, mostly port workers crammed into unsanitary slums, lost their homes; only the property owners received compensation. The docks were officially opened on 25 Oct 1828. Although well used, they were not a great commercial success and were unable to accommodate large ships.

Opening of St Katharine Docks, 25 Oct 1828, just the year prior to the Minstrel sailing.

A fellow passenger, Mr Abraham Morgan described the journey as pleasant in a letter to his brother. (Battye ref 1460). However, Perth was little more than a tent town. Conditions and medical supplies so primitive that Mr Morgan died in July 1830 in a typhoid epidemic that swept through the colony following heavy winter rains. Provisions were so low that a ship was sent urgently to the Cape of Good Hope for supplies.

That Special Bond: An Exchange of Letters

Following is an exchange of letters between Reuben John Blechynden of Bridgetown and Amy 'Ella' Blechynden (nee Craig) of Beverley. The letters illustrate the special bond and need to maintain contact between members of the Blechynden family from the past, present and future. Our aim in this mammoth project is to combine our research from each family tree line in a presentation, honouring their lives to share with our descendants.

Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus would have been delighted to see the ongoing interest in their family tree and the coming together of their extended family. The first five-page letter was written by Reuben John Blechynden, dated 23 Jun 1962, to Amy 'Ella' Blechynden (nee Craig), the wife of Horace Blechynden. Horace was the seventh child of Charles Edwin and Caroline Mary Davies. It was treasured and stored amongst their family archives. On 14 Jul 2019, a copy of the letter was given via Lindsay Adams (from the line of Harrison and Charlotte's seventh child - Charles Edwin) to Jill Feutrill (from the line of Harrison and Charlotte's first child - John).

In the letter, Reub narrates, "my second cousin, Henry Green, who was a Barrister in London (born in Perth) traced our family back to the year 868 (ed 863) in the reign of King Ethelbert." It is interesting that in 1962 Reuben did not know the name of Harrison Blechynden's wife. But it seems Ella did not know either, as, in her reply letter to Reuben, she says: "No, I am sorry I can't tell you who your Great-Grandfather Harrison married."

A five-page letter by Ella Blechynden (nee Craig), written in reply to Reuben's letter, was found amongst Jill's archives. This letter contains a wealth of information about the Blechynden family in Beverley. Following are copies of both letters (with other explanation notes) that have been transcribed for easier reading. We have added some punctuation in a few places and made the paragraphs more obvious to make them easier to read.

REUBEN BLECHYNDEN'S LETTER TO AMY ELLA BLECHYNDEN (NEE CRAIG) - 23 JUN 1962

"Dororeu"
Mullalyup
23/6/62
Dear Cousin Ella,

On behalf of our family, I thank you very much for your kind sympathy when mother died. We sent you a card & agreed that I would write to you too.

Your letter was very interesting.

I am 67 years old & am the eldest son of Arthur & Clara Blechynden late of Bridgetown (Mullalyup where we live is 20 miles from Bridgetown). My wife is Dorothy & we have one daughter Jill, she is married to Doug Feutrill, a farmer of Vasse near Busselton & they have no children yet.

My eldest sister Lila Pearce lives at Geraldton, her husband is dead, but she has two children there and two in Bridgetown. My sister Ivy Hyder is dead. My sister Gladys Chapman lives at Dunsborough. My sister Edith Shadbolt lives at Mukinbudin & my brother Ray, the youngest has a farm at Bridgetown & has three sons. My brother Leslie was killed in the 1st War.

Page II

I was in the 10th L.H. & Camel Corp in the 1st War. Bert Edwards of Beverley, relation (who was killed the day I was captured) & Adam Murray also of Beverley were in the same Company as I, & a McDonald (forget his Christian name) related also of Beverley came back in the same ship from England. We were in camp together.

My brother Ray was in the second war & was captured at Crete & spent 4 years in Germany & is feeling the effects of it now, poor chap, but still works hard on his farm.

They were once farming there for Ethelbert.

T.V.

My grandfather's brother Walter settled at "Glenpennant" near Manjimup & his son Clayton is now there (It is a nice property).

Amy & May whom you mention were my aunts, are both dead now.

My second cousin Henry Green who was a Barrister in London (born in Perth) traced our family back to the year 868 in the reign of King Ethelbert. It is very interesting. Our coat of arms (as you do not know) is as written "azure a fess embattled Argent between three lions heads erased. or".

Also written "azure (blue) a fess between three lions heads erased Argent (silver) Collared Gules (red) which they quartered with the Arms of Godfrey, from whom they inherited the Manor of Rufford. Still in oldington.

There is a lot about the old Blechyndens & the Manor they owned & their doings. Please Blechynden has all the particulars.

There are Blechyndens & their relations scattered throughout the State now & we have never met. It seems a pity.

I have an apple orchard & run sheep

My father was the 5th son of John Blechynden who settled in Bridgetown over 100 years ago. His father was Harrison of Beverley. Can you tell me who my great grandfather Harrison married?

John Blechynden married Elizabeth Green of Perth & they had 12 children. John being the eldest & he did not marry. George the second son had four children. His son Bruce lives at Dinninup & has the family papers & history as he is next in line. Never mind my great grandmother's name I can get it from Bruce.

We have just had our house and shed connected with the South West Power Scheme & it is very nice. Only connected this week. No engine to start now!

My wife's father Arthur Munyard of Munyard & Kenworthy late of Wellington St Perth. You may have heard of him, died last year at the age of 90 & was active till the last. He was a grand old gentleman. His two sons still living are farming, one at Minnivale & one at Pantapin.

Some of the Beverley Blechyndens belong to the Roman Catholic Faith. I have met some of them. One lives at Bunbury who has been here a few times, his name is Nat. We belong to the C of E.

Sid & Horace F&H had sheep studs & were members of the British Breeds Association were they not? I used to be a member too & we were at a dinner at the Savoy Hotel once, but there were a lot there & I did not have the pleasure of meeting them. Not knowing them by sight I could not speak to them. A friend of mine who knew them told me afterwards they were present & I was sorry I didn't meet them.

Our road was badly treated & our small bridge was washed down stream, so we have some repair work to do. If we pass through Beverley I would like to call & see you. This is a long letter for me & a rambling one & I hope it doesn't bore you. With kind regards & best wishes from us all. Yours Sincerely Cousin Reub. (Reuben John) P.S. Transcriber's notes:

(1) More details re Henry James Green, born in Perth 1868, died at Shoreham - by- Sea, Sussex, 1944, buried at Karrakatta, nephew of Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green). He qualified as a Barrister, however never practised, wrote many letters back home to one and all, many ended up in the George Green collection at the Battye Library. Edna Kelly had the originals.

(2) Gules - red, as a heraldic tincture. Origin Middle English: from Old French goles (plural of gole, "throat", from latin gula), used to denote pieces of red-dyed fur used as a neck ornament.

(3) Frank Harrison Blechynden (first child of Charles Edwin B) was the one in partnership with his brother Horace.

ELLA BLECHYNDEN (NEE CRAIG'S) LETTER TO REUBEN BLECHYNDEN, 22 JULY 1962:

Note: In transcribing, we have taken the liberty of adding some punctuation in a few places and made the paragraphs more obvious to make it easier to read.

Erney Edwards's mother is 97 & is still living in Home of Peace Subiaco

Hunt Road, July 22-1962

Dear Cousin Reuben

Thanks a lot for your most interesting letter received some time ago. I am pleased to tell you Adam Murray retired from the farm some years ago & is living in Hunt Road 6 doors from me he has fair health. Sometimes his leg worries him & any time you are travelling through Beverley he would like to see you call on any of us 7, as for Bertie Edwards his married brother lives opposite me in Hunt Road – I don't seem to be able to locate the McDonald you speak of there is 2 or 3 family here but don't seem to be connected & don't seem to know him, so he may have gone to rest.

Certainly, when rain comes to washing culverts & bridges away, you have had a little too much, we have no complaints yet but at the present we have had over an inch. Since last night it was a steady rain, in some places they had 170 points too much unless it is needed to fill the dams. All the seeding is finished & everything is looking good.

Frank, the son on the Red Hill property 2 miles from Beverley has yarded sheep ready to start shearing tomorrow. (1) However, he will certainly have to wait awhile. As soon as Frank has finished, Bruce will start. The boys help one another. Bruce has 4 boys. The eldest son Neil is 24 & will be getting married later in the year & is going to live on East Lynne that Bruce bought in Jan, where Uncle Sid used to live.

It is mostly apples down your way, and I have had more than one. I can remember once going to see Cousin Herbert Blechynden on a rise just out of Bridgetown a bit, he could set his car in motion at the house & it could take him to the town without changing gears.

Yes, there is a Colin Blechynden late of Elder Smith & Co farming in the Brookton district & a good farm. It might surprise you to know we live with our youngest son about 37 miles from here. He has 2 daughters. One at the university studying for science teacher & a young son about 12 or 13. Colin has been lots of places like all active agents. Colin tried hard to get away to the war but no he had one bad eye. So as soon as the war was over, he left Elders when he was manager at York & said he would like to go back on the land again, some of the returned boys could do his work in the office.

Did you by any chance know a Bert Reynolds in the 10th L. Horse no 2481 they live opposite me in Hunt Road?

There is a Blechynden in Bev. town both aged. He has almost lost his sight, but she is rather active they both seemed interested in your letter which they asked me to read. They have a fair size family one of them Ray. Rather a nice family & you may know Kathleen, single, & lives in Perth most of the time about your age.

I have been delayed over writing while I have been waiting for Frank to go through the last of Horace's papers. You know we had the history of Blechynden, it was lent to so many I was a bit afraid we might have lost the run of it. I am pleased to say we have found it. Muriel's (3) son John, has seen it once & was anxious to get a copy of it when his Grand Pa asked for it to be returned, he wanted a copy of it. That is all for now.

Kind regards & best wishes to all from your loving Cousin Ella

Notes:

(1) The shearing shed used by both Frank and Bruce would most certainly have been the one built in 1917 at Killibin. See Charles Edwin branch for a photo of the shed.

(2) South of Beverley (towards Brookton), this property is called Burnside and is farmed by Cyril Blechynden - the youngest of Bruce's four sons.

(3) Muriel was the daughter of Horace Edwin and Ella Blechynden. Her brothers were Bruce, Frank and Colin.

Charlotte Augusta Robus

Charlotte Augusta Robus came from a large family. She was one of ten siblings. They were all born in a small coastal village called Seabrook, which is situated between Folkestone and Hythe on the Kent coast. She was born 23 Feb 1812, in Seabrook, near Folkestone, Kent, England.

The next four pages includes information from Charlotte Robus' Family Tree.

Charlotte Augusta Robus (1812-1889): Ancestral Family Tree

Charlotte's parents GEORGE ROBUS (~1785-1861) and CHARLOTTE TAYLOR (1786-1870) were married on the 11 Jan 1808, at the Parish Church of St. Mary and St, Eanswythe, Folkestone, Kent, England. Both signed with their marks.

Via the Middleditch and Hyland family tree, Charlotte's father George was born abt.1785 in Postling, Folkestone, Kent, England. He died 8 Apr 1861 in Postling, Folkestone, Kent, England. His parents: URIAH ROBUS (1751-) married ELIZABETH FAGG (1755-) 21 Jul 1781, Folkestone, Kent, England. Via Census: Residence 1841, Seabrook, Cheriton, Kent, England. 1851, 1861, Leabrook, Cheriton, Kent, England.

Charlotte's mother, Charlotte Taylor, was born 1786 in Folkestone, Kent, England, parents THOMAS TAYLOR (1753-) and ELIZABETH (1755-), possible surname CORK. Charlotte Robus (nee Taylor) died Jan 1870 in Elham, Kent, England.

George and Charlotte had 11 children as follows. Thank you to Trevor Biedor from Kent for sharing his research.

1. ROBUS, HENRY (1808-1896) was born 1808, Seabrook, Kent, England. Baptised 23 Nov 1808 in St. Mary and St. Eanswythe, Folkestone, Kent, England. He married FRANCES (UNKNOWN) (1803-1879) about 1837. Frances was born about 1803, Bury Street, Edmunds, Suffolk, England. She died Dec 15, 1879, Rye Harbour, Icklesham, Sussex, England. Henry died 7 Nov 1896, Union Workhouse, Rye, Sussex, England. Henry and Frances had two children as follows:

1. FRANCES ROBUS (1836-) was born about 1836, Paddington, Middlesex, England.

2. HENRY GEORGE ROBUS (1837-1896) (from the  The Romney Marsh Matrix Family Tree via Ancestry) was born 9 Jun 1837, Paddington, Middlesex, England. He married EMILY CATT (1838-1929) 31 Mar 1862, Lydd, Kent, England. Courtesy MKMI Woodchurch Ancestry Group. His wife was still alive in 1905. Henry died 7 Nov 1896 in the Union Workhouse, Rye, Sussex, England. Henry and Emily had two children together as follows:

1. HENRY WILLIAM ROBUS (1863-1907) was born 1863, Woking, Surrey, England. He married CLARA CATHERINE HOCKING (1870-) 1900, Strood, Kent, England. Robus researcher Trevor Biedor commented: "With Reference to  Henry George Robus, who wrote in a letter in 1905, see full letter further on, that his son Henry William Robus who was the master of a workhouse in Kent had a very tragic death * in Sep 1907, falling overboard from a cross channel steamer and drowning just outside of Boulogne harbour." Henry William Robus died 11 Sep 1907, Elham, Kent, England.

2. AMY FRANCES ROBUS (1865-1944) was born 1865, Woking, Knaphill, Surrey, England. She married EDWIN HITCHES 1916, Medway, Kent, England. Amy died 1944, Chatham, Kent, England.

Note: The Children of Henry George Robus are mentioned in a letter to Blechyndens in from him in 1905, see letter further on: His son, Henry William Robus and wife were Master and Matron Robus, Strood Union Workhouse. His daughter, Amy Francis Robus who was not married at that stage, was headmistress of a school for girls.

2. ROBUS, GEORGE (1810-) was born 1810, Seabrook, Folkestone, Kent, England. Baptised 2 May 1810, St Mary and St Eanswythe, Folkestone, Kent, England.

3. ROBUS, CHARLOTTE AUGUSTA (1812-1889) was born 23 Feb 1812 in Seabrook, Folkestone, Kent, England. She married HARRISON BLECHYNDEN (1802-1873) in Perth, WA, 3 Mar, 1832. Charlotte died 13 Sep, 1889, Beverley, WA. See further on re Charlotte and Harrison Blechynden's family.

4. ROBUS, WILLIAM (1815-1893) was born 1815 in Seabrook, Kent, England. Baptised 3 Oct, 1815 St Martins Church, Cheriton, Kent, England. He married, ANN MARLOW 18 Jul 1840, Dover St Mary the Virgin, Kent, England. William died 29 Apr 1893 in St Peters, Folkestone, Kent, England. William and Ann had eight children.

A LETTER FROM HENRY GEORGE ROBUS ENGLAND, 1905, SON OF HENRY ROBUS (1808-1896)

Mr. Blechynden Sn.
Babbala farm,
York District,
Swan River,

Lansdown Villa
"Maxton",
Dover, England
23 Nov, 1905

My Dear Cousin,

I am addressing this to you as the head of the Blechynden family in Australia as it is more than probable that your father has ceased to exist. It seems strange to be writing to a kinsman I have never met and in all probability may not do. I knew of course that I had relatives in Australia but until a few weeks ago I neither knew their name or address. I was then on a visit to your mothers only surviving sister who is housekeeper to her br-in-law at "Ore" Hastings when they gave me a mourning card in memory of your mother to look at which had been given to her by my only sister (Mrs. Y Coff) who I had not the faintest idea until then that she knew any more than I did of your name and address.

However, on reading the name of the card it seemed not unknown to me, and it afterwards occurred to me it was the same name as that of a very ancient Kentish family which was exciting much interest in the Kentish Express in January and February of last year, and which I was sufficiently interested in at the time to cut two of the letters which were written on the subject out of the Express, and fortunately had them in safe keeping. On my return home from Hastings when I had once referred to them and found the name to be the same, I at once wrote to my aunt at Hastings asking for your father's Christian name, the year he went to Swan River, and the name of the gentleman he went out with. The reply I received satisfied me that your father was the Harrison Blechynden alluded to in the correspondence.

I wrote to the editor in the Kentish Express and asked him if it was possible to send copies of the papers containing the correspondence to me at once. He was fortunately able to do so, and I got them a few days after. And after reading the whole of the correspondence felt proud of the knowledge that I was connected with descendants of so very an ancient Kentish family. A family which could trace its descent for the year 868 at least. What would not nearly all our nobility give if they could trace their descent for at least 1037 years? I venture to say half they possess.

I have taken the liberty in case you should not have seen or heard of the correspondence in question to copy it into the accompanying book for you. Knowing if you had not seen or heard of it that it would be very interesting to every member of your family out there.

Now says you who is this unknown person, who says he is my cousin? I will explain as fully as I can. I am the only son of your mother's eldest brother Henry Robus and was born on the 9 Jun 1837 and therefore, being in my 69 year, I am no chicken, but the head of your mother's branch of the Robus family. I have only one son and one daughter. My son is married, and he and his wife are Master and matron of Strood (in Kent) Union Workhouse. They have only one child, a son. The possible future head of the family. Our daughter is not married but is doing very well. She is the head mistress of a girls school. I am a retired civil servant of the crown, and have been for the past 10 years, with a retiring allowance sufficient to keep myself and wife in comfort but no more. Of your mother's brother and sisters all are dead but one, our aunt alluded to as residing in Hastings. My father died some years ago at the age of 89, his brother William died some years before at the age of 80. The last and youngest Jessie died this year at the age of 92.

I trust this will find you and every member of the branch of your family enjoying good health. I am thankful to say, myself, wife and children are all well. Myself and wife, are very active for our age. We have a nice place with a large garden of 54 perch. I do my own yard work, that with flower borders, trees and lawn to be kept tidy, keeps me fairly well employed in the open air, therefore keeps me in fairly good health. Wishing you all a Happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year. I am

Your, to you (until you receive this) Unknown cousin,

HENRY GEORGE ROBUS.

ROBUS FAMILY, KENT, ENGLAND; Contact from Gerald A Robus, 3 Aug 2005 - (South Africa)

Hi there Dianne

I stumbled across your article on the web and seeing you invited comments I would gladly do so from a South African perspective.

My Father was William Charles Robus and was born in 1897 in Tarkastad a district in the Eastern Cape and was from what I have been able to gather from 1820 Settlers to South Africa. One thing Dad did say was that 3 brothers did come out here and they dispersed in the following directions, one to Cape Town one remained in the Eastern Cape and another when to formerly Rhodesia (Now Zimbabwe) Unfortunately "old Folks" of his era were very secretive about their past so as children we did not even attempt to find out more details, which of course with hindsight I deeply regret, so it was interesting to see your Website and to see on the Blechynden side there was Charlotte. My grandfather Robus apparently was a farmer and he died when my father was 9 months old. Just above Charlotte on the "organigram" there is depicted a William with not additions or other details, so I wonder who he could have been?

We recently spent a holiday overseas and visited Lyminge in County Kent and found the "Old Robus" Manor House in Silverlands Road, Lyminge. It is a very old stately home from the Victorian era and is home to a family.

We also visited the Churchyard to see if we could find any graves but because the place is old and overgrown with stinging nettles, we could not find a gravestone however I did speak to an elderly guy who apparently was doing research on the Old Kentish surnames and he assured me there was a grave with a Robus there. It was very interesting being able to walk down Robus Terrace and also in Robus Close, which is a housing Estate apparently built on the site of the Old Farm - could not confirm this.

We had a large family and there were 4 sons and 7 daughters and all our names are of English origin including, Ivan William, Bernard Henry, Marcus Charles and Gerald Andrew for the boys and Francis, Eileen, Agnes, Edna, Veronica, Daphne and Josephine for the girls. Most of my siblings have passed on and there are only four of us left.

I am married to Gwyneth whose grandparents come from Scotland and we have four children, Jeremy, Ian, Cathryn and Jacquelyn. All are married and we have 5 Grandchildren with 3 grandsons who will hopefully carry on the Robus surname.

I hope you will find this brief snippet interesting and thank you for your work!

*Kind regards,
Gerald A. Robus*

Dear Dianne,

As previously mentioned, we were privileged to go to the UK during April/May of this year and we visited a village in County Kent called Lyminge which is near to Folkestone and Dover.

I took pictures of the Old Robus Manor House in Lyminge, Kent and is attached for your information. I also established that the Robus' are called Kentishmen, those who live closer to London in the county of Kent are called Kentsman.

When Charlotte was about seventeen years of age she became a lady's maid to Mrs Brockman, wife of William Locke Brockman. Following their marriage, William and Ann Brockman made the decision to emigrate from Kent in England to the new Swan River Colony in, Australia. Charlotte was to accompany them as a maid to Mrs Brockman and her one-year-old son, Edmund. On 1 Oct 1829, the Minstrel set sail from Kent at Portsmouth, England arriving at the Swan River Colony on 20 Jan 1830. Also, on board as two of seven servants to William Locke Brockman were Harrison Blechynden and his cousin George Blechynden.

In order to understand more about Charlotte and her life over the next few years in the new Swan River Colony it is important to know more about William Locke Brockman and his wife Ann Frances Hamersley.

The following pages provide family tree information regarding William Locke Brockman and his family.

William Brockman (1803-1872)

William Locke Brockman, was the fifth son of Rev. Julius Drake-Brockman of Cheriton, England. He was born 18 May 1803, in the New Rectory, Cheriton, Kent, England. He died 28 Nov 1872, Herne Hill, WA.

At the age of twenty-five, young William Brockman was courting Anne Frances Isabella Hamersley. The pair wanted to marry, but pronounced parental opposition stood in the way. As a result, the couple eloped to Gretna Green.

Images via Ancestry, Muirhead Family Tree

Records show that William and Anne had two weddings, which suggests elopement and ratification of the marriage later in the Cheriton Church.

m. 1 WILLIAM LOCKE BROCKMAN married ANN FRANCES ISABELLA HAMERSLEY (1808-1876) on 15 Jan 1828, Gretna Green, Dumfriesshire, Scotland.

m. 2 WILLIAM LOCKE BROCKMAN (1803-1872) married ANN FRANCES ISABELLA HAMERSLEY (1808-1876) 22 Mar 1828, Cheriton, Kent, England.

Ann Frances Isabella Hamersley was born 15 Oct 1808, Southwark, Surrey, England. She was baptised 9 Nov 1808, St George the Martyr, Southwark, Surrey, England. Parents HUGH HAMERSLEY (1767-1825) and MARGARET BEVON (1787-1849). Ann Frances Isabella Brockman (nee Hamersley) died 5 Mar 1876, Clifton, Gloucestershire, England.

William and Ann had nine children. Their first child of William Locke Brockman and Ann Hamersley, was Edmund Ralph Brockman, born 22 Oct 1828, Kent, England. He married to Elizabeth Deborah Slade 18 Mar 1852, in Northam, WA [Reg. 624]. Edmund died 17 Sep 1908, Guildford, WA, [Reg. 80]. Following their arrival in WA, William and Ann Brockman had eight more children:

1. Elizabeth Brockman (1831-1908),
2. William Locke Brockman (1833-1898),
3. Frances Brockman (1835-1891),
4. Edward Reverley Brockman (1838-1902),
5. Margaret Drake Brockman (1840-1862),
6. Julius Brockman (1842-1860),
7. Henry Brockman (1845-1916), and
8. Hugh Thomas Brockman (1849-1865).

It is interesting that William's younger brother Robert James Brockman (~1812-1897) arrived on the ship Egyptian on December 1831, whereas the W.J. Brockmans and the Blechynden cousins John and George arrived on the Minstrel in Jan 1830). (This is where the error occurred via some researchers, that had the Brockmans and the Blechyndens arriving on the Egyptian).

Brockman was still in disgrace following his elopement with Anne Hamersley in 1827 (see further on re Brockman and Anne Hamersley) and the couple decided to emigrate to escape the wrath of their families. The Brockmans enthused their friends and employees with a scheme of going to the Swan River Colony. This colony had recently been founded without convict labour and huge grants of land were available depending on how much capital and labour was brought out from England.

Meanwhile, over 200 settlers were already living on Garden Island and on 12th Aug 1829, the town of Perth had been proclaimed. The voyage took nearly 5 months and they finally arrived on the 20th Jan 1830.

The above link leads to an excellent article on Admiral Sir James Stirling (28 January 1791 – 22 April 1865) a Scottish naval officer and colonial administrator. His enthusiasm and persistence persuaded the British Government to establish the Swan River Colony and he became the first Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Western Australia.

CONDITIONS FOR LAND GRANTS AT SWAN RIVER:

Colonial Office, 5th Dec 1828. <http://gutenberg.net.au/ebooks14/1402751h.html>

P. 606. Such Persons, however, as may be prepared to proceed to that Country at their own Cost before the End of the Year 1829, in Parties comprehending a Proportion of not less than Five Female to Six Male Settlers, will receive Grants of Land in Fee Simple (free of Quit Rent), proportioned to the Capital which they may invest upon public or private Objects in the Colony, to the Satisfaction of His Majesty's Government at Home, certified by the Superintendent or other Officer administering the Colonial Government, at the Rate of Forty Acres for every Sum of £3 so invested, provided they give previous Security; first, that all Supplies sent to the Colony, whether of Provisions, Stores or other Articles, which may be purchased by the Capitalists there, or which shall have been sent out for the Use of them or their Parties on the Requisition of the Secretary of State, if not paid for on Delivery in the Colony, shall be paid for at Home, each Capitalist being to be held liable in his Proportion; and, secondly, that, on the Event of the Establishment being broken up by the Governor or Superintendent, all Persons desirous of returning to the British Islands shall be conveyed to their own Home at the Expense of the Capitalist by whom they may have been taken out. The Passages of labouring Persons, whether paid for by themselves or others, and whether they be Male or Female, provided the Proportion of the Sexes before mentioned be preserved, will be considered as an Investment of Capital entitling the Party by whom any such Payment may have been made to an Allowance of Land at the Rate of £15, that is, of 200 Acres of Land for the Passage of every such labouring Person over and above any other Investment of Capital.

Any Land thus granted, which shall not have been brought into Cultivation, or otherwise improved or reclaimed from its wild State to the Satisfaction of Government, within Twenty-one Years from the Date of the Grant, shall, at the End of the Twenty-one Years, revert absolutely to the Crown.

20 Jan 1830 Stirling's despatch to England. Stirling spoke of the arrival of 25 ships. This report was written a month too early for the Brockmans, Charlotte Robus and our Blechynden's to be included. When the Minstrel arrived, the colony was little more than a tent town. As mentioned previously, Brockman wasted no time in getting himself and his entourage established in the Colony.

OFFICIAL PAPERS RELATING TO THE SETTLEMENT AT SWAN RIVER, WEST AUSTRALIA

Dec 1826—Jan 1830. [Compiled from HISTORICAL RECORDS OF AUSTRALIA. Series III], DESPATCHES AND PAPERS RELATING TO THE SETTLEMENT OF THE STATES. Volume VI, pgs. 551-640, <http://gutenberg.net.au/ebooks14/1402751h.html>

A despatch from Lieutenant-Governor Stirling was sent by ship, to Sir George Murray dated Perth, WA, 20 Jan 1830.

"On the 9th of September I had the honour to announce to you my arrival here, and the commencement of this Settlement; I now beg leave to lay before you the following Information relative to its progress since that period, its present condition and future prospects.

*In the course of October, November and December, some ships and many settlers * came in. Their arrival before the country could be properly surveyed occasioned great inconvenience. Viewing no evil so great to the settler as delay in assigning to him his land, I was accordingly forced to grant locations on unsurveyed lands, and to determine on the sites of towns without experience of their merits.*

Ships arrived from 1st June to the present time.	Persons Resident.	Persons in the Settlement not resident.	Amount of Claims to Land.	Lands allotted.	Locations actually effected.	Cattle.	Horses.	Sheep.	Hogs.
25	850	440	£ 41,550	Acres. 525,000	39	204	57	1,096	106

By the document No. 1, you will be enabled to estimate the number and quality of the persons who have come to this Settlement and the descriptions of property they have imported. Among the heads of families, there is a great majority of highly respectable and independent persons. In the working class, there is a great variety; some masters have been careful in the selection of their servants and workmen, but the greater part have either engaged the outcasts of parishes or have brought out men without reference to character; and the consequence is, great inconvenience to such masters and endless trouble to the authorities established here.

Permission to select land according to the land regulations, heretofore transmitted, has been granted to all whose property has been valued. Their names and the extent of their respective claims appear in the document No. 2; a note of such persons as have actually commenced cultivation is therein contained. Among so many settlers, there could not be a great number with minds and bodies suited to encounter the struggles and distresses of a new settlement; many, if not all, have accordingly been more or less disappointed on arrival, either with the state of things here or their own want of power to surmount the difficulties pressing around them.

In this despatch, he described the conditions and progress of the new Colony. This was just too early to include the names of Harrison and George Blechynden and Charlotte Robus or the Brockmans who arrived a month later but gives an idea of how things were on their arrival. This included a General Muster book and records of those who had already received land grants.

The live-stock, which has been brought here, has been in several instances of the very best quality, and it will be seen by document (—) to be very considerable in quantity; with very few exceptions arising chiefly from neglect, all kinds have done well. We are now drawing to the close of the dry season, and yet the bullocks and sheep continue to fatten upon the natural grasses. Horses from England have not prospered so well but have maintained themselves without any food but the native herbage.

The building of houses and boats, the examination of the country, the selection of land, and the transport of goods from the shore to their allotments have not left settlers much time to attend to anything else. The season during the three last months, moreover, has been unfavourable to agriculture and gardening from the hard and dry state of the ground; but the time for breaking it up being now arrived, I hope to see farming operations commence with vigour.

I am happy to say, with reference to grazing, that there is every reason to be satisfied with the result of our experience up to the present time.

Fishing has been much and successfully practised. The rivers and coasts abound in fish, and great supplies of food have been drawn from that source.

Many settlers have employed themselves in the construction of boats for the conveyance of their goods on the rivers. The number in the Settlement is now very considerable, being not less than forty.

Brockman wasted no time in getting himself and his entourage established in the Colony. Initially, there were no roads. Other than by horseback, travelling by boat on the Swan River was the major form of transport. William Brockman named his grant 'Herne Hill' and Harrison and George Blechynden were immediately put to work constructing his prefabricated house and building yards to contain his livestock (sheep), which included three rams and 46 pure merino ewes. Charlotte worked as a servant to Mrs Brockman and helped look after her baby son.

Brockman was the ninth landowner of the new Colony being granted Lot 9, Swan River Colony by Captain James Stirling and the Surveyor-General, John Septimus Roe. His younger brother Robert James Brockman arrived on the ship Egyptian on December 1831, and their nephew James Groves Birdwood Drake-Brockman, arrived many years later in 1872, after serving in the Indian Police.

BROCKMAN, WILLIAM LOCKE: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_Locke_Brockman

Brockman brought with him a prefabricated house, seven servants, and a number of sheep. Under the colony's system of land grants, this entitled him to a grant of over 20,000 acres (80 km²). He was only the ninth person to be granted land in the colony.

W.L. Brockman - A Portrait, by Ruth Johnston, published 1982.

<https://www.abebooks.com/book-search/title/w-brockman-portrait/author/johnston-ruth/>

This is a limited-edition publication of 1,000 copies all numbered and signed by the author. It's an autobiography of William Locke (Drake) Brockman, the first Australian member of the family who settled in the Swan River Colony in 1829 and being the owner of one of the first lots of land in the Colony. At the time of his death, William Locke Brockman became known as one of the 'founding fathers of Western Australia'.

W L BROCKMAN A PORTRAIT THE SETTLING-IN

It looks as though these people were in the prime of their lives and were likely to make a vital contribution to a society in the making, partly because of their youth and the skills they brought with them. Importing servants presented an additional advantage to the settler apart from gaining land. Most of the servants emigrated under an indenture scheme best described by Uren (1948):

One such bond of service required a man to serve his master without reward for seven years, the master's part of the bargain being to provide the passage money to the Swan River for the servant, together with his wife and child: and to house, clothe and feed the man and his family while the man remained in his employ. Some conditions were slightly more liberal. . . . A carpenter undertook for himself and his wife to serve for five years for £10 a year. . . . Less fortunate indentured servants had to refund their passage money after they reached the Swan River . . . (pg. 163)

Referring to the working conditions, the author claims that the servants had to work eight hours a day from the middle of November to the middle of February, these being the very hot months of the year. For the rest of the time, they had to work nine hours per day. If a servant was away from his job without leave or broke any other condition of the employment contract, he was to be dismissed. In addition, he was liable to be prosecuted and pay a penalty or be imprisoned (for no payment - Russell, 1980). The first instance of imprisonment was reported by the Perth gazette in its edition of the 16th Mar, 1833.

W. L. Brockman advanced the passage money for his would-be servants and paid them £10 for the first year of service and £40 for the second and third year. The servants however, received no pay at all since the master kept it all as instalments toward their passage for which he had originally paid.

Some years later, W. L. Brockman, aware of the advantages of low-cost labour, participated in yet another scheme which greatly assisted him in the development of his properties. He was able to employ juvenile delinquents who had been sent to the Colony from the Parkhurst Prison in England. In the Letter Book for 1847=1852 (Battye Library) are submissions from the Guardian of Juvenile Immigrants to the Colonial Secretary stating the names of the immigrants, their masters and the pay they received as 'apprentices' to the various employers. W. L. Brockman figures on the 29th Jan 1845, as having employed two of those apprentices named respectively E. R. Warren and J. Brown. The latter received for four months work the grand sum of 12s.6d. Money earned was put into a trust to be drawn by the delinquent immigrants, when set free. The term of employment for the delinquents in Brockman's service ranged between three and five years. A note on the matter is made here to illustrate the methods used by many of the colonists to augment their financial position by engaging labour for minimal rewards. This trend continued for a long time and culminated in the introduction of convicts to the Colony.

H. L. BROCKMAN—A PORTRAIT

since all this was intricately connected with the conditions of settlement in the new Colony.

To encourage early settlers, all those arriving in the Colony before the end of 1830 were offered grants of land in proportion to the amount of capital in goods they were willing to invest in the improvement of the land. For every £3 capital value they were granted 40 acres of land. Livestock was considered as part of capital as were many other items useful in promoting agriculture. Every labourer brought into the Colony represented a special asset to the master, since the new settler was allowed an extra parcel of land of 200 acres for every servant who migrated with him. Grants of land for women and children were also consigned, giving the settler a good chance of obtaining as much land as possible in relation to his so-called 'capital' invested. Freehold title to the land was subject to certain often strict conditions and it had to be improved to the value of 1s. 6d. per acre. If the grantee failed to improve the land within a specified period of years, the land was then taken over by the Crown.

In the eyes of most observers this method of land allocation led to disaster in the early days. Lander (1841) succinctly explains the situation by stating:

The Government plan of giving grants of land to emigrants, proportioned to the capital which they introduced into the colony, was good to a certain extent, but the object was perverted, and the bonus abused. In almost all instances, men received a much greater quantity of land than they were justly entitled to. Every article of provisions, furniture, and household effects, and even wearing apparel, were taken into account. The valuations were made by friends and neighbours, who administered too much leniency, and ruled the property of the applicant at a most exorbitant price. The consequence has been, that the large grants of land have fallen into the hands of those who never lived upon them, or spent anything upon their improvement; formed a fictitious amount which they required to specify to the Government; before they could obtain possession of their deeds of grant. These original grantees have done up their lands with desperate tenacity, in the hope that some day their value will be more than nominal. The idea that the best portions of the colony are in the hands of a few great unimproving proprietors, has been one reason why emigrants have turned away from it. (pp. 773-774)

Discarding the merits or the demerits of the scheme, William Locke Brockman certainly started life in the Colony on a very sound basis. He brought with him three point rails, 48 geese, seven, many horses, cows, pigs, poultry and two dogs apart from farm machinery, tools etc. (CMEI, 1979). Among the servants who accompanied the Brockman family figure such names as:

Harrison Brodhead	age 27	labourer
George Brodhead	27	carpenter
William Baker	28	labourer
his wife Charlotte	24
William Burn	20	bricklayer
Richard Burn	24	labourer
Charlotte Robert	19	servant

WILLIAM LOCKE BROCKMAN IN THE NEW SWAN RIVER COLONY:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_Locke_Brockman

He established himself as a pastoralist and wheat grower in the Upper Swan district. He named his grant Herne Hill, and this name survives today as the name of the Perth suburb of Herne Hill. He was a foundation member of the Swan Agricultural Society in 1831, and in 1833 became a Justice of the Peace. In 1837, he constructed a mill on his property. His success as a farmer prompted his wife's brother Edward Hamersley to immigrate. Hamersley arrived with his wife and son Edward in February 1837. He ultimately became a successful and wealthy pastoralist, and a member of the Western Australian Legislative Council, and the Hamersley family became one of the most prominent families in the colony.

Brockman became the original grantee of Location Nine, Herne Hill, Upper Swan.

Upon arrival to the new colony Charlotte was kept busy working as a maid to Mrs Brockman, assisting and helping, quickly settling into their prefabricated home and looking after Edmund, now a toddler. She took on more responsibility when on 28 Dec 1831 Mrs Brockman gave birth to a daughter the Brockmans' named Elizabeth. During the long voyage from England to the Swan River Colony Charlotte had become acquainted with Harrison Blechynden and his cousin George. As per the condition of them signing on to work for Mr Brockman for 4 years, she saw much of them as they helped set up the Brockman portable home. They helped cultivate Brockman's allocated claim and worked on putting in crops as soon as possible and looking after his pedigree horses and sheep.

Brockman's 4000 ha 'Herne Hill' property was destroyed by fire in 1832 and Brockman received a gift of 500 pounds from an English relative which he used to redevelop 'Herne Hill' including the construction of a large brick home.

Working on building this new home would have kept both Harrison and George very busy. One can imagine that Charlotte often brought them their lunch and morning and afternoon tea. John Septimus Roe and George Fletcher Moore played a prominent part in the exploration and surveying of the Swan River and further inland.

JOHN SEPTIMUS ROE: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/John_Septimus_Roe

*Following the arrival of the Parmelia at the Swan River on 1 Jun 1829, Roe immediately set about making preliminary surveys of the harbour, river and surrounding land. The sites of Perth and Fremantle were chosen on his recommendation, and he was responsible for laying out the towns. During this period, Roe had only a single assistant to help him. John Septimus Roe conducted numerous exploring expeditions between 1829 and 1849.*

BIOGRAPHY OF GEORGE FLETCHER MOORE (1798-1886): <http://adb.anu.edu.au/biography/moore-george-fletcher-2474>

. . . . Moore's observant nature and keen interest in the colony's progress found still another outlet for his abounding energy in exploration. He traced the course of the Swan River to its junction with the Avon. In 1831 he accompanied Ensign Dale to the York district, previously unseen by Europeans. In 1835 Moore went northwards and in May 1836 reached the river named after him. Later in the same year, with the Colonial Secretary, Peter Broun, and George Leake, he crossed grazing and agricultural land east and north of Northam. As a result of Lieutenant George Grey's reports of his 1839 expedition Moore was sent to examine the coastal district round Champion Bay and Point Moore (also named after him). His report was favourable but it was not till a more intensive search by the brothers Gregory in 1846 that this rich district began European development. . . .

Church Office, Perth, – Blechynden Harrison and Robus Charlotte - Marriage 3. 3. 1832.

Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden's first child, John Blechynden, was born in Perth, 14 Mar 1833. He was baptised 28 Apr 1833. Another child named George Blechynden has been recorded as being born and died in March 1833. It is possible he was a twin to John. I have not been able to verify this on visits to the State Records office.

Birth, deaths and marriage records: prior to 1841, were initially recorded by the governor in papers forwarded to England and early censuses.

<https://archive.sro.wa.gov.au/index.php/indexes-birth-death-and-marriage-registration-s4079>

The Registry Office was established in 1841 with a Registrar General as its chief officer, to administer the requirements of the Act to register births, deaths and marriages in WA.

In 1833, Harrison was reported to have supplied meat of fine quality to the Perth market.

The Christmas beef brought into the market by Blechynden was particularly fine, and the flavour of the meat equal to any we ever tasted - a convincing proof, where due care and attention are bestowed, we are not behind hand with the most favoured countries for the means derived from our natural resources of providing for our wants. The where-with-all to supply the artificial representative of this concealed wealth, we must admit, is sadly deficient, and the roasted sirloin "smokes upon the board" but seldom. We do hope, before long, to be enabled to indulge ourselves more frequently without being reflected upon as extravagant; alas! too true a charge against those who daily grace their board with a joint of fresh meat at 1s. 6d per lb.

By 1935 Harrison and George Blechynden had completed their indenture with William Locke Brockman. After those four years the Blechyndens were, "free to be gentlemen, take up land of their own and make their own way in the colony."

Battye Library sources state Harrison Blechynden was indentured as a carpenter. According to the 1837 Census he worked as a carpenter in the Perth district and he and cousin George worked on the Brockman's home. (More details re Harrison and George and their early days in the Colony following.)

It appears that his father John Blechynden was far from happy, leading up to and following Harrison Blechynden's emigration from Kent in England to the Swan River Colony. A family source has indicated that Harrison may have caused trouble for himself when it was said he rode a horse into a bar. Perhaps this was what led to his emigration to the Swan River Colony. I guess we will never know as this of course is hearsay.

MEMORIES AND CONTEMPLATION Via Jill Feutrill (nee Blechynden):

Many years later, Jill Blechynden, a great-great granddaughter of Harrison Blechynden, was working as a young journalist in Busselton. One of her special memories is of an interview with a Mr and Mrs Brockman, a retired couple who were celebrating an important occasion. Mr Brockman was a descendant of William Locke Brockman who came to the colony of WA in 1830 on the ship Minstrel.

When Jill introduced herself, she was greeted warmly as a descendant of Harrison Blechynden who arrived in the colony under the auspices of W.L. Brockman on the same ship.

The Brockman's made particular mention of it being passed down that Harrison's father John Blechynden accompanied his son and Harrison's cousin George to the ship and asked of W.L.

Brockman to 'Look after the lads.'

Jill commented: "I had heard this story before as it was passed down in the Blechynden family too, but it was very nice to hear it again from this charming couple. The stories also go to show that Harrison and his father parted on good terms."

During the telling of their story Mr and Mrs Brockman also proudly pointed out to Jill a painting over their sitting room fireplace and recounted how the painting represented 'Herne Hill,' the homestead of W.L. Brockman that Harrison and George had helped build.

In reference to the painting of the Herne Hill homestead: W.L. Brockman brought out a prefabricated house where the family lived until it was destroyed by fire. Another home was then constructed of brick and I think that would be the one in the painting. In any case, it stands to reason Harrison and George would have worked on the erection of the prefab and the construction of the brick home.

Jill continued: Ruth Johnston, the author of the book W.L. Brockman A Portrait, refers on pg 20 of the book to the paucity of conditions and shortages of food in the colony:

'Food in the Colony was ...disastrously short and to alleviate the situation the authorities collected all the remaining food, stored it and supplied it to willing settlers on credit...Brockman himself made use of the available service as shown in a letter by him to the Colonial Secretary:

16th Sept. 1830 (CSR/8/184)

"Dear. Sir,

I shall feel obliged by your giving my foreman Harrison Blechynden who is a bearer of this order for four cwt of flour, the remaining six cwt I will try an early opportunity applying for.

*I am Sir, Yours faithfully,
W. L. Brockman Herne Hill*

More comments via Jill:

I find it interesting that as early as September 1830 W. L. Brockman was referring to Harrison Blechynden as his foreman. Re the bit in brackets in Brockman's letter: It might be a reference number included by the author as a source reference but not included by Brockman in his letter.

On pg 8 of her book Ruth Johnston notes: '... Among the servants who accompanied the Brockman family figure such names as: Harrison Blechynden, age 27, labourer; George Blechynden, age 27, carpenter; William Baker, age 28, labourer; his wife Charlotte, age 24; William Burt, age 20, bricklayer; Richard Burt, age 24, labourer; Charlotte Robrel (Robus), age 19, servant.

In W.L. Brockman A Portrait pg 9 refers to wages and conditions re those employed by the early settlers. One paragraph refers to W. L. Brockman advancing passage money for his would-be servants and paying them £10 for the first year of service, and £40 for the second and third year. But it seems the servants received no pay at all since the master kept the pay as instalments toward their passage for which he had originally paid.'

Harrison's father, John Blechynden, farmer, of the parish of Bonnington in the county of Kent made a will on 23/9/1834, which was proved on 5/9/1835, leaving his real and personal estate to his wife Sarah Blechynden and his friend George Boys of Sellinge. Harrison's sisters Matilda Blanch and Emily Grace received the balance of Trust monies and Harrison received five pounds. Any hope of substantially improving Harrison's financial position through his father's will was lost.

Comment via Lindsay Adams about the Drake-Brockman family:

My grandfather Frank once commented (this was way back when I was about 10) that the Drake-Brockman family, who had members living in Albany at the time, had played a significant and positive role in our family's past. He obviously held them in very high regard.

One can imagine how thrilled and excited Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden must have felt. Their dreams of owning their own allotment, starting a business and bringing up a family in this new colony were becoming a reality.

SWAN RIVER COLONY PRE – 1850:

<http://fremantleprison.com.au/history-heritage/history/swan-river-colony-pre-1850/>

During the first year of settlement the Swan River Colony struggled on a number of fronts. Initially too many people arrived too quickly, and then there were too few. Soon the population began to decline as disheartened settlers left for the eastern colonies. Between 1833 and 1834, twelve ships carried 1358 passengers away from the colony, leaving a total population in the Swan River settlements of less than 1400.

LOSS OF LAND GRANT: Having completed his indenture with William Locke Brockman and setting up his business as a butcher, Harrison Blechynden found that running his business was fraught with difficulty. One can surmise that he found himself in financial trouble with many prominent settlers leaving the colony, perhaps not following up on their contracts. As a result, he lost Perth Town Location E3.

In her book 'To Be Heirs Forever', author Mary Durack writes about the financial hardships of the early Western Australian colonists and how a state of indebtedness was so common in the colony that no social stigma seemed to pertain. A constant lack of cash resulted in produce being accepted in exchange for goods and the use of bills of exchange. The system helped the colony to survive, but as the author says:

"... difficulties inevitably arose and Will Shaw for one had his full share of them. In 1835 he was brought to court by two men wishing to clear up their affairs before leaving the colony, who demanded he immediately honour their bills of exchange. One plaintiff sued him for £10 10s od, being the value of a cask of pork, the other £55 for other goods. Shaw in answer to the challenge, had proffered bills made out to himself by one Harrison Blechynden. These were accepted by the plaintiffs, but when Blechynden was not able to meet them, they were immediately returned to Shaw. When he failed to respond within a week he was summonsed and ordered to find the sum owing, plus interest."

The outcome of the above incident seems unfair to Shaw but of course it was not Harrison's fault – he may well have been waiting payment himself for a bill of exchange made out to him by someone else; it just shows how difficult life was then for the colonists. Perhaps this was why Harrison lost his Location E3 grant?

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of "The Perth Gazette"

Sir,-I feel assured it is your intention to do justice in reporting all cases tried in our Civil Court, and conceiving you are laboring under an error in your report upon the action of Mason v. Shaw, in stating that Harrison Blechynden, 'the drawer and acceptor of his dishonored bill, was called upon by defendant, with the professed object of proving that the plaintiff received the bill as a cash payment, and of the witness proving contrary.' - the defendant, the drawer of the bill, called upon the acceptor to prove a payment of 4l. upon the bill, and also to prove the indulgence of time given to the acceptor by plaintiff of nearly four months, instead of one, thereby depriving the defendant of adopting due means to enforce payment of a just debt, contracted by the acceptor to supply His Majesty's troops and the Civil Establishment with fresh meat.

This action was, as you have stated, not tried upon the validity of the bill given in consideration of goods delivered, but upon the invoice of goods sold, as if no consideration had been given, which, by some authority unknown to Defendant's Solicitor, he was cast.

A bill in England at a month's date is considered case with merchants.

In the case of Sherwin v. Shaw, the Court was swayed by the opinion of Mr. G. Leake, upon the reasonable time a notice ought to be served on defendant, the acceptor dishonoring his bill at ten days' sight, dated the 1st of April, for 55l, and accepted on the 3d.

It is therefore with much deference I conceive neither the learned Commissioner nor Mr. Leake considered the case in its true and lawful bearings, -namely, that the plaintiff is allowed by law to deliberate seven days before he attempts to advise the drawer of the acceptor's dishonoring the same. Though the bill is drawn in plaintiff's favor, had the letter of advice borne date the 13th or 16th of April instead of the 23d of April, the day it was sent from Fremantle, the liability of the defendant would have been obvious.

The letter of advice was only four days on the road, which was acknowledged and answered on the 27th, although sent by a casual boat.

The acceptor, Blechynden, was solvent when the bill in question became due.

I therefore still contend that due diligence was not used by the plaintiff, and that our Civil Court ought to be governed by the law of the Mother Country, and not upon any innovation, opinion usage, or custom of a Colony, whose infancy is scarcely established.

I am, Mr. Editor,
Your most obedient Servant,

ACCIDENTAL DEATH ENQUIRY

Inquiry into the cause of the death of George Eyre, of Perth, fisherman.

Before W. H. Mackie Esq, the Hon. P. Brown, Esq, the Rev. J. B. Wittenoom, J Lewis J. R. Phillips, and H. R. Bland, Enquires, Justices of the Peace.

William Leeder, of Perth, publican, being called, deposed—The night before last (5th Nov.) the deceased (George Eyre) and Rewell were at my tavern. Eyre had two glasses of grog at the bar, and asked me for a third, which I refused, because his wife had often requested my wife not to let him have grog on credit. He went into the parlour, where Rewell was sitting. I was in and out at different times but did not attend to what was going on. All who were there appeared to be "chaffing" with one another in a good-humoured way. I saw no symptoms of a quarrel. I saw him and Rewell come out of the parlour together, at the bar, and heard Rewell ask Eyre to take a glass of grog in a friendly manner. Eyre said something to the effect, that they would have but few glasses together, because Rewell was too fond of his "chaffing." They then almost immediately went out together; but there was no covered with mud. Eyre had blood on his face. In my opinion, from their appearance, they must have had a great deal of scuffling together. When I saw them together, before Mr. Habgood's house, it was between ten and eleven o'clock.

Hannah Leeder, wife of William Leeder, aforesaid, deposed to the same effect as the evidence given by her husband.

Thomas Clayer, boatman, sworn—The night before last Rewell and I went together to Leeder's, and went into the parlour, where we found Mr. Chapman, Hunt, S. Knight, and the deceased, Eyre. Hunt and Eyre were talking, as we entered, about a net Rewell said, "Is that the mullet net?" They all talked together and seemed to be joking about the net. Mr. Chapman proposed a song, and several songs were sung. Eyre sang the first song, but could not get through it, because he forgot the words; he appeared sober, but was merry. I did not see any person give him liquor in the parlour. Eyre and Rewell left the parlour about the same time, seemingly good friends with each other. Shortly afterwards I aroused Hunt, who was sleeping: Hunt went down the hill, towards the river, for his horse. I stood waiting for him at the front door, talking with Gordon. We heard a noise as if some people were fighting, near the palings in front of Mr. Habgood's house. I, at the same time, saw Hunt riding his horse up the hill, and found Eyre and Rewell together, along with Hunt and Blechynden. I said to Rewell, "Halloo, George! have you been fighting?" for I saw a mark of blood on his shoulder. Rewell appeared much agitated, and in a passion, and said, "that wretch, pointing to Eyre, who was lying on the ground, has got me here, and began fighting me." Blechynden pacified Rewell and drew him away home. I and Gordon assisted Eyre to rise. Eyre complained that he had received a violent blow on his navel, and said he was very much injured. He repeatedly said, as we walked with him home, "Oh my navel! Oh, my navel!" I supposed he had got it in fighting. I got him to his own door, which his wife opened, and he immediately fell, head foremost, into the room. I thought at the time that Eyre had received a serious injury, because he could not walk upright, but doubled up, with his hand constantly on his navel. Not more than 7 or 8 minutes had elapsed between my seeing Eyre and Rewell go out of the parlour and my after-wards seeing Eyre on the ground opposite Mr. Habgood's.

Mr. Joseph Harris, being sworn, deposed — I was called yesterday forenoon about half-past nine o'clock, to attend the deceased, who was complaining of a violent pain in his bowels. I saw him shortly afterwards. He said he had received a blow on his left side. I examined it and found it very sensitive. I told him he must be bled; he objected to this, as he had been told in England that if ever he was bled, he would die. I had occasion to go up the river on the same day, and as his wife said that Dr Davidson had attended the family, I requested that gentleman to attend the deceased during my absence. Dr. Davidson has informed me that he applied leeches and had also bled the deceased. The deceased told me that the blow was inflicted by a fist, and named the person who gave him the blow, but I do not recollect his name. He said he had been provoked to quarrel in consequence of having been annoyed about an invoice. He did not complain to me of any other blow than the one on his left side. On examining his left side, there was an external mark of a blow visible; but the spot where he complained that he felt pain most was a little to the left of his navel. He did not complain of any foul blows or unfair fighting. This morning I examined the body of the deceased along with Dr. Davidson. The bowels appeared to be generally inflamed, particularly at the before-mentioned spot to the left of his navel. The omentum and peritoneal coat both shewed marks of injury. I found the bowels ruptured in one place, — the spot before mentioned, a little to the left of the navel, — and a considerable effusion of Eyre and Rewell. Rewell was making use of very bad words, and appeared to be very much exasperated about something that had taken place. I heard Rewell say "You have called me down here to fight, and you shall fight,"—and I then heard several heavy blows. I heard Eyre (but whether after or before the blows I do not recollect) offer to shake hands with Rewell. Rewell said, "Never, after what has taken place." It was moonlight, but in a spot shaded by trees, and at one time Eyre appeared to me to be down on the ground, near a sunk tub, with water in it. I heard Rewell say, "Well, with all, I will help you;" but Rewell used some oaths at the same time against Eyre, calling him a bloody villain. I saw Rewell raise him; after that, I saw them fighting and scuffling together. I thought of going over to part them; but at that time Hunt came up, and several other parties. I then went in doors. Before Hunt came up I did not hear Eyre complain of any hurt or harm. The tub has about a foot of it above the ground, and is very rough at the top.

William Jones, of Perth, aforesaid, domestic servant, being sworn, deposed—The night before last I heard a row in front of my master's house. I went out, and saw Eyre and Rewell fighting. I saw Eyre stoop down and throw Rewell twice. I went nearer to them. Rewell came towards me and asked who I was, and what business I had there. I walked off a little way; I then saw Eyre throw Rewell a third time; Eyre fell along with Rewell quite close to the lower side of the tub: he might have fallen on it, for what I know. I saw Eyre rise afterwards, and saw Rewell strike him in the face, and Eyre stoop down, as if nearly falling down, and he stood for a minute or so, and then did fall. I heard Rewell use some bad language to Eyre. I heard Eyre ask Rewell to shake hands. Rewell refused. I was quite near enough to see their persons, and to know them. I did not hear Eyre complain of any harm. When Eyre threw Rewell the third time, and fell, he (Eyre) raised himself so far as if sitting, and then asked Rewell to help him up—and Rewell did so. Eyre asked for help, in a way as if he had been hurt, and stooped as if he could not stand upright. I am quite sure that up to that time, Rewell did not strike Eyre.

Mr. J. Harris re examined, deposed— I have examined the tub referred to by the witnesses, and pointed out to me by the witness Robert Habgood. One of the staves has the corner of its top broken off—a piece about three inches long and an inch and a half deep, which is still attached to the other portion of the broken staff. It is my opinion, that if the deceased had fallen with his face towards the tub, and with the front part of his body, upon the staff in question, such a fall was very likely to have caused the injury, and rupture of the bowels, which he received. If I had been asked, after first having seen the deceased, whether, in my opinion, the blow of a fist, or a fall on a staff or paling, was the most likely to have caused the deceased's injury, I should have stated that the fall on a staff or paling was the most likely to have produced such an injury. Between the broken staff I allude to and the next entire staff, there is a space of about twelve inches, within the tops of the intervening staves, are broken down to the first iron hoops, and sufficient to have admitted the side of the deceased in his fall.

The Justices present were of opinion that the deceased met with his death accidentally.

serum had taken place, which I consider quite sufficient to have caused his death. I attribute his death to the rupture of his bowels. Even if the inflammation had subsided, he must have died from the rupture; even if surgical aid had been called in immediately, the deceased could not have been saved. The blow of a fist might undoubtedly, if violent, have produced the rupture of the bowels, without leaving any external mark so soon after the accident, but in my opinion such an injury, in the deceased's case, was more likely to have been occasioned by his falling on a pointed but blunt object, like the top of a wooden paling.

George Rewell, being asked if he had anything to say in answer to the above depositions, stated as follows: — All that the witnesses have said as to what took place between me and the deceased up to the time of our leaving Leeder's, is quite correct. When he called me out of the house, I went out, and said to him, just outside the front door, "Now what is it?" He said he had something very particular to say to me and asked me to go down to the waterside. I asked him why he could not as well say it where we were, as by the waterside. He caught hold of my arm in a friendly way, as I thought; I again asked him why he could not speak at once. He said, "No, we must go down to the waterside." We walked several yards down the road leading to the river, in front of Mr. Habgood's. When we had got in front of Mr. Habgood's house, I refused to go any further. He said he intended to give me a good threshing — I asked what for. He said because I had been so fond of my "chaff." I said, "Surely, Mr. Eyre, you are dreaming: you are not serious?" He said no I am not, and instantly pushed, his head against my body, as I was standing with my hands in my pocket, and caught hold of my legs with his arms, and threw me backwards to the ground, and got upon me and held me down. I asked him what he meant to do with me — whether he meant to use violence to me, or not. He said, "No, he did not mean me any mischief," — and then let me go. We got up, and I asked him his reason for what he had done. He said he would serve me so again, and immediately threw me in a pool of water, in a tub sunk in the ground. He fell with me, and on me. We both fell close to the tub. I again asked him what he meant, and I got irritated. He let go of me, and we got up again. I asked him whether that was the way he meant to pay his debts or settle his accounts. He made a rush at me and caught hold of my left leg; but I was on my guard, and though he brought me down, I twisted round so that he did not fall on me but fell into the water himself. I fell with my left arm over the tub — and, to the best of my belief, he must have fallen on the tub. We got up again. He said he had thrown me three times and considered himself the better man. I told him if he tried it again, I would knock him down. He again came towards me, and supposing that he meant to throw me again, I struck him in the face, believing it was necessary for my self-defence, and he fell on the road, where he lay when Hunt came up on horseback. I never struck the deceased or lifted my hand to him but once, when I struck him on the face. During the scuffle, I saw someone come near us, and I said to the person "Come here;" but the person went away. The whole scuffle from the first time he threw me, to his being knocked down by me, was from five to ten minutes.

Robert Habgood, of Perth, aforesaid, merchant, being sworn, deposed — About ten o'clock the night before last, I was returning home, when I heard a scuffling just opposite my house, as if some persons were fighting. I listened, and distinctly heard voices, which I knew to be those of Eyre and Rewell. Rewell was making use of very bad words and appeared to be very much exasperated about something that had taken place. I heard Rewell say "You have called me down here to fight, and you shall fight," — and I then heard several heavy blows. I heard Eyre (but whether after or before the blows I do not recollect) offer to shake hands with Rewell. Rewell said, "Never, after what has taken place." The fledgling colony began to come to life. The Leeder's Hotel was close to where Harrison and Charlotte were to settle in the future. The name of William Leeder comes up in a number of newspaper articles, associated with Harrison, following.

PALACE HOTEL FORMERLY LEEDER'S HOTEL, <http://www.lifeonperth.com/oldpalacehotelperth.htm>

WILLIAM HENRY LEEDER was an early settler in the Swan River Colony, via the Rockingham. He was granted a parcel of land that now includes the suburb of Leederville, which was named after him. Leeder arrived in the Swan River Colony in 1830. He was the proprietor of Leeder's Hotel on the corner of St George's Terrace and William Street (the site of what is now the Palace Hotel) from 1831 until his death in March 1845.

The Freemason's Tavern in 1870, formerly King's Head Hotel, and Leeder's Hotel, see link to article above.

Harrison was going through a difficult time. People were leaving the Colony in droves. Surmising: He must have been very disheartened following the court case, Blechynden versus Shaw, Sat 8 Aug 1835. The following article in Nov 1836 shows he was thinking of leaving the Colony.

the Colony by the first opportunity. All persons indebted to them are requested to settle their respective accounts without delay.

Assuming this was Harrison and not his cousin George Blechynden, Harrison did not leave. In 1839 Harrison Blechynden was earning his living as a butcher and continued working hard at his business, trying to make ends meet.

The following is another article which records an incident in 1839, in which Harrison Blechynden was involved. It gives a colourful presentation of the life and people in the area. It is even more interesting that Caroline Porley, the daughter of Thomas Porley (in this article), following the death of her first husband, married William Dunham. Two of their daughters, Annie Maria and Emma Sarah later married two of Harrison Blechynden's sons, Thomas Harrison and Jesse William.

FATAL ACCIDENT THOMAS PORLEY 1799 – 1839

ACCIDENTAL DEATH:

Thomas Porley died last night from an accidental blow received in a squabble with some of the whalers belonging to the Elizabeth whaling ship. An inquiry will most probably be instituted into the circumstances of this occurrence, when we shall make a point of giving the full particulars.*

Since writing the foregoing, we have heard that an inquiry took place this morning, before the sitting Magistrates of Perth, when the person who struck Porley was fully relieved from any guilty intention to injure the deceased, he having acted in self-defence.

INQUIRY INTO THE CIRCUMSTANCES ATTENDING THE DEATH OF THOMAS PORLEY.

Before W. H. Mackie, Esq, Rev. J. Wittenoom, and Hon. P. Brown, George Leake and John Lewis Esquires, Justices of the Peace. On 11 May 1839.

Mr W. Leeder, being sworn, deposed- Shortly after 6 O'clock this evening, Porley left my yard after assisting Harrison Blechynden to kill a pig for me. I heard his voice shortly afterwards in dispute with some other person near Mr Habgood's, and expecting they were going to fight I went down to the spot, intending to have got Porley home, as he was not sober when he left my yard. FATAL ACCIDENT.

INQUIRY INTO THE CIRCUMSTANCES ATTENDING THE DEATH OF THOMAS PORLEY.

Before W. H. Mackie, Esq., Rev. J. Wittenoom, and Hon. P. Brown, George Leake, and John Lewis, Esquires, Justices of the Peace, on the 11th of May, 1859.

Mr. W. Leeder, being sworn, deposed—Shortly after six o'clock this evening, Porley left my yard, after assisting Harrison Blechynden to kill a pig for me. I heard his voice shortly afterwards in dispute with some other person near Mr. Habgood's, and, expecting they were going to fight, I went down to the spot, intending to have got Porley home, as he was not sober when he left my yard. When I got down into the street opposite Mr. Habgood's I saw Porley, and a man of colour attempting to strike at him, and then to get out of his way, as if skylarking—it was more like that than a fight. He struck Porley two or three times, and ran down the cross pathway in front of Mr. Habgood's. Porley followed him down the pathway about two-thirds of the way, and then stopped, and came back again towards Mr. Habgood's. While Porley was doing so, a white lad, who stood at the top of the path near Mr. Habgood's, called out to the black man, "Come along, Harry, the mate wants you." Porley then turned round upon the white lad, and said, "What have you to do with Harry?" and immediately struck the white lad. Immediately a tall, big man, whose name I understand to be Stillaman, ran out from Mr. Habgood's fence and pulled off his jacket, saying, "Oh! you have struck my brother." He said some other words of a threatening kind, which I did not distinctly hear. I tried to stop him. He put himself in a fighting attitude, and said he would give it to me, if I did not get out of the way, or words to that effect. He ran towards Porley; Blechynden came between them and tried to stop Stillaman, shoved him aside, telling him to get out of the way. Stillaman immediately closed with Porley, who received him in an attitude of defence. I did not see whether Porley struck any blows; I saw Stillaman strike Porley one blow; they both fell almost immediately after they closed; they rolled over each other; I think Porley was undermost at first; I did not see Stillaman strike him while he was down. As soon as Stillaman rose, he took his jacket, and as he was going into Mr. Habgood's, he said, "I thought you would get my temper up." They fell on the pathway close to Mr. Habgood's front fence; I was about five or six yards off when they fell. I saw Porley carried away by Blechynden and John Dudley. I did not hear Porley speak after he rose. Porley was the worse for liquor, but he was not so far gone but that he could have walked home.

Cross-examined by the prisoner.—Porley has been addicted to liquor. I did not see him strike.

By the Court.—The blow which Stillaman gave Porley seemed to fall about the breast or neck, but I cannot say which. I cannot say whether he fell on his back or side. They both fell down together. I saw no more than one round. The whole fight was over in two minutes. I did not suppose Porley was dead when he was carried home. He was not in a quarrelsome temper while at my house. He had half a bottle of beer and a glass of rum.

Mr. Harrison Blechynden, butcher, who was employed by the previous witness on the evening the accident occurred to kill a pig, with the assistance of the deceased, confirmed the witness' testimony. The deceased had been known to him since he had been in the Colony, and was often quarrelsome when in liquor, and was much addicted to drink. He was quite sure Porley did not fall from any blow, but from a struggle after Stillaman and deceased closed.

Mr. John Habgood—About six o'clock into the street opposite Mr Habgood's, I saw Porley, and a man of colour attempting to strike at him, and then to get out of his way, as if skylarking— it was more like that than a fight. He struck Porley two or three times, and then ran down the cross pathway in front of Mr Habgoods. Porley followed him down the pathway, about two thirds of the way, and then stopped and came back again towards Mr Habgood's. While Porley was doing so, a white lad, who stood at the top of the cross pathway in front of Mr Habgoods, called out to the Black man, "come along Harry the mate wants you", Porley then turned around upon the white lad and said, "What have you to do with Harry?" and immediately struck the white lad. Immediately a tall big man, whose name I understand to be Stillaman, ran from Mr Habgoods fence, and pulled off his jacket, saying, "Oh! You have struck my brother". He said some other words of a threatening kind, which I did not distinctly hear. I tried to stop him, he put himself in a fighting attitude, and said he would give it to me, if I did not get out of the way, or words to that effect. He ran towards Porley; Blechynden came between them, trying to stop Stillaman, shoved him aside, telling him to get out of the way. Stillaman immediately closed with Porley, who received him in an attitude of defence.

I did not see whether Porley struck any blows; I saw Stillaman strike Porley one blow; they both fell almost immediately after they closed; they rolled over each other; I think Porley was undermost at first; I did not see Stillaman strike while he was down, as soon as Stillaman rose, he took his jacket, and as he was going into Mr Habgoods, he said, "I thought you would get my temper up" They fell on the pathway close to Mr Habgood's front fence; I was about five or six yards off when they fell. I saw Porley carried away by Blechynden and John Dudley. I did not hear Porley speak after he rose. Porley was the worse for liquor, but he was not so far gone but that he could have walked home.

Crossed Examined by the Prisoner — Porley has been addicted to liquor. I did not see him strike.

By The Court — The blow which Stillaman gave Porley, seemed to fall about the breast or the neck, but I cannot say which, I cannot say whether he fell on his back or his side. They both fell down together; I saw no more than one round. The whole fight was over in two minutes, I did not suppose Porley was dead when he was carried home. The deceased had been known to him since he had been in the Colony, and was often quarrelsome when in liquor, and was much addicted to drink. He was quite sure Porley did not fall from any blow, but from a struggle after Stillaman and deceased closed.

Mr John Habgood— About 6 O'clock yesterday evening, at dusk, I was in my store, and heard some persons outside Quarrelling outside in the street, I went out and heard Porley say to Stillaman, "You leave me alone! What business have you to push up against me?" Stillaman said, "You d ----Sutherland

Mr. John Habgood.—About six o'clock yesterday evening, at dusk, I was in my store, and heard some persons quarrelling outside in the street. I went out, and heard Porley say to Stillaman, "You leave me alone! what business have you to push up against me?" Stillaman said, "You d—d old thief, I never touched you." Porley squared up to Stillaman, and hit him in the eye. I saw no blow struck by Stillaman, who immediately came into my shop, and said he had been hurt a little. Porley continued quarrelling outside the house, and I went out and told the persons there to take him away, for he was not in a fit state to be left fighting. I returned, and while putting up the things Stillaman had ordered, he ran out, took off his coat, and struck Porley several times very hard, who was not so drunk but he could stand, but I could see he had enough, and had no chance with Stillaman.

James Crichton, Esq., Colonial Surgeon.—I have this morning examined the body of the deceased (Thomas Porley.) There is no external mark of any blow. I opened the skull, and on separating the scalp from the skull, there was an effusion of blood on the back part of the head. I found an effusion of blood between the dura-mater and the skull, on the inside of the back part of the skull, between the skull and the membrane of the brain. On taking off the membrane, I found still further effusion between it and the brain itself. On cutting into the brain, the internal and superficial vessels appeared very much enlarged. All these symptoms clearly show that the deceased died of a concussion of the brain, which must have been the result of a fall, and not of a blow. Habitual intoxication would occasion an enlargement of the vessels, but not to the extent now visible in the deceased's brain. His brain exhibited marks of old injuries, apparently from falls. A slight concussion of the brain might prove fatal to a person addicted to habitual intoxication. There was no mark of blows about his head, neck, or chest. The state of the deceased's brain was such as to cause sudden death, and the effects of such injuries would be greatly increased by intoxication at the time of receiving them.

William Sholl, Esq., Surgeon, assisted Dr. Crichton to open the body of the deceased, and concurred in the report made by him in every respect.

The prisoner, Thomas Stillaman, headsman of the whaling schooner Elizabeth, made the following statement in his defence:—Yesterday evening I and Robert Lakin were going towards Mr. Habgood's from Mr. Samson's, when we fell in with the deceased near Mr. Habgood's. I bid him good evening, and asked him how himself and his daughter were. He murmured something like "What the h—l is that to you," and I and Mr. Lakin walked on. I partly said to Mr. Lakin the old man has got a fine daughter—I had not got the words out of my mouth, when Porley ran after me and slewed me round. I told him to go home; I did not want any row with him. He insisted on fighting with me, and struck me on the cheek, under my eye. I said, "You d—d old thief, if it was not for your old age, I would shake you out of your shoes," and I went into Mr. Habgood's. I had not been in long before Porley began scuffling with the man of colour now in Court (Harry Lambeth.) He ran after Lambeth across the road, and as he was coming back, the mate (Mr. Lakin) sang out for Harry Lambeth, and my brother Samuel, who was standing just outside Mr. Habgood's fence, repeated the call. Porley came up to him, and said to him, "What have you to do with Harry?" and knocked off his hat, and struck him three or four severe blows. I ran out immediately, saying to Porley, "You have struck me, and I took no notice of it, but now you have struck my brother, I must return it. I closed with him, and he fell—and Blechyn den came between us. Porley seemed still inclined for fighting, and butted his head against my belly, saying, "Down you go, you b—r." I fell backwards, and he on the top of me, and rolled over on the clay, and I over him. I do not think I hit him a blow the second scuffle; if I did, it must have been a slight back blow.

Mr. Robert Lakin, mate of the Elizabeth, corroborated this statement, and it was further confirmed by the evidence of John Dudley, G. Glyde, Henry Lambeth, and Samuel Stillaman, the prisoner's brother.

The Magistrates, after conferring together for a short time, gave it as their opinion that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant them in committing the aforesaid Thomas Stillaman to take his trial for the manslaughter of the aforesaid Thomas Porley.

William Sholl, Esq. Surgeon assisted Dr. Crichton to open the body, and concurred in the report made by him in every respect.

The Prisoner, Thomas Stillaman, Headsman of the Whaling Schooner Elizabeth, made the following statement in his defence:— Yesterday evening I and Robert Lakin were going towards Mr. Habgood's from Mr. Samson's, when we fell in with the deceased near Mr. Habgood's, I bid him good evening, and asked him how he and his daughter were (Caroline?), he murmured something like "What the H---l is that to do with you," and I and Mr. Larkin walked on, I partly said to Mr. Larkin, the old man has got a fine daughter – I had not got the words out of my mouth, when Porley ran after me and slewed me around. I told him to go home; I did not want any row with him. He insisted on fighting with me, and struck me on the cheek, under my eye. I said, "You - d---d old thief, if it was not for your age I would shake you out of your shoes," and I went into Mr. Habgood's. I had not been in long before Porley began scuffling with the man of colour, now in Court (Harry Lambeth). He ran after Lambeth across the road, and as he was coming back, the mate (Mr. Lakin) sang out for Harry Lambeth, and my brother Samuel, who was standing just outside Mr. Habgood's fence, repeated the call. Porley came up to him and said to him, "What have you to do with Harry?" and knocked off his hat, and struck him three or four severe blows. I ran out immediately, saying to Porley, "You have struck me, and I took no notice of it, but now you have struck my brother, I must return it, I closed with him and he fell – and Blechynden came between us. Porley seemed still inclined for fighting, and butted his head against my belly, saying "Down to go you b----r." I do not think I hit him a blow the second scuffle, if I did it must have been a slight back blow.

Mr Robert Lakin, mate of the Elizabeth, corroborated this statement, and it was further confirmed by the evidence of John Dudley, G. Glyde, Henry Lambeth, and Samuel Stillaman, the prisoner's brother.

The Magistrate's, after conferring together for a short time, gave it as their opinion, that the evidence was not enough to warrant them in committing the aforesaid Thomas Stillaman to take his trial for the Manslaughter of the aforesaid Thomas Porley.

Harrison Blechynden battled on, but unfortunately hard work was not enough. Their dreams as well as that of many others were to come crashing down when he lost his Allotment on 18 Nov 1840 due to non-payment of location dues.

The next section shows a number of newspaper articles explaining the almost impossible system for those with little finance, trying to set up in the Colony.

Unfortunately, we are situated in a very distant part of the Globe from England, and it is a long time before redress can be obtained. One great error committed in 1830 was the change in the Land Regulations, by which the system that induced labourers to Emigrate to Swan River, was altered IN TOTO. Instead of Free Grants of Town Allotments they must now be bought. This plan may work well, in Colonies within a few weeks' voyage of England, to which the tide of Emigration pours its strong body of waters. It may work well, in those Colonies where the necessaries of life are cheap and abundant; where Labour is in great demand, and the poor Man can purchase his Land out of the savings of his wages; It may work well in Penal Settlements, where there is a large Government Expenditure, and forced labour; but never in a new Colony, which enjoys no Government outlay (generally speaking,) and where the Inhabitants seem to be thrown upon their own resources. The best encouragement for the emigration of Labourers to Swan River, would be, the total abandonment of the New Land Regulations, and the resumption of the old plan of Free Grants of Land which ought to continue for some years.

Losing his allotment was very hard, but Harrison managed to keep working with his skills as a carpenter and butcher. There was an eight-year gap between their first child John and the next baby, a daughter. Perhaps Charlotte may have had a couple of miscarriages during this time. They must have been delighted when a daughter, Sarah Blechynden, was born in Perth on 3 Mar 1841. She was baptised in Perth on 28 Mar 1841.

After experiencing hard times and losing his block, Harrison and Charlotte looked to the future. With his close connections through Brockman, Harrison knew the explorations undertaken from Guildford up and beyond the surrounding hills. William Locke Brockman had made several expeditions to explore the country east of the Darling Scarp, the first with Ensign Robert Dale in 1830, discovering good pastoral land. One can surmise that Brockman could offer Harrison suggestions, advice and information on what was going on in the colony.

Census reports showed that the Blechyndens took their young family to Beverley in 1841 and, in 1843, initially leased 'Babbyalla' farm from E Hamersley between 1843 and 1849.

SCATTERED SETTLEMENT EAST OF THE RIVER.

THERE WAS "BABBYALLA" ABOUT 7 MILES OUT, THE GREATER PART OF THE PROPERTY WAS TAKEN UP BY THE LATE WILLIAM LOCKE BROCKMAN ABOUT 85 YEARS AGO. HE SUBSEQUENTLY SOLD TO HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW THE LATE EDW. HAMERSLEY OF "PYATON" GUILDFORD.

MR HAMERSLEY BOUGHT AN ADJOINING PROPERTY FROM MR TANNER (WHO HAD ACQUIRED IT, IT IS SAID FROM MR BARRETT LENNARD OF THE SWAN IN EXCHANGE FOR A MEDICINE CHEST) AND ADDED IT TO "BABBYALLA" THE WHOLE COMPRISING 4338 ACRES.

"BABBYALLA" WAS LEASED BY MR HARRISON BLECHYNDEN FOR ABOUT 44 YEARS. WHEN THE LATE BEVAN HAMERSLEY WHOSE FATHER HAD WILLED THE PROPERTY TO HIM FOR LIFE, CAME TO PRESIDE ON IT IN 1888. AT THE DEATH IN 1922 HIS SON MR F. B. HAMERSLEY INHERITED THE ESTATE. THE HOMESTEAD BLOCK AVON LOC. Q ('BABBYALLA' HILLS) IS NOW OWNED BY MRS E. A. HAMERSLEY.

"BABBYALLA" MEANS WATER STOP OR PERMANENT WATER.

IT WAS ON "BABBYALLA" THAT THE LATE HENRY BLECHYNDEN WAS BORN IN 1843. ON THE COMING OF BEVAN HAMERSLEY INTO HIS INHERITANCE MR BLECHYNDEN TOOK UP "ERINDALE". THIS PROPERTY PASSED INTO THE HANDS OF HIS SON ABOUT 1907.

Early Beverley

The following section shows the settlement of the colony was now progressing with expeditions and exploration progressing across the Darling Scarp and further inland. It has a brief description of a few of the major people concerned which led to Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden moving to the district of Beverley.

BEVERLEY Our journey through time
A History of the Shire of Beverley by
 Glen McLaren and William Cooper

This book which has been brilliantly and accurately researched and compiled telling the history of the Beverley district, has proven most helpful in working out the ownership and timeline concerning Harrison Blechynden and his children, who later themselves became pioneers of the South-West.

EARLY LOCATIONS AND ORIGINAL GRANTS - M I N Q –

pg.2 In early Aug 1830, therefore, Ensign Robert Dale of the 63rd Regiment was placed in charge of a small expedition, comprising himself, experienced Oxfordshire farmer William Lock Brockman, a soldier and a stockman assigned to take care for the two pack horses. Its task was to explore the country to the east of the Darling Scarp.” . . .

pg.3 A more comprehensive expedition followed in late October . . .

pg. 4 The country surrounding the Dale in the future shire of Beverley was in Hardy’s opinion, even better than that around the Avon. . . . In the spring of 1831, after leading a party to establish a Government Stock farm at York and blazing a trail through the Darling Range, Dale carried out a third and more comprehensive exploration of the region. . .

pg. 5 Dale’s and Harding’s findings were all that the would-be pastoralists in the Swan Valley required and, once the newly appointed York Acting Government Resident Captain Byrne, arrived in September with a small detachment of soldiers, settlers began making their way across the ranges to take up their grants in the district.

In this story we are mainly concerned with the properties of ‘St Aubyns’ and ‘Babbyella’ sic, ‘Babbyalla’.

pg. 14, 15 Barrett-Lennard was one of the very few early settlers who deserve the title of gentleman farmer. The fifth son of First Baron of Belhus, he spent most of his time in Western Australia on St Leonards, which was his 4,939-acre grant at Upper Swan. Historian J. S. Battye speaks in glowing terms of Barret-Lennard:

The core of Barrett-Lennard’s St Aubyns at Beverley, however, was not Location L, but Location M, which was one of that landed gentleman’s initial grants. In 1839 he added to it by purchasing Richard Isaac’s 1,106-acre property for £150, then acquiring a further 4,000 acres of adjoining land. The resultant 6,106-acre property, which surrounded Location M on three sides, was registered as MIN. The proprietor of St Leonards must have led quite a lonely life after 1848, when his wife and seven children returned to England. Only the eldest son ever returned to WA, to farm St Leonards. The development of St Aubyns was consequently entrusted to Barrett Lennard’s nephew Edmund who had accompanied him to WA in 1829. The area of that property was somewhat reduced in 1841, when the 1,598 acres from the southeastern corner were sold to William Tanner.

Tanner who was something of a land-jobber, also owned land in Wiltshire, England. Describing himself as an agriculturalist he brought with him into the Colony, 13 males and 10 females capable of working, seven children and goods valued at £2,797 12s. od. Through employing others to carry out the necessary location duties on his lands and by foreclosing the mortgages of several unsuccessful settlers.

pg.15. The area of that property M was somewhat reduced in 1841 when 1,598 acres from the southern eastern corner was sold to WILLIAM TANNER. Tanner became one of the largest owners in WA. He used remission certificates to acquire Locations Q, 24 and 28, which with the adjoining block purchased from Barrett Lennard in the following year, constituted the 4,338 - acre Babblyella (sic) estate. (More can be read about Tanner and his other property dealings).

TANNER, WILLIAM (1801-1845): William Tanner arrived on the Drummore on 1 Feb 1831 with his wife Hester, (nee Viveash) (1805-1846) and one male child. He was allowed to select 35,000 acres and took up locations in the Swan and Avon districts. He farmed on the Upper Swan at his property, 'Baskerville' estate'. The family left the colony on 14 Jan 1844, on the Napolean.

pg.16. In 1844, after returning to his Wiltshire estate, Tanner sold Goonderding and Babblyella (sic) to EDWARD HAMERSLEY.

'ST AUBYN'S'

BARRETT-LENNARD, EDWARD POMEROY (1799-1878):

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Edward_Pomeroy_Barrett-Lennard

23 Aug 1829 Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard arrived at the Swan River Colony on board the Marquis of Anglesea, bringing with him six servants and substantial assets including farm animals and equipment. He was allotted a relatively large grant of 2,906 acres (11.8 km²) and quickly established a property in the virgin bushland in the West Swan Area near Guildford which he named St Leonards. In December 1829, the Lieutenant-Governor, James Stirling appointed him, along with five other prominent settlers, a Justice of the Peace. Barrett-Lennard returned to England in 1836 where he married Elizabeth Frances Graham on 28 September 1837. They returned to WA on the Montreal on 2 May 1839 with their eldest child and Barrett-Lennard's 16-year-old nephew, EDMUND THOMAS BARRETT-LENNARD. The development of 'St Aubyns' was entrusted to his nephew Edmund Thomas Barrett-Lennard.

BOOK: EDWARD POMEROY BARRETT-LENNARD by D. Barrett Lennard:

pg.9 Edmund lived at St Leonards for a few years and then took over the management of St Aubyns for his uncle. For himself he selected a government block of 1,000 acres on the Dale River west of Beverley and finally left St Aubyns in 1854 to make his own way. EDMUND THOMAS HENRY BARRETT-LENNARD married ELIZABETH ANN SMITH (1833-1886) 'ELIZA', in 1854, Beverley, WA.) He subsequently enlarged his holding to 5,000 acres and founded a big farming family.

Note: You will see in various sections that the Smith and Broun families had much influence in properties the Blechynden's held.

EDWARD POMEROY BARRETT-LENNARD
by D. Barrett Lennard:

P.20 His Properties: By 1865, when Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard's fortunes were at their peak, he controlled nearly 30,000 acres in the Swan and Avon Valleys. Five freehold properties accounted for 16,106 acres, and he held 13,500 acres in the Beverley District under leasehold. Amongst Edward Pomeroy's freehold properties: Enrolment 170 – Avon Loc. M ('St Aubyns'). 3,286 acres.

P.21 St Leonards, along with St Aubyns was held under the 1837 marriage settlement for the children of Edward Pomeroy and Elizabeth, with Edward Pomeroy retaining the profits and rents. The marriage settlement was altered in 1868 to allow for Edward Graham, the only surviving son, to inherit St Leonards and St Aubyns. . . Edward Pomeroy obtained full control of St Leonards, Cossington Farm and St Aubyns only a few months before he died in 1888.

Between 1841-1842 Harrison, Charlotte, John and Sarah Blechynden moved to a property named 'St Aubyns' in the Beverley District. On 19 Mar 1842 Charlotte gave birth to Elizabeth 'Anne' Blechynden, on 'St Aubyns', Beverley. John was now, aged 9 years of age and Sarah just 12 months. Some idea of what John experienced at this time can be read in his own chapter.

SURMISING: Edmund Thomas Barrett-Lennard was aged 16 years when he arrived in WA in May 1839, with his Uncle Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard. Harrison Blechynden was well known to William Locke Brockman. Brockman and Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard were well known to one another both being JP's and occupying positions of importance within the new colony. Both had been allocated land in the Swan River and new Beverley district. Brockman had been involved in the initial explorations of the area. Edmund Pomeroy Barret-Lennard entrusted the development of his allocated property in the Beverley district to his nephew Edmund Barret-Lennard. There was no infrastructure in the Beverley district. There were no roads, no town, no facilities. 'St Aubyns' and 'Babbyalla' consisted of virgin bush.

An official survey of the Beverley district took place in 1843. The 1843 census recorded the population of WA as 3,842.

BEVERLEY our journey through time P. 21-27

This chapter tells the unfortunate and often tragic story of frequent skirmishes between the new settlers and the local Aborigines.

In common with almost all pioneers throughout Australia, for over a decade-and-a-half the earliest Beverley settlers and their neighbours in the north and south were in a state of armed conflict with the local Aboriginal Bardong people, who had a deep attachment to their country.

BEVERLEY Our journey through time: pg. 24

This article mentions that in 1837, barracks were established at the 'Dale' and at Turkey Cock Creek on 'St Aubyns'.

By July 1837, it was estimated that 23 white settlers had lost their lives. . . While Stirling could not countenance a vigilante force in a British Colony, he did strengthen the military force in the Avon Valley. More troops were stationed at York, a permanent post was established on the banks of the Dale River in the far south-eastern corner of Avondale and a detachment of the 21st fusiliers were also stationed on and off at Alldington. Subsequently barracks were established at John Mann's property at the Dale, aptly named The Barracks, and at Turkey Cock Creek on St Aubyns. Patrols were mounted from these barracks and at times the military also provided armed escorts across the Darling Range. In addition, the planned establishment of a prison for male Aboriginal offenders on Rottnest Island was . . .

Beverley Historical Society in reply to our query re the Barracks:

The Dale barracks were built about 1839 and were operational for only about 5 years till 1844. Known as the Dale Station the site consisted of two buildings. The first was the Military Post which consisted of an oblong building with a large central room between the two outer walls where the business of the post was carried out. On either end was a smaller room, one of which was the duty officer's quarters and the other was the lockup. About 50 metres away was a larger building known as The Barracks which housed soldiers, wives & families. The attached photo is from Beverley in Picture & Story p14 and is the ruins of the Dale barracks in 1930. The buildings have all gone now as they were made of mud brick. We have no information about who was posted there & it is believed that there were only seven soldiers at different times over the 5 years. Perhaps all this was similar for St Aubyns.

Harrison Blechynden looking for the opportunity to establish himself and his growing family on a property had proven himself to Brockman and his colleagues as an excellent and reliable worker with a knowledge of carpentry, butchering and farming skills. To consider this move was an enormous one fraught with danger and the unknown. A barracks had been set up on 'St Aubyns'. The birth of their third child Elizabeth Blechynden, on 'St Aubyns', Beverley indicated that initially they lived there, the barracks offering protection and support.

The new settlers arriving to occupy the allocated block in the district had to start from scratch.

BEVERLEY Our journey through time, pg.19:

'The district's pioneers faced immense problems. They had no dwellings of any substance, no fences to contain their stock, no dams or wells to guarantee water through the summer months, no sheds to store the gain, and no fodder essential for working horse. . . Where to begin? . . . Moreover, there were no roads, bridges or culverts' . . .

'An immense drawback has attended the Settlement of this part of the Colony for want of a road across the hills by which the transportation of supplies is rendered both difficult and expensive.'

One can imagine that Edmund Barrett-Lennard and Harrison Blechynden travelled backwards and forwards between Guildford and 'St Aubyns' many times bringing supplies and equipment to set up buildings to live in, stables and yards to contain the stock. Charlotte and their two children joined them on 'St Aubyns' sometime between April 1841 and Mar 1842. One wonders who helped Charlotte with the birth of Elizabeth 'Anne' on 19 Mar 1842 at St Aubyns? Highly likely the wife of another new settler in the area nearby or the wife of one of the soldiers in the barracks. (Edmund Thomas Barrett-Lennard was not married until 1853. By this time Charlotte had given birth to their tenth child. In 1853, Charlotte was probably the one to assist his wife Eliza with the birth of their children.)

Beverley Historical Society in reply to our query re who helped the women settlers giving birth:

There were women and families in the Beverley and Dale districts from the late 1830s onward. As you know many of the landowners did not live on the land but they employed others to do the work. St Aubyns was advertising to service and agist horses from 1840. This type of business could not have succeeded unless the farm was running efficiently and this could not be done by just one man or family. Most farms employed several men and priority was given to family men because they were more stable, had family incentives & growing children were useful workers. So, there would have been other women around to help with childbirth either at St Aubyns or neighbouring farms. Additionally, Beverley was fortunate to have the services of a doctor in the form of Dr Samuel Viveash who owned & lived at Yangedine, some 15 kilometres north of St Aubyns. Dr Viveash was well known for assisting in childbirth, often walking overland (very poor roads) to the Dale & other places to attend a birth & even came back the next day to see how the mother & baby were faring. He lived at Yangedine from 1838 till 1842.

EDMUND THOMAS HENRY BARRETT-LENNARD (1823-1895)

the founder of the well-known Western Australian, Beverley family.

Edmund Thomas Barrett-Lennard was born 20 Nov 1823, England and baptised 22 May 1824, St Marylebone, London, England. Arrived 2 May 1839 via Montreal.
Edmund Thomas Barrett-Lennard died 1895, Beverley, WA. Burial Beverley.

Following contains family tree information about Edmund Thomas Henry Barrett-Lennard (1823-1895) and his family

m.1 EDMUND THOMAS HENRY BARRETT-LENNARD (1823-1895) married ELIZABETH 'ELIZA' ANN SMITH (1833-1886) in 1854, Beverley, WA [Reg No.643], registered under Eliza Ann in 1854. Eliza was born 9 Jan 1833, Fremantle, WA. She died 15 Jan 1886, Beverley, WA [Reg. 14169].

EDMUND THOMAS HENRY BARRETT-LENNARD (1823-1895) and ELIZA BARRETT-LENNARD (1833-1886) had two living children:

1. AMY ELIZA BARRETT-LENNARD (1854-1897) born in 1854, 'Annandale', Beverley, WA [Reg. 2715], registered in York, under Lennard. AMY ELIZA BARRETT-LENNARD (1854-1897) married ALEXANDER FORREST (1849-1901), 15 Jan 1880, 'Annandale', Beverley, WA [Reg. 4875]. Amy died 30 Oct 1897, London, Middlesex, England.

2. EDMUND CHARLES BARRETT-LENNARD (1856-1931) 'George', born 1856 WA [Reg. 3456], registered under Edmund Charles Barret Lennard, parents as above.

EDMUND GEORGE BARRETT-LENNARD (1856-1931) married EMILY FRANCES ANN BROUN (1856-1934) 13 May 1880, Beverley, WA [Reg. 4915], registered under Edward George Barrett Lennard. Edmund George Barrett-Lennard died 27 Jan 1931, Beverley, WA [Reg. 11], registered under Edmund G Lennard.

Following the death of his first wife, Eliza Barret-Lennard (nee Smith) in 1886, Edmund married again.

m.2 EDMUND THOMAS HENRY BARRETT-LENNARD married ALICE MCNEIL (-1888), 1886, Fremantle, WA [Reg. 6311]. Alice Barrett-Lennard (nee McNeil (-1887) died 1887, WA [Reg. 503].

Child of EDMUND and ALICE MCNEIL (-1888) died aged 3 months.

3. REGINALD VICTOR BARRETT-LENNARD (1887-1887) Born 1887, Fremantle, WA [Reg. 897], and died in 1887, WA [Reg. 698], aged 4 months.

Following the death of his second wife, Alice (nee McNeil) in 1887, Edmund married again.

m.3 EDMUND THOMAS HENRY BARRETT-LENNARD married NINA PRIGGEN on 19 Jun 1888, Perth, WA [Reg No. 138].

BEVERLEY Our journey though time, pg. 44

For the comfort and safety of travellers, Inns were established along the York Road and within the Beverley District.

Map showing Perth, York, Beverley, and Northam.

And finally, as the population grew, stores were established in York. Initially they stocked primarily necessities, but as settlers became better established, relatively good quality dwellings were built and a greater number of women and children arrived, a considerable range of comforts and small luxuries became available. By 1848 the entrepreneurial flour miller and publican John Monger was stocking Jamaica rum, gin, ladies' slippers, bolts of floral prints, good quality stationary and "shirts in regatta check" at his York store.

Once the York Road had been improved, the Colonial Secretaries Office advertised for contractors to tender to provide a mail service from Guildford to York and return weekly.

Distance: Perth to Beverley - 125 kms = 77.67 miles, Guildford to Beverley - 109 Kms = 67.7 miles.

Beverley to York - 28.5 kms = 17.7 miles.

Saddle horses and light carts could make Guildford from York in a day, loaded wagons took two days.

The York Agricultural Society was formed in York in 1840. From then on, a show was held every year. People from all over the surrounding districts would gather take part and socialise.

This gives one an idea of what was happening in the York, Beverley districts in 1840

YORK AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The York Agricultural Society held its first Annual Meeting on Wednesday last which was most numerous and respectfully attended; the occasion drew together a vast concourse of people who flocked from all parts of the country; the usually quiet town of York was aroused by the appearance of tandems, gigs, and other vehicles, and the place presented rather the appearance of an English Fair than an Agricultural show in the Australian wilderness.

A good deal of business was transacted at the Fair, and much money changed hands; Messrs. Samson, and Messrs. Aggett and Stokes, sold stock of various kinds to the amount of about £2,500, besides which several private sales were effected. The following prices were realised at Auction—

Horses and Mares from £50 to £80
Cows £25 to £34,
Cow and Calf £34,
2 years old heifer £24,
Ewes £4 6 0, to £4 12 0, and a few lots of Ewe culls at about £2 12 6 each.

It will be seen that these prices are far lower than were realised on a late occasion on this side of the hills, and several lots of stock at the market and in the neighbourhood were driven away unsold, the owners not being satisfied with the prices offered. There was a large pen of cattle, and several pens of fat wethers; of the latter very few lots were sold, the butchers not being disposed to give the price asked.

The heat was very oppressive both to the stock and to those who attended them, shewing we think the necessity for some change in the time of holding this show. It appears to us that one month earlier would suit in every way; it would be before the setting in of the hot weather, and would still afford ample time to the farmers to get their wool packed—indeed any one who has not got every thing connected with clipping over by that time, must be considered as very dilatory.

The Committee and Members of the Society having assembled at Monger's Hotel, R. H. Bland Esq. was called to the chair. The business commenced with the election of new members, of whom 42 were proposed, and all elected, with one exception—the number of members amounts to 81. The officers of H. M. 51st Light Infantry were elected honorary members. Among the new members are Major Irwin, Messrs. G. Leake, Tanner, W. L. Brockman, W. Samson, and many other gentlemen of the first respectability.

A letter was read, from His Excellency the Governor accepting the patronage of the Society, and a second one granting a piece of ground for a market place, and race-course.

A statement of the receipts and expenditure of the Society, furnished by Mr. Barrow, was then read, by which it appeared that the funds of the Society were in a very flourishing state. The Secretary was requested to retain office for the ensuing year, to which Mr. J. W. Hardey objected. Mr. Tanner suggested that the Secretary should be elected by a show of hands; this was accordingly done, and Mr. Barrow was re-elected. The following gentlemen were elected by ballot to form the Committee: Messrs. R. H. Bland, T. Carter, J. W. Hardey, J. Lukin, —Onslow, J. F. Smith.

A conversation followed as to some misunderstanding that had occurred between the Secretary, and the Members of the Committee, with regard to the arrangements of the dinner, in which the public are but little interested.

Votes of thanks were then passed to the Honorary Secretary, and to the Committee going out, and several complimentary remarks made in favour of these gentlemen, for their conduct in furthering the interests of the Society. The Committee newly appointed were requested to draw up a code of rules for the Society and to lay them before the next quarterly meeting for the consideration and approval of the members.

Mr. Hardey exhibited a sheaf of oats from a field which he has this year grown, originating from a few grains which were accidentally discovered in some tares imported by him from the Cape of Good Hope two years ago. These oats appeared to be well adapted to the climate, and judging from the weight, and general appearance of the sheaf produced, seem likely to yield heavy crops.

Several other samples of grain, and roots were exhibited by different Members.

It was resolved,—That special meetings of the Society should be called by a requisition signed by 10 Members, and that at each meeting no other business would be transacted but that for which the meeting was called. That notice of the business proposed at such special meeting should be published in 3 successive Newspapers. That resolutions by proxy should be admitted at such special meetings only. That no political topics should be introduced at any of the meetings of the Society.

That no rule or bye law should be altered unless due notice of such change be given at a previous quarterly meeting.

That the arbitration rules of the Western Australian Agricultural Society be attached to the rules of this Society with the following addition: "That parties refusing to abide by the decision of such Committee should be excluded from the Society."

A plan for the establishment of a Fire Assurance Company, was handed round amongst the members; and a petition to the Governor in Council on the subject of the boundaries in the Avon District was produced, and is now in course of signature. The Petition is to the effect that the boundary marks on the base line may be acknowledged by government. The thanks of the meeting having been voted to the chairman, the Members adjourned to inspect the pens, and the several improvements made in the market place.

The preparations made by Mr. Monger, for the reception of the company were very extensive, and met with very deserved approbation: about 60 persons sat down to dinner in the large room at the York Hotel, and numerous other parties were enjoying themselves in various parts of the house. R. H. Bland Esq. took the chair, the evening was spent in hilarity, and good fellowship. The Queen—the Army and Navy—His Excellency the Governor, as Patron of the Society, were among the toasts of the evening; Major Irwin returned thanks for the army, and Mr. Helpman R. N. acknowledged the courtesy on the part of the Navy. "Success to Agriculture, especially in the York District," was drunk with great applause.

The Dinner was prepared in a style superior to anything of the kind ever attempted over the hills; the whole arrangements reflect infinite credit on Mr. Monger, to whom no doubt encouragement, corresponding to his efforts to please, will be given.

His Excellency the Governor had been invited to attend, and had accepted the invitation, but was not present at the meeting.

The following is a list of prizes to be given at the next Annual Meeting.

£5 For the best shearing Merino Ram colonial bred—
3 ——— best Ram of any age or description
3 ——— best imported Ram—if considered of sufficient merit—

3 ——— best pen of not less than 6 Merino lambs,

YORK AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting on Wednesday last which was most numerous and respectfully attended; the occasion drew together a vast concourse of people who flocked from all parts of the country; the usually quiet town of York was aroused by the appearance of tandems, gigs, and other vehicles, and the place presented rather the appearance of an English Fair than an Agricultural show in the Australian wilderness.

A good deal of business was transacted at the Fair, and much money changed hands; Messrs. Samson, and Messrs. Aggett and Stokes, sold stock of various kinds to the amount of about £2,500, besides which several private sales were affected.' The following prices were realised at Auction —

Horses and Mares from £50 to £80, Cows £25 to £34, Cow and Calf £34, 2 years old heifer £24, Ewes £4 6 0 to £4 12 0, and a few lots of Ewe culls at about £2 12 6 each.

It will be seen that these prices are far lower than were realised on a late occasion on this side of the hills, and several lots of stock at the market and in the neighbourhood were 'driven away unsold, the owners not being satisfied with the prices offered. There was a large pen of cattle, and several pens of fat wethers; of the latter very few lots were sold, the butchers not being disposed to give the price asked.

The heat was very oppressive both to the stock and to those who attended them, shewing we think the necessity for some change in the time of holding this show. It appears to us that one month earlier would suit in every way; it would be before the setting in of the hot weather and would still afford ample time to the farmers to get their wool packed — indeed anyone who has not got everything connected with clipping over by that time, must be considered as very dilatory.

The Committee and Members of the Society having assembled at Monger's Hotel, B. H. Bland Esq. was called to the chair. The business commenced with the election of new members, of whom 42 were proposed, and all elected with one exception the number of members amounts to 81. The officers of H. M. 51st Light Infantry were elected honorary members. Among the new members are Major Irwin, Messrs. G. Leake, Tanner, W. L. Brockman, W. Samson, and many other gentlemen of the first respectability.

A letter was read, from His Excellency the Governor accepting the patronage of the Society, and a second one granting a piece of ground for a marketplace, and racecourse.

A statement of the receipts and expenditure of the Society, furnished by Mr. Barrow, was then read, by which it appeared that the funds of the Society were in a very flourishing state. 'ST AUBYN'S' TO 'BABBYALLA'

One can imagine that for their initial safety, Harrison, Charlotte and their children stayed at the barracks on 'St Aubyns', using this time to build accommodation, sheds and yards on 'Babbyalla', the property Harrison was to manage next door. 'Babbyalla' at that stage was owned by William Tanner.

In 1843, Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden moved to manage the property named 'Babbyalla'.

It was here that Charlotte gave birth to her fourth child, Henry George Blechynden on 6 Aug 1843, at 'Babbyalla', WA [Reg. 278], recorded as Babbalalla. Henry George Blechynden was christened on 6 Oct 1843.

BEVERLEY Our journey though time pg.75.

In 1844 West Guildford gentleman farmer Edward Hamersley acquired 'Babbyalla' Estate immediately south of 'St Aubyns'. He leased the property to Harrison Blechynden.

EDWARD HAMERSLEY (1810-1874) https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Edward_Hamersley_\(senior\))

Edward Hamersley was born in Sandgate, Kent, England on 25 Mar 1810. He was educated at Pembroke College, Cambridge, graduating BA in 1833. He then spent a number of years touring throughout Europe, during which time he married Anne Louise Cornelis in Paris. Their first son, Edward, was born in Paris in 1836.

Around 1836, he decided to emigrate to, largely on the basis of optimistic letters received from his sister Frances, who had emigrated to with her husband William Locke Brockman in 1830. He sailed with his wife and son, arriving at Fremantle in February 1837 via the ship Trusty. Upon arriving in WA, he found many of the original settlers to be financially struggling, and he was able to obtain a number of large grants of land extremely cheaply. He then leased the land out, ensuring himself an income and allowing him to live in relative comfort in Perth. Economic conditions improved in the late 1830s, and his large land holdings brought him substantial wealth. In 1839, he became a partner in a horse breeding business with Samuel Pole Phillips, who had recently arrived in the colony, and in 1841 he became a director of the Western Australian Bank. . .

When Edward Hamersley died in 1874, his son Bevan Hamersley inherited 'Babbyalla'.

BEVERLEY Our journey though time, pg. 27, pg.30:

The struggles of the early settlers were magnified by their general ignorance of local conditions, the shortage of tradesmen, labourers and ready money, and the necessity to devise appropriate techniques of animal husbandry. Indeed, their British and European farming experience counted for little, and they quickly had to learn how to fell and dress bush timber, load and cart heavy logs, construct buildings and store feed for their working horses, kill and preserve meat in a hot climate without the aid of refrigeration, grow sufficient vegetables for all their requirements, and so forth. . .

This was the beginning:

The presence of dingoes and aboriginal dogs, as well as the almost complete absence of fencing, meant the sheep had to be shepherded out each day and returned to a brushwood fold each night.

An article was presented at the Perth Quarter sessions, on 2 Oct 1844 and tells the story of the loss of a very large ram stag, of the Leicester breed, which had a bell round its neck from the property of Harrison Blechynden at Beverley, which ended in dire consequences for the villains.

QUARTER SESSIONS

Perth, Wednesday, Oct. 2, 1844

Before W. H. Mackie, Esq., Chairman, a full Bench of Magistrates, a grand and petit jury.

The Chairman, in his address to the Grand Jury, adverted to the increase of criminal offences, superinduced by the facilities afforded the depredators in the disposal of their ill-acquired booty. One individual had acted in a most praiseworthy manner and had been the means of developing a plot which, under other circumstances, might have been carried out to the serious injury of the community.

The grand jury withdrew and returned the following bills. The accused were severally placed at the bar to take their trial.

Reg. v. Derbet, an aboriginal native of the York District, charged with stealing bread and meat, the property of Lockyer Burgess, Esq. The substance of the indictment having been explained to the prisoner by the sworn Public Interpreter, the prisoner pleaded guilty.

Sentence, 12 calendar months imprisonment, with hard labor.

Reg. v. Buckar and Yaringwert, two aboriginal natives of the Beverley District, charged with stealing a sheep, the property of Harrison Blechynden. The substance of the indictment having been explained to the prisoners, a plea of not guilty was entered.

Harrison Blechynden: I live at Beverley and have a large flock of sheep there. About the latter end of June last I lost a very large ram stag, of the Leicester breed, which had a bell round its neck. I made search for it, but never found it. The prisoners had been at my farm for a week before the sheep was lost, and on the day of the loss they left my house and followed my sheep and shepherd out. I suspected the prisoners, and a native woman told me she had seen the prisoners with part of the sheep.

John Drummond: I apprehended the prisoners and took them before Mr. Yule. I was present at their examination, Buckar said he was near Blechynden's house when he heard a native shout, and on going up to the place he found a native holding a sheep, which he (Buckar) confessed he had struck it over the head and killed it. He admitted to me that he and others had feasted on it that afternoon. Yaringwert acknowledged that he had eaten part of the sheep, but that he had joined the party only in the evening after he had killed the sheep. Both the prisoners said that the sheep had a bell. No threats were held out to the prisoners to make a confession. They were not told they would be pardoned if they confessed.

Verdict, guilty. Sentence, seven years transportation each to Rottnest.

Ed. Comment: What a severe sentence:

SANDALWOOD

On 4 Aug 1847, Harrison Blechynden, Mrs Porley and S. G. Meares (see further on), were allocated a license to cut Timber or Sandalwood on Crown Lands.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS:

Two more children were added to the family, both recorded as being born at 'Babbyalla': Jesse William, born 12 Apr 1845, Babbalall (sic), WA [Reg. 564], and Walter Edward Blechynden born 16 Jun 1846, Babalalla (sic), WA [Reg. No/ 808]. Note: Should be 'Babbyalla'.

It has been recorded that another baby: James Blechynden was born and died in 1845 in 'Babbyalla', E. Beverley, WA. He was born in Apr 1845 in 'Babbyalla', E. Beverley, WA. Perhaps Jesse had a twin who died at birth. I cannot find a record in the WA births and deaths re this baby.

It was a sad time for Harrison and Charlotte, (once again pregnant) when Jesse William died on 11 Dec 1846 WA [Reg. 233], at the age of 20 months.

Their next child, Charles Edwin was born 28 Mar 1847, at Babbalilla (sic), WA [Reg. No. 1098], followed by Thomas Harrison born 9 Sep 1848, York, WA [Reg. 1098]. Note: Should be 'Babbyalla'.

The next two children were registered at Beverley and York: Jesse William Blechynden born 9 Jun 1851, WA [Reg. 1705] and Joseph Blechynden born 9 Feb 1853, WA [Reg.2018], registered under Blechenden.

Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden had parented a total of ten children, (reduced to nine with the loss of Jesse in 1846), the living consisting of two daughters and seven sons.

When Joseph Blechynden was born in 1853 the children were aged approximately as follows: John - 20 years, Sarah - 12 years, Elizabeth - 11 years, Henry George - 9 ½ years, Walter Edward - 6 ½ years, Charles Edwin - 5 years, Thomas Harrison - 3 1/2, Jesse William 20 months and Joseph - the baby.

Charlotte was extremely busy with eight children under twelve. John from the age of nine years had helped his father on the farm and from the age of about twelve years had worked side by side with his father doing a man's work. The property was now a going concern, with yards, stables, sheds, animals and crops. The two men were kept busy from dawn until dusk. Charlotte must have been a super woman: building up a home from only the bare necessities, in a place with no outside support, bearing eight children over a period of 13 years in the Beverley District, cooking, washing, feeding the animals, tending to the vegetable garden and all those things necessary for survival.

Charlotte Augusta Blechynden (nee Robus)

Elizabeth and Sarah were a great assistance to their mother helping with the household and yard chores and keeping the boisterous boys out of mischief.

The children, as soon as they were able, helped with chores with the house, yard and animals and taught to ride.

There was as yet little infrastructure in the area and thus far no schools. Any schooling the children had was taught to them by their mother. (Many years later Joseph, the youngest, signed his name with a X, not surprising given the little time Charlotte had to spare).

BEVERLEY Our journey though time, pg.77:

Thomas Bailey noted in 1852 ". . . we have no church or clergyman, magistrate, constable, police or postal communication. Neither we have roads or bridges."

In fact, the first tiny service centre in the district was established at Edwards Crossing at the junction of a number of roads. William Edwards constructed a mud bat store there, and subsequently Joseph Wansbrough commenced business as a wheelwright.

In 1840, York put on the first of what was to become an annual Agricultural Show. (See item a few pages earlier regarding this show and the meeting associated with it.) This was to develop into a most important social event for the settlers. In Oct 1843, the first race meeting was held.

Harrison Blechynden as the manager of property in the Beverley district would have attended the show annually to meet others in the area and show stock from 'Babbyalla'. One can imagine the Blechyndens would have become involved as a family in the events, travelling by horse and cart and probably staying overnight.

BEVERLEY Our journey though time, pg.45:

For two or three days preceding the fair the usual monotony of the York Road – varied on ordinary occasions only by the passing, at long intervals by a solitary bullock team – was relieved by the presence of smart gigs, and gay equestrians, all hastening to the great centre of attraction.

The book on BEVERLEY Our Journey Through Time, P.21-27 tells of the dangerous interaction with the Aboriginal people. There were inevitably many altercations on both sides.

pg. 23 Sanity prevailed however, for the editor went on to note, the majority of the Avon Valley natives were peaceable.

pg.27 To some extent this marked improvement in relations can be attributed to the work of Protector Peter Burrows who, after being appointed in 1840, arranged for as many as possible of the York-Beverley natives to assemble at York, where he obtained through an interpreter the Governments benevolent intentions and expectations. . .

pg.27 Moreover Barrow noted that the majority of settlers now aware of their numerical superiority and the value of Aborigines as workers, attempted to treat them humanely, for already a growing number were being incorporated within the workforce, often with highly satisfying results.

Our Blechynden family must have had frequent, friendly interaction with the local tribe and it is known that John Blechynden was able to speak the Noongar language. In 1854, John Blechynden walked to the Blackwood district at the age of 21 guided by friendly Aborigines and was so impressed with what he saw that he acquired two pastoral leases along the Blackwood River. More details can be found in the individual chapter on John Blechynden.

BEVERLEY Our Journey Through Time, pg. 55

By 1854 the population of the York-Beverley District, including the military personal, free settlers, convicts and working Aborigines totalled 1,239. Of these, 47 were conditional pardon men, 258 were ticket of leave holders and five were imprisoned.

Two of Harrison's other children, John born 1833 and Elizabeth 'Anne' born 1842, were not present on the night of the Census in 1859. John had left home in 1854, was to be married in 1860 and was living in the Blackwood District. Harrison Blechynden wrote: "the younger part of my family either start or are learning", emphasized by - do (ditto) down the aisle.

Agriculture: Harrison Blechynden had 33 acres under wheat production, 15 acres of Barley, 15 acres of Hay and a quarter of an acre of Kitchen Garden.

Stock: Harrison Blechynden had 16 horses, 24 cattle, 1160 sheep, 49 Pigs. He had sold 2 cattle during the year but did not know how many sheep had been sold or processed. In the salt and pork area he had made and sold 2437 pounds weight during the year.

* Looking for details re Thomas Churchill, mentioned on the 1859 Census (see above), it is highly likely that he was a convict working for Harrison Blechynden.

THOMAS CHURCHILL (1828-1888) – CONVICT, was born 6 Dec 1828 Shavers End, Dudley, Worcester Shire, England. Parents: Richard Churchill and Phoebe Foxhall (1810-1874) who were married March 1828, St. Mary's, Kingswinford, Stafford, England. (Via Hill Family Tree, Ancestry.) He was convicted and went to trial on 5 Jan 1846 at Worcester, England. In 1848 Thomas was sentenced to transportation - seven years for larceny. Transported to WA in 1851 on the Minden.

I could not find any marriages or births of children recorded re Thomas Churchill in WA. Death: 1888, aged 65 years, WA [Reg. 580]. No other facts known.

This 916, ton ship was built at Sunderland in 1848. It was employed as a convict transport and left Plymouth, England on July 21, 1851 bound for the Swan River Colony. She carried the fifth of 37 shipments of male convicts destined for Western Australia. The voyage took 85 days and the Minden arrived in Fremantle on October 14, 1851 with 115 passengers and 301 convicts [Erickson]. Robert Dawson Crawford and John Gibson were the captain and surgeon respectively.

1859 listed Harrison Blechynden as a well-established farmer and grazier. He Leased 'Babbyalla' at Beverley from E. Hamersley, then developed 'Mt. Pleasant'.

Via Rod Boyle, Beverley Community resource Centre:

'Mt Pleasant' farm is 5 miles north of Beverley, on the Top Beverley Road. About 4 miles from Beverley on the York Road is Edwards railway crossing. Just over the crossing there is a sign for the Top Beverley Road on the right-hand side which takes you over the river and continues on to York. Just over the river, on the right-hand side there is a small church and cemetery in the middle of the paddock. If you take the road into the church and continue on you will come to 'Mt Pleasant' homestead. It is part of Avon Location I.

Harrison and Charlotte's eldest son John Blechynden (1833-1900) married Elizabeth Green (1839-1891) on 23 of Feb 1860, at St George's Cathedral in Perth, WA [Reg. 1487].

A BRIEF HISTORY OF ST GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL

<https://www.perthcathedral.org/st-georges-cathedral/>

The very first Anglican Service to be held in took place under a jarrah tree, possibly on the corner of Irwin and Hay Streets, in 1829. . . With Christmas only three weeks away he (Archdeacon Thomas Scott) set to work to build a church; everyone helped, particularly Captain Frederick Irwin and the soldiers of the Sixty Third Regiment. The church built partly of wood, with rushes filling up the sides, and appropriately known as the 'rush church' came into being and lasted for seven years. It was built on the corner of Hay and Irwin Streets.

In 1841, on January first, Governor John Hutt laid the Foundation Stone of the first Church of St George. About 600 people were present when the church was opened on 22 Jan 1845. This building stood adjacent to the City of Perth library. The old church faced north and south and stretched from approximately the west end of the present Cathedral main entrance. At this time was included in the Diocese of Adelaide and the church had to await the arrival of Bishop Short who consecrated it on 15 November 1848.

St George's Cathedral

On the arrival in 1858 of Mathew Blagden Hale, Perth's first Bishop, St George's became his Cathedral, and although it was later enlarged it did not meet the needs of the Diocese or the Parish of Perth. (The Cathedral Parish included West Perth, North Perth, Highgate and East Perth...and in the early 1900s was ministering to up to 15,000 people!)

The arrival of Henry Hutton Parry, Perth's second Bishop heralded the building of the present Cathedral. . . Work began in 1879 with the Foundation Stone being laid on 2 November 1880 by the Governor, Sir William Robinson. This stone is on the north east corner (outside the North Transept).

Speculating: The whole family travelled to Perth for the wedding, taking two days, stopping at one of the Inns along the York Road. On the day of the wedding, Charlotte and the girls, Sarah and 'Anne' looked and felt very special, dressed up in their best clothes. Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden would have found it a very social occasion meeting with many of their associates and peers from their time living in Perth. The Robus and Green families would have been present, as well as the Brockmans. Following their marriage, John and Elizabeth Blechynden spent their honeymoon travelling by bullock wagon from Perth to a rough dwelling house in the Blackwood area on John's ten-acre homestead block on which he had earlier built a stockman's cottage. (More details re John and Elizabeth Blechynden can be read in their own chapter.)

BEVERLEY Our Journey Through Time, pg.77

As the local population and production increased, a small urban settlement gradually took shape. It was not before time for, as local resident Joseph Bailey noted in April 1852:

. . . we have no church or clergyman, magistrate, constable, police or postal communication. Neither have we bridges.

In fact, the first tiny service centre in the district was established at Edwards Crossing on Brooklebay, at the junction of a number of roads. William Edwards constructed a mud-bat store there, and subsequently Joseph Wainwright commenced business as a wheelwright. By 1864 a smithy was also operating at the site, and in the same year a convict team consolidated this little township by building the Avon bridge, later named Seaton Ross Bridge.

With the departure of John, the older boys Henry and Walter took his place in helping their father on the property. One can imagine the younger boys, escorted by their sisters, often rode their horses to visit their neighbours at Edwards Crossing. Elizabeth and Sarah, now attractive young women, attended social gatherings held by neighbours nearby, sometimes travelling further to York. Romance developed between Anne Blechynden and Thomas Edwards who lived at Edwards Crossing.

'Anne' Elizabeth Blechynden (1842-1927) was married in York, at the Anglican Holy Trinity Church to Thomas Edwards (1838-1903), 5 Mar 1862, WA [Reg. 1753]. (St Paul's Church, Edwards Crossing, was consecrated in 1862.) As for John and Elizabeth's wedding, this would have been a very significant social event for the whole family. More can be read about Anne and Thomas Edwards in their individual chapter.

In 1864, Walter Edward aged 18 years, and his brother Charles Edwin Blechynden, aged 17 years, walked to Bridgetown and joined their eldest brother, John. For three years they rented 'Wilgarrup', then owned by Mr. Charles Rose. In the early seventies, Walter selected 'Glenpennant' on the Upper Warren where he settled and lived for the rest of his life. Charles returned to Beverley where he is recorded as employing 5 Ticket of Leave men at Beverley in 1865.

Surmising: Sarah Blechynden met and was romanced by a farmer, from the Blackwood district, John Henry Markham Page, an ex-convict who had been granted a pardon in 1860. Sarah may have taken the opportunity to stay with her brother John in Bridgetown and help her new sister-in-law, Elizabeth, with the birth of her babies: John William, born in 1861 and George in 1862. Perhaps John Henry Markham Page visited the family at 'Babbyalla' in Beverley.

Sarah Harrison Blechynden (1841-1930) was married 30 Nov 1867, in York, WA [Reg. 2656], at the Anglican Holy Trinity Church, to John Henry Markham Page (1831-1917). More can be read about Sarah and John page in their individual chapter.

BEVERLEY Our Journey Through Time, pg.77

By 1867 the Surveyor General became aware that a township was developing on private land at Edwards Crossing without being surveyed and formerly gazetted. He therefore sent his son, contactor George Roe to survey a township on part of the land previously reserved for that purpose. . .

WA BUSHRANGERS

West Australian (Perth, WA: 1879 - 1954), Sat 23 Jan 1937, pg 9

<https://trove.nla.gov.au/newspaper/article/41270899#>

In this lengthy and descriptive article, a fascinating and terrifying account of three bushrangers in the York, Beverley districts, Mrs Blechynden is mentioned:

"Nothing further was heard until June 15, when Mrs. Blechynden reported to the York police that a native woman in the employ of Mr Alfred Robins, of Bally Bally, stated she saw two men (one with a gun) going through the bush and that they were heavily laden."

This Mrs Blechynden must have been Charlotte Blechynden, as the only son married in 1867 was John Blechynden who married Elizabeth Green and were residing in Bridgetown. Elizabeth was married in 1862 and Sarah in 1867, but of course they took on their husband's names.

BUSHRANGERS IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Tracked for Three Months by Police

By N.H.S.

Western Australia has been free of the bushranger type that terrorised the Eastern States in the early days of their colonisation, but in 1867 the residents of this colony were in a state of alarm when three men, considered to be desperate characters, escaped from the Fremantle gaol. Two of them earned the reputation of being the only men in Western Australia to whom the term "bushranger" could be applied. Baffling the police for three months, the fugitives, who were armed, were tracked through Guildford to York and finally to the Albany district.

Many other prisoners escaped from the gaol or from the guards of road construction gangs and took to the bush, but their liberty was generally of short duration. Offences committed by them were of a petty nature, consisting for the most part of robbing settlers of provisions or firearms with which to shoot native game.

In this category might be placed Joseph Johns, alias Moondyne Joe. Much romance was woven around this man's escapades and none of the prisons in those days appeared capable of withstanding Moondyne Joe when he made up his mind to regain his liberty. One episode in this regard was his breaking out of the old Newcastle (Toodyay) gaol in 1861, when, to make good his escape from the district, he stole a police horse, a saddle and bridle of the Resident Magistrate (Mr. A. Durlacher). So many times, did the man escape that the authorities found it advisable to construct a special cell at the Fremantle gaol in which to hold him, and the cell is an object of interest to visitors to the gaol at the present time.

There were only three men, however, who in any way emulated the deeds of Rolf Boldrewood's characters and one of them met his death in an exchange of shots with the police on the Perth side of

There were only three men, however, who in any way emulated the deeds of Rolf Boldrewood's characters, and one of them met his death in an exchange of shots with the police on the Perth side of the Swan River near Guildford. His two companions led the police a merry dance before they were recaptured. The three men were William Graham, Thomas Scott and George Morris.

Graham had been sentenced to transportation for life on a charge of manslaughter at Carlisle, England, in 1857. A couple of years after his arrival in the colony he was conditionally released, but in 1864 he was charged at Perth with in 1864 he was charged at Perth with being illegally at large with firearms in his possession, robbing Mr. E. Quartermaine in the Beverley district and shooting him with intent to kill. Graham received a sentence on the first-mentioned charge and was committed for trial but acquitted on the charge of shooting with intent to kill. He was then charged with having wounded with intent to do bodily harm, and for the second time received a life sentence.

Thomas Scott, who landed in the colony in 1863, had been tried by court martial for mutinous conduct and violence to a ship's officer for which he was sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment. He was conditionally released in 1864, but in the following year was sentenced to three years for assault with intent to do bodily harm. In 1866 he absconded from the York depot, and again received a further sentence.

The third man, George Morris, did not bear the unenviable records of his two companions, but he was the unfortunate one of the party, as he lost his life in an encounter with the police at Guildford.

The Escape.

Between midnight and 3 o'clock in the morning of May 30, 1867, Graham, Scott and Morris broke out of the prison at Fremantle. At 5 o'clock the Fremantle police received an alarm. Steps were taken immediately to notify all police stations throughout the colony, and also the civilian population as it was considered that the men were dangerous.

The fugitives were tracked as far as the North Fremantle bridge where the tracks were lost, and, as it was considered that they would make for the York and Beverley districts, where Graham had been at large before, particulars of the escape were sent to Inspector W. R. Piesse, of Guildford, and to Sergeant Moye, of York, by special messengers. Instructions were also issued for the premises of Mr. E. Quartermaine, of the Beverley district, to be strictly guarded, in view of Graham's previous attempt on the life of Quartermaine, and a watch was kept on other premises which it was thought might be visited by these men. Special police were also sworn in.

On the morning of May 31, 1867, John Atkinson, of Butler's Swamp, between Perth and Fremantle, reported to the Perth police that a double-barrelled gun had been stolen from his house on the Graham had been sentenced to transportation for life on a charge of man slaughter at Carlisle, England, in 1857. Special police were also sworn in.

On the morning of May 31, 1867, John Atkinson, of Butler's Swamp, between Perth and Fremantle, reported to the Perth police that a double-barrelled gun had been stolen from his house on the same night as the three men had broken out of the Fremantle Gaol. A report was also made to the Guildford police that three men dressed in prison clothes had robbed the houses of Mr. Oliver and Mr. Scrivener of arms, ammunition, food, a silver watch and were seen taking a route which would lead them past Guildford to the Darling Ranges.

ONE MAN SHOT DEAD

Inspector Piesse took steps on receipt of this complaint to intercept the men by stationing a constable at the ferry over the Swan River and another constable at the Swan Bridge. Constables Armstrong and Kirk, together with two native trackers, were sent out to capture, if possible, the offenders, who were believed to be the escaped convicts. These constables crossed the Swan River and proceeded to Mr. Oliver's property, then followed the river down to Lennard's block. Sergeant Peacock also went down to the ferry and brought across from the other side of the river two canoes to prevent the escapees crossing the river by that means. Shortly afterwards shots were heard in the direction of the river and on Inspector Piesse crossing the bridge, he was met by Constables Armstrong and Kirk, who informed him that one of the natives when near the residence of Mr. Robins had struck a match to see if there were any tracks on the road and the three escapees were seen by Armstrong within 15 yards of them. They were called on several times to surrender, but rushed away towards a large jarrah tree, from which they opened fire on the police.

This fire was returned by the constables, who on rushing the spot where the three men had been seen found one of the escapees dead. Darkness had set in and the direction which the other two had taken could not be ascertained.

On Inspector Piesse reaching the place where the shooting had occurred it was found that George Morris was the man who had been killed by a bullet passing through the jugular vein. Near him was found a double-barrelled gun and in his clothing was Mr. Scrivener's watch.

On the spot being visited the following morning the tracks of the other two escapees were found going towards Perth.

At 8 p.m. on June 2, Joseph Inglis, who was living at the residence of Chief Justice A. P. Burt, reported that half an hour previously, while riding from Guildford to Perth and when near the Perth racecourse, he was called upon to stop by two men. He refused and put his horse into a gallop when a shot was fired at him. As it was thought these men might endeavour to come into Perth, police were stationed at several points to intercept them.

Rumours of the movements of Graham and Scott were rife, but apart from the Inglis incident nothing definite was known for a few days. On June 6, 1867, however, a report was received at Guildford to the effect that two armed men had entered the house of Richard Mayo in the Gingin district, some 40 miles from Guildford. It was surmised that after the affray near Guildford, Graham and Scott made their way across country to the Wanneroo district and from there to the Gingin area.

The nerves of the residents were on edge and the mailman, Wm. von Bibra, who carried the mail to the north, had a fright on the evening of June 6, when he reported that two men had stopped his mail cart near the junction of the Bindoon and Gingin roads. Mr von Bibra stated that these men searched him, also his cart and took his horses out. On inquiry it was found, however, that the incident was probably greatly exaggerated.

FUGITIVE'S TRACKS FOLLOWED

The search for the escapees shifted to the York and Beverley districts, which Graham frequented when on ticket of leave. On June 9, word was received that they were in the district and again opportunity was taken to warn all the settlers in the neighbourhood. On this day the men were seen in the vicinity of the Beverley School, where they demanded rations from C. Currey. At 3 p.m. on the same day they were seen near Mr. Steere's holding but disappeared into the bush. Their tracks were followed from here and on examination it was found that the men were not wearing boots but had wrapped their feet in either rags or bags. Tracking was difficult owing to the hard ground and it was not long before they were lost.

On June 9, a report was made by David Wansbrough at York that the escapees had demanded food at his house. As it was considered Graham would make for Mrs. Quartermaine's a close watch was kept on her premises and special constables were sworn in to assist the police in the search.

On the following day a son of Mr. John Fleay informed the York police that the convicts had robbed the hut of a man in the employ of the Rev. Father Lynch, of Beverley, on the previous night. As the men were keeping to the York and Beverley districts, the police there were increased by men sent from Perth and Fremantle. On the 11th of the month the two men were seen near Mr. A. Robbins's premises at Bally Bally, near Beverley, and the door of a hut occupied by Robbins's employees had been broken in between 6 and 9 p.m. on that date.

Nothing further was heard until June 15, when Mrs. Blechypeden reported to the York police that a native woman in the employ of Mr. Alfred Robbins, of Bally Bally, stated she saw two men (one with a gun) going through the bush and that they were heavily laden. Nothing further was heard until June 15, when Mrs. Blechynden reported to the York police that a native woman in the employ of Mr Alfred Robins, of Bally Bally, stated she saw two men (one with a gun) going through the bush and that they were heavily laden. The police, together with two native trackers, were sent to the district and re-turned two days later without meeting with any success in their search, but confirmed the report that the men's hut on Mr. Robins property had been broken into.

On the afternoon of the 19th a party of police with two natives again left York to visit the sheep stations south east of that town and with instructions to continue their patrol as far as old Mrs. Quartermaine's and to make towards Eticup Station. Graham prior to his arrest for attempting to kill E. Quartermaine had left his clothes, a watch and also some money at Mrs. Quartermaine's and it was still thought he would make his way to her location.

The search was now directed further south towards Albany and advice was urgently, forwarded there to be on the watch for the two escapees. Police were sent from Albany in an endeavour to cut off the convicts and to proceed in the direction of Eticup. Constable Grover was at this station and the Albany party, after joining up with him and his native tracker, were instructed to join forces with Constable Chester. Should this police party not come in contact with Graham and Scott, it was surmised that the latter would have kept further north with the intention of making towards Dempster's station at Esperance Bay.

The latest Information respecting the fugitives was that they had been at Mr Richard Clayton's station, four miles from the road at Narrogin and 10 miles on the Albany side of Mr Chas Quartermaine's and that they were making to-wards Mr Kersley's, 40 miles south-east from Clayton's, which would be 130 miles from York. The two men, when last seen, had a large supply of provisions and had a double-barrelled gun. On July 17 Graham and Scott went to Mr. Treasure's place about 7 p.m. and remained in the vicinity until midnight. They took from Treasure flour, tea, sugar, tobacco, a kangaroo dog and forced Treasure to pull their boots off, when they put on moccasins. The police arrived at Treasure's on July 22 and as some of their horses had knocked up, hired two from him. Up to July 20 nothing had been heard from the police patrol which had gone out from York and fears were being entertained in that town for their safety, but on the 29th of that month Chas Quartermaine and Richard Clayton arrived at York and reported that on Friday, July 26, a man had stopped at old Mr E. Quartermaine's on the previous night when the two bushrangers had appeared and stolen a double-barrelled gun, revolver, ammunition, clothing and rations. Graham informed old Mr. Quartermaine that they did not intend harming him, but it was their intention to take what they wanted. This information could not be conveyed to the police search party as their exact whereabouts were not known, although Mr C. Quartermaine reported that the party was travelling towards Jerramungup, as Constable ers, were sent to the district and returned two days later without meeting with any success in their search, but confirmed the report that the men's hut on Mr. Robins property had been broken into.

On the afternoon of the 19th a party of police with two natives again left York to visit the sheep stations south-east of that town, and with instructions to continue their patrol as far as old Mrs. Quartermaine's and to make towards Eticup Station. Graham prior to his arrest for attempting to kill E. Quartermaine had left his clothes and a watch, also some money at Mrs. Quartermaine's, and it was still thought he would make his way to her location.

The search was now directed further south towards Albany, and advice was urgently forwarded there to be on the watch for the two escapees. Police were sent from Albany in an endeavour to cut off the convicts and to proceed in the direction of Eticup. Constable Grover was at this station and the Albany party, after joining up with him and his native tracker, were instructed to join forces with Constable Chester. Should this police party not come in contact with Graham and Scott it was surmised that the latter would have kept further north with the intention of making towards Dempster's station at Esperance Bay. The latest information respecting the fugitives was that they had been at Mr. Richard Clayton's station, four miles from the road at Narrogin, and 10 miles on the Albany side of Mr. Chas. Quartermaine's, and that they were making towards Mr. Kersley's, 40 miles south-east from Clayton's, which would be 130 miles from York. The two men, when last seen, had a large supply of provisions and had a double-barrelled gun.

On July 17 Graham and Scott went to Mr. Treasure's place about 7 p.m. and remained in the vicinity until midnight. They took from Treasure flour, tea, sugar, tobacco, a kangaroo dog, and forced Treasure to pull their boots off, when they put on moccasins. The police arrived at Treasure's on July 22, and as some of their horses had knocked up, hired two from him.

further rations to enable the party to continue the search in that direction.

This York police party had evidently lost the tracks, as they came into Constable George Chester's station at Eticup on July 1. Constable Chester, together with Constable McGuire and two natives, then took up the search to the eastward and reached Jerramungup on July 12. Mr. Hassell, jun., was seen, but no trace of Graham or Scott could be found.

The search was continued further to the east, and Mr. Hassell's sheep station at Worhip, on the Fitzgerald River, was visited. The police party travelled down this river for 40 miles without meeting with any success, and decided to return to Eticup.

Two natives were sent out from Eticup on July 23 in an endeavour to cut the tracks of the bushrangers. They returned the same evening and stated that there were tracks of two men and a dog close to the hill range. On the following day a native came into Eticup and advised Constable Chester that he had seen Graham and Scott at Martinup (Mr. Treasure's station), where the sheepmen had been told they intended to call at Eticup and shoot Chester.

Two days later Constables Edwards, Barron and Grover returned to Eticup and the former two started out the following morning to pick up the tracks seen to the eastward, returning on the 28th. They again proceeded eastward, although the natives had great difficulty in keeping the tracks along the hills, which were very stony and thick with marlock. The route led them over the foot of Ellen Peak and across the plains towards the coast.

Police Net Closes.

Constable Chester's journal of August 1 states that they had got on the tracks of Graham and Scott and that they led eastward. The bushrangers altered their course to the south-west, but tracking was difficult owing to the dense marlock thickets. Camp was pitched that night on a spot where the men had been looking for water, and fresh traces were found, apparently about a week younger, returning to Ellen Peak. Constable Chester then came into Albany for further equipment and rations to continue the chase, which was now becoming intense. Two more policemen from Albany (Constables O'Keefe and O'Connell) were dispatched to join Constables Chester and Grover.

Constables Edwards and Barron, who had left York on June 19, did not return to their station until August 13, although they were only two days behind the bushrangers when they had bailed up Mr. E. Quartermaine, sen. Graham on this occasion stood at the door with a gun in his hands, whilst Scott searched a man named Donovan, whom he commanded to proceed to the other side of the room under penalty of being shot. Graham informed Mr. Quartermaine that he had been in hell for the last three years, and that he did not intend to go back to Fremantle again.

Grover's native had returned for further rations to enable the party to continue the search in that direction.

On August 24 Graham was arrested by the Albany police after he had been wounded by shots fired by the police at Scott and him four days previously. It would appear that Constables Chester, O'Keefe, O'Connell and Grover came upon the two bushrangers to the east of Albany in a hut and fired a volley into where the two men were supposed to be, with the result that Graham was wounded in the leg. After Graham's arrest, arrangements were made for his early return to Fremantle by the mail cart and two constables were detailed to act as escort. These officers were instructed that on no account were they to allow either the mail cart or Graham out of their sight; he was to be kept well secured with a chain round his neck and to the cart, whilst his left hand was handcuffed to the chain. The authorities were not taking any risk of his escaping en route, despite his wound and in order that he should be as comfortable as possible in the circumstances, space for him to lie in the cart was provided. It was under those conditions that Graham was returned to Fremantle to complete his life sentence. Scott made his way across country after the shooting of Graham and was arrested on September 4 by Constable McAlinden in the Blackwood district.

With the marriage of John, Anne and Sarah and the departure of Walter and Charles, the family dynamics had changed dramatically. In 1868, Henry George Blechynden was 25 years, Thomas 19 years, Jesse 17 years and Joseph 15 years. They were all expected to assist Harrison on the farm. Harrison was now aged 66 years and Charlotte 56 years.

The Beverley townsite was established around 1868 and life became easier as people settled in the town and Government services were progressively introduced.

The following article indicates that a bush fire destroyed the house owned by "Mr Blechynden". We have not heard Harrison's home on 'Babbyalla' was demolished by fire. This is a bit of a mystery:

In 1869 Harrison and Charlotte were still on 'Babbyalla' and developing 'Mt Pleasant'. John, Sarah and Elizabeth were married and had moved away. Perhaps it could have been on the property of Henry George Blechynden. He was 26 years in 1869. His Obituary read: The late Mr Blechynden, as a young man took up land at Mt. Kokeby, the property being known as "Erindale." As this land was near 'Babbyalla' it is quite likely he was there in 1869.

Charles Edwin Blechynden (1848-1918) would have been 21 years of age. The obituary of his brother Walter Blechynden recorded: "In 1864, a youth of 18, he (Walter) walked to Bridgetown in company with his brother Edwin, and there joined his eldest brother, John. The three brothers rented "Wilgarrup," which was then owned by the late Charles Rose (uncle of the present owner, Mr. J. C. Rose)."

Recorded in the Bicentennial Dictionary of WA: Charles Edwin Blechynden: Farmer, Beverley "Seaton Ross" then Bridgetown, then Beverley, acquired "Roesland" 1888 & later "Red Hill". Employed 5 TIL men at Beverley 1865 & 1873/4.

Thomas was aged 20 years, Jesse aged 18 years and Joseph aged 16 years.

I guess we will never know. By the amount, of damages, it sounds like it was a substantial house. The mystery remains.

It is with much pain we have to announce the total destruction of Mr. Blechynden's homestead and property by a bush fire at Beverley. Bush fires have been raging for a length of time in that district, and notwithstanding that every exertion was made, by burning the grass around the house to arrest the advancing flames, when they met, a strong wind set in towards the house, carrying with it masses of burning grass. So rapid was the progress of the flames that there was barely time to extricate the horses before the whole of the premises were enveloped in a mass of fire--nothing escaped. The loss is estimated at £1000.

Charles 'Edwin' Blechynden for five years rented the property, 'Seaton Ross' from Mr. Johnson. During this time, Edwin met and courted a young woman named Caroline Davies, the daughter of Thomas Davies (1825-1902) and Matilda Edwards (1831-1887). Caroline, born in Guildford in 1850, had moved with her family to York in about 1858, at the age of about eight years of age.

BEVERLEY Our Journey Through Time, pg.78-79

By 1870 a second bridge had been constructed across the Avon, thus giving access to the eastern half of the new township. . .

By 1871 there were 44 families within the Beverley district, which was sufficient to form a number of civic and social bodies.

Charles Edwin Blechynden was married at St Pauls Anglican Church Beverley, WA [Reg. 3421], 24 Apr 1872 to Caroline Mary Davies. Registered under Edwin Blechynden.

Charles Blechynden employed 5 Ticket of Leave men in 1873/4. Following his 5 years at 'Seaton Ross' he went to 'Mount Pleasant' at Edwards Crossing, for three years. Charles 'Edwin' and Caroline Blechynden's children were born in the following places: Frank in Beverley 1873, Alice in Bridgetown in 1875, Albert in Beverley in 1877, Ernest in Beverley in 1878, Sydney at 'Seaton Ross' in 1881, Horace at 'Seaton Ross' in 1882, Herbert in Beverley in 1886 and Alick in Beverley in 1892. In 1888 he purchased 'Roesland', so called because it was surveyed by Mr. Roe. After this he purchased on Government condition, 'Redhill'. More details can be found in Charles Edwin's Individual chapter.

As well as running the business side of the house and farm, Charlotte enjoyed visiting her married children and grandchildren, which were increasing in numbers.

Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus)

Henry George, Thomas Harrison, Jesse William and Joseph continued to help their father on the farm which by now was a large and busy concern, running horses, cattle, sheep and pigs. They were kept busy attending sales, looking after and processing beef, sheep and pigs.

It was a sad day for Charlotte and the family when Harrison Blechynden died at 'Babbyalla' on the 17 Jul 1873 [Reg. 6696], (recorded under Bleychenden), aged 71 years. The funeral took place at St Paul's Church, Edwards Crossing and he was laid to rest at the Edwards Crossing Cemetery, Beverley, WA.

BLEECHYNDEN.—At his residence Babbalella, Beverly, July 17th, HARRISON, only son of the late John Blechynden Esq., of Bonnington, Kent,. The deceased was born at Canterbury, April 26th, 1802. Arrived in this colony, January, 1830. Leaves a widow, seven sons, and two daughters, to mourn his sudden death.

One can imagine a big attendance at the funeral of Harrison Blechynden, who was a well-known and respected settler, one of the first in the district. He and his wife Charlotte had brought up a family of ten children, nine of who had now gone on to establish their own farms.

SACRED

TO THE MEMORY OF HARRISON BLECHYNDEN
WHO DIED JULY 17TH 1873
AGED 73 (SIC, SHOULD BE 71) YEARS.
MY BODY LIES BENEATH THE SOD
SUMMONED HERE IN HASTE,
PARDON MY SINS MY GRACIOUS GOD
ERE I BEHOLD THY FACE.

Note: there is a discrepancy with the age he died on the headstone. Harrison Blechynden was born 1802, Bonnington, Kent. England, baptised 26 May 1802, St Mary Bredman, Canterbury, England. He died aged ~ 71 years.

Life continued on with Henry George and the three youngest sons, Thomas Harrison, Jesse and Joseph working the farm at 'Babbyalla'. Charlotte was aged 61 years, Henry George was now aged 30 years, Thomas 24 years, Jesse 22 years and Joseph 20 years.

At the time of Harrison's death, four of their nine children; John, Anne, Sarah Harrison, and Charles Edwin, were married, and Harrison and Charlotte had twenty grandchildren.

John and Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green) had seven children: John, George, Edwin, Charlotte (deceased), James, Arthur, Alfred and Ernest.

Sarah Harrison (nee Blechynden) and John Markham Page had four children: Susannah Markham, James Henry, Martha Markham and John.

Anne (nee Blechynden) and Thomas Edwards had six children: Samuel Harrison, Ross Frederick, Louis Ayling, Arthur William, Florence Elizabeth, Andrew Thomas (died at the age of 2 years) and Walter Ernest.

Charles Blechynden and Caroline (nee Davies) had three children: Frank, Alice, and Albert.

Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus)

Walter Edward Blechynden (1846-1940) was married on 27 Oct 1873 at the Picton Anglican Church, Bunbury, WA [Reg. 3638], to Jane Needs (1855-1948). This was just three months after Harrison died. Walter and his bride settled and raised their children on his property 'Glenpennant', Wilgarrup, which was close to the future townsite of Manjimup, declared in 1910.

One can imagine that Charlotte and her family all travelled from their various homes now scattered around the state and gathered together at Bunbury for the wedding.

Charlotte may very well have continued on to stay for a while with John and Elizabeth in their home, which was the first built in the newly named town of Bridgetown. John and Elizabeth Blechynden now had seven children all under 13 years: John William - born 1861, George - born 1862, Edwin - born 1864, James - born 1866, Charlotte - born 1868 and sadly died 1869, Arthur - born 1870, Alfred - born 1871 and Ernest - born just 4 days before his grandfather's death.

Almost a year after his father's death, Henry George Blechynden (1843-1927) was married in York, WA [Reg. 3772], to Mary Ann Reilly (1850-1923) on 7 May 1874. R/C. Registered under H G Blechynden. Mary Anne was born in 1850, Rotunda Barracks, Dublin, Ireland, the daughter of John Reilly (1818-1902) (Corporal) and Mary Ann Stafford (1835-1907). She came to Perth, WA on 19 Aug 1859, with her parents as a young girl, her father, at that time being one of the Pensioner Guards on the transport ship Sultana. She grew up with her brothers and sisters at Guildford.

Surmising: that Henry took his bride back to 'Babbyalla'. Following the evacuation of 'Babbyalla' in 1888, Henry George Blechynden, took up land at 'Mt Kokeby', the property being known as 'Erindale.' This was across the other side of the Avon River from 'Babbyalla'. More details can be read in their Individual chapter.

Thomas 'Harrison' Blechynden began to court a young woman named Annie Maria Dunham, daughter of Caroline Wright (Nee Porley) and William Dunham. Thomas Harrison Blechynden (1849-1933) was married, at the Anglican Church, Northam, WA [Reg. 4372], to Annie Maria Dunham (1850-1933) on 24 Sep 1877, registered in Fremantle. More details can be read in their individual chapters.

It was recorded that in 1877 Thomas Harrison Blechynden signed a petition regarding discrimination against expiirees. Following the evacuation of 'Babbyalla' (see later) in 1888, Thomas became a farmer at Wagin.

In 1916 Jesse Blechynden began to take notice of Annie Maria's younger sister Emma Sarah Dunham who often visited her sister and her husband, Thomas at 'Babbyalla'. Romance blossomed and Jesse William Blechynden (1851-1934) was married on 13 Sep 1882 at York, Reg. No. 5431] to Emma Sarah Dunham (1862-1947).

Note: Two Blechynden brothers married two Dunham sisters. More details can be read in their Individual chapters.

Life was not easy following Harrison's death, and Charlotte was put under a lot of stress. When two of her flocks of sheep became infected with scab, she did her best to remedy the situation by washing them in a pool at Butlers Pool, on 'Mt. Pleasant', in the Avon River. The following newspaper articles show that the consequences were devastating for Charlotte and she was fined 10 pounds per head.

Avon River

Prior to European settlement, the Avon River was a complex braided channel with many small channels interweaving between islands of vegetation. The riverbed supported many deep, shady pools and the associated woodlands supported a complex and dynamic ecosystem. After European settlement, the river was used as a domestic water supply, for watering stock, and as a source of fish and game, and formed the centre of many recreational activities for local residents. Land clearing of the Avon River catchment began early in the 1900s.

Mrs. Blechynden, for washing two flocks of infected sheep upon her own quarantine ground, was fined ten pounds per head, amounting to something over eleven thousand pounds. Three other persons washed clean sheep in the same pool, and were allowed to go scot free, although the pool being within quarantine ground, their action was much more likely to spread infection than that of Mrs. Blechynden. The pool in question belongs to two persons, one on either side of the river." Mrs. Blechynden, we understand, pleaded ignorance of the law, and certainly unless she had studied the Act, it would have been unlikely to occur to her that she was committing an offence by washing sheep in a pool within her quarantine ground. The magistrate pointed out that it rested with His Excellency whether the penalty should be exacted, and we have no doubt that His Excellency will favourably consider what appears on the face of it, to be a very hard case.

We, her descendants on discovering these newspaper articles in Trove were horrified at this turn of events. In the newspaper articles she pleaded ignorance and many sympathised with her situation. Many hours were spent searching Trove in the hope of finding that she was pardoned by the Governor.

17 Dec 1881 - THE WEEK. (nla.gov.au)

Our readers may remember that early in last October Mrs. C. A. Blechynden, of Beverley, was fined no less than $11,400, by the York bench for having committed a breach of the Seab Act by washing eleven hundred and forty sheep in Butler's Pool Beverley. Upon such an extraordinary penalty being inflicted Mrs. Blechynden laid the matter before His Excellency the Governor, and we are informed that last Tuesday His Excellency was pleased to reduce the fine to £20. We are glad that His Excellency saw his way clear to reducing to a reasonable sum a penalty, the enforcement of which, would have meant simply utter ruin to fan old and highly respected resident.

We were relieved to discover that common sense prevailed.

In 1888 Charles Edwin Blechynden purchased 'Roesland', so called because it was surveyed by Mr. Roe at the time, he surveyed the Beverley township. Following the evacuation of 'Babbyalla', Charlotte and Joseph had moved to live with Charles Edwin and his wife Caroline. Charles and Caroline now had six children: Frank Harrison born 1873, Alice Matilda born 1875, Albert Edwin born 1877 (sadly died at the age of five months), Ernest Walter born 1878, Sydney Thomas born 1881, Horace Edwin born 1882 and Herbert William born 1886. (Alick George Robus was not yet born).

Concerned for their future a letter was written in 1888 by Charlotte Blechynden requesting a grant of land. She said that she and her husband had rented a farm from Mr Hamersley for 44 years and also leased Crown Land. Sadly, this was not to be realized:

Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus) died on 13 Sep 1889 at the residence of her son Charles Edwin Blechynden at 'Roesland', Beverley. This was a very sad time for the whole family as their mother had been a loving mother and remained strong for them all. She had dearly loved all her grandchildren.

HEADSTONE OF HARRISON BLECHYNDEN AND CHARLOTTE BELCHYNDEN (NEE ROBUS)

SACRED

*To the memory of Harrison Blechynden
who died July 17th 1873
aged 73 (sic), should be 71) years.
My body lies beneath the sod
Summoned here in haste,
Pardon my sins my gracious God
Ere I behold thy face.*

The following words were added to the headstone:

*Also, his beloved wife
Charlotte Augusta Blechynden who died 13th Sept 1889 aged 77 years
Thy will be done.*

At the time of Charlotte's death, Sep 1889, eight of her ten children were married. Jessie deceased 1846 and Joseph married in 1893. She now had 48 grandchildren, including 1 fostered (Ernest Dunham). Another 11 grandchildren were born after Charlotte's death. Charlotte never met any of her 203 great grandchildren as they were all born after she died.

John and Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green) had eleven out of thirteen surviving children: John William. George Harrison, Edwin, James, Charlotte (dec), died on 17 Jun 1869 aged 15 months; Arthur, Alfred, Ernest Charles, Herbert, Amy, Clarence, May and (Ada (dec), died in 1881 at the age of 4 years.

Sarah (nee Blechynden) and John Markham Page had six children: Susannah Markham, James Henry, Martha Markham, John, Maria, Bertha,

Elizabeth (nee Blechynden) and Thomas Edwards had eight children: Samuel Harrison, Ross Frederick, Louis Ayling, Arthur William, Florence Elizabeth, Andrew Thomas (died at the age of 2 years), Walter Ernest and Peter Abner Henry George Blechynden and Mary Anne (nee Reilly) had four children: Henry Herbert, William Harrison, Arthur and Kathleen Mary.

Walter Edward Blechynden and Jane (nee Needs) had nine children plus two born after Charlotte died: Benjamin Harrison, Clara Anne, Charlotte Jane, Lila Rubus, Elena Evelyn, Alma Mercy, Hazel Minna, Hilda Blanche and Laura Jane, plus Clayton Ashley and Enid Maud born after 1889.

Charles Blechynden and Caroline (nee Davies) had seven children plus one born after Charlotte died: Frank Harrison, Alice Matilda, Albert Edwin, Ernest Walter, Sydney Thomas, Horace Edwin, and Hubert William pus Alick George Robus born after 1889

Thomas Harrison Blechynden and Annie Maria Dunham had no children: *Benjamin Lewis Blechynden (fostered from Jesse and Emma) was born after 1889.

Jesse William Blechynden and Emma Sarah (nee Dunham) had two children prior to 1889: Frederick William, Ernest Dunham (fostered) and Ida May. From 1889 onwards the following five children were added to the family: Benjamin Lewis (brought up by Thomas Harrison and Annie Marie Dunham from the age of 20 months), Alfred Walter, Evelyn Annie, George Seymour (twin, died aged 1 month), Horace Ernest.

Joseph and Grace Blechynden (nee Hancock) had two children after Charlotte died: George and Grace.

Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus) ended up having a total of 59 grandchildren including 1 fostered, (Ernest Dunham) and 203 great grandchildren. The mind boggles at thinking of the number of descendants from this couple in 2023.

INTERVIEW WITH GEORGE BLECHYNDEN RE HIS FAMILY AND EARLY LIFE IN PINGELLY.

1987, English, Book edition: [Interview with George Bruce Blechynden] / [interviewed by Chris Jeffery].

<https://trove.nla.gov.au/work/159320946?q&versionId=173666673>

The full typed out version of this interview covers 8 pages so is not included here. It mainly outlines George's, son of Joseph introduced above, and his family's life in the Pingelly area.

His Grandfather Harrison Blechynden is mentioned in the extract below. As written above, schooling for most people was virtually non-existent in those days. In the interview George says of his father Joseph: "My father had no education at all, only what he could pick up from reading books. He could just sign his name". George stated his own education was limited and that he only attended school for "one and a half years".

Life in the colony was fraught with hardship and difficulty in those days. Harrison worked hard to make a life for his family. As the boys (George's uncles) came of age and left one by one, Harrison would very- likely have come across as grumpy and disillusioned in later years which could explain George's unfortunate understanding of his grandfather.

George Blechynden was born twenty-one years after his grandfather's death, and never knew Harrison Blechynden. His understanding of the difficulties under which the colony developed was through his father Joseph's experiences growing up in the Beverley and Pingelly district and stories he had been told.

Impressions, memories and stories often become exaggerated over time so we hope Harrison was not like the impression George was given of him.

The following section contains articles and photos with reference to the district and town of Beverley past and present.

'Babbyalla'

Compiled by Shane Negus in 2018

Shane grew up until he was 15, on 'Babbyalla'

My parents Geoffrey and Shirley Negus (nee Edwards) farmed 'Babbyalla Hills' from 1940 to 1985. They continue to live in Beverley, in a house within the town precincts. They told the story that 'Babbyalla' is a Noongar phrase (or a derivation of one) meaning 'place of running water'. This doesn't make a great deal of sense to me because it is high ground and there's no significant creek or body of water on the hill itself. It does afford wonderful views of Beverley township and Avon Valley to the north-west.

'Babbyalla Hills', near the town of Beverley

I should add that 'Babbyalla Hills' was the name of a farm that has varied in size greatly since freehold title was first granted back in the 1840s, I think it was. When my parents owned it, it was not much more than 1,000 acres in area - much smaller than the original allotment. When they sold it in 1985, the farm was subsumed into the farm owned by next-door-neighbours, the Curtin family.

I can't tell you exactly who named the hills and the farm but there's a history of Beverley that offers some details about the early days. It's entitled Beverley: Our journey through time by Glen McLaren and William Cooper, and it was published by the Shire of Beverley in 2002. Just looking at this now, it seems the original spelling was 'Babbyella'. It appears the first owner of what became the 'Babbyella' estate was one William Tanner, a major landholder in the colony of Western Australia. At that time, the farm comprised 4,338 acres.

Then, to quote, McLaren and Cooper: "In 1844 West Guildford gentleman farmer Edward Hamersley acquired 'Babbyella' estate... He leased the property to Harrison Blechynden, who had arrived in WA as an indentured servant to Swan Valley pioneer William Brockman. Blechynden and his family took up residence almost immediately." This was in the very, early days of the Beverley district.

My own knowledge of 'Babbyalla Hills' is limited to the first 15 years of my life, after which I moved to Perth for study and a teaching career. My aging parents (Dad, 90, Mum, 87) are still alive. (Ed. 2018, see note at the end.) Mum was an Edwards from Morbinning, and I know some of the Edwards' married a Blechynden or two, but I'm hazy about details.

My father, Geoff, his father, George, and mother, Sylvia. Photo taken at 'Babbyalla' homestead c. late 1940s.

The original farmhouse, 'Babbyalla Hills', Beverley

I know there is a mob of Blechies in Bridgetown and another in Beverley but have never known if there's a familial connection between them or not. I gather they all go back to Harrison and Charlotte to a greater or lesser degree.

I will be up front and declare that my parents know next to nothing about the history of 'Babbyalla Hills' beyond the fact the Hammersley's owned it before they did (final purchase in the 1950s; before that leased). They also claim that the property was called "Q" on government maps for "Queen (Victoria)" but I have no idea if there's any substance to that, nor what it might signify.

I'm afraid they will know even less about 'St Aubyns' which, was a separate property in our time owned by the Chester family (I think they might still do so).

I will, of course, ask if Mum and Dad can add anything more. Naturally they will have plenty of memories of farming out there and I'm sure we'll be able to dig up some photos.

We are not related to the Hamersley's. Indeed, the last member of that family who lived in Beverley, Eddie (Edward) was our next-door-neighbour when we lived in town during the 1960s.

You asked if there are any traces of the original buildings. In fact, I believe the old shearing shed, built in the 1870s or '80s, is heritage listed.

I'm pretty sure it's still standing (and certainly was when I last visited the property in 2009).

Shearing shed, 'Babbyalla', early 1980s just before it was re-roofed. Full of "character" eh?

The original farmhouse is a ruin, not much more than a pile of rocks. All of this is now owned by Ted and Dorothy Sampson. They bought the 30-acre hobby farm my parents had excised from the larger farm when they sold 'Babbyalla Hills' to the Curtin family in 1985.

I should add while I think of it that my grandparents, George and Sylvia Negus, took up lease of 'Babbyalla Hills' in 1940. My father was 12 years of age at the time, and he had a younger brother, Brian, who was just four. They had been farming in York before the move to Beverley.

The house was abandoned as a home in 1968 after George and Sylvia Negus moved into a newly built farmhouse further up the hill. Photo taken c. 1978. (Now in much more ruinous condition)

There are some other interesting facts which connect the Edwards and Blechynden families in Beverley. My great-great-grandfather, Thomas Edwards, Beverley's first police officer and later a successful farmer, leased 'Babbyalla' from B. Hamersley and E.A. Hamersley from 1st Jun 1896 to 31st May 1897. I have a copy of the lease agreement. Whether the lease was renewed beyond the latter date, I have no idea. The other connection between the families is that my mother's aunt, Ethel Edwards, married Ernest (Ernie) Blechynden. They had four children: John, Ada, Don and Patricia. Ernie died in 1955, Ethel 30 years later.

I expect that I am related to the Blechies of BE courtesy of Ernie and Ethel B's offspring. My mother was first cousin to their children (John Ada, Don, Pat), which makes me something-or-other cousin to them and their children.

I am intrigued that there was a barracks initially on 'St Aubyns' which of course was right next door. The map in the Beverley Book helps me to visualize the properties.

My pleasure to have offered the information. I'll pass your wishes along to Mum and Dad, to be sure!

View to Beverley from the eastern flank of 'Babbyalla' Hill, taken 1970s:

And, yes, I agree, McLaren and Cooper did handle the history of conflict between Noongars and Wadjelahs in the early colonial period really well. Sadly, the legacy of that ugly conflict is still largely unresolved and can't be, in my opinion, until the Reconciliation process is taken much further. Difficult, when there is still so much ignorance, denial of what happened, and entrenched racism in the community. We will get there, I'm sure, but probably not in my lifetime.

I wasn't aware that there were barracks on the 'St Aubyns' estate, but it doesn't surprise me, given the threats faced by the isolated early settlers as Noongars naturally sought to defend their lands from what they perceived as invaders. As I understand it, barracks were dotted all over the Avon Valley.

Following looking at a copy of the 1859 Census relating to the Blechynden family on 'Babbyalla':

Quarter of an acre kitchen garden attests to the number of mouths to be fed! That's enormous by modern domestic standards. My parents kept pigs and sheep on the property, and my grandparents' horses and cattle as well, so there's been quite a bit of continuity.

As I would have expected, the emphasis was much more on grazing animals in Harrison and Charlotte's time than in my parents', who concentrated much more on cropping of wheat, barley and oats.

Brett Negus (my younger brother) driving tractor, 'Babbyalla Hills' farm, c. 1978

Harvesting equipment, 'Babbyalla Hills', mid-1970s

Yes, all those vicissitudes of pioneering life in the early colonial period - and, doubtless, the added nagging worry about possible attacks from the Noongar Ballardong people! It seems Harrison, Charlotte and children were spared any bloodshed on that front.

As children, Sharyn, Brett and I would sometimes come across stone implements around the property that had clearly been hewn and used by Noongar people, possibly many millennia before Europeans ever arrived in the Avon Valley. Sadly, we didn't think to keep any of them, so they were thrown aside. I expect they're still lying around 'Babbyalla'.

One line of the Edwards family (Ethel's mob) lost two young brothers to venomous snake bite - two children of their eight! I guess the high child mortality rate of those times -- (much lower than in the 'stews' of London and other English cities, mind) -- was a one of the reasons parents had such large families.

So much has happened since 2018 when the first part of this article was written. Sadly, that includes the death of my father, at 90 years old, in July 2019. It was a mercy in as much as he was suffering from a number of serious ailments at the time. He achieved what he had long declared to be his aim - to die in his own home, not a hospital or aged care institution. We scattered Dad's ashes in bushland on the old place, with the consent of the present owners, the Shaw family (Lew, father, and Brett, son). BTW what had been 'Babbyalla Hills' passed into their hands when the Curtin's sold their farm to them.

1968-1985: following George Negus' death in October 1968, ownership and management of 'Babbyalla Hills' was carried on by Geoffrey and Shirley Negus. They had a difficult start, with death duties to be paid on the Estate of George Negus and a crippling drought in 1969 which almost bankrupted the business. They kept their heads above water- and the banks at bay- through sheer hard work and shrewd business decisions in the ensuing years. I'm sure it set our family up to achieve so much more than if they'd lost the farm. Not only did my siblings and I receive excellent education and career opportunities, but the next generation--their grandchildren--have been able to flourish, epitomised in my eldest daughter's attainment of a Masters of Law degree at Harvard University.

Beverley – Two Essays

The following two excellent winning essays present a history of Beverley describing the conditions within the Beverley district and the development of the town Beverley during the time Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden lived, farmed there and brought up their family. They contain a wealth of information and gives one an idea of the conditions which our Blechyndens' experienced and are well worth a read.

EARLY HISTORY OF BEVERLEY

In the State's Centenary year of 1929 a competition was conducted by this newspaper for the best history of the Beverley district which was among the first to be settled following the foundation of the colony. The Essays were judged by Dr. J. S. Battye and the first prize went to Miss Linda Wansbrough (now Mrs. William. Robins). It has been suggested that another generation of readers may be interested in this short history and accordingly we have pleasure in republishing it below:—

"THE HISTORY OF BEVERLEY"

If we wished to see Beverley in a virgin state, we would have to go back to the early thirties, as that was the time our district was surveyed.

About this period the Government sent surveyors to divide the land into blocks, and owing to the unfriendliness of the natives, these men were accompanied by soldiers to protect them and the early settlers who later began to arrive. The Barracks which the soldiers occupied were built, one on the Dale River near Waterhatch, and the other on St. Aubyn's Estate, and it was at this latter Barrack that a soldier was speared and killed by natives.

Some of the first families to settle in the Beverley district were the Smiths, Lennards, and Brouns, and on the Dale, the Whittingtons, Kersley, Hancock, and Bartrams, while among the earliest in the Bally Bally and County Peak districts were the Blechyndens, Robins, Edwards and Kilpatrick families.

Concerning the townsite of Beverley, perhaps I should say that the original place intended for same, is where St. Paul's Church at Edward's Crossing is now situated. Owing to shortage of Government land space, the present site was surveyed in about 1870 by the late Sir John Forrest, who named the principal streets; two after himself and the main street after his assistant Vincent.

It was during this year that the bridge over the Avon River near St. Paul's Church was constructed by convicts, who also partly made the road from

In 1872 the town of Beverley consisted of five buildings, one of which are still standing. One of these was the first to be built and was then known as the "Settlers' Arms", which is now called the "ad Finish". The second building is the Old Police Station, Hunt Road, and which was in charge of police constable Thomas Edwards, who was the first contractor and also District Registrar.

Not long after this railway was completed, the small town of Beverley was the scene of great activity, when on October 20th, 1886, a train load of visitors, including departmental heads, arrived from Perth to witness the "turning of the first sod" of the Great Southern Railway by His Excellency Governor Broome. Up till about 1902 the terminus of the Government Railway was Beverley, all trains stabling there overnight, and the refreshment rooms were built to accommodate through passengers.

During the period of '86 there were not many business places in our town; only two hotels, the old "Settlers' Arms" and the Freemasons, Mrs. Sewell's store in the same building, a boot-maker's shop, and another store and butchery owned by Mr. Horace Smith. The room now used for goods on the Railway Station, was about this time used for Anglican services, conducted by Beverley's first Station Master, Mr. James Drake Brockman. Mrs. Brockman conducted the

The second building is the old Police Station in Hunt Road, in 1872 the Police Station was in charge of Police Constable Edwards, these two places coupled with another old house on Hunt Road are Beverley's oldest buildings.

In those days before the railway was connected, the mail was carried on horseback from York to Beverley, and so on around the Dale, by Mr. Bartram Senior, the first mail contractor and also District Registrar.

The first Anglican minister to come to Beverley was the Reverend Lynch and resided at Gilgering until later the Reverend Canon Groser took up his residence at "Wannering" where he lived until St Mary's Church and the present Rectory were built in 1890.

The first school to be erected was a small place on the Avondale Estate, and which in later years was removed to its present position.

Mr. James Drake Brockman. Mrs. Brockman conducted the Sunday School then, and later at the State School, and that lady's memory is revered by quite a number of old time residents for the good work she then initiated, and St. Mary's Church really is a monument to her and her husband's early efforts.

In later years the Methodist and Catholic Churches were established, the latter under the good Father from York, and the former by a Mr. Mawson.

In the earlier periods, Beverley's water supply consisted of wells and the river, the late Thomas Edwards of Rockfield supplying residents with water from his wells at 2s. 6d. per hogshead for drinking purposes. In those times the present site of the Avon bridge, on Monday mornings, presented quite a variety of colours on clothes lines, when some of the housewives dealt with the weekly wash. At that time the water in the river was much fresher than now and, indeed by some, had to be used for all domestic purposes. It was not till 1907-8 that the present supply was obtained.

The first street lights used were acetylene gas and were few in number; the electric light was adopted in about 1911 by the late Mr. P. Lambert.

The first motor vehicle to come to Beverley was a motor carriage on high wheels, and was then popularly known as the "Joy Bird". It was owned by the late Mr. de Lisle, and its chief characteristic was a stream of fire from the rear which at night time resembled a comet, as the "Joy Bird" careered along. It was the main source of earnings to Beverley's first motor mechanic Mr. Dean, then in his early stages, and he later became the proud possessor of it.

Early day amusements were limited to the annual Fair (Agricultural Show), Races and Foundation Day Sports, and were red letter days for young and old. Races in those days were different from to-day; every horse was a trier, punters and bookies being unknown, although bets were made between man and man, but the sport generally was clean.

Cricket at that time was the popular summer game; Beverley then, as now, holding its own with surrounding districts, and perhaps it would be interesting to mention some of the best players at that game. They were the late T. Davey, Sampee, J. Sewell, H. and E. Monger, J. Cahill, also W. V. Brown, J. Smith, L. A. Edwards and D. and E. Bereton, —who are still residents of the Beverley district.

I might also mention that in those days the affairs of the town were controlled by a Mayor and Councillors, Beverley's first Mayor being the late Mr. William Smith. In later years the municipality passed out of existence, and from that time the Beverley Road Board has had authority over the whole of the district.

This brings me to the close of the old period or rather to the commencement of present day businesses. The district which has advanced with the times, in all its avenues, stands to-day among the most solid, being particularly noted for its sheep industry. First in both wool and mutton, it is destined to an important part in the production of fat lambs for export, besides holding its own in every other branch of agricultural production.

In this the Centenary Year of the State, we occupy a proud position in the making of the State's industries.

We are proud of our Home town; we are proud of our hinterland; we honour our district's Pioneers who blazed the track and made it possible for us to benefit by their experiences, and we pay a tribute to their memories, in this our Centenary year, for their British pluck and endurance which enabled history to be made.

About 1875 the first flour mill to serve the Beverley district was built at Yangedine, and was of the stone process; that is, the grain was ground between stones and driven by steam. A roller flour mill was established on the banks of the Avon about 1896, this was destroyed by fire on Christmas Day 1906.

Beverley's first Post Office was in the old Police Station building and was later in the Railway Station yards adjoining the present Co-Op buildings site. About 1880 came an important step in the advancement of civilisation, in the form of a telegraph line being built from York to Beverley.

Perhaps an even more important step was taken when in 1886, the railway line was also constructed from York, as up to that date horse trams were the usual form of conveyance.

Not long after this railway was completed, the small town of Beverley was the scene of great activity, on October 20th. 1886 a train load of visitors, including departmental heads, arrived from Perth to witness the "turning of the first sod" of the Great Southern Railway by his Excellency Governor Broome. Up 'till about 1902 the this time used for Anglican Services, conducted by Beverley's first Stationmaster Mr. Drake Brockman. Mrs. Brockman conducted the Sunday School then, and later at the State School, this lady's memory is revered by quite a number of old-time residents for the good work she then initiated, and St Mary's Church is a monument to her and her husband's early efforts.

In later years the Methodist and Catholic Churches were established, the latter under the good Father from York and the former by a Mr. Mawson.

In the earlier periods Beverley's water supply consisted of wells and the river, the late Thomas Edwards of Rockfield supplying residents with water from his wells at two shillings and sixpence a hogshead for drinking purposes. In those times the present site of the Avon Bridge on Monday mornings presented quite a variety of colours on clothes lines when some of the housewives dealt with the weekly wash. At that time the water in the river was much fresher than now and some had to be used for all domestic purposes. It was not until 1907 - 1908 that the present supply was obtained. The first streetlights used were acetylene gas and were few in number; electric light was adopted in about 1911 by the late Mr. P. Lambert.

The first motor vehicle to come to Beverley was a motor carriage on high wheels and was then popularly known as the "Joy Bird". It was owned by the late Mr. de Lisle, and its chief characteristic was stream of fire from the rear which at night time resembled a comet as the "Joy Bird" careered along. It was the main source of earnings to Beverley's first motor mechanic, Mr. Dean, then in his early stages, and he later became the proud possessor of it. Early day amusements were limited to the annual Fair (Agricultural Show), Races and Foundation Day Sports, and were red letter days for young and old. Races in those days were different from today; every horse was a trier, punters and bookies being unknown, although bets were made between man and man, but the sport generally was clean. Cricket at that time was the popular summer game; Beverley then, as now, holding its own with surrounding districts, and perhaps it would be interesting to mention some of the best players at that game. They were the late T. Davey, Sampee, J. Sewell, H. and E. Monger, J. Cahill, also W. V. Brown, J. Smith, L. A. Edwards, and D. and E. Bereton, all who are still residents of the Beverley district. I might also mention that in those days the affairs of the town were controlled by a Mayor and Councillors, Beverley's first Mayor being the late Mr. William Smith. In later years the municipality passed out of existence, and from that time the Beverley Road Board has had authority over the whole of the district. This brings me to the close of the old period or rather to the commencement of present-day businesses. The district which has advanced with the times, in all its avenues, stands to-day among the most solid, being particularly noted for its sheep industry. First in both wool and mutton, it is destined to an important part in the production of fat lambs for export, besides holding its own in every other branch of agricultural production. In this the Centenary Year of the State, we occupy a proud position in the making of the State's industries. We are proud of our Hometown; we are proud of our hinterland; we honour our district's Pioneers who blazed the track, and made it possible for us to benefit by their experiences, and we pay a tribute to their memories in this our Centenary year, for their British pluck and endurance which enabled history to be made.

Note: - The editor of the Beverley Times made comment when awarding the prize for this and other essays that they were written with no textbooks involved but was the work of the author's own scholarship and by gleaning the knowledge of the people who were pioneers in the district.

'THE HISTORY OF BEVERLEY.'

[Below we publish another interesting essay on the history of our town and district, sent in by Miss L. Mann, a competitor in the recent competition.]

During the wild stormy morning of May the 14th, 1830, the good ship "Rockingham" was wrecked on the coast of Western Australia at the bay now known as Rockingham.

Luckily her passengers were able to disembark without loss of life, and among those passengers were the Edwards and Drapers who settled in the York district, but about eight or nine years later came to Beverley.

The late Mr. William Edwards bought the "Speldhurst" and "Mount Pleasant" property, of which his grandsons Louis and Arthur are now in possession, and the late Mr. Draper purchased "Westbourne."

Although Beverley was surveyed as a townsite in 1830, it remained a scattered district for many years, and "Edwards" (three miles North of Beverley) was the trading centre in those days. The ruins of Mr. Wansbrough's shop are still visible on the "Seaton Ross" road almost opposite St. Paul's Church.

In 1830 the West Australian Government stationed soldiers at "St. Aubyns" (now Mr. H. M. Fisher's property), and "The Barracks" (Mr. J. I. Mann's property). The natives were hostile in those days, and several of the soldiers paid the supreme price through the treachery of the natives.

One black murderer named Dhurki-cock, was killed on the sandplain East of St. Aubyns, which is now known as "Turkey-cock" Sandplain.

The late Richard Dale, after whom the Dale, Dale River, and Dale Bridge is called, was an Ensign of the 63rd Regiment. He explored portion of the eastern districts in October and November in the year 1830.

One of the first Churches built in the State is "St Paul's" at Edwards'. The late Mr. William Edwards presented the five acres of land and the Parish built the Church, and Miss Wells (afterwards Mrs. S Parker, of Dangin) gave the bell. (She also presented "St. Peter's" of Gilgering, with a bell.) Thirty years later, during a very stormy day in September, when the granddaughter of the late William Edwards was being married to the late Mr. John Gibson Mann, the old tree to which the bell was attached, was unable to sustain the joyful peals, so the bell came to earth. Now it welcomes the parishioners to "St. Mary's" in Beverley. "St. Paul's" first minister was the Rev Mr. Lynch, who journeyed from Gilgering each week. His daughter is Mrs. Frank Fleay, of Gilgering.

The late Mr. J. W. Broun (senior) became the owner of the Dale Bridge lands, in the early thirties, which property is still in the possession of his descendants. Beverley is proud of her sons, as the late Mr. Peter Nicholas Broun was West Australia's first Colonial Secretary, then some years later his grand-son the Honourable Frank T. Broun held the same office.

Another very early settler is the late Mr. Jas. Fleay. He first saw the light of day in "Gilgering House," and was the first owner of the "Talbot" estate. His son, the late Mr. John E. J. Fleay, was born at "Talbot House" January 22, 1864. Now his grandsons are the owners of the grand old homestead.

Another very early settler, who entered upon farming pursuits, is the late Mr. Strange. His descendants are still in possession of his land on the Dale.

Messrs. Robert and Andrew Robins were among the first settlers on the Eastern side of Beverley, and "Annbrook" was first taken up as a pastoral lease by the late Mr. Jas. Edwards (son of the late William Edwards) when he was 19 years of age, in 1850.

Mr. David and the late Mrs. Kilpatrick were settled fairly early on the East of Beverley too. Mrs. Kilpatrick's parents (Mr. and Mrs. Geo Hancock) arrived in West Australia by the ship "Warrior" in 1830, and quickly purchased the property known as "Aubrey Hill," where Mr. Everett Hancock now resides.

During the sixties and seventies settlers began to arrive in larger numbers, so the regiments evacuated "St. Aubyns" and "The Barracks," and were replaced by a Police Officer and his black trackers, so Beverley's first Policeman was the late Mr. Thos. Edwards, who arrived here from Wales about the fifties. He was a grand old man, and his adventures, if recorded, would satisfy the most ardent reader of stirring adventures.

When the late Mr. Thos. Edwards retired from the Police Force and entered upon farming pursuits, he was succeeded by the late Mr. Hackett, who was killed by 'ticket of leave' men. After spending the evening with his wife and newly born babe, Mr. Hackett walked down York Road from the Police Station (which building is still intact on the hill in Hunt Road), and was met by a man named Carbury, on the site of Mr. Dean's Garage.

Carbury, who had been released from prison a few days before, asked Mr. Hackett for a match, and while Mr. Hackett was granting his request, a man named Miller came silently behind him and smashed his skull with a blacksmith's big hammer. During the hue and cry which followed, Miller and Carbury were joined by another man named Brown.

Mr. John McKenna, now a retired Inspector of the Police Force, arrived in Beverley, and with the assistance of Messrs. 100 YEARS OF EDUCATION IN BEVERLEY

100yrs. of education in

Although it is unlikely that many district families will have occasion to remember the fact, 1973 marks the centenary of education in the Beverley district — the first school built under official sanction having been constructed at the Vincent Street site (approximately where the Shire Council offices now stand) in 1873. The locality was then known as South Beverley, this by reason of the fact that Beverley was originally planned at a site nearer Edwards Crossing.

It is believed that there was an earlier school located on what is now Mr Geoff Barrett-Lennard's Annandale property.

Mr. H. T. ("Bubs") Edwards of Morbining, who has always taken the keenest interest in district history, has supplied us with considerable researched detail concerning the construction of the first school, from documents in the possession of Mr A. W. Edwards, of Dawson Street, Beverley.

It is believed that the first teacher at the "Annandale" school was a Miss Sewell, and three of her pupils are known to have been Tom Edwards jnr (son of Beverley's first police constable — Thomas Edwards), Lou Edwards, of "Speldhurst" farm, and Billy Otway, son of one of the earliest settlers at the Dale.

These boys were born in about 1862, so it is obvious that they were attending this school just a few years prior to the construction of the new building at "South Beverley". The teacher supplied by the government for the new school could well have been the same Miss Sewell. However, no verification of this is available.

PROPOSALS FOR NEW BUILDING

From a public meeting of settlers late in 1872, representations asking for a school house at South Beverley were sent to the W.A. Government. These representations were successful to the extent that the Government was prepared to make a grant of land available and supply a teacher, if the settlers were willing to construct the school house themselves. The Government's proposals were accepted at a later meeting.

A subscription list was opened, plans and specifications drawn up, and a Building committee elected, comprised of the following: Thomas Edwards (police constable), Fred Smith and Alfred Smith (both farmers).

The plans called for a building 47 ft. x 13½ ft. with stone foundations 16" in depth. The walls were to be built of sundried bricks 9" wide made of "well tempered" clay, and the building was to be divided into three rooms: No. 1 to be 20ft. x 12ft. 'in the clear' with fire place and sash windows; No. 2 (sitting room) to be 12 ft. x 12 ft. with one sash window; and No. 3 (bedroom) also 12 ft. x 12 ft. with a sash window.

Walls were to be plastered and whitewashed, with a verandah 4 ft. wide around the building, and the floor was to be of "well tempered" clay. The roof was to be thatched with rushes, and the Committee was to bind themselves to do all the carting, and to find the timber for door and window frames and for the roof.

All materials were to be subject to the approval of the Building Committee, and the building was to be completed 2 months from the date of acceptance of the tender.

Tenders were called, and below is a copy of the tender that was finally accepted —

BEVERLEY,
January, 7, 1873.

Sirs,

I hereby tender to erect the school House according to that specified by the Working Committee, for the sum of £36 - a double water closet included - and complete the whole work in 2 months from the date of acceptance of tender.

The only outlying school still being maintained in the Beverley Shire is that at West Dale. There were increasing demands by the community for new and more adequate facilities, and after some years of discussion the Education Dept agreed, in the late 1940's, that a completely new structure should be provided at Beverley. This led to protracted discussion and argument as to just where it should be sited - the Dept. not wishing to embark on a building programme on the main thoroughfare and favouring a less centralised locality in keeping with its general policy at the time. This led to a decision to acquire land in John Street . . .

H. Blechynden was most probably Thomas Harrison Blechynden. (Harrison Blechynden died in 1873).

CHRISTMAS ROAST LAMB FOR DINNER - BEVERLEY WA TO BEVERLEY ENGLAND:

Beverley Times (WA: 1905 - 1977), Fri 10 Feb 1933, pg 3

Beverley—England.

Beverley—England.

By the last English mail the following letter was received at the Road Board office from the Town Clerk of Beverley, England:

The Hall, Beverley
10th January, 1933.
Secretary, Beverley Road Board,
Beverley, W.A.

Dear Sir,

With further reference to your letter of the 10th September, 1932 to the Mayor, I am desired to inform you that the frozen lamb arrived in Beverley quite safely, and as you will see from the Report in the enclosed copy of the Beverley "Guardian" was enjoyed by the members of the Council and their wives at a dinner given by the Mayor on New Year's Eve. The toast of "Beverley, Australia" was enthusiastically received and I was instructed to convey to the Beverley Road Board the greetings of the Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors of the Borough, and to express their gratification at the kind sentiment which induced the Beverley Road Board to send such a Christmas box to Beverley, England.

I enclose herewith a Guide-book to Beverley, and also a pamphlet issued by Messrs. Richard Hodgson & Sons Ltd., Tanners of Beverley, describing their works, which is the principal industry of Beverley, and one of the largest and most up-to-date tanneries in the world.

With kind regards,
Yours faithfully,
Town Clerk.

The report from the "Guardian" reads as follows:

A very pleasing interchange of courtesies took place on Saturday last, when, at Rutherford's Cafe, on the invitation of the Mayor and Mayoress, about 40 guests (members of the Town Council, with the chief officials and their wives) sat down to dinner, the piece de resistance being carvings from a West Australian lamb, sent by the President of the Beverley Road Board, Australia, to the Mayor of Beverley, England.

The Mayor and Mayoress welcomed the guests, and after the loyal toast had been honoured, the Mayor explained the reason for the gathering, and the Town Clerk read the following letter of greeting from Beverley, West Australia, announcing the gift of a lamb:—

BEVERLEY ROAD BOARD.
The Mayor,
The Guildhall, Beverley,
11-9-32.
Beverley,
W.A. 1 Yorkshire, England.

Dear Sir,

I have the honour, by the direction of our Board, to convey to you and your Councillors the good wishes of the Chairman (Mr. F. McDonald, J.P.)

the Chairman (Mr. F. McDonald, J.P.) and Members of this Beverley Road Board.

I wish also to advise that our Board is having despatched to you as a "Christmas Box" one of West Australia's frozen lambs.

This gift will be delivered during Christmas week and we hope that you and some of your Councillors may enjoy this true West Australian product during your Christmas festivities.

With kind regards,
Yours faithfully,
Alderman Burden

Alderman Burden, who was called upon to propose the health of Beverley, West Australia, said that West Australia itself was discovered in the 17th Century, and Beverley was founded in 1829, so that while we in England were celebrating our octocentenary, they in Australia were celebrating their centenary. Mr. Burden had been in communication with them in 1929, but their greeting in reply came months too late to hand on to Alderman Maw, when we were having our celebrations.

The Beverley Road Board, he continued, covered an area of 1,000 square miles, with a population of 3,000. Its income from rates was £8,000 a year, and it controlled 400 miles of roads. The chief occupations were the growing of wheat and oats, the finest Merino wool, high quality sheep and farm products. The town itself was 78 miles from Perth, the capital of West Australia, on the river Avon, and they knew that West Australia was made a separate province in 1890, and the Australian Commonwealth was formally proclaimed on January 1st, 1901.

Alderman Burden briefly referred to the peculiarities of the animals of the area, and the native customs, and said that it had been called the "great wide silence-filled land, a land of age where loneliness dwells." The province was 40 times as large as England. They had made a great political experiment years ago when the United States and America had venured on Prohibition and the Soviet Government were trying Communism. He felt they should honour these brave men and women living their life in the centre of our great desert solitudes, and helping to build our Empire.

Councillor Bartlett, who seconded, said that the Union Jack they saw before them had been sent to his school the School Council School, when he was headmaster, many years ago from Beverley in Australia, and many letters passed between his pupils and the young people over there till the War brought it to an end. He felt sure that should England ever want help the Australians would rally to our support, as they did in the Great War.

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

NEWSPAPER ARTICLES DISCOVERED IN TROVE EMPHASISING CHRISTMAS AND CONDITONS IN 1829, 1896 AND 1908 IN THE NEW COLONY

Harrison and his cousin George Blechynden, Charlotte Robus, the Brockmans and other passengers spent their first Christmas, 25 Dec 1829, aboard the Minstrel arriving at the Swan River Colony on 20 Jan 1830. The following newspaper articles found on Trove give some idea of what our ancestors may have been experiencing in the early days of the colony, especially at Christmas and what it may have meant to them so far away from their homeland.

CONTRASTS AT CHRISTMAS

There was an ache in the heart of many settlers in the little Swan River Colony at Christmas, 1829. They yearned for the snow and holly of the traditional English Christmas. But instead, they saw sandy tracks, crude huts, tents and rough bushland simmering in a heat haze. It was not a very happy Christmas in 1829.

HARDSHIPS

There were then only 850 permanent residents in the little Colony, and they had suffered hardships during the year that would try the courage of any pioneer.

Many lived in crude huts, some in tents, and only a fortunate few had built houses of a more or less permanent nature.

There were many substitutes on the table for Christmas dinner. Practically the only supplies were those brought by ships that called at infrequent intervals.

There were no shops to wander through in search of Christmas gifts, and the stockings that the children hung up that year for Father Christmas taxed the ingenuity of their parents.

Few on that day did not let their thoughts wander to the safe and tranquil life they had left in their native land, where their relatives and friends were enjoying the Christmas for which the Swan River settlers longed so much.

An air of happy anticipation pervades the city for Christmas, 1938.

Steadily warming weather promises a traditional Australian Christmas.

Shops glisten with Christmas decoration and parcel-laden crowds throng the streets.

Christmas of 1938 will be a happy one. International problems that threaten the peace of the world will be forgotten in the joy of Christmas festivities, and everyday worries will be left to care for themselves.

Suburban and country homes will echo with happy laughter as families gather around the laden table for Christmas dinner.

Turkeys, ducks and fowls have been slaughtered for the Christmas repast, and housewives have gone home laden with dainties to brighten the table.

Shoppers have thronged the streets searching for Christmas gifts, while children have gazed in open-mouthed wonder at Father Christmas, who listened with an attentive ear in big emporiums to what was wanted for Christmas.

There are few for whom Christmas Day will not be the happiest day of the year in their safe and tranquil lives.

IN 1829 THE SPIRIT OF THE WEST WAS BORN. PERTH'S FIRST CHRISTMAS JUST NINETY YEARS AGO.

The Story of the Men Who Left Europe to Found the Golden State — City of Today Takes Place of Mud and Sapling Huts. Into an entirely new world, with new conditions of life, a strange climate, and still stranger soil, the pioneers of this great State entered during the month of June, 1829, ninety years ago.

The following article paints a thriving picture of Beverley and her surrounding districts as it is today. It includes a very brief description of some of the properties and families associated with Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden and their descendants who settled in this region. Detailed histories of specific families mentioned are outlined in much more detail throughout the project.

Spring Back to Beverley – 150 Years

Beverley and her surrounding districts were certainly looking their best for the 150-year Spring Festival. Congratulations and a credit to all those who were involved. The main street closed off to traffic came to life hosting many visitors from all over the state. The small train running up and down the street giving rides to the children and many adults added to the festive feeling. Food stalls, the Hotels and the local bakery did a fierce trade all day long as people thronged for morning tea and lunch. Most of the local shops and organisations had a display with photos and the history involved over many years.

Photos taken 24 & 25 Sep 2022 during "Spring Back to Beverley 150 years" weekend. The main street with its new landscapes was closed to traffic during the events.

The Town Hall was looking her best and it was filled with people meeting with the knowledgeable researchers who had set up tables. It was interesting to catch up with Ann Horley Weaver and Carline Humphry representing the Swan River Pioneers, Kevin Fowler sharing his research on the Edwards family and many others.

The Dead Finish Museum was thronged with people, all with family connections with the district and was filled with people chatting about and discussing their family history. A big thank you especially to Joy Smith and her colleagues who shared their valuable knowledge and followed up every lead. The town was buzzing and it was mindboggling meeting so many who were descendants from the area. Almost everyone you met had a family tree link. It is definitely a “never ending story”. Our group being Blechynden and associated descendants were privileged to stay at one of the farms ‘Roesland’ and were made to feel very much part of the family. I was amazed at the size and tidiness of the farms and machinery and was impressed driving through and viewing the thriving and varying crops. The wild flowers were in bloom and wherever one looked the view was worth a photo.

We spent much of our time looking at the ruins or checking out the sites where our ancestors farmed in the very early days of the Beverley district.

A big thank you to David and Gina Adams, Sue and Terry Wheatley, Brett Shaw, Brett Negus and Ted Sampson, Cyril and Chris Blechynden, Toby and Holly, Kristian and his grandmother Mary Blechynden, plus many others for their valuable time spent with us.

Brett Shaw, the current owner of ‘Babbyalla’ farm kindly showed us around the property which was leased by Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden from 1842-1888.

The owner of 'Babbyalla', Edward Hamersley died 26 Nov 1874. Bevan Hamersley inherited the property of 'Babbyalla' Estate and took up residence there in 1888.

Brett Negus, whose parents George and Sylvia Negus owned 'Babbyalla' from 1940-1968, joined us. On the tour we were taken to the older section on which Harrison and Charlotte settled and raised their family. Ted Sampson who has now retired in his current home on the property kindly showed us around. It was amazing to see and walk through the ruins of what is thought to be the original home. Ted commented that he remembers it with the roof, which now sadly has gone.

'Roesland' was originally owned by Charles Smith when it was presented by the West Australian Government in 1843 to Mrs. Charles Smith for presenting the State with the first twins Frederick and Alfred Smith. In 1888 it was taken over by Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden's son Charles Edwin Blechynden.

'Roesland' and 'Redhill' have been combined and the whole property renamed 'Roesland', which is in fact the original 'Redhill' home built by Charles Blechynden's son Frank Blechynden, in about 1909. Frank and Ella's only child daughter Norma married Ronald Adams in 1960. They had two sons, David and Lindsay. David and his wife Gina are the current owners of 'Roesland'.

The photo to the left shows discussions over a series of maps of the Beverley District at the current 'Roesland' homestead owned by David and Gina Adams. The maps were scanned by Sue Wheatley while researching her family tree of Broun. Charles Broun and family resided on 'Roesland' for some time.

The 'Babbyalla' property leased by Harrison Blechynden is shown on the map as well as the properties of a number of his sons and grandsons: Charles Edwin Blechynden, Frank Harrison Blechynden, Sydney Thomas Blechynden. Henry Herbert Blechynden, Horace Blechynden and Ernest Walter Blechynden.

Back to Sue Wheatley's Broun family connections with 'Roesland' and her interest in the search for the site of the original 'Roesland' homestead:

It was in the year 1887 that the railway connected Beverley to Perth and two years later, Sir Anthony Hordern continued the railway to Albany. Until then Mr. Chas. Broun carried mail and passengers, per coach, to York and the return to Beverley. Charles Frederick Broun resided on "Roesland" for many years between 1860 and 1880's...and during building of Great Southern Railway.

For interest: Sue Wheatley's Blechynden/Noack/Broun connection on her Broun tree. Dawn Audrey Blechynden married Herman Keith Noack. Dawn was the third child of George Blechynden and Mabel Esther Turpin, granddaughter of Joseph Blechynden and Grace Hancock.

Comments as to the original 'Roesland' homestead site, via Sue Wheatley: "Rodney Boyle has a wealth of knowledge on the area, in particular Roesland. His father, Morris John Boyle, worked for Blechynden's at Roesland as a young lad. Rodney knows exactly where the Roesland house stood and remembers the Peppercorn trees well. He said he used to walk to Roesland from Beverley. The peppercorn trees were not native to Australia, and were brought in, probably from Cape York on the ships from UK, as they could survive with little or no water. I showed him the picture with the train carriages and sheep, he confirmed the river was between the house and the sheep. He remembers the fencing well."

Discussions and exploration of the Homestead and the camp site used while building the railway: Lindsay Adams, Ken Blechynden, David Adams, Sue Wheatley, Di Black, and Angela Blechynden, photo taken by Terry Wheatley.

Ken and Angela stayed at 'Burnside' 10km north of Brookton with Cyril and Chris Blechynden for one night on their way to Beverley. Cyril is the son of Bruce Blechynden, grandson of Horace Blechynden and great grandson of Charles Edwin Blechynden. Amidst many long discussions about family events, it was found that the original bricks from the original 'Roesland' homestead, which has long gone, were carted to Burnside and an outside room made from them. The bricks are in remarkable condition.

Further discussions about Cyril and Chris's umpteen grandchildren and great-grandchildren lead to a visit to 'Southdale', Stud: Poll Merino and White Suffolk, where we met their grandson Toby and his wife Holly and their delightful children. His parents, Mark and Denise were away.

'Southdale', Ken Blechynden, Toby, Di Black and Holly Blechynden

Henry George Blechynden took up land at Mt. Kokeby, the property being known as 'Erindale'. "This was across the other side of the Avon River from 'Babbyalla'. Erindale farm, was sold by Bill Blechynden and his son Geoff in early 2000s, possibly 2005 to Geoff Bremner. The property is on Yenyenning Lakes Road about 4 or 5 km east of the great southern highway. Yenyenning Lakes Road is about 2km south of Mt Kokeby (towards Brookton). The mud brick walls of the original Erindale farm house still stand among peppercorn trees south of and very close to the road."

Kristian Blechynden and his grandmother Mary Blechynden (nee Smith) who in 1951 married Bernard 'Kevin' Blechynden, eighth child of William Harrison and Mary Ethel Blechynden, grandson of Henry George Blechynden and Mary Ann Reilly.

'Speldhurst', 'Seaton Ross' and Edwards Crossing: By 1845 William Edwards had 3,540 acres at Beverley: 'Speldhurst', and 'Seaton Ross'. Thomas Edwards, eighth child of William and Eleanor Edwards married Anne Elizabeth Blechynden, third child of Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden on 5 Mar 1862 at the 'Mount Pleasant' Homestead at Edwards Crossing. When William died in 1865, Thomas and Anne became the owners of 'Mount Pleasant' and 'Seaton Ross' which still remain in the family today.

The first tiny service centre in the Beverley district was established at Edwards Crossing at the junction of a number of roads. William Edwards constructed a mud bat store there, and subsequently Joseph Wansbrough commenced business as a wheelwright.

William Edwards gave the land for St Paul's Church and the family was instrumental in having the Church built. St Paul's Church, Edwards Crossing, was consecrated in 1862.

The first home at 'Speldhurst' was a crude bush affair down near the river at a fresh water pool. Probably because of later floods they built a better establishment further up the banks. During 1966 Thomas built the third house at 'Speldhurst' where it now stands with many subsequent alterations over the past 113 years.

It was wonderful to be able to share these special moments exploring and photographing bits of the history of our ancestors.

Over the four days we met many descendants of the Blechynden and associated families. These photos are just a few of hundreds of photos taken by Angela and Ken Blechynden, Di Black and Lindsay Adams.

Two other children are recorded by some to have been born to Charlotte and Harrison Blechynden. Errors have been found in early records.

York Census 1859 listed him as a well-established farmer & grazier. Leased "'Babbyalla"' at Beverley from. E. Hamersley, then developed "Mt. Pleasant".*

The baby James Blechynden recorded in the Dictionary of WA (see above) does not appear in the State Library records re birth and death. Jesse Blechynden born in 1845 and who died in 1846 is not mentioned in the Dictionary of WA, pg 241. It is possible James was a twin to Jesse William born in 1845 and who died in 1846 or has been incorrectly recorded and should have been recorded as Jesse. The second Jesse born in 1851 has been listed.

A George Blechynden was mentioned by a member as being born in March 1833 and died 1833 in Perth, WA. It is possible a child named George was born to Harrison and Charlotte and he may have been a twin to John Blechynden who was born in 1833, Searching the Fiche records in the WA State Library only two children were recorded under Blechynden: John and Sarah. After much searching, I have not been able to find a record of this George born in 1833.

This leads to an error in the Dictionary of WA, also re George Blechynden, cousin to Harrison Blechynden.

Note: George Blechynden who arrived on the Minstrel, cousin to Harrison Blechynden did not marry Jane Nilgie. It was his son also named George Blechynden, (born to an unknown Aboriginal woman), who married Jane Nilgie.

George Blechynden (1806-1889) who was cousin to Harrison Blechynden, arrived with him on the ship Minstrel in 1830. A marriage certificate shows that a son born to George (via an unknown Aboriginal woman) married Jane Nilgie in 1864, (see their chapter). Despite much searching we have not been able to find his birth or death. Records show son George recorded as being half caste, and he became known as George Whitey Brown. It is thought he was born about 1844.

PART 3 – Ten Lines of Descendants

Right: Charlotte Augusta Blechynden nee Robus (1812-1889)

Their fifth child Jesse William Blechynden (1845-1846) died at the age of 20 months.

Living children of Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden:

1. John Blechynden (1833-1900)

2 Sarah Harrison Blechynden (1841-1930)

3. 'Anne' Elizabeth Blechynden (1842-1927)

4. Henry George Blechynden (1843-1927)

7. Charles Edwin Blechynden (1848-1918)

8. Thomas Harrison Blechynden (1849-1933)

9. Jesse William Blechynden (1851-1934)

10. Joseph Blechynden (1853-1938)

1. JOHN BLECHYNDEN (1833-1900) & ELIZABETH GREEN (1839-1891)

John was Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden's first child. He was born on 14 Mar 1833 in Perth, Western Australia.

On 23 Feb 1860, John married Elizabeth Green in St George's Cathedral, Perth. It was one of the earliest (European) marriages in which both bride and groom had been born in the colony.

They had 13 children.

Elizabeth passed away at the age of 51 on 8 Apr 1891 in Bridgetown and is buried in the town cemetery.

John passed away at the age of 67 on 14 Oct 1900, during a visit to his brother Charles Edwin and family at 'Roesland' in Beverley. He is buried alongside his parents, Harrison and Charlotte, at the Edwards Crossing Cemetery at Beverley.

John was the first of ten children born to Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus. He was born on 4 Mar 1833 in Perth, WA and christened on 28 Apr 1833 by The Colonial Chaplain J. B. Wittenoom. Their second child Sarah Blechynden was also born in Perth, 3 Mar 1841. She was also baptised on 28 Mar 1841 by Chaplain White, in Perth.

John Blechynden's parents were Harrison Blechynden (1802-1873) and Charlotte Robus (1812-1889) who migrated from Kent, England, to the Western Australian Swan River Colony, arriving on 20 Feb 1830 aboard the ship Minstrel. Harrison was the son of John Blechynden (1771-1835) and Sarah Harrison (~1766-1866), Charlotte was the daughter of George Robus (~ 1785-1861) and Charlotte Taylor (1786-1870).

The Blechyndens are descended from one of the most ancient families of Kent, England, with roots going back it is believed, to the 800s and perhaps even earlier. The family at one time owned land, manors and property. Nicholas Blechynden is one such example, having owned and lived at Quarrington Manor, Mersham, Kent, in the 1300s. The Blechyndens, including Nicholas, are mentioned several times in Hasted's History of Kent as well as other publications.

For Harrison and his direct antecedents, however fortunes had changed and added opportunities to better their circumstances had become reduced. Perhaps to Harrison a future in England in the 1800s seemed bleak. Whatever the reason he accepted the offer of William Locke Brockman, as did Harrison's cousin George Blechynden, to leave England and work for Brockman in the Swan River Colony of WA. As a result of the decision to migrate under the patronage of William Locke Brockman, Harrison and George were indentured to Brockman for four years, Harrison as Brockman's foreman, George as carpenter.

Brockman was to become a prominent member of the newly formed Swan River Colony. Charlotte Robus who had emigrated on the same ship was indentured as a maid to Mrs. Brockman. When they arrived, the Swan River Colony was just beginning its second year and the infant settlement was only just starting to find its feet. Harrison and George Blechynden were put to work immediately helping William Brockman to set up his house and property, which he named 'Herne Hill'. Charlotte Robus was kept busy helping Mrs. Brockman to set up and run her household and to look after her young son, Edmund, who was just a toddler. The following year, Mrs. Brockman gave birth to a second child, a daughter, named Elizabeth on 28 Dec 1831.

Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus were married in Perth on 3 Mar 1832. When John was born, William Brockman's son, Edmund Brockman was about four and a half years of age and his daughter, Elizabeth just a toddler. John was almost nine years of age when his sister Sarah was born 3 Mar 1841 and baptised on 28 Mar 1841 in Perth. Now the father of two young children, Harrison had completed his indenture and was still working as a butcher.

John during his first nine years in Perth, together with his parents, mixed with other children, the Brockmans, their associates and other new arrivals to the Colony. As John was the son of new settlers, he may have attended one of the schools set up initially in the new colony. It appears that a school was held in the Court House on weekdays and in the Little Rush Church. His mother and father were both well-educated and would have given him what education they could manage in between setting.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF ST GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL

<https://www.perthcathedral.org/st-georges-cathedral/>

Following the sale and demolition of the 'rush church', services were held in the Court House, which still stands in the Supreme Court Gardens and is the home of the Francis Burt Law Centre. The Court House was opened for worship on Good Friday (24 Mar 1837). But this was an unsatisfactory arrangement, as the building was used for a school on weekdays, and as a court on Saturdays. However, this was to last for a further eight years.

Angela Blechynden (nee Jones), wife of Ken Blechynden, many years ago compiled a descriptive five-page article which is an excellent summary of the lives of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green. Much of the following chapter has come from her manuscript.

JOHN BLECHYNDEN was born in Perth on 14th Mar 1833. He was the first-born son of Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus) formerly of Kent England. His first few years were spent in Perth and Beverley. As he was the son of new settlers, it is possible he did not receive a formal education as there were few schools in the area. His mother and father were both well-educated and would have given him what education they could manage in between setting up their farming and grazing property at 'Babbyalla', Beverley and raising their nine children. His father was a butcher, carpenter and farmer and no doubt passed on these skills to him and the other children. His mother came out on the Minstrel as a maid to Mrs Brockman and would have been able to pass on to him the social customs of the day. His father also came out to the colony on the Minstrel and also worked initially for Mr Brockman as a carpenter and foreman on his 'Herne Hill' property.

Harrison Blechynden was keen to make his way in the colony and was granted a Town Location Lot E3. Unfortunately, times were hard, and after a few years he lost it not being able to keep up his payments. Harrison continued working as a butcher but looked for other opportunities to make his way in the new colony. Listening in to conversations between his father and others, John would have become aware that Mr Brockman had taken part in a couple of explorations over the hills and inland. Mr Edward Pomeroy Barrett Lennard, another prominent owner of property in the Swan River Colony entrusted the development of his allocated property in the Beverley district to his nephew Edmund Barrett-Lennard. (This all can be read in more detail in the earlier chapters on Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus.)

By July 1837, it was estimated that 23 white settlers had lost their lives. . . While Stirling could not countenance a vigilante force in a British Colony, he did strengthen the military force in the Avon Valley. More troops were stationed at York, a permanent post was established on the banks of the Dale River in the far south-eastern corner of Avondale and a detachment of the 21st fusiliers were also stationed on and off at Addington. Subsequently barracks were established at John Mann's property at the Dale, aptly named the Barracks, and at Turkey Cock Creek on 'St Aubyns'. Patrols were mounted from these barracks and at times the military also provided armed escorts across the Darling Range.

At the age of about nine years, John and his baby sister Sarah travelled from Perth to the District of Beverley with their parents Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden. John's second sister Elizabeth 'Anne' Blechynden was born in 1842 at 'St Aubyns', Beverley, the property at that time of Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard (1799 -1878). Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard's nephew Edmund Barrett-Lennard, shortly after his arrival in the Colony from England, was sent to manage 'St Aubyns'. More can be read in the chapter on Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden.

One can imagine his father and Edmund Barrett-Lennard would have made a number of trips prior to moving to live on the property. What an exciting time it would have been for John when he with his mother and baby sister travelled by horse and cart up over the hills, escorted by his father and most probably soldiers in uniform and mounted on horse-back, along a barely developed track through thick bush to begin their new life. It would have taken a couple of days before they arrived at their new home which had been hurriedly and roughly constructed on the property. It was a different world as John helped Edmund Barrett Lennard and his father construct yards to fence in the stock, water and feed the animals and set up the basics needed to run a farm. As a barracks had been set up on 'St Aubyns' he would have been fascinated with the soldiers' movements. He also would become aware of and after time got to know the children of the local Aborigines who often camped on the property. Gradually John became able to speak in the local Aboriginal language.

It is possible that his father's cousin, George Blechynden may have joined them on the property for a while, George using his carpentry and wheelwright skills. (I guess we will never know). An article of unclaimed letters was posted 25 Feb 1837 for George and Harrison Blechynden. The next mention of George was in Molloy's Journal, on Sunday 16 Jun 1839, at the Vasse River, Busselton.

John's mother gave birth to another child, Elizabeth on 19 Mar 1842. Her birth was registered as 'St. Aubyns'. By the time John's brother Henry George was born on 6 Oct 1843, they had moved across to the property next door named 'Babbyalla'. Over the next nine years his mother gave birth to six more children, all sons: Jesse William 1845, Walter Edward 1846, (sadly, almost six months later Jessie, died on 11 Dec 1846, aged-20-months), Charles Edwin 1848, Thomas Harrison 1849, Jesse William 1851 and Joseph Blechynden born 9 Feb 1853. At this stage John was aged 20 years, Sarah was now aged almost 12 years old and Elizabeth eleven years old. Sarah and Elizabeth would have taken on a great deal of responsibility helping their mother look after the younger ones.

In 1853, John by now, since about the age of twelve, would have been doing a full day's work, from dawn until dusk alongside his father. He was a strong and capable young man; he was a good horseman and had developed a multitude of skills as the farm became a going concern. He treated his sisters with respect and was a hero to the younger ones. John often rode over to the store and wheelwright at Edwards Crossing and looked forward to the annual show at York, an event attended by the whole family. He and his father frequently came across the local Aborigines, who at times camped and worked on the property, and over many years earned their trust and respect.

In 1854, John walked to the Blackwood district at the age of 21, guided by two friendly Aborigines. He was so impressed with what he saw that he acquired two pastoral leases over about 10,000 acres of land along the middle courses of the Blackwood River with an option to buy ten acres to build a residence. He was one of the first people to appreciate the possibilities of stock raising in the country. He camped near the ford of the river, where a bridge was later built.

Establishing himself on his leases, meant frequent visits to the city of Perth for equipment and stores. This also meant stop overs and during this time he made the acquaintance and began to court a young woman named Elizabeth Green. Elizabeth was the daughter of George Green and Jane Beacham from two well-known pioneering families involved in establishing themselves in the new colony.

He quickly improved and enlarged his ten-acre homestead and, with his pastoral business firmly established, made arrangements for his marriage to Elizabeth Green of Perth. They were married on 23rd of Feb 1860 at St George's Cathedral in Perth, the earliest white marriage in which both bride and groom had been born in the colony.

HAND DRAWN MAP DEPICTING KENT, PERTH, BEVERLEY, BRIDGETOWN, DINNINUP, BOYUIP BROOK

This delightful map was hand drawn by an unknown member from the 'Bridgedale' Blechynden family, depicting the journey from Kent, England to Perth, then to Beverley, where their nine children were raised. It then shows John Blechynden in his own quest for land, 1854, moving to Bridgetown and building 'Bridgedale', where he and Eliza Green raised 11 surviving children.

It also shows Manjimup where his brother Walter Blechynden moved becoming a pioneer of that district, where he and Jane Needs raised a family of 13 children.

The graph in the left-hand corner concentrates on some of John's children who when they reached adulthood, moved away from Bridgetown and took up farming: Edwin, George and James - Dinninup: 'Springfield' and 'Bellside', Ernest - Boyup Brook.

JOHN BLECHYNDEN (1833-1900) MARRIED ELIZABETH GREEN (1839-1891), 23 FEB 1860, PERTH

The next section covers the GREEN and BEACHAM FAMILIES, who were pioneering settlers in the Swan River Colony. This detailed history of their participation in helping to establish the new colony is added as it provides a good background. Not only to the Blechynden history, but to the life of their interconnected families and those of other early settlers.

GOXHILL to the SWAN
GREEN AND BEACHAM FAMILIES

Raylee J. Jones (nee Slade) researched and compiled an excellent book on the Green family called GOXHILL to the SWAN: A History of the Green family, 1995.

*Four brothers GEORGE, JOHN, HENRY AND THOMAS GREEN were to migrate to Australia:

In her book Goxhill to the Swan Raylee Jones wrote as follows:

pg.1, "In 1829 John and George Green of Goxhill, Lincolnshire boarded the brig 'Tranby' to commence on a journey which would take them to the new British colony on the Swan River in WA. This journey would result in tragedy for one of the brothers and fortune for the other. It would see two younger brothers also migrating to Australia at a later date. The three surviving men would marry, and their children form the nucleus of a large group of people in Australia today who can trace their roots back to those original men and women whose courage and fortitude we all admire.

BLECHYNDEN, (NEE GREEN), ELIZABETH (1839-1891)
Contemplation by Di Black

In the never ending and fascinating journey tracing one's ancestors we have become fascinated and intrigued with the story of my great-great-grandmother Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green). She was born in the early days of the Swan River Colony. As a bride in her early twenties Elizabeth travelled with her husband John Blechynden to settle on John's newly acquired block and pastoral lease. Her strength of character and determination was largely shaped by the example set by her parents and grandparents as pioneers making their way in this new land. In the first part of this article, we will endeavour to show the atmosphere into which Elizabeth as a young girl thrived and grew. It is important to understand the ambition and fortitude of her family as they made their lives in this new colony.

Elizabeth Green was born on the 8 Jun 1839 in Perth. She was the third child of GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874), bricklayer and JANE GREEN (NEE BEACHAM) (1818-1910) who were married on the banks of Lake Monger, on 21 Feb 1836 in Perth.

Elizabeth Green was the daughter of George Green, bricklayer, and Jane Beacham. She was born on the 8 Jun 1839 and was 20 years old at the time of her marriage. Her father, George and her Uncle John came out to Australia from Lincolnshire on the "Tranby" which sailed from hull on the 9th September 1829 and arrived in the Swan River Colony on the 3rd February 1830.

Tranby Brig 6, GOXHILL to the SWAN: pg. 10

George helped build both 'Grove farm', the two 'Tranby' houses and 'The old Mill' at the Narrows of the Swan River. George was in the search party with William Beacham when they found the body of William's son Reuben, brother of Jane, who had been speared by aborigines on the 3rd February, 1832, and there were many accounts of this story in the Green and Beacham family histories and in the newspapers under the title 'Chippers leap'.

George Green married Jane Beacham on 21st February 1836 and their eleven children were William Green who married twice to Eliza Wallace and Sarah Russell, Elizabeth who married John Blechynden, Dinah who married Edward Ridley, John Edward who married Mary Croway, James Joseph who married Mary Elizabeth Mews, Thomas Henry who married Emma Barrett, Mary who married Charles Pearson and Levi who married Sarah Elizabeth Graham and founded the Bairds Store in Perth. The eldest child Reuben was lost at sea, George Reuben did not survive childhood and the youngest daughter Sarah Jane did not marry."

"Elizabeth's father George Green died in 1873 and Jane, her mother in October 1910 having outlived Elizabeth by 18 years and all her children except one son."

GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874)

Much of this information has been obtained with the kind permission of Raylee Jones from her book. GOXHILL TO THE SWAN, which contains a wealth of information.

George Green was the third child of ten born to WILLIAM GREEN (1770-1831) and SUSANNAH BROWN. He was christened 15 Jun 1808 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

Map showing Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England

GOXHILL TO THE SWAN, pg.7

His parents who were married 15 May 1808 at the Goxhill Parish Church, probably moved to the family farm on West Marsh Lane soon after their marriage as William's parents, John and Jane passed away, in 1807 and 1811, respectively. Their large family of ten children, four of whom settled in Australia, would have experienced rural life during their childhood.

In her book, Raylee traced the history of the Green family back to descendants RICHARD GREEN (-1717) and MARY WILKIN (-1718) from Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

GOXHILL TO THE SWAN, pg.3

Before 1773, the Parish of Goxhill was broken up into the open field system where all animals were grazed on land belonging to the community, on common ground.

Goxhill the Open Field System before enclosure – 1773, pg. 5.

In 1775 the Parish of Goxhill underwent an enormous change when the Enclosure Act was put into force. Goxhill is a large village and civil parish in North Lincolnshire, England.

Goxhill, after Enclosure. 1775.

GOXHILL TO THE SWAN, pg. 4

Jane Green, commented to Henry Green, her grandson, that George Green the third son of William and Susannah, inherited the family farm. George is said to have wavered his interest and signed the farm over to his sister Dinah.

William Green was born 5 Aug 1770, Goxhill, Yorkshire England. Parents: JOHN GREEN (1735-1807) and JANE BURMAN (1741-1811). This was John Green's second marriage. William Green died 19 Mar 1831, Goxhill, Yorkshire England.

GREEN JOHN (1735-1807) (Via Power/Bollen Family Tree, Ancestry) was born 7 Oct 1735, Lincolnshire, England. He died 1 Feb 1807, Goxhill, Yorkshire England.

m.1. JOHN GREEN (1735-1807) married ANN HARRISON (1739-1762) 31 May 1759, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. They had two children: WILLIAM GREEN (1761-) and JOHN GREEN (1762-1762), died aged 1 day. Ann Harrison died in 1762, Lincolnshire, England.

m.2. JOHN GREEN (1735-1807) and JANE BURMAN (1741-1811) who were married 10 Dec 1767, Humber, Goxhill, Herefordshire, England.

JOHN GREEN (1735-1807) and JANE BURMAN (1741-1811) HAD SIX CHILDREN as follows: 1. ELIZABETH GREEN (1769-1831), 2. WILLIAM GREEN (1770-1831), 3. SUSAN GREEN (1771-), 4. ANNE GREEN (1772-), 5. MARY GREEN 1773-1773) and 6. JOHN GREEN (1775-1776).

WILLIAM GREEN (1770-1831) married SUSANNAH BROWN (1785-1844) 15 May 1804, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

BROWN, SUSANNAH (1785-1844) was born 13 Mar 1785, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. Susannah Green (nee Brown) died 8 Jan 1844, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

WILLIAM GREEN (1770-1831) and SUSANNAH BROWN (1785-1844) had ten children, all born in Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England:

1. GREEN, JOHN (1805-1834) was baptised 24 Jan 1805 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. He died 15 Jan 1834 Perth, WA, tragically, by the falling in of a well.

2. GREEN, RICHARD (1806-) was baptised 23 Jul 1806, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. In 1845, he married, ELIZA GILLIATT (1819-), born 14 Mar 1819, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

3. GREEN, GEORGE (1808-1874) was baptised 15 Jun 1808 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. He married JANE BEACHAM (1818-1910) 21 Feb 1836 at Monger's Lake, near Perth, WA. George Green died 13 Dec 1874, Perth, WA [Reg No 8232]. He was interred in the East Perth, Cemetery. Note: Jane Beacham is the mother of Elizabeth Green who married John Blechynden.

4. GREEN, JANE (1810-) was baptised 11 Feb 1810 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

5. GREEN, ELIZABETH (1812-1815) was baptised 13 Dec 1812 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. She died as a toddler in 1815, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

6. GREEN, ELIZABETH (1815-1874) was baptised 19 Feb 1815 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. She married CHARLES HOMLEY (1809-1880) in 1834, Irby, Merseyside, England. Elizabeth died 1874 Irby, England.

7. GREEN, DINAH (1817-) was baptised 20 Jan 1817 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

8. GREEN, FURLOW WILLIAM (1819-) was baptised 20 May 1819 Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. He married 1838, ELIZABETH BULLIVANT (nee unknown) (1815-1872) Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England.

9. GREEN, HENRY (1822-1883) was baptised 27 Jan 1822. He married 18 May 1847 to ELIZABETH CORK (1828-1899) in Adelaide, SA. Elizabeth Green (nee Cork) died 14 Feb 1899 Streaky Bay, SA. Henry died 30 Dec 1883 Streaky Bay, SA.

10. GREEN, THOMAS (1823-1897) was born 18 Feb 1823, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. Baptised 30 May 1824, Goxhill, Lincolnshire, England. He married SARAH HOOPER MAIDMENT (~1825-1891) 28 May 1844, England. SARAH HOOPER Green (nee MAIDMENT) died 27 Jul 1891, Kapunda, SA. Thomas died 10 Dec 1897, at his daughter's home at Marryatville, SA. Buried at Kapunda Cemetery, SA.

George Green and his brothers and sisters were brought up on their parents' farm.

Raylee speculated:

"Why did the brothers emigrate to the Swan River Colony? One can only surmise: William and Susannah's small farm would not be able to provide for all the family."

GOXHILL to the SWAN, pg 9.

The "Tranby" was chartered by Wesleyans pursuing religious freedom. As free settlers in they would be entitled to land grants the size of which were determined by such things as the amount of capital, equipment and the number of indentured servants they brought to the colony. One of the Wesleyan families was that of Mr John Wall Hardey. A family member mentioned that George Green was a cousin of Mrs John Wall Hardey.

GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874) AND JANE BEACHAM (1818-1910)

John Green aged 24 years, bricklayer indentured to Mr Hardey as his servant, and George Green, aged 21 years indentured to Mr Clarkson, bricklayer, emigrated from Goxhill, via Port Hull, on the Tranby in 1829, to the newly established Swan River Colony, arriving in February 1830, just a year after the colony was commenced. The Green's would have arrived to and experienced conditions very much the same as the Blechynden's who had also arrived in the colony the same month as the Green's.

George Green (1818-1910, photo via Edna Kelly (nee Green), 150th celebration of Tranby House.

George became an accomplished bricklayer and plasterer and helped build many of the first government buildings in Perth. He was involved in building the Old Mill in South Perth in 1833-34. He was to become a wealthy man owning property in Perth. Working as a bricklayer and plasterer George Green joined a group of artisans to build the first Public Offices in Perth and many other important buildings.

Henry J. Green, George's grandson described him in a letter "as a very enterprising man – one of the most enterprising who went to the Swan River Settlement. He was not in the new colony more than twenty-three years before he had two or three schooners running on the coast."

Tragically George's brother, John Green, died 15 Jan 1834, when a well collapsed. "Death occasioned by the falling in of a well". GOXHILL to the SWAN, pgs. 12-13.

THE PERTH GAZETTE, AND WESTERN AUSTRALIAN JOURNAL.
Sat.18/01/1834

Death occasioned by the falling in of a well - On Wednesday morning last about 9 o'clock, an alarm was given, which soon collected a concourse of people around the spot, namely, that the Lieutenant Governor's well had fallen in, and that John Green, a bricklayer, was buried in the ruins. Curiosity in some and an eagerness in others, to be of assistance in extricating the poor man from his perilous situation, was the occasion of too many pressing round the opening of the well at the same moment; it consequently soon gave way and the sand burst in upon him from all sides.

Previously, to this, Smith, who was working with him, had been down after the first accident, and had given him some water, when he expressed himself as not apprehending any further danger, and, wished to be left until more assistance could be procured. - He made an effort to lay hold of a rope which was handed down to him, but from an injury he had received, he found he was unable to raise himself up. At this junction, unhappily the crowd pressed round, and the calamitous consequences occurred which we have already related. Several men of the 21st and 63rd Regts., procured from the adjoining barracks, aided by the by-standers, commenced instantly to open the well, but from the great quantity of sand which had fallen in, it was nearly 2 o'clock in the afternoon before the body was dug out.

NGA National gallery of Australia - PAINTING BY SIR EDMUND Y W HENDERSON

<https://artsearch.nga.gov.au/detail.cfm?IRN=204587&PICTAUS=TRUE>

Edmund Henderson arrived with the first convicts in 1850 as Comptroller General in charge of convicts in WA, a position he held for eleven years. A talented amateur artist, Henderson painted atmospheric drawings and water colours; not for any official purpose but simply to express his response to place. In Perth he transformed the scene into a magical and captivating vista filled with air and sparkling light.

This painting by Edmund Henderson featuring Mount Brown, depicts the boats on the Swan River, and in the background, the first buildings of Perth.

West Australian Newspaper, Sat 1 Dec 2007 advertised the painting for sale. It was purchased by the National Art Gallery in 2010.

This combined group of images as viewed in the West Australian, featuring many of the original buildings, were grouped about the painting for sale, of Perth, Western Australia, by Sir Edmund Y W Henderson. They have been numbered and labelled and shown where the buildings would have been positioned. Note: It is interesting that number 3, shows Green's Mill and number 9, St George's Church.

GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874) was married in 1836, on the banks of Lake Monger, Banns waived, to JANE BEACHAM (1818-1910) from Burnham, Sussex in England, rearing a family of 10 children. JANE BEACHAM was the daughter of WILLIAM BEACHAM and MARY ANN SCOTT.

THE FOLLOWING PAGES HAVE INFORMATION ON JANE BEACHAM's PARENTS, WILLIAM BEACHAM (1788-1875) AND MARY ANN SCOTT (1796-1830) AND THEIR EMIGRATION FROM SUSSEX, ENGLAND TO THE SWAN RIVER COLONY IN WA.

WILLIAM BEACHAM (1788-1875) AND MARY ANN SCOTT (1796-1830)

The story of the Beacham family is described in Goxhill to the Swan. William Beacham and his wife Mary and their five children left Portsmouth, Hampshire, England, 31 May 1829, and arrived per Lotus on the 6 Oct 1829.

BEACHAM, WILLIAM (1788-1875) was said to have been born in about 1788 in Tortington, Sussex, England. It is possible that he was born in Tortington, as Tortington has also been recorded for his marriage location. His parents are recorded in some Family Trees as WILLIAM BEACHAM (1757-) and ELIZABETH METCALF (1761-1830). There is still some uncertainty as to when and where William Beacham junior was born. The Perth Muster book in 1829 has his age as 35 years. If this was accurate, he would have been born in 1794, not 1788 as above. In WA BDMs William Beacham's death was recorded as 1875, aged 87 years, WA [Reg. 8370]. This would make his birth date about 1788. On his headstone it is also recorded that William Beacham died 28 Dec 1875, aged 87 years, 'Jim Jam', Pinjarra, WA. He is buried at St John's Cemetery, Pinjarra.

SPELLING OF SURNAME, BEECHAM / BEACHAM

GOXHILL to the SWAN, pg. 21

Raylee Jones wrote: The best authority on the spelling of the family's surname would be that which is copied from the family bible. Recently a piece of a letter dated August 5th, 1830 was unearthed by Mrs. Margaret Hoare from amongst her family papers and keepsakes. In the hand-writing of Elizabeth Beacham of Tortington, Jane Green's grandmother were the birth dates of Jane, her brothers and sister and her mother Mary. The surname is spelt with an "ea" in this letter.

WILLIAM BEACHAM (1788-1875) was married 27 Jul 1818 in Tortington, Sussex, England to MARY ANN SCOTT (1796-1830). Recorded as Beecham, FHL Film number 1041569.

Tortington: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tortington>

Tortington is a small village in the Arun District of West Sussex, England. It lies between the Arundel to Ford and the Arundel to Chichester roads, 1.6 miles (2.6 km) southwest of Arundel.

Barnham: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Barnham,_West_Sussex

Barnham is a semi-rural village and civil parish in the Arun district of West Sussex, England, centred about five miles (8 km) north of Bognor Regis.

SCOTT, MARY ANN (1796-1830) was born 26 Dec 1796 in Tortington, Sussex, England, daughter of WILLIAM SCOTT (1769-1834) and ELIZABETH HUDSON (1770-1835). Mary Ann Beacham (nee Scott) died 25 Jan 1830, site unconfirmed, Perth, WA. Family source (Patricia Isobel Chester [nee Hymus]) suggested that she was buried at Clarence and relocated to Alma Street, (not proven). It is also possible she may have been buried at Cemetery Hill, Perth, WA.

DEATH OF MARY BEACHAM (NEE SCOTT) (1796-1830)

Mary Beacham (nee Scott) died 25 Jan 1830 at Clarence, Swan River Colony. Only evidence of date of death was recorded on the fly leaf of a book that was held by the Late Edna Kelly.

In reply to a query via Mervyn Beacham to Dr Shane Burke: Senior lecturer Archaeology and History . . .

"I am very interested by the comment about Mary and Elizabeth dying at Clarence. As you would know, neither appear on the 1832 census, and Berryman in his book 'Colony Detailed' – one of the most comprehensive secondary sources on the colony's early British population - is at a loss to account for them. The 'official' births and deaths list make no mention of their deaths. I would be interested in your relative's source for the information about the Lotus discharging people at Peel town, for I haven't heard it before. However, one ambiguity to the list of deaths at Peel town is a child off the Britannia – but there is not mention officially of passengers alighting at Peel town from this ship and it is therefore possible that people from other ships might have lived there for a while."

WILLIAM BEACHAM AND MARY ANN SCOTT HAD FIVE CHILDREN:

1. BEACHAM, JANE (1818-1910) was born 20 Sep 1818, and baptised 4 Apr 1819, St Mary the Virgin, Barnham, Sussex, England. Jane Green (nee Beacham) died 11 Oct 1910, Perth, WA [Reg. 489]. More on details on Jane Beacham and her family following.

2. BEACHAM, REUBEN (1820-1832) was born 24 Aug 1820, Barnham, Sussex, England and baptised 24 Sep 1820, St Mary the Virgin, Barnham, Sussex, England. Birth recorded as Beecham, Film number 0918262, 0416748, 416755. Reuben Beacham died 3 Feb 1832, aged 12 years, Greenmount, WA, speared by Aborigines at Chippers Leap.

CHIPPERS LEAP https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Chippers_Leap

Chippers Leap is named for John Chipper, who jumped from the rock on 3 February 1832 while trying to escape an attack by a party of Noongars. Chipper and a 14 (sic)-year-old boy named Reuben Beacham had been driving a cart from Guildford to York along the York Road (now Old York Road) when they were attacked by Noongars.

Reuben Beacham was killed and John Chipper was speared but managed to escape, jumping from the rock and eventually reaching Governor James Stirling's house at Woodbridge. The story has been narrated by Raylee Jones in Goxhill to the Swan, pg 24. George Green was in the search party with William Beacham when they found the body of William's son Reuben.

State Record Office Acc 36 Vol 20, No. 93 13 Feb 2018

Perth

5 February 1832

Sir,

I beg to transmit the subjoined particulars of a very recent outrage committed by the natives of which I have this day received intelligence, in order that the case may be laid before His Excellency the Governor. I have the honour to be,

Your most obedient servant

W. H. Mackie

JP Chipper of Perth Labourer States: -

"On Friday last, about noon, I was driving Mr. Leroux's cart from Guildford to York, in company with a boy named Reuben Beacham about fourteen years old – We had just passed Greenmount and were going up a hill on the other side, when we saw two natives squatting behind some grass trees, close to the tail of the cart, but five yards off. When they found that I had seen them, they threw down their spears and wanted to make friends, and as I understood them wanted to exchange a spear for some bread or biscuit – When they offered me the spear I put out my hand to shake hands with them, when one of them instantly stabbed or thrust his spear at me – I held up my right arm to ward it off, when it passed through my arm into my side – All this passed within two minutes. I can swear that I never gave any provocation to either of them, nor the boy Beacham, who was then sitting in the cart. We have not a single gun with us – In the part of the road when this happened, the bush was very thickly grown with grass trees- When I was stabbed in the arm, I turned round and immediately the other of the two natives put his spear into his throwing stick and sent it into my back making a deep wound. I then began to run as hard as possible down a steep hill from the cart, and the boy jumped out of the cart, and followed. The moment I began to run, the two natives shouted and were answered by a number of other natives close to the road. The boy was overtaken about ten yards from the cart. I heard him scream out, and I looked back, but did not notice him; but perceiving a number of the natives gaining ground upon me, I turned short round the shoulder of the same hill, and ran off at my utmost speed. All this time they were throwing their spears at me. I ran for about four miles, and when I stopped, I heard the natives in the bush close round me, shouting as if they had lost their breath by hard running. I then set off again and made the Governor's house. I suppose that I ran, in the whole, seven miles. I think I have before seen at Mr. Henty's farm one of the two natives who first attacked us. About twenty minutes before the attack, I thought I saw a native skulking in the bush about a quarter of a mile before the cart. I have this morning received a bundle which I had with me in the cart, in the state in which it was found by the party who discovered Beacham's body; out of this bundle has been taken a blanket, a Fustian Jacket, a Scotch Cap and a large pocket knife and some tea and sugar in a bag.

Thomas Porley of Perth, Labourer States: -

Yesterday afternoon/ Saturday the 4th February/ I proceeded with Beacham, the father of the deceased, Inkpen and several others from Guildford to search for the body of Reuben Beacham – About seven miles from Guildford, on the road to York we came to the place where Chipper had been attacked on Friday last – Our party then spread out, on each side of the road, and we found the body of Beacham about forty yards from the road. It had twelve spear wounds in it, and a piece of a spear was sticking in the back of the shoulder bone – There was a large cut on the back of the head, as if made by a throwing stick. – Near the same place we found a piece of salt pork, and part of the head of a cask. – The body was not stripped of any part of its clothing, but the boy's hat was missing. We did not see any of the natives. – We buried the body at a spot about two miles from the place where it was found.

Memorial Tablet Dedicated.

About 300 persons gathered at the base of a huge granite rock at the top of Green-mount, and listened with interest on the night of February 3, while speakers tried to recreate for them the life of a century ago. and particularly the thrilling incidents of February 3. 1832, when John Chipper and Reuben Beecham were attacked by Aborigines. The occasion was the unveiling of a tablet placed by the WA Historical Society on the rock known as Chipper's Leap.

Where was Reuben Beacham buried?

Reply via Mervyn Beacham: "From reports two miles from the spearing towards Woodbridge. Where he was alleged to have been buried, Smith from "Clayton Farm" said that was the 24 mile well, being 24 miles from Fremantle, every possibility he was buried near the well as it was a conspicuous place.

Also, alleged he was reinterred in the original Church yard in Guildford later and later reinterred at the new cemetery, but I have no proof. Will include a couple of cuttings that help cloud the issue. One is from the surveyors' field book when they surveyed the new road, Great Eastern Highway. The other is near the railway crossing at Bellevue and the 24 mile well. So much for resting in peace.

The surveyor wrongfully marked where Reuben was buried at Greenmount but it was where he was killed. There used to be a cairn of rocks there, but they got removed when people started building in the area.

The grave (enclosed by fenceposts) beside the Bellevue railway crossing, which is said to be that of Reuben Beacham, a boy killed by natives at Chipper's Leap, Greenmount, in 1832.

Leaf from the survey logbook

Via Mervyn Beacham:

This leaf from the survey logbook indicates the position of the Old York Road (left), the long-dashed line is the proposed new Great Eastern Highway (right of centre).

Writing near 1150 indicates "Small rock cairn, a boy was murdered by natives about 1830".

The cairn was displaced when houses were constructed nearby much later. Left of the 1550 numeral was where Chipper made his "leap".

3. BEACHAM, JAMES JOSEPH (1823-1895) was born 29 Jul 1823, Barnham and baptised 5 Oct 1823, St Mary the Virgin, Barnham, Sussex, England. He died 16 May 1895, Colonial Hospital, Perth, WA [Reg. 729] and was buried St John's Cemetery, Pinjarra, WA.

JAMES JOSEPH BEACHAM (1823-1895) married ELIZABETH THORPE (1847-1919), 3 Dec 1861, St John's Church, Pinjarra, WA [Reg. 1719]. Elizabeth was born 5 May 1847, Pinjarra, WA [Reg. 933]; father, Benjamin Thorp and mother, Elizabeth. Recorded under Thorp. Elizabeth Beacham (nee Thorpe) died 1919, Murray, WA [Reg. 7]. See Dictionary of Western Australians Vol 3 "Free" 1850-1868. pg. 831, Elizabeth Thorpe's parents are recorded as: BENJAMIN THORPE (1800-1870) and JANE HILL (1804-1867).

Also, recorded in Thorpe Genealogy: <http://www.murrayhistory.org.au/history/prominent-families>, Benjamin arrived per the "Eliza" 5 Mar 1831 with his wife Jane Hill and three children, Edwin, Ann and Mary, as a servant to Morrell. He was a carpenter and farmer in Pinjarra, WA. Three more children, John, Ebenezer and Jane were born after their arrival in WA. Note: there is some confusion re Elizabeth's mother's name, some have recorded her as Elizabeth per WA [Reg. 933] above. Elizabeth Beacham (nee Thorpe) died 9 Jun 1919, 'Jim Jam', WA [Reg No7].

4. BEACHAM, LEVI (1826-1853) was born in Barnham, 15 Apr 1826, and baptised 14 May 1826, St Mary the Virgin, Barnham, Sussex, England. Levi Beacham died 1853, at sea, on route via ship to Adelaide, aboard the vessel Gold Digger at King Island, Bass Strait, Tasmania, Australia. (See below for more details).

LEVI BEACHAM (1826-1853) married 11 Jan 1853 MATILDA AMBROSE (1831-1853) St George's cathedral, Perth, WA [Reg. 465]. Tragically both dying at sea, early in their marriage, they had no children. Can't find their death in WA records. Matilda was born 22 Jan 1831, Perth. Parents: PETER AMBROSE (1856-1858) and HARRIET WRIGHT (~1802- 1834-37), arrival in via the Rockingham. Matilda Beacham (nee Ambrose) died 1853, at sea, on route via ship to Adelaide, aboard the vessel Gold Digger at King Island, Bass Strait, TAS. Also lost, were her husband Levi Beacham and his nephew Reuben Green.

Levi Beacham travelled to the Victorian gold diggings per the "Evergreen" With his nephew, Reuben Green & returned per the "Louisa" on 11 Nov 1852. He married on 11 Jan 1853 in St. George's Church Perth.

In July 1853, Levi, Matilda and nephew Reuben Green sailed in George Green's cutter "Gold Digger" heading to Victoria. Family history had the ship confused with the "Gold Seeker". The latter arrived safely at Melbourne, VIC, having been thought lost at Kings Island. "No news of "Gold Digger" Further research proved that Levi was Master in charge of the "Gold Digger" which was owned by George Green, Levi's brother-in-law, and had been engaged in coastal trade in WA.

Note: It seems George Green had both ships, the Gold Digger and the Gold Seeker.

The Perth Gazette: Friday 21 Oct 1853

A rumour of the loss of the cutter "Gold Digger", which left Fremantle in July last with a party of people for Adelaide, has been current for the last few days, and as nothing had been heard of her arrival in that port up to the 1st of October, we are afraid there is but too much truth in it.

5. BEACHAM, ELIZABETH (1829-1830) was born 13 Feb 1829, Barnham and baptised 23 Nov 1829, St Mary the Virgin, Barnham, Sussex, England. Elizabeth Beacham died 10 May 1830, WA, as a baby. It is thought she may have been buried at Clarence, a short time after her mother.

LIST OF PASSENGERS, LOTUS, 6 OCT 1829

<https://membership.wags.org.au/1829-ships/104-lotus>

Most of the settlers on board the Lotus were indentured to Colonel Peter Latour, who planned an ambitious emigration scheme on 100,000 acres of land in the Leschenault area. Latour was declared bankrupt in 1829, which in turn caused this venture to fail. Within a year, most settlers were freed from their indentures. Latour also had land at Guildford alongside Stirling's.

Via Mervyn Beacham: "Initially they would have landed in Gage Roads, sheltered behind Garden Island. That's where the Parmelia got stuck on a sand bank. After they sorted that out, they would have hove-to, close to the discharge of the Swan River, so they could ferry passengers and goods up the river to what became Perth. Stirling's aim was to build a capital city that couldn't be bombarded from the sea, as had done in various actions he had been involved in.

William Beacham was one of Latour's men. They lived in Perth and Guildford for a time before settling on the Murray River at Pinjarra on the 'Jim Jam' property about 1836. More details on this further on.

BLOCK 76 AND G17

William Beacham was assigned the block W76 in Wellington Street, 6/2/1833, but never earned the title to it, (possibly a tentative purchase with a view of settling down after being freed of indentures by Richard Wells, acting for Latour).

He then purchased G17 the middle block between William St and King St – between Hay Street and Murray Street and sold that for 90 Pounds.

Via Mervyn Beacham: "These blocks were purchased by William Beacham, probably advised by his son-in-law, George Green.

Map showing G17, the middle block between William St and King St. The G17 block was split up into many blocks as time progressed, this map was relatively modern but you can still see how large it was originally.

It is worth noting that blocks 1 and 2 at the bottom left of this map are G1 and G2 where George Green had his mill and house, so you can see the "Green" influence in selecting G17.

Govt Gazette 273, 1 Oct 1841, assigned G17, the middle block between William St and King St in Hay St, to William Beacham 30 Sep 1841. William earned the title and later sold the block to John Smith 20 Feb 1842, for 90 pounds to help pay for 'Jim Jam'.

As mentioned earlier, William, James Joseph and Levi Beacham worked for Charles Browne, who selected 'Jim Jam', (Murray Location 15) 5 Apr 1831. Browne announced his intention of leaving the colony in Nov 1841 and departed per Elizabeth with family 12 Jan 1842. He arrived back in Feb 1843, wife and children not mentioned. The farm was paid for in 1841 and the Greens took occupancy.

GOXHILL to the SWAN, pg.18.

On 30th September 1841, William Beacham and George Green went into partnership with the purchase of the farm, "Jim Jam". It consisted of eight hundred and sixty-six acres and was purchased for the consideration of six hundred pounds from Mr Charles Brown. In time as George progressed into other fields of business, he resold his portion of "Jim Jam" back to William Beacham. Not only were the Green and Beacham families joined in matrimony but also in business."

"COAL! COAL! COAL!!!"

... a rumour having reached Singleton that coal had been found on William Beecham's (sic) property he and Mr Samuel Moore made an examination and in the walls of a drain that Mr Beecham (sic) had been digging found black particles embedded in the clay." The Perth Gazette wrote "The fever of public excitement was amazing. The only man who was unmoved was Beecham(sic). His indifference is truly surprising. At first, he had absolutely refused to have the ground disturbed, for said he "What do I want with coal? I have enough firewood to last my time. Note: Should be Beacham.

Historic homesteads

Beachams 1862

Distance and isolation did not daunt the early settlers. Mr. William Beacham, who arrived at this State in 1837, packed a few possessions on the back of a cow, and with his three sons, Jim, Levi and Ruben, (sic), walked from Fremantle to the Murray District where he built his first home of mud bricks on the banks of the Murray River close to where the Ravenswood Bridge now stands. In 1862 when the Murray was in flood, homes along the river, including Beacham's, were swept away. William Beacham then built the present homestead from bricks made on the property, with a shingled roof, reminiscent of an English cottage. It faces the river and is about forty yards from the water's edge. Tragedy befell two of William Beacham's sons. Levi went in search of gold in the eastern States in a ship called the Gold Seeker (sic, Gold Digger) which was lost, and he was never heard of again. Reuben was killed by the Natives at Greenmount, his companion making a spectacular jump to safety that has earned the spot the name of Chipper's Leap.

Published as a tribute to our pioneers by the Swan Brewery Company Limited, makers of Swan Lager.

Note: There are a few errors in this article. Rueben died in 3 Feb 1832, aged 12 years, so could not have walked to the Murray district with his father and two brothers.

William Beacham died 28 Dec 1875, aged 86-87 years, Murray Shire, WA [Reg. 8730]. Buried Saint John's Cemetery, Pinjarra.

CONTINUING WITH THE STORY OF JANE BEACHAM:

BEACHAM, JANE (1818-1910) was 11 years of age on arrival at the Swan River Colony. It was to be an exciting, scary and sad time for her.

GOXHILL to the SWAN, pg. 23, Raylee wrote:

Misfortune and tragedy dogged this family: First her mother Mary Beacham died at Clarence on the 25th January 1830 just three months after their arrival in the infant colony. Next, Elizabeth Beacham, William and Mary's youngest daughter passed away on the 10th of May in the same year. Two years later on the 3 February 1832, at the youthful age of eleven, Reuben, William and Mary's second child, and oldest son, was speared to death at Greenmount.

Jane's father William Beacham became a prominent settler in the colony settling in the Murray District. As mentioned earlier, the Beacham family lived in Perth and Guildford for a time before settling on the Murray River at Pinjarra on the 'Jim Jam' property about 1841. Jim Jam was the Noongar spelling for a chain of lakes, e.g., swamps, very low lying constantly being flooded.

William Beacham never remarried, so it is assumed his daughter Jane following her mother's death in 1830, helped with the younger children and ran his house for him. The children at their mother's death were aged approximately - Jane 12 years, Reuben 10 years, James seven years, Levi four years and Elizabeth one year. Tragically Elizabeth, the baby, died shortly after. This was followed by Reuben's death in 1832, aged 12 years. This was almost too much for a young girl to bear.

Jane Beacham grew up in the early days of the Swan River Colony. Watching and experiencing the initial development of Perth and Guildford, she blossomed into an attractive and independent young woman. One can imagine with other young women from the colony she attended a number of social occasions. She was courted by an up-and-coming builder named George Green.

JANE BEACHAM (1818-1910) married GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874) 21 Feb 1836, Monger's Lake, WA, Banns waived, approval given by His Excellency Sir James Stirling. J B W Wittenoom, Colonial Chaplain. Jane was seventeen, not yet eighteen years. George Green was aged 28 years.

His Excellency Sir James Stirling, Governor & Commander in Chief of the Colony of Western Australia - to - George Green of Perth Bachelor & Jane Beecham of Perth, Spinster, Greeting

Whereas it hath been represented unto us that ye have resolved to proceed to the solemnization of true & lawful Matrimony & that you greatly desire to cause & obtain that the same be solemnized in the face of the Church without the usual Publication or Proclamation of Banns of Matrimony provided there appear no lawful impediment in this case by reason of any Precontract, Consanguinity, Affinity or any other cause whatsoever, We for lawful causes graciously grant this our Licence & Faculty as well to you the parties contracting as to our Colonial Chaplain to solemnize the said Marriage according to the Rites of the Church of England without the usual Publication or Proclamation of Banns of Matrimony with in the space of six months from the date hereof - Provided always that if in this case there shall hereafter appear any fraud suggested to us or truth suppressed at the time of obtaining this Licence, then this Licence to be void & of no effect in Law, as if the same had never been granted. And in that case we inhibit all Ministers if anything of the Premises shall come to their knowledge that they do not proceed to the celebration of the said Marriage without consulting us or our Colonial Chaplain:

Given under our hand & seal at Perth this 19th Day of February 1836.

J. Stirling Governor.

GOXHILL to the SWAN: P. 18

Throughout all George's enterprises, Jane was there to run the home and rearing their family. They were originally housed in a thatch roofed cottage opposite Wesley Church, facing onto Hay Street. As George's circumstances improved, he was able to build a two-storey house facing onto William Street, into which he and Jane moved.

NOTE: THE NEXT FOUR PAGES ARE FAMILY TREE INFORMATION ABOUT GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874) AND JANE BEACHAM AND THEIR FAMILY.

GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874) AND JANE BEACHAM (1818-1910) HAD ELEVEN CHILDREN, ALL BORN IN PERTH, WA.

1. GREEN, REUBEN (1836-1853) was born 19 Jan 1836, Perth. He died 1853, at sea, aboard the vessel Gold Digger at King Island, Bass Strait, TAS. Also lost were his uncle and aunt, Levi Beacham and his wife Matilda (nee Ambrose). For more details refer to the earlier section on * Levi Beacham (1826-1853).

2. GREEN, WILLIAM (1837-1880) was born 8 Jun 1837, Perth. William drowned in a boating accident, 26 Nov 1880, aged 43 years, Perth, WA [Reg. 10727]. He is buried in the Karrakatta Cemetery.

m.1 William's first marriage was to ELIZA WALLACE (~1840-1875) on 22 Aug 1863 at Fremantle, WA [Reg. 2017]. Eliza was born ~1840. Eliza Green died 25 Nov 1875, WA [Reg. 8725], aged 35 years.

m.2 William's second marriage was to SARAH ELIZABETH RUSSELL (1853-) in 1877, Perth, WA [Reg. 4399]. Sarah was born on 26 Oct 1853, York, WA [Reg. 2179]. Her father was HENRY RUSSELL and mother, ELIZABETH BRANSCOMB REECE. After William died, Sarah married a second time to SAMUEL BARNETT, WA.

The West Australian Tue 30 Nov 1880

<https://www.geni.com/people/William-Green/6000000026170686866>

A distressing and somewhat mysterious case of drowning happened in the river, between Perth and Fremantle, on Friday evening. It appears that on Friday morning, Mr. William Green, the owner of a couple of steamers engaged on the river, and a candidate for the representation of the West ward of the city at the recent municipal election, went down the river, alone, in a sailing boat belonging to his brother Mr. Levi Green, for the purpose of looking at some building stone which he intended obtaining from a quarry at Point Resolution... More details can be read following the link to the web site above. It seems the inquiry into his death concluded that he died from accidental drowning when his boat capsized in a sudden extreme change of weather.

3. GREEN, ELIZABETH JANE (1839-1891) was born 8 Jun 1839, Perth, (Fremantle), registered in 1843, WA [Reg. 194]. Baptised 4 Aug 1839, Perth. Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green) died 8 Apr 1891, Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 256].

11. GREEN, GEORGE REUBEN (1859-1860) was born 26 Dec 1859, Perth, WA [Reg. 5032]. He died on 28 Aug 1860, Perth, WA [Reg. 1526].

The Colony of was very much in its infancy:

History of Perth, Wikipedia.

Following is a summary from the "Early years (1830-1850)" from https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/History_of_Perth,_Western_Australia

Early years (1830-1850)

The oldest surviving building in Perth, the Round House was completed in 1831, providing the colony with its first prison. The Court House was completed in 1836 and it doubled as a place of worship until St George's Church was built in 1842. The colony's first brewery, the Swan Brewery, was established in 1837. The first causeway, a primitive timber bridge was completed across the river connecting Perth to Victoria Park by 1843. In 1850 when Elizabeth Green was eleven years of age the population of had increased to 5,886. The population around Perth was about 1400. became a penal colony in 1850 and over 9,000 convicts were transported to the colony between then and 1868. The first cultural centre, the Swan River Mechanics Institute was established in 1851. It included an extensive library and botanical, zoological and mineral specimens. In 1856 Perth was officially declared a City by Queen Victoria. The official residence for the Governor of was commenced in 1859.

As mentioned previously, in Sep 1841 William Beacham, George's father-law and George Green, himself went into partnership with the purchase of the farm 'Jim Jam'. It comprised eight hundred and sixty-six acres. Not only were the Green and Beacham families united in matrimony but also in business.

Speculating via Di Black: One can imagine that George and Jane, already blessed with two sons, Reuben, aged three and William, aged two years, were delighted with the birth of their first daughter, my great-great-grandmother, who they named Elizabeth. Elizabeth and her brother William shared birthdays, both born on the 8 Jun. The home became an extremely busy and active one as eight more children were added to the family. When her mother gave birth to their last child, George, born in 1859. Sadly, he died before his first birthday.

George Green became involved in shipping, owning a number of schooners travelling interstate and steamers running between Perth and Fremantle.

GOXHILL to the SWAN, pg.26

Referring to George Green: He was not in the colony more than twenty to twenty-three years before he had two or three schooners running on the coast and there was not much traffic to keep them running in those early days. Two of these schooners were named the Shepherd and the Gold Seeker. One of these went right away to Melbourne very soon after the rush to the Bendigo goldfields. He went on one of these schooners and while the vessel was at Port Melbourne, went up to Melbourne and had a dig. (Jane Green had two signet rings ("J" and "G") which were made of gold he brought back to Perth from Melbourne. (Not sure whether he found the gold or bought it.) . . .

"Young Shepherd": As well as plying the coastline to support the new colony the "Young Shepherd" took its part in the whaling industry as reported in an article, "Bay Whaling in Western Australia". P. 35 of the Royal Historical Society – EARLY DAYS. Vol 6.

*On 19 May 1847, The Inquirer newspaper had the following to say:
It is with regret we have to announce the total loss of the schooner Young Shepherd trading between Perth and Vasse, on Saturday morning last, the 15th Instant. . . Thankfully the crew and passengers survived . . .*

"Evergreen": The Inquirer dated 26 Sep 1849 informs its readers that:

"Mr Green, late owner of the Young Shepherd, undeterred by his former mishap with that vessel, has set himself most indefatigably to work and has nearly completed another." She was launched in October 1849.

Francis Cadell, of Perth, Pearler.

The engine was removed in 1858 and she reverted to a two masted schooner being rerated to 42 tons. She was used on the coast as a passenger and cargo vessel, trading between Bunbury and Port Gregory and ports in between. When sold to Francis Cadell she went into the pearling industry and was subsequently lost near the Timor Coast on or about 1882.

When this vessel first arrived from Adelaide her masts and rigging were removed, and she was brought over the bar at the mouth of the Swan to begin a ferry service from Perth to Fremantle. However, she drew too much water and the passengers had to be carried out in dinghies to her. After her original owner fell overboard and was drowned, she was sold to Shenton who then took her out of the river and put her on the coast. She was the states, first steam coaster until her engines were removed. Registry cancelled February 1884.

(Green's Roller Flour Mill was in Hay Street, just west of William Street, on Lot G. 2., opposite the Wesley Church. It was here that the boiler and engine of Les Trois Amis first did their duty on dry land after conversion.)

GEORGE GREEN (1808-1874) died 3 Dec 1874, Perth, WA [Reg. 8232], aged 67 years. Burial 13 Dec 1874, East Perth Cemetery. In 1910, his wife Jane's funeral was held at the East Perth Cemetery and she was buried next to her husband – see her Obituary. Later, their headstone was erected in the Anglican section of the Karrakatta Cemetery, see following the article on her Obituary.

The family remembers this home best when talking about these two ladies as many relations stayed under this roof when visiting Perth or during changes of address. This housewife, mother, grandmother and property owner always had her door open to family and friends.

Henry Green in one of his letters summarized: "Jane Green was my grandmother and a very kind grandmother she was."

JANE GREEN (NEE BEACHAM) (1818-1910) died on the 11 Oct 1910, Perth, WA [Reg. 489], at the age of 92 years. Her details on Find a Grave indicate she was buried at Karrakatta Cemetery and have a photo of their grave and headstone. The question from those researching was why? The next article may explain it.

EAST PERTH CEMETERIES: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/East_Pertth_Cemeteries

In 1899, Karrakatta Cemetery became the main burial ground in close proximity to Perth, and from July that year burials officially ceased at East Perth, except where special applications were made to use family graves. The cemetery was used intermittently from then until the last burial in 1919.

It appears that some time, later the family erected their current headstone in the new Karrakatta Cemetery.

JOHN BLECHYNDEN (1833-1900) & ELIZABETH GREEN (1839-1891)

Elizabeth Green grew up in an affluent household. Her parents and grandparents were active members of the Swan River Colony and one can imagine that Elizabeth and her younger sister Dinah would have enjoyed much attention at the many social gatherings. During this time Elizabeth caught the eye of a handsome young bachelor named John Blechynden.

John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green were married on 23 Feb 1860, at St George's Cathedral, Perth, in one of the earliest (white) marriages in WA, in which both bride and groom had been born in the colony.

St George's Cathedral, 1865

One can imagine Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden, George and Jane Green, their children and friends and relatives gathering in all their finery to celebrate the marriage of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green. Over many years John and his mother and father had mixed with a large number of people both in Perth and Beverley, including the Brockmans, Barrett-Lennard's and Edwards families. Perhaps some of them were there to wish them well.

Copy of marriage certificate of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green, 23 Feb 1860

John and Elizabeth Blechynden spent their honeymoon travelling by bullock wagon from Perth to a rough dwelling house in the Blackwood area on John's ten-acre homestead block on which he had earlier built a stockman's cottage.

One can only wonder at the experiences this young woman underwent when she joined her man on the adventure of her life. One can imagine she was at first filled with excitement and enthusiasm with the dream of establishing their home and property in relatively unexplored land. She would have had mixed feelings at leaving the life with her family behind. She could not have known what an immense change it would be from her comfortable life in the city to coming initially to a life of bare necessities with no available amenities.

The town of Bridgetown as such did not exist. John and Elizabeth's property consisted of thick virgin bush including large jarrah and gum trees on the banks of the Blackwood River. Transport was by horse-back, horse and cart and bullocks pulling wagons through uncleared bush and the occasional dirt track. There were no roads, coaches or railway. There were no shops, post office, churches, doctors, hospital or schools. Their nearest neighbour was Edward Hester and it is purported that it was eight years before they became aware of one another. The Hester's established properties about six kilometres north of Bridgetown known as Blackwood Park and later Dalgarpark. That family also has a significant family history and connection to the establishment of Bridgetown.

On their block of land John and Elizabeth planted an orchard and a vegetable garden and kept poultry which supplied them with eggs. Initially supplies came via bullock wagons from Bunbury or Perth. It must have been a lonely time for this young woman so far away from her childhood home. John spent many hours and days away at a time working his extensive property and travelling to and fro from Bunbury or Perth.

Elizabeth had given birth to two children, John William who was born on 12 May 1861, Bridgetown, registered in Perth, WA [Reg. 5816] and George Harrison on 2 Nov 1862, Bridgetown, registered in WA [Reg. 6744]. They were both born in Bridgetown, before construction of the Blechynden homestead was properly underway. As the fledgling town was still very young, both births were registered in Perth.

Transport of supplies and travel from one area to another had been difficult with few roads, mostly rough tracks. Life was made a lot easier when the road from Donnybrook to the Blackwood district shingle roof of the house was replaced by corrugated iron again in 2008 and the Single Men's Hut in 2014.

The land on which Ford House resides was purchased from The Crown for £10 as a 10-acre freehold property by John Blechynden, in 1857. He built a "gentleman's" one room hut in 1860 using bricks made from clay on the river. John married Elizabeth Green in the same year, and they moved into the hut. Many years later, on August 26, 1896, Lucille Jane Walter (nee Thompson of Brookhampton) and William Ardagh Gardner (WAG) Walter bought half the land, 5 acres for £200, from John William Blechynden. . . The Walter's built Ford House in 1896, named after his father's house, "Ford House" in Wellington, Somerset, England, near Taunton. .

The builder was the first white child born in the district, John William Blechynden, aged 25 years. His name is inscribed in the brickwork on the NE corner of Ford House. . .

Pioneer Pastoralist:

"Blechynden's House": on 23 February 1859, surveyor Robert Austin drew the plan of Blechynden's first pastoral lease and inscribed these words above the site of this building, later used as the 'man's room' and schoolroom.

BRIDGEDALE

A room at Bridgedale was initially placed at the disposal of Miss Sarah Gardiner, who was employed by the settlers as the first schoolteacher in the district for Blechynden's own children and others in the area. Miss Gardiner later married Mr George Giblett. Sometime later, the schoolroom moved into a small cottage on the property known as "a man's room". The cottage still stands today. It is understood that this cottage was lived in while the main house was built.

Building (of Bridgedale) was in progress in 1862 when William Forrest of Picton had obtained a contract to erect a bridge across the Blackwood River alongside the ford used by the first settlers. The Blechynden's new house was sited close by just east of the bridge. Two tradesmen were engaged, Joseph Green and Billy May, but it is not clear how they apportioned their time between the bridge and the house. In the winter of 1862 torrential rains were experienced throughout the southern parts of the colony and these caused destructive flooding along the river which washed away much of Forrest's work. This must have been frightening for the Blechynden family, especially as Elizabeth was pregnant at the time. She must have felt a long way from help and comfort as there were few other settlers in the area. However, her pioneer spirit and determination survived, and she later used her experience to become the local midwife and helped and encouraged other women undergoing similar experiences.

The floods drew attention to the vulnerability of a bridge at this site, and it was reconstructed at a new site just east of the house.

Pg. 5. The Bridges of Bridgetown - In 1861 settlers of the district petitioned the authorities for a bridge across the Blackwood River at Austin's Ford and a bridge was built in 1862. This bridge was swept away just before completion.

The railway bridges - On 5 December 1896, the rail line from Donnybrook to Bridgetown was completed. Two years later on 1 November 1898 the timber-trestle railway bridge was opened. (This enabled the rail line to continue further south from Bridgetown.)

The timber-trestle bridge was decommissioned on the 10th of July 1965 and two days later the first train crossed on the newly constructed concrete and steel railway bridge. This new bridge continued in service until the rail service to Bridgetown ceased in 2005.

SEVEN BRIDGES: by Mary Elgar, Bridgetown Historical Society:

Via Mary Elgar: "I am interested in correcting the history of the bridges in Bridgetown!! There has been lots of misinformation spread around, so I wrote the article on Bridgetown's Bridges to try and clarify where they all were and what are still showing remnants." See the section following BRIDGEDALE for her article.

The farmhouse seems to have been constructed in two stages. The rear of the building was the earlier part and was probably built in 1862. It consisted of a row of five small rooms, the middle one presumably being the living room-kitchen, all of which were under a skillion roof sloping towards the river. The bricks were made on the site from clay dug from the riverbank. The timber used was clearly pit-sawn as the marks of the saw are in straight parallel lines, not the arcs left by a circular saw.

This image of Bridgedale, is from a postcard which was put out by the National Trust many years ago. Note the shingled roof was replaced with one of tin in 1913. Courtesy Ken Blechynden.

Photo of the other side of the Bridgedale home also showing the shingles

John became the local postmaster in 1864 and Edwin was born on 1st August 1864 and when Elizabeth was pregnant with James who was born on 29th May 1866, the family decided to build more rooms, so the front three large rooms were added. The house became rather dark with these additions, so a fanlight of semi-circular design was inserted above the main “passage-cum-hall” separating the parlour on the right from the dining room on the left. The room further to the left opening from the dining room was the main bedroom where John and Elizabeth slept. The house was originally roofed with shingles and it was completed in 1867. The whole complex of buildings which comprised the Blechynden Homestead extended along the riverbank. Next to the house was a barn-like structure containing the machinery shed and stalls for cattle and horses. This was built to connect with a Man's room which is still standing on an adjacent lot referred to in the surveyor's 1859 description. Only the residential part of the complex has survived the passage of years.

The homestead was said to have been given the name ‘Bridgedale’ by the Blechyndens because it was in the dale by the bridge. Family stories and tradition say that it was Elizabeth Blechynden who suggested they call the town ‘Bridgetown’ after the ship ‘Bridgetown’ which had called in at Bunbury with a shipment of timber. The Blechyndens had purchased a piglet from the litter of a pig that had been bought from the master of the ship by the shepherd Mark Padbury and she must have liked the piglet as she honoured the name of the ship that the piglet’s parent came on.”

Whatever the case, Elizabeth Blechynden did indeed suggest the name Bridgetown for the new town and this name was put forward, approved and adopted.

Shortly afterwards Surveyor Carey arrived in the Blackwood district to make a survey of the areas required for John Blechynden and Edward G. Hester, the first settlers in the Bridgetown district. Surveyor Carey agreed to the suggested name of Bridgetown and sent the recommendations to Governor Hampton, who had the two sites gazetted in 1868. The area surveyed was 2,400 acres. Bridgetown's main street was named Hampton St after the Governor. Part of John Blechynden's land was allocated for part of the town site.

Elizabeth and John Blechynden were both members of the Church of England and as the St Paul's Anglican Church was not built in Bridgetown until 1911, they would have held family church services in Bridgedale or travelled to Picton or Perth for special events such as christenings, marriages and deaths.

The first section, Provincial Rules. "This Society is founded with the view of drawing the members of the Church of England in this diocese more closely together in the bonds of Christian sympathy and brotherly love, and ensuring, under the Divine blessing, through united action and mutual support, the general welfare and progress of the Church of England in this colony. . ."

The following quotes are from the second section, which consists of a letter in which Joseph Withers is proposing the funding of a position for a clergyman in the Wellington, Nelson, and Sussex districts, to be first in the field. Bridgetown, Blackwood River, would constitute the centre from which the clergyman would itinerate. He also mentions holding service at the Blechynden home in Bridgetown.

We publish the following letter at the request of the writer: -

"SIR, -I send by this mail a cheque for £7 6s. 6d. to the Secretary of the Diocesan Church Society. Excepting eight shillings in aid of the Bushman's Library, I wish that this amount (£6 18s. 6d.) be placed to the credit of a local object, to be designated the " Blackwood Itinerant Mission Fund," and that this object be registered under the auspices of the Society. In writing to you some little time since, I expressed an opinion that as the Society could only move in proportion to means, a beginning must be made somewhere. I propose at least, to Churchmen of the Wellington, Nelson, and Sussex districts, to be first in the field

... "Supposing the " man " and " the means " to be found, the field of operations should be the following:

Bridgetown, Blackwood River, would constitute the centre from which the clergyman would itinerate; he might travel as far north as (say) Minninup Bridge, taking in the stations on the Upper Preston on the E, ; as far S.as " Giblett's ;" as far E. as " Steere's ;" and to the Lower Blackwood Bridge. Going from hut to hut with a supply of books from the Bushman's Library. and arranging for services wherever groups of two or three families could be assembled, a man of suitable talents would do much good in a quiet way. Nor can I doubt that in time the shepherds, hut keepers, and stock-hunters, would take their places as regular annual subscribers to such a fund.

If we are not to be outrun in the race of good, we must be up and doing. In this, as in everything, we do not know how much, under God, we can do, till we try. Singly we can do but little, it may be, in the way of giving, but if we each made up our mind to give, not the refuse but the first fruits of our means, to promote the cause of God and the well-being of our fellow men we shall unitedly do a great deal. Talk of making sacrifices! If each head of a family would but ask himself how much in the past year, he has spent on what he could well have done without; if he would resolve in the coming year to make his contributions to the cause of God a first charge on his means, he would be surprised to find how much he might give, and ashamed of himself for having hitherto given so little,

Whatever may come of this scheme; I am trying to." pave the way." I go regularly once a month to Bridgetown, and hope soon to see a commodious schoolroom erected, which will serve for a reading room for the working men in the evenings; and for a place of worship until population and means so far increase as to warrant the erection of a church. On Wednesday evening I held service at Blechynden's, and I had between 30

In 1862 the first school in the area was established in a room in John Blechynden's house, Bridgedale. He also ran a non-denominational church service from his home for some time. In 1870 Bridgetown (town) school was built in Steere Street.

The next articles show that John and Walter Blechynden both took part in a meeting re the early development of the Anglican Church in the South West. It is amazing that we can visualise and read about both John Blechynden and his brother Walter Blechynden being present and very much part of it. They were both pioneers as many other children of the original settlers in their own right in the formation of the Bridgetown and Manjimup districts. I, Di Black, am so proud to be descended from John Blechynden, the son of Harrison Blechynden.

The Hon. J. G. Lee Steere, Esq., J.P., M.L.C.

I hereby give notice that, in accordance with the above requisition, a public meeting will be held at Bridgetown on Saturday, Dec. 18, at noon, in furtherance of the object above named.

J. G. Lee Steere.

The meeting took place at the house of Mr. Phillips, Bridgetown, when Mr. J. G. Lee Steere having been voted to the chair, and a statement made by him of the object of the meeting, he at once called upon the Rev. J. Withers to lay before them the details of the proposed scheme. The following series of resolutions was then read by him, and discussion invited, with a view to their adoption by the meeting. Accordingly, a full and satisfactory discussion took place, into which everyone entered freely and with interest.

Resolutions submitted by Rev. J. Withers.

1.— That the providing for an Itinerant Clergyman in the Blackwood and Southern districts having- been entered as a 'special object' in the lists of the Diocesan Church Society, this meeting heartily sympathises with and pledges its aid to, this important project.

2. — That this meeting considers a practicable field of operations for such an Itinerant, working from Bridgetown as a centre, would be the following: — As far north as the Williams River district; as far south as the Warren River; as far east as Kojonup; and as far west as Mininup Bridge.

3. — That as the proposed sphere of labour comprises parts of the Wellington, Sussex, and Nelson districts, strenuous and systematic efforts should be made to raise within those districts at least a moiety of the clergyman's stipend.

4. — That this may best be done by (a) obtaining a further enrolment of members of the Diocesan Church Society; (b) annual subscriptions of larger amount; (c) annual sermons and collections in the several places of worship in these districts; (d) the revival of the weekly offertory; and (e) by tea meetings, etc, held periodically.

5. — That the following persons, as representing the several parts of those districts opposite their names, be requested to receive the subscriptions in their own neighbourhood in furtherance of the two former (a) and (b), of these modes: — Messrs. J. G. Lee Steere, J. Blechynden, J. Giblett, and A. W. Moulton, Blackwood; G. D. C. Lefroy, Bunbury; W. Forrest, Picton; H. Higgins, Capel, River; R. H. Rose, Parkfield; T. Hayward, Harvey, Brunswick, and Collie Rivers; J. Fleay, Williams River; Rev. H. W. Brown, and Messrs. J. G. Bussell, Gale, G. Layman, and S. Rose, Sussex.

6. — That the names of persons enrolling themselves as members of the Diocesan Church Society within the Wellington and Nelson districts, or as subscribers or donors to this object in any of the three districts, shall be forwarded to the Local Secretary, together with all subscriptions received, and it shall be his duty to forward these names and subscriptions to the Treasurer of the Diocesan Church Society.

7. — That the following persons, or so many of them as consent to act, do constitute the Local Committee of the Blackwood Itinerant Mission Scheme, viz., J. G. Lee Steere, Esq., Mr. J. Giblett, Rev. H. Brown, J. G. Bussell, Esq., G. Eliot, Esq., Messrs. T. Hayward and E. Hester, Rev. J. Withers, and Messrs. J. Blechynden and R. Jones; that five shall form a quorum, and that the Rev. J. These resolutions were then formally adopted in the following words:—

We, the undersigned, having duly considered the foregoing resolutions, think that they are well calculated to carry out the object in view, and entirely concur in them.—Jas. G. Lee Steere, John Giblett, John Blechynden, Walter Blechynden, J. W. Muir.

It was then agreed that the Secretary should furnish each person willing to receive subscriptions and donations with cards and corresponding lists, and that efforts should be made to the best of their power to find out what can be done within the limits of these several districts, keeping steadily in view that regular annual subscribers must be regarded as the mainstay of the project. To do this it was considered that three months' time would be necessary; and that then, the Local Committee, having met and compared notes, would be in a position to go before the Diocesan Church Society and claim aid.

The thanks of those present having been duly accorded to Mr. Steere, the meeting broke up, feeling that though few had come together, the discussion had been satisfactory, and that there only needed patient effort and God's blessing to make the scheme a success.

John had increased his freehold area to 170 acres by 1868, when their first daughter Charlotte Jane was born on 2 Mar 1888. Charlotte died of an early childhood illness 15 months later on 17 Jun 1869 and it was a very sad time for the Blechynden family.

Early History

OF BRIDGETOWN ROADS

EXCHANGES IN 1869

Back in 1869 John Blechynden, the first man to settle on the Blackwood at Bridgetown, gave an undertaking to the Lands Department that he would exchange with the Lands Department three sections that they required for roadways if the department gave him two small blocks of land. This proposal was approved by both parties and two of the roads were put through the records in the ordinary way and were gazetted as such. The third road leading from the entrance to the present river bridge towards Armstrong's and Walkers properties was never resumed. Someone must have been delving into the records of the town and discovered this error and forthwith the Bridgetown Road Board was notified and asked to approve the resumption. To this the board agreed on Friday last and the secretary (Mr C. V. Draper) was also asked to draw the departments attention to the small piece of land that would be left between the roadway and the river which in many parts was a sheer drop to the water's edge.

The early settlers arrived by bullock dray along bush tracks. In 1861 a road was constructed with convict labour from (Minninup) Donnybrook to the Blackwood River at a point which later became the site of Bridgetown. In 1862 a bridge across the Blackwood at Austin Ford was constructed but was swept away before it was completed.

During this period there were few roads in the area and those that existed were rough and poorly made, however these formed the basis for the road network in the area today. Rivers in the area were generally not suitable for use as major transport routes.

The first post office in the district was established by 1864 and known as 'Geegelup' Post Office at the Police Station at the south end of the Blackwood Bridge.

4.3.4 Establishment of Bridgetown, pg.20.

During 1868 a further survey of the Blackwood area was conducted by T. Campbell Carey with John Forrest as assistant surveyor. On 11 February 1868, Carey wrote to the Surveyor General to seek authority to lay out town lots in the settlement then known as Geegelup:

Many of the settlers on the Blackwood are anxious that a few small lots should be laid out on Geegelup townsite, to induce some four tradesmen — carpenter, blacksmith, wheelwright and shoemaker — who have been there for some time, to finally settle on the place and induce others to follow. Should you think it advisable to have this work done will you please be good enough to let me know.

John Blechynden's land on the northern side of the Blackwood River was acquired by the government and the town of Bridgetown (previously known as Geegelup) was gazetted in mid-1868.

The town grew steadily throughout the 1870s and by 1879 the town could boast several stores and public houses, with the Mechanics Institute being built in 1877.

John Blechynden set up a business relating to public conveyance between Bunbury and the Blackwood. As his sons became old enough and learnt the skills of riding and handling horses, they joined him in delivering mail and goods in the district.

John Blechynden had three thousand acres approved for lease by John Forrest, the Commissioner for Crown lands on the 31 Dec 1883. Applications for the renewal of licenses had to be deposited with the Land Office before the last day of Jan in each year, accompanied by a fee of two shillings and sixpence.

SUPREME COURT: CRIMINAL SIDE.

(Before His Honor the Chief Justice and a "Common Jury).

Wednesday, July 2, 1873.

Mr. Stone made an application that Mr. Augustus Sanford Roe be admitted as a practitioner in this court. Application granted.

LARCENY.

Cornelius Denny, indicted with being on the premises of one John Blechynden, at Bridgetown, with felonious intent.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty and was defended by Mr. Burt.

It appeared that the prisoner and some other men had been at Blechynden's house (who retails colonial wine) and bought some wine. But at a quarter past ten Mrs. Blechynden found the prisoner in possession of some wine which she believed he had stolen. Mr. Steere, M.L.C., gave the prisoner a good character, stating that his only fault was that he was "too fond of drink."

Verdict guilty, with a recommendation to the favorable consideration of the court.

Mr. Burt then read some certificates of character for the prisoner, also a memorial from the settlers of the district in favor of the prisoner.

Taking into consideration that the prisoner had been in prison since April last, the court sentenced him to one-month hard labor.

"As well as being the local postmaster and midwife, John and Elizabeth had learned many skills such as candle making, carpentry, bread making and first aid. The doctor was sixty miles away at Bunbury and many children died at a young age by accident or from illnesses that had no 'bush remedy'. When John had first come to the area from the Beverley area, he was guided by friendly natives who knew of a valley free of the Gastrolobium plant called 'heart-leaf poison' which had poisoned many sheep and cattle in the Beverley and eastern regions. The Aboriginals taught John to live off the land, shooting or spearing kangaroos and brush-tailed possum and it is said that once for a change they shot a duck to eat, but it was so tough and scrawny that they returned to their previous diet. They also told him of bush medicine and bush tucker that was edible in the new, unfamiliar region.

On July 19th 1864 George Blechynden (Junior), son of the 1st cousin of John's father Harrison, who had emigrated to Australia on the ship Minstrel with Harrison, married Jane Nilgie, an aboriginal servant, at the Church of Saint Mary, Busselton, which George Senior had helped to build, being a carpenter. Not much is known about the marriage and it is believed that they had no children. Jane's father's name was Dickie of the Nyungar people and it is possible that they were related to the aboriginals who were so helpful to John. The marriage mustn't have lasted long or been kept secret because when George died in 1894, he was known to the family as a bachelor."

Note: See Daisy Bates story of Ngilgie pg. 105 "Shortly after her departure from the Bussell farm, Ngilgie after some preliminary adventure, married a half cast named Whitey-Brown George, with whom however, she lived but a short time." See the section on Harrison's cousin George Blechynden for more details.

By the time John and Elizabeth's fifth son Arthur was born on 2nd April 1870 the town of Bridgetown had been proclaimed two years prior in June 1868 having previously been known as "Geegelup" after a small creek on John's property. John and Elizabeth's two homestead blocks were incorporated in the town survey and his house was therefore, the first in the town, which soon acquired all the essential offices required to serve the district. Before a school was built, the Blechyndens' parlour was used as a schoolroom by the schoolmistress Miss Gardiner and her pupils.

John William, George, Edwin, James and later baby Arthur would have been amongst her first pupils. Other settlers had moved into the area by this stage and the children would have been excited to have had regular schooling and contact with other children. Elizabeth, no doubt feeling lonely for the company of other women, would undoubtedly have been pleased to see other parents as they brought their children to school. The other settlers included the Hesters who had settled at the same time as John Blechynden, the Allnutts of "Nelson Grange" whose orchards John William worked on in his early twenties, the Lee-Steeres of "Jayes" where John William had his first job on their sheep station at age 19, the Padburys of Balingup and the Jones brothers from west of Hesters' place. South of the Blackwood River, Charles Rose, John Giblett, Thomas Muir and Edward Brockman had all established their pastoral properties by 1870.

DARDANUP. Passenger Car

From our own Correspondent.

I understand that before long, a Mr. Blechynden intends to commence running a passenger car, to and from Bridgetown weekly. If so, it will be a great convenience, as the mail-cart, which at present runs once a week, is always over-crowded with passengers, especially since the tin mine was opened at Bridgetown. I feel sure Mr. Blechynden will receive a good share of patronage.

Life was not all work and no play for the Blechyndens however because concerts took place at Bridgedale in the early years. One memorable one was held in the woolshed at Bridgedale in April 1877 to raise funds for the Mechanics Hall. The local newspapers recorded that "The concert was opened by Mrs Lefroy playing the Overture to William Tell, in such a manner as to send a thrill through the breast of every liberty-loving British subject present..." Apparently after the concert the dancing continued until dawn followed by a cricket match and another dance in the evening.

BRIDGETOWN, May 9

Concert. — On the 26th of April the good people of Bridgetown were enlivened with a concert and ball such as country people only can appreciate and enjoy. Throughout the day fresh arrivals from the country were seen coming into this picturesque little settlement, and where twenty years ago there was neither habitation nor human being, to-day there could not have been much less than 200 souls of all ages. A stranger would have been surprised to see people flocking together from such long distances as some had come, (for some persons met here who lived 90 or 100 miles apart), but those who are acquainted with the settlers of the Blackwood know that when they attempt to do anything they do it thoroughly, and not by halves, and when they promised an entertainment, they knew it would be worth, going to. The amateurs who catered so successfully for our entertainment must have taken great pains in getting up such a varied programme that gratified all taste and made it such a complete success. The object of the concert was to raise funds towards building a Mechanics' Hall. The tickets realised £10. The audience are under very great obligations to Mr. Hester for the use of his piano, to Mr. Blechynden for the use of his building, and to all the performers for the musical treat they enjoyed. The performers were Mr., Mrs., and the Misses Lefroy, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rose, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Allnutt, Mr. G. and the Misses Gussie, Flora and Eva Hester. The concert was opened by Mrs. Lefroy playing the overture to William Tell, in such a manner as to send a thrill through the breast of every liberty-loving British subject present, and a glow of admiration of the brave old Swiss of 550 years ago. Mr. Rose sang 'West End Boys.' The Agnes Sorrel quadrille was played by Mrs. Rose and Miss Allnutt. The 'Arab Steed' was sweetly sung by Miss Allnutt. 'Come where my love lies dreaming' was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Allnutt. After reading, the introduction to 'Jesse's Dream' was very feelingly sung by Mrs. Allnutt, bringing vividly to our minds one of the most touching incidents of the late Indian Rebellion, and placing before us the daring deeds of the brave Havelock, one of the noblest of modern heroes. 'Fifty years ago,' sung by an old lady, brought down roars of laughter and cheers. The 'Singing Birds,' duet, played very nicely by Miss Lefroy and Miss Brockman. The 'Cousins,' duet, was admirably sung by Mrs. Rose and Miss Allnutt. The 'Gipsy Countess by a Polish Count' with a pale face and an unpronounceable name, and the 'Blackwood Gipsy,' kept the house in a continual titter. The following are some of the songs sung and pieces played during the evening: — 'The Irish Jaunting Car' and 'Long parted have we been,' Mr. Lefroy; 'Put it down to me,' by Mr. Rose; 'Maggie by my side' and 'Paddle your own Canoe,' Mr. Allnutt; 'The Gipsy's Warning,' by Mr. G. Hester; 'Willie on the dark blue sea' and 'Only one,' by Miss Gussie Hester. 'Beautiful Isle of the sea' and 'Kitty Colroin,' by Miss Flora Hester; 'Bother the men,' by Mrs. Rose. Well, I cannot say

Well I cannot say that it did literally bring down the house, but the cheering certainly did shake the woolshed. 'Bonnie Dundee' was played by Miss Lefroy; 'Coming through the Rye,' by Miss Maggie Lefroy; 'For bright smile' was played by Mrs. Lefroy in her usual spirited style. The concert was brought to a close to the satisfaction of every one concerned, and the gentleman who returned thanks said he came here expecting a musical treat of no ordinary character, and his anticipations had been more than realised; in fact the music and scenery of Bridgetown is not surpassed in the colony. Dancing now commenced with a waltz known only to true Terpsichoreans, and continued till daylight, and I only heard one regret, viz., that these gatherings did not occur oftener. We hope soon to have the building erected, which will be an ornament to the little town. Mr. Thomas, Civil Engineer, has very kindly drawn us out a neat design or plan for the building, and our old friend and fellow-colonist Mr. Steers has made an urgent appeal to the Government for aid. They have generously acceded to that appeal by promising £50 on completion of the building, for which we are very grateful. A meeting was held next day, when trustees, committee, &c., were appointed. After the concert dancing was kept up until early morn. The next day the young people had a fine game at cricket, and wound up with another dance in the evening. We have had splendid rains—all we could wish for; and ploughs will soon be turning over the sod. We hope to have a good season for feed for the sheep and stock. Although we have had the driest season for years past, there have not been such losses in stock and sheep as we usually have.

Elizabeth gave birth to their eighth child Ernest on the 13 Jul 1873 just four days prior to hearing the news Harrison Blechynden had passed away, on the 17 Jul 1873 at Beverley. The funeral took place at St Paul's Church, and he was laid to rest in the cemetery at Edwards Crossing.

At this stage John and Elizabeth now had seven children, sadly having lost their only daughter Charlotte Jane in 1869. With the children ranging from John William aged 12 years to baby Ernest, one can imagine that Elizabeth may have stayed home with the younger children and John and the four eldest boys may have travelled to Beverley to join the family at Harrison's funeral.

John and Elizabeth were delighted when Elizabeth gave birth to a girl, they named Amy on 17 Mar 1877. Soon three more children were added to the family, bringing the total living children to twelve: Clarence Henry was born 21 Apr 1879, May Blechynden was born 14 Mar 1881, followed by another daughter, Ada Jane who was born on 23 May 1883.

Bringing up twelve children was no mean feat for Elizabeth with her husband and older sons frequently away from home. Elizabeth and John's children thrived and grew. Elizabeth delighted in her young daughters and taught them many skills which Amy and May retained for the rest of their lives.

Tragically John and Elizabeth lost another of their daughters when Ada died on 2 Jan 1888 at the age of four years and seven months. One can imagine the whole family was devastated.

This appears to have been a worrying year for the family. Messages from Beverley brought the news that Bevan Hamersley who had inherited 'Babbyalla' from his Uncle Edward Hamersley was to take up residence there in 1888. In the same year John's brother Charles Edwin Blechynden purchased 'Roesland'. Following the evacuation of 'Babbyalla', Charlotte and Joseph had moved to live with Charles Edwin and his wife Caroline, who now had six children.

The following year Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus) died on 13 Sep 1889 at 'Roesland'. Once again, the whole family came together to attend her funeral at Edwards Crossing.

Life continued on and Elizabeth and John Blechynden together with the rest of the Bridgetown community would have been excited when in 1890 gained the right of self-government. One can imagine Elizabeth looking back at that time with a well-deserved feeling of pride in her children and the life that she and John had created. After bearing thirteen children and successfully bringing up eleven she must have felt weary but thankful for what she had been blessed with.

Quilt made by Elizabeth (nee Green) Blechynden.

My grandmother Clara (nee Chapman) Blechynden had it in her possession in 1957 and handed it on to me when I married in the same year. The patchwork is just as it was when Elizabeth stitched together each piece. If she was making it for her 'glory box' (and as she married John Blechynden in Perth in 1860) the patchwork would now in 2020 be over 164 years old. The floral fabric backing that can be seen showing at the edges of the patchwork was attached by Clara many years before I received the quilt.

Right: Attached, just for interest, is an etching made years ago and supposedly of the bridge near and on the south side of Bridgedale. The etching is by acclaimed Bridgetown artist Gordon Holdsworth. I bought the etching from the artist himself when I was a teenager; he told me the house was Bridgedale; maybe he just wanted to make a sale, because I'm not sure if the sketch re the house and other building is accurate - a lot has changed since the artist made this sketch and he may have used 'artistic licence' a bit - plus it's just called Bridge Scene on the opposite side to his signature. But if it is Bridgedale, then of course, it's showing the back of the house towards the river.

More on the history of what followed at the end of the chapter.

In the tradition of many of the pioneering women who never knew if their children would survive childhood, Elizabeth bore a further seven children. These were – Alfred born 13 Nov 1870, Ernest Charles born 13 Jul 1873, Herbert born 5 Jan 1875, Amy born 17 Mar 1877, Clarence Henry (Bob) born 21 Apr 1879, May born 14 Mar 1881 and Ada born 23 May 1883. Out of these children, all survived childhood except Ada who died on 2 Jan 1888 at the age of 4 years and seven months; three years before Elizabeth herself died on 8 Apr 1891 aged 51, of a cerebral embolism or stroke. Elizabeth never lived long enough to see the first marriage of one of her children, Arthur who married on 20 May 1891 to Clara Agnes Chapman. Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green), the first housekeeper in Bridgetown, who bravely went with her new husband in 1860 to establish the townsite of Bridgetown, bore 13 children and helped to bring many more into the world.

John was devastated by the death of his wife and was left with May aged 10, Clarence aged 12, Amy aged 14, Herbert aged 16 and Ernest aged 17, Alfred aged 19 at home. With Arthur marrying a month after his mother, Elizabeth's death and the others, John William, George Harrison, Edwin and James, away working, John, lonely without Elizabeth must have thought often of their earlier pioneering days together: Of when the jarrah trees were all around their home and took so much effort to clear to make pasture, of her in the vegetable patch growing produce for their home, of him going out to catch kangaroo for their supper when stock were scarce, of her shivering when she heard the dingoes howl at night, of them lying in bed at night planning a bigger home for their increasing family, of their first post and rail fences which they climbed in summer to go to the Blackwood River for a swim, family picnics, concerts, Church outings and Christmas and birthday celebrations as they kept up the English traditions in their little green valley.

Elizabeth Blechynden was buried in the pioneer Cemetery, Bridgetown. Sadly, she never lived long enough to see the marriage of any of her children. How does one begin to recognize the contribution of this woman who was a true pioneer of the South West. Her numerous descendants and their individual contributions to our country are all the result of her courage and determination to make her dream come true throughout all hardship and adversity.

MRS JOHN BLECHYNDEN IN MEMORIAM. TO THE EDITOR.

I am confident that the memory of the late Mrs. John Blechynden of Bridgetown claims a signal commendation at our hands. I have waited to see whether someone else with an abler pen than mine would undertake this sacred obligation, not that I consider it is necessary to have a newspaper paragraph in order to preserve her memory, although that may be desirable at times to perpetuate a consistent life. Without a doubt the late Mrs. Blechynden has left an evergreen memory behind her, not only within the immediate circle of her own family and relatives, but with her acquaintances and neighbours which will afford pleasant reminiscences for many a year to come and the girls who had the privilege of knowing her will do well to imitate such a worthy example, whether in the aspect of a wife, a mother, a woman, or a Christian. As a wife she was patient dutiful and faithful; as a mother she cannot be too highly spoken of, the large family she has brought up being living testimonies of her excellent maternal qualities; as a woman she possessed the rare virtue of discreetly minding her own business as she was known to be always on the best of terms with her neighbours and acquaintances; and as a Christian she was a "Martha" with all the cares, troubles, and trials of this world, yet having evidently received the "saving faith" joyfully and steadfastly held to it throughout a blameless life. There are many people, alas, who depart this life and never seem to leave a blank; but, oh, how different is it with those who while living are conspicuous by their good works, and when they at last fall asleep leave most cherished memories behind them, such, for instance, as is the case in the death of the beloved wife of Mr. John Blechynden.

John Blechynden lived to see the official opening of the Bridgetown railway Station in 1898. This was a huge moment for the town and district. The colony was beginning to thrive. Sadly, John died at Beverley while staying with his brother Charles Edwin Blechynden at 'Roesland,' Charles Blechynden's Beverley property. A document at the Dead Finish Museum in Beverley, Sep 2020, showed the following: "Told by Ernest Edwards. John Blechynden rode his horse back to Beverley to die."

The following article was written the year of John Blechynden's death. His son John William Blechynden was one of the representatives of the deputation putting before their case to the Premier Sir John Forrest, Fri 29 Jun 1900.

This morning the Premier was interviewed by the representatives of all of the local bodies. Mr. J. R. The various deputations asked for a grant of £150 to construct a bridge over the Blackwood River in Hampton-street, as the present structure had done service for 20 years, and the growth of the timber trade had broken it down, and it was impassable in places. The deputation also asked for £150 to make the Tweed Road, to open the Tweed Agricultural Area. It was stated that there had been no grant by the Government to this road, which had been constructed by the settlers. A grant of £150 was asked for to improve the minor roads. It was pointed out that there were 360 miles of subsidiary roads in the Nelson district. It was requested that £100 be granted for the construction of a pound and that the money for re-decking the Blackwood 'bridge, which had been promised by the Director of Public Works, should be made available at once, as the work had been completed. The Health Board asked for £100 for raising the level of several pools in Geegulup Brook, in the vicinity of the town, which became stagnant in summer and offensive owing to the town drainage running into them. The Nelson Agricultural Society asked that reserves No. 2 and 5 be vested in Messrs. Doust, Blechynden, and Walter, as trustees, for the purposes of botanical gardens, and that £100 be granted for clearing and fencing. The Bridgetown Rifle Club asked that rifles and ammunition might be supplied free, or, failing that, at cost price. The cost of ammunition was from 16s. to 20s. per hundred in Bridgetown. The Druids asked that a special block of land be set aside as a recreation reserve for the United Friend-recreation reserve for the United Friendly Societies' committee. The Mechanics' Institute asked for £100 to liquidate the remainder of the debt on the building, and to assist in erecting a caretaker's quarters. The Board of Education asked that quarters be erected for the school teacher, and asked that the teacher might be placed in the same position as the teachers of the same rank in other parts of the colony.

The Premier, in replying, could not see his way to accede to the request of the Druids. He asked them, however, to place their request before him in writing. He said that he would consult the inspector-general of schools in regard to the educational matters, while, regarding the rifle club's request, he mentioned that the military authorities were opposed to civilian clubs, but the matter was under the consideration of the Government, and would shortly come to a decision, which would affect not only the Bridgetown club but those throughout the colony. He promised to accede to all of the other requests. Cheers were given for the Premier, whose health was afterwards cordially honored.

A RETROSPECT.

Sir John Forrest, in acknowledging the toast, said that he was first through that district in 1862, a year of phenomenal rains, in company with his lamented and respected father. At that time the Blackwood was so flooded that no one could cross it, and Mr. Allnutt, who then resided at Quaguanirup, a place now known as Allnutt's Grange, was unable to get provisions across the river to his men, who were nearly starving. He and his father set to work, and, in the course of one day, managed to construct a boat, with which they crossed the stream. The craft had a short existence, for two days later it was swamped, and he and his father had a difficult task in getting through the country. He swam all the creeks, and his father crossed from tree to tree. It was a source of satisfaction that some of the old settlers, who had borne the heat and burden of the day, should reap some of the advantages of the rapid means of communication which was the outcome of their early efforts.

This personal newspaper cutting was pasted (one can imagine, with much sadness), into May's Journal. How amazing that many years later now it is now available to view and share in Trove.

DEATH. October 14
I regret to have to record the death of another old and respected settler, that of Mr John Blechynden, var. He died at Beverley at the residence of one of his brothers, Mr Edwin Charles Blechynden, on Sunday, the 14th inst, and was buried on the following Tuesday in the old Beverley Cemetery by Canon Grosser. The funeral was largely attended by his numerous relatives and friends. The undertaker, Mr Wansborough, carried out all the arrangements satisfactorily. His eldest daughter was with him at the time of his death and two of his sons, Messrs J W and Arthur Blechynden, on the receipt of a wire stating the doctor had no hope of their father's recovery travelled all night, but did not reach Beverley before his demise. Mr Blechynden was one of our first settlers, arriving here about 1858. He married in 1860 a daughter of Mr George Green, of Perth, by whom he had a large and respectable family of nine sons and four daughters, all of whom are living with the exception of two daughters. All but one son have settled in and around Bridgetown. Three of the sons are married. He was noted for his geniality and hospitality, his house in the early days being seldom without some weary worn traveller receiving shelter and food. He and his wife were born in W.A., and were supposed to have been the first pair of W.A. natives united in marriage here. His wife predeceased him by some few years.

Blechynden family history

Referring to a report in a recent issue of this paper in which it was stated that the National Trust is to acquire the oldest residence in Bridgetown through the action of an historically-minded section of the community which purchased it for $2,500, the building being the home of the late Mr John Blechynden, who was reputed to be the first white child born at Beverley. Mr. Ben Blechynden was a caller at this office this week with some further details.

According to our informant John Blechynden, with other members of the Blechynden family, was born at "Babbyalla" in 1833. He was the oldest son of Mr and Mrs Harrison Blechynden who leased the property from the original owner, Mr Hamersley (grandfather of Mr E. B. Hamersley who is still a resident of this district). John Blechynden went to Bridgetown as a young pioneering farmer — possibly the first to settle in the area.

It is interesting to note from the following article, that following his wife Elizabeth's death, John Blechynden, suffering from ill health in his later years, travelled a number of times to stay with family at 'Roesland', Beverley. He was accompanied by his daughter, May, who acted as his nurse, ing among the first arrivals in the State, from Kent, where they had a family history extending over some hundreds of years.

According to the record John Blechynden had come to Beverley following one of his periodic periods of ill-health and had only been here a few weeks when his death occurred, at "Roesland," then owned by Edwin Blechynden, father of the last owner before its demolition -- the late Horace Blechynden.

His death occurred on 11th October, 1900, at the age of 67. This would make his birth date as 1833 at the beginnings of settlement in the district. He is buried at the St. Paul's churchyard Edwards Crossing where others of the original family are at rest.

Note: In this era of time, it wasn't practical to transport John from Edwards Crossing to Bridgetown for burial.

The Bridgetown Pioneer Cemetery

<https://www.findagrave.com/cemetery/2606840/bridgetown-pioneer-cemetery>

The Pioneer Cemetery in Bridgetown was opened in January 1878 with the last burial taking place on 23 Mar 1926. The Cemetery is the resting home to many of the early pioneers and was made into a scenic parkland during 1988 as part of the Bicentennial celebrations. There are many, many unmarked graves; however, (most of the names) are in the cemetery register.

Note, Charlotte died in 1869, nine years before the Pioneer cemetery was formally established. Charlotte is recorded as being buried in Bridgetown. So, it can only be assumed there were burials at that location before it was formally declared a cemetery. There are several references to John William Blechynden being buried at the Pioneer Cemetery yet his name doesn’t appear on the formal cemetery register, which is obviously incomplete. Also, there is much evidence the last burial at the Pioneer Cemetery was well after the above quoted last burial date of 23 Mar 1926.

As a consequence, at this time, the headstones of Elizabeth, Charlotte, Ada and John William Blechynden were moved from the Pioneer Cemetery to the new Cemetery and added to Blechynden owned grave number 135. On 20 May 2019, Angela and Ken Blechynden paid a visit to the Bridgetown Cemetery and took photos of the existing graves and headstones which showed that the grave, headstones and plaques were in need of restoration.

A letter was sent to the Shire of Bridgetown-Greenbushes as to the correct way to go about it. Part of the reply from Tania Lockley, Executive Assistant, Shire of Bridgetown-Greenbushes.

I have been to the Bridgetown Cemetery to view the gravesite of John William Blechynden, John Blechynden, Elizabeth Green and Clarence Blechynden. It is grave number 135, Section 3 – Anglican. There is no current 'Grant of Right of Burial' taken on that particular gravesite – if the family is willing to purchase a Grant of Right of Burial, the cost of a Grant is $286.10 and is valid for a period of 25 years from date of issue. Once a Grant has been purchased, the Grantee has the legal right in the future:

- To authorise the interment of ashes of deceased family members in the grave.
- To authorise an approved monument or headstone to be placed on the grave.
- To authorise refurbishment of any monument or headstone placed on the grave.

Please note upkeep of gravesites, monuments, etc at both Bridgetown and Greenbushes Cemetery is the sole responsibility of the family, the Shire does not contribute in any way to these.

Following a meeting at the Bridgetown Cemetery with a member of the local Council, a group of family members: Angela and Ken Blechynden, Jill and Doug Feutrill, Di Black and Norma Sulaiman worked together on a plan for the restoration of the Blechynden graves and headstones:

The cost of the 'Grant of Right of Burial' was paid in the name of Ken Blechynden, to be reviewed in 25 years. A very big thank you, to Ken who took on the role, of managing and organising the refurbishment. Thank you to the many family members who kindly contributed to the cost.

Members of the committee gathered around the Blechynden graves and headstones 134 and 135, Bridgetown Cemetery prior to refurbishment

ARTICLES AND BOOKETS OF 'BRIDGEDALE', ALSO KNOWN AS 'BLECHYNDEN HOUSE' – PAST PRESENT AND FUTURE

BLECHYNDEN BOOKLETS:

Several excellent small booklets have been written and produced on 'Bridgedale', the historical home of John Blechynden in Bridgetown and are available at the Bridgetown Visitors Centre. They provide excellent details and images of 'Bridgedale', the Blechynden family and the early days of Bridgetown.

Following the death of John and Elizabeth Blechynden, their children John William, Amy and May Blechynden continued living at 'Bridgedale'. John William died in 1931. After Amy's death in 1938, May continued living in Bridgedale. She sold the property for £2,000 in 1950.

Beverley de Russett commented: It was sold to Norman de Russett about 1953/54, he had it for a few years then it was given to the Historical Society. At that time the house had been converted into two flats.

NATIONAL TRUST: 'Bridgedale' presented to the National Trust of Australia (W. A.), was opened at a ceremony in 1974. The work done in restoring and presenting this home to the public was a credit to some very dedicated members of the community in Bridgetown.

BRIDGEDALE CLOSED TO THE PUBLIC: After many years of being on show, sadly, due to lack of funding and volunteers, the decision was made for 'Bridgedale' to be no longer open to the public. The furniture and contents were put in store in Perth. Much discussion was made with the public concerned about its future. A big change came about in 2020.

NEW HOME FOR TENDER CARE: 15 APR 2020, Media Release

Bridgedale, a historically significant property in Bridgetown that is managed by the National Trust of WA, will be the new home of Tender Care, a West Australian charity focused on community mental health. With the upgrade works now completed, the National Trust and Tender Care are looking forward to beginning this new chapter in the property's history.

HISTORIC HOMESTEADS

No. 21: Bridgedale, Bridgetown.

BRIDGEDALE is the second house built by Mr. John Blechynden, who was one of the first settlers to pioneer the Bridgetown district, or, as it was known in the early days, the Blackwood. The house is thought to be the first built on the townsite of Bridgetown.

Blechynden chose about 300 acres on the banks of the Blackwood River amid what is probably the most beautiful surroundings in the South-West. There he commenced farming, first with sheep and later with mixed operations. He built his first house with bricks made on the property, and, after about 10 years, he constructed another. It is this house which is now standing and which is depicted. It was built about 70 years ago of brick with a shingled roof, which, like many others, has been replaced with iron. The house is still in excellent condition, remaining as it was when first constructed amid the changed surroundings.

When Blechynden first settled on the property it was all virgin bush. A bush track leading towards Donnybrook and Perth was the only means of reaching it. In those days there was only a mail once a week and this was accomplished with horses. Later the mail was brought by coaches—quite a rough trip considering that good roads in this part of the State were only laid down in recent years. Carrying was all done to and from Bunbury with horse drays. Potatoes were the main product from the Warren district and the wagons used to ford the river near the Blechynden's homestead. William Forrest, of Picton, attempted to build a bridge across the river at a late date, but it was washed away by floods in 1862. Then another bridge was built and this served the district for many years, until another bridge was built nearby. The old bridge is still standing, although now it is only used by pedestrian traffic. The two roads, the old and the new, as they approach the two bridges, form a triangle in which stands Bridgedale. Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden had 13 children—nine sons and four daughters. Two daughters died and nearly all the rest of the family settled in the Bridgetown district. Miss M. Blechynden is the present owner of the old homestead, which, although originally built in the bush, is now on the boundary of one of the very progressive towns of the South West.

BRIDGEDALE is the second house built by Mr. John Blechynden, who was one of the first settlers to pioneer the Bridgetown district, or, as it was known in the early days, the Blackwood. The house is thought to be the first built on the townsite of Bridgetown.

Blechynden chose about 300 acres on the banks of the Blackwood River amid what is probably the most beautiful surroundings in the South-West. There he commenced farming, first with sheep and later with mixed operations. He built his first house with bricks made on the property, and, after about 10 years, he constructed another. It is this house which is now standing and which is depicted. It was built about 70 years ago of brick with a shingled roof, which, like many others, has been replaced with iron. The house is still in excellent condition, remaining as it was when first constructed amid the changed surroundings.

When Blechynden first settled on the property it was all virgin bush. A bush track leading towards Donnybrook and Perth was the only means of reaching it. In those days there was only a mail once a week and this was accomplished with horses. Later the mail was brought by coaches—quite a rough trip considering that good roads in this part of the State were only laid down in recent years. Carrying was all done to and from Bunbury with horse drays. Potatoes were the main product from the Warren district and the wagons used to ford the river near the Blechynden's homestead.

William Forrest, of Picton, attempted to build a bridge across the river at a late date, but it was washed away by floods in 1862. Then another bridge was built and this served the district for many years, until another bridge was built nearby. The old bridge is still standing, although now it is only used by pedestrian traffic. The two roads, the old and the new, as they approach the two bridges, form a triangle in which stands Bridgedale.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden had 13 children—nine sons and four daughters. Two daughters died and nearly all the rest of the family settled in the Bridgetown district. Miss M. Blechynden is the present owner of the old homestead, which, although originally built in the bush, is now on the boundary of one of the very progressive towns of the South-West.

PURCHASE OF BLECHYNDEN HOUSE – HANDOVER TO NATIONAL TRUST:

A group of historically minded people in Bridgetown has purchased the town's oldest residence, built over a century ago, and are handing it over to the National Trust. It is the first time the Trust has received a gift under such conditions. Those responsible expended $2,500 on the purchase. The house originally housed Mr. John Blechynden who was the first white child to be born at Beverley (sic.) and was the son of Harrison and Charlotte Augusta Blechynden who came to the Colony in the Minstrel on January 20th. 1830. John Blechynden was of course associated with the families of Blechynden's still resident in this district and we are hopeful of being able to ascertain the exact birthplace of the pioneer and other details of the family.

Note: John Blechynden was not the first white child born in Beverley. He was born in Perth in 1833 and did not arrive in Beverley until about 1842 when he was about nine years of age.

Bridgetown's gracious gift

PATRONS at tomorrow's Blackwood Rhapsody will be able to enjoy the concert while they soak up the atmosphere of Bridgedale, the first house of any substance built in Bridgetown.

The historic homestead is also the only property in WA to have been purchased by a community and presented to the National Trust.

Now 135 years old, Bridgedale was built — by Joseph Smith — for pioneer pastoralist John Blechynden.

When he was 21, Blechynden left his parents' home east of Beverley and set off to look for a place of his own.

Guided by Aboriginal trackers, he walked to the Blackwood River Valley and chose a site for raising cattle.

Blechynden was one of the first two settlers in the area — two years earlier, Edward Hester had taken up land nearby.

In 1860, Blechynden married Elizabeth Green at St George's Cathedral.

It was one of the first weddings in WA where both bride and groom had been born in the colony: Blechynden in 1833 and his wife six years later.

The newly-weds spent their honeymoon travelling by bullock wagon to Blechynden's primitive mud brick cottage on the north bank of the Blackwood.

In 1862 — six years before Bridgetown was declared a township — he began the house which has become a tourist attraction.

Built of pit-sawn timber and bricks made from clay on the property, the house was originally a row of five small rooms under a skillion roof that sloped towards the river.

The couple called their home Bridgedale because it was in the dale by the bridge — then a little to the west of the house.

As the family grew — the Blechyndens had 13 children — so did the number of rooms added to the front of the building.

Concerts also took place at Bridgedale in those early years but in the woolshed, not the garden.

One, held in April 1877 to raise money to build a mechanics' hall, attracted coverage in the press. "The concert was opened by Mrs Lefroy playing the overture to William Tell, in such a manner as to send a thrill through the breast of every liberty-loving British subject present," the report said.

After that concert, dancing continued until dawn followed by a cricket match and another dance in the evening.

According to an obituary after Blechynden's death in 1900, he "was noted for his geniality and hospitality, his house in the early days being seldom without some weary worn traveller receiving shelter and food".

The Blechyndens' eldest son, John William, was the first white child born in the district; he also became a prominent citizen and served on the local council for a record 35 years.

When John William, who had remained a bachelor, died in 1931, his cortege "was quite half a mile long", reports said.

Within months of his death, local people had contributed to the cost of memorial gates erected in his honour at the entrance to the Bridgetown showground.

Blechynden's two unmarried sisters continued to live at Bridgedale. Amy, until she died in 1938, and May, who sold the property (for 2000 pounds) in 1950.

At that time, the house had been converted into two flats.

By the mid-1960s, the building had deteriorated so badly it was due for demolition.

Then a Bridgetown schoolboy — Jeffrey Hollands — suggested it be rescued and renovated.

The community began fund-raising, helped by contributions from Blechynden descendants.

In February 1971, Nicholas Blechynden, a grandson of the original owner, officially presented the title deeds of Bridgedale to the National Trust.

Three years later, and furnished with pieces donated from a variety of sources including members of the Blechynden family, the partly-restored house was opened to the public.

Today it stands as a gracious reminder of the vision, determination and hard work of John Blechynden and the other pioneering settlers of the Blackwood district.

Bridgedale is open Thursday to Monday from 10am to 4pm.

Tomorrow's Blackwood Rhapsody concert, which starts at 5pm, will be headlined by The Sensitive New Age Cowpersons and the Kalamunda Youth Swing Band.

Tickets are on sale at the Bridgetown Tourist Centre (097) 611 740 or at the gate from 4.30pm Saturday.

HANDING OVER OF THE DEEDS OF THE HOUSE TO THE NATIONAL TRUST OF W.A. 7 FEB 1971

TRUST GIVEN HOUSE DEEDS

BRIDGETOWN: Nearly 200 people, including about 50 members of the Blechynden family watched the National Trust presented with the title deeds of the historic Blechynden House at Bridgetown on Sunday.

The deeds were handed over to trust president E. H. Lee-Steere by Mr Nick Blechynden, of Bridgetown, on behalf of the Blechynden House Committee.

It had been intended that Mrs Gertrude Brierley (76), the eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Alfred Blechynden, should hand over the deeds.

Mrs Brierley was born and lived her early years in Blechynden House. She was unable to attend the ceremony because of ill health and her brother Nick Blechynden was asked to take her place.

Blechynden House Committee president Graham Henderson said that Miss V. M. Knowles of the lities and had suggested that it should be bought and renovated as a monument to the district's early settlers.

A committee, under the chairmanship of Mr Henderson was formed in November 1969, and the purchase money $2500 had been raised in eight months. The house had cost $2000 and an extra block of land $500.

The money had been raised by the committee with the help of local organisations. Donations had come from members

Three secretaries had worked with him on the project.

Shire clerk Eric Molyneux, his first secretary, had had to resign because of the work caused by the amalgamation of the shire with Greenbushes.

Mrs B. Horrell, his next secretary, had resigned to go "walkabout in Australia". Mrs M. Waddington was the current secretary.

He thanked them all for the work they had done.

The National Trust had promised to supervise the restoration of the house. The original committee would become the Blechynden House Restoration Committee to raise funds to restore the house to its original state.

He said that the National Trust needed members and that any contributions to the trust of $2 or more for the renovations would be eligible for tax deduction.

Shire president Cr Guy Abbotts said that the town had been lucky to get such a dedicated committee to organise the appeal. The response to the appeal had been tremendous and the necessary money had been collected in just over 12 months.

Blechynden House was the project was completed it would be a definite tourist attraction for the town.

He said the council was planning major improvements to the caravans park to help in the development of the district as a tourist centre.

Mr Reuben Blechynden of Busselton, said the house had been built in bricks made on the spot after Mr John Blechynden had selected the land in 1834.

Mr Nick Blechynden then handed over the deeds to Mr Lee Steer. He said that it was very satisfying to see the interest of local people in their history and historical buildings.

The committee had done remarkable work in raising the necessary money to buy the property and enable the building to be preserved.

The trust was donating $1000 towards the restoration. Miss V. M. Knowles, a member of the trust said Bridgetown was the first district to donate a historical building to the trust. It was a commendable effort.

The rehabilitation of the house will be done under the guidance and advice of the trust architects. When completed the house will be furnished with period furniture, as it was when

'Bridgedale' opened at Bridgetown

BRIDGETOWN: "It's unfortunate that there has to be a need for the National Trust in order to preserve Australia's heritage," said Governor General, Sir Paul Hasluck, at the official opening of "Bridgedale", the Blechynden House on Sunday.

Sir Paul said that pioneer buildings should automatically be kept in good order for remembrance of past days. "This was not being done," he said.

Sir Paul said that Bridgetown was part of the unspoilt beauty of the countryside. However, he pointed out that the word "unspoilt" should not have to be placed before "beauty" as though spoiling was the customary thing Australians do.

"I am not against progress, but as intelligent people we should make progress instead of creating a mess," he said.

"This is the fifth home to be opened by National Trust and the trust is constantly adding to its credit."

"Bridgedale" would provide a constant lesson to future generations, he said.

Sir Paul said that the local community should be praised for bringing the home to the stage it is today.

"Bridgedale" is the old, where a home was purchased house in Bridgetown, chased and given to the trust as a gift.

The Bridgetown community raised $2500 to buy the home for the Blechynden.

It was built for him by doing so Bridgetown became the only place in 1862.

Following 'Bridgedale' being handed over to the National Trust, a group of interested persons were organised to man a roster to open the property on weekends and on requested pre-arranged occasions from the Visitors Centre. Bridgedale was opened regularly for about three years but gradually the number of volunteers fell away. Upon opening and for several years the property had a series of resident caretakers / guides living in the adjacent cottage. With the departure of the last of these, the property remained closed for a considerable time. All items on display were removed to be filed and stored in Perth.

BRIDGEDALE OPEN DAY, 18 MAY 2019

An open afternoon at 'Bridgedale' was held on 18 May 2019 to celebrate "International Museums Day". It was organised and hosted by Mary Elgar and the members of the Bridgetown Historical Society. Dianne Black (nee Pearce), Ken Blechynden and Jill Feutrill (nee Blechynden) presented a slide show and display on the history of 'Bridgedale'. Over 60 family members attended and enjoyed the afternoon tea put on by the Bridgetown Historical Society members.

Via Mary Elgar, Bridgetown Historical Society:

The Afternoon Tea with the Blechyndens at Bridgedale this afternoon was a huge success. We had over 60 people attend, Bridgetown Historical Society raised over $400 (towards the upgrade of display posters in the Police Station Museum) and the huge Blechynden family got a chance to learn about their descendants and have a good old-fashioned gossip out on the verandah of Bridgedale. So, a HUGE thank you to everyone who came, and who enjoyed the delicious cakes and slices made by BHS members and who recognised the importance of maintaining historical houses for the general public.

Bridgedale is now leased to Tender Care, a mental health group who run days activities for those in need of support. They've done a wonderful job of tidying up the garden and it looks really cared for at last. We went up to Perth on Tuesday to collect all the items from Bridgedale that couldn't be provenanced to the Blechynden or Rose families and now have some wonderful items to display in the Museum.

NEW HOME FOR TENDER CARE

Bridgedale, a historically significant property in Bridgetown that is managed by the National Trust of Western Australia, will be the new home of Tender Care, a West Australian charity focused on community mental health. With the upgrade works now completed, the National Trust and Tender Care are looking forward to beginning this new chapter in the property's history.

Established in 1859, Bridgedale is an early settlement house surrounded by gardens on the banks of the Blackwood River in Bridgetown. This culturally significant property is held in high regard by the community and general public for its close association with the Blechynden family, farming pioneers who were influential in the settlement and development of the Bridgetown district.

After advertising expressions of interest to lease the property in 2018, the National Trust received a proposal from mental health support organisation, Tender Care, West Australian charity and public benevolent institution that has been providing non-clinical community mental health (psychosocial) services for a quarter of a century.

Recognising the important services provided by Tender Care to the community, the National Trust began working with the local shire to change the use of the site from residential to commercial. A change of use meant that conservation works and upgrades had to be made to the site, including universal access throughout and the installation of a new bathroom and kitchenette.

Chief Executive Officer of the National Trust of WA, Julian Donaldson said "Tender Care provide important services to the community and we were thrilled to work with them to protect the heritage values of Bridgedale while facilitating a new commercial use for the property."

With the new use approved by the Shire, upgrade works completed and the lease signed, Tender Care intends to move into the property and begin operations in May.

Executive Director of Tender Care, Lloyd Achard said "We are excited to work with the National Trust and have negotiated a tenancy that is economically viable for both organisations."

"Basing our South West operations out of a property with a long history and strong connections speaks to our philosophy of providing sustainable non-clinical community mental health support. We are looking forward to working with the Mental Health Commission of WA, the NDIS and with the local community in providing some much-needed services to the region."

The National Trust of WA took over management of Bridgedale in 1971. It was classified by the National Trust in 1997 and included on the State Register of Heritage Places in March 1997 (00241).

Bridgedale 2023

Via Liz Blechynden, 2 Aug 2020: We called into Bridgedale and were welcomed by Vince who was doing the gardening. He couldn't have been more helpful and showed us around to see what they're doing now. It was all very tidy and lovely to see that it's being well used and cared for.

SEVEN BRIDGES: MARY ELGAR, BRIDGETOWN HISTORICAL SOCIETY:

"I am interested in correcting the history of the bridges in Bridgetown!!! There has been lots of misinformation spread around, so I wrote the article on Bridgetown's Bridges to try and clarify where they all were and what are still showing remnants."

BRIDGETOWN'S BRIDGES 1862 – 2019

Bridgetown has had a total of seven bridges across the Blackwood River (Goorbilyup): five road bridges and two rail bridges. There is confusion surrounding the dates and locations of these bridges and this research will clarify the details.

Bridge #1: A wooden construction, under the management of W. Forrest (father of Lord Forrest), was built early in 1862 adjacent to the mouth of Geegilup Brook where it enters Blackwood River at Austin's Ford (a low water). The tender cost was £380.

Mr Keith Walter (oral history OH8): The first bridge in Bridgetown was never completed, it was down by Ford House, I think there are one or two of the old piles still there. But the first winter flood came up before it was finished, all the piles were out of sight under the flood, they didn't realise the river came up so high.

In July that year, before the bridge was completed, there was torrential rain over the Blackwood catchment area and the majority of the bridge was washed away before it could be used. The Perth Gazette (8 Aug 1862) reports that the bridge was submerged 12 feet, allowing floating trees and other debris to pass over without obstruction. Mr Forrest was to be compensated for the loss. Mr Joseph Smith was the foreman for the bridge construction, having come to Bridgetown as a ticket-of-leave man for that job.

It was reported in the Southern Times, 25 Oct 1900, that Inspector Withers had been to Bridgetown collecting specimens for the government of the timber from Bridge #1. So, the timbers were still evident nearly 40 years after Bridge #1 collapsed.

When Bridgedale, the oldest building in Bridgetown, was handed to the National Trust, c.1974, a booklet was produced telling the history of the building. It included a beautiful sketch of Bridgedale as it sat in relation to the river, drawn by the artist R.H. Shardlow. Further research has shown several inaccuracies in the sketch relating to the bridges:

1. Remains of first bridge – these are the remains of the first railway bridge built 1898.
2. Site of original crossing – the crossing was approximately 100 m further downstream, adjacent to the mouth of Geegilup Brook, which enters the Blackwood River (Goorbilyup) at Austin's Ford.
3. Remains of second bridge – these are the remains of the third bridge built 1888. (The timber remains of bridge #2 c.1862 were burnt, date unknown. There is a photo showing Bridge #2 and #3 together c.1936.)

Bridge #2: Following the disastrous collapse of Bridge # 1, work immediately commenced on Bridge # 2 further upstream mid-1862. According to a letter from Mr G. W. Hester¹, it took over 18 months to complete. However, this is incorrect because the wooden bridge was completed by 1862, connecting the end of Hampton Street with the original Geegilup Police Station on the south-western side of the bridge. This view, BHS 10-490, looking north towards Bridgetown c. 1868. M C Moulton and his family can be seen in the garden of the police station.

Bridge #2 – BHS10-490

In 1864 Mr George Blechynden was awarded a tender contract to construct an additional hand railing for Bridge #2 for £10 10s

Mr Keith Walter - Oral History (OH8)

So, they abandoned that [Bridge #1] and they put one [Bridge #2] just from the end of Hampton Street at an angle across to [the first police station] the Doctor's house. But they found that it was no good because the contractor didn't drive the piles in, he couldn't, it was solid rock and when anybody walked on it, it swayed. So, then they had to build the one [Bridge #3] that was there when they built this bridge [Bridge #4] and they burnt that [Bridge #2] out of the river.

Interviewer (Sue and Greg Robinson)

Did you see it being burnt?

Mr Keith Walter

No, I didn't see it. I think the Main Roads Board just burnt it out. It might have been the local people. But it wasn't safe for anybody to go over, that's why they burnt it. To stop people going over it and using it.

Note: from Appendix A OH82

Mrs Jean Rushton's g-grandfather, Joseph [Henry] Smith was the foreman for the bridge built over the Blackwood in 1862 ... The third bridge in 1888 also has close Smith family links as its commencement was marked by a ceremony whereby Eliza Smith (Joseph's wife) and Mrs John Blechynden each in turn pulled a rope which released the 'monkey' used to hammer in the piles. They continued to assist by supplying the workers with morning and afternoon teas.

News and Notes. The West Australian, 24 Dec 1937

Oral History OH8, Mrs Bessie Moyes and Mr Keith Walter, 1975

Bridge #3: Built by G.W. Floyd of Bunbury in 1888, employing Joseph Smith as foreman, and adjacent to Bridge #2 (known as the footbridge), but skewed slightly to the south-east. Cost was £997. The timber was pit sawn or hewed. All the iron bolts were made on site. The bridge was re-planked in 1914. The West Australian reported in March 1916 that '... the bridge should, with reasonable care and upkeep, be safe for all traffic for several years to come.'

Bridge #3 was widened in the centre early in the 20th century, to allow vehicles to pass. Bridge #2 had been demolished, although a stack of wooden planks lies on the bank in this photo below, BHS 95-133. In 1919, the Bridgetown Road Board agreed to call for tenders for the purchase of the timber from Bridge #2.

Bridge #4: Built in 1936 under management from the Main Roads Department, at which time the South West Highway was realigned to its current position, being a continuation of Hampton Street at the junction of Carey Street, crossing the river downstream of Bridgedale. This was the first of the bridges to use milled timber as opposed to broad axed timber.

From The Blackwood Times, 24 Sep 1948:

In 1948, Mr and Mrs Percy Wright had a narrow escape from serious injury when their car ran through the railing of the bridge over the Blackwood River. The car remained suspended over the bridge deck until pulled clear by Mr Davidson's truck. Both occupants were badly shaken but otherwise unhurt.

Bridge #5: Built in 1980/81 by the Main Roads Department's Bunbury division at a cost of $320,000. The bridge is 127.5m long with 17 spans and is the longest road bridge in the South West. Overall, 128 piles and 170 stringers were required. The piles vary in length between 6.5m and 17.5m. The stringers are all 7.5m long. The timber is all Jarrah, sourced from Pemberton. The bridge was officially opened on 16 Apr 1981 by the Hon. E.C. Rushton, MLA, Minister for Transport

JOSEPH SMITH – SEVEN BRIDGES – by Mary Elgar.

This article gives an idea of Joseph Smith and his work on buildings in Bridgetown over many years.

The Terminus Hotel (former) was built in 1894 by Joseph Smith as a home, general store and boarding house. It was of a typical Victorian Georgian style, constructed of hand-made bricks from local clay. Joseph Smith was an ex-convict and pioneer of Bridgetown, and became an active community member. As a builder and carpenter, prior to becoming a shopkeeper, he also constructed numerous other local buildings. In January 1898 Joseph Smith moved to a new home and leased the building out. It was converted into a hotel (1898) to maximise its position close to the new railway station and terminus of the Donnybrook-Bridgetown line, which opened later that year. Joseph Smith's son Jack Smith owned and operated the hotel from 1912-1922 before entering a political career. . .

The Bridgetown Smiths at this time do not appear to be related to the Blechynden family. The wedding articles following paint a picture of the support and friendship that has developed between families growing up, going to school and working together in Bridgetown.

In the Seven Bridges article by Mary Elgar, there are several excerpts on Joseph Smith. There is a colourful mention of a ceremony in which his wife Eliza Smith and Mrs John Blechynden, participated.

Mrs Jean Rushton's g-grandfather, Joseph [Henry] Smith was the foreman for the bridge built over the Blackwood in 1862 ... The third bridge in 1888 also has close Smith family links as its commencement was marked by a ceremony whereby Eliza Smith (Joseph's wife) and Mrs John Blechynden each in turn pulled a rope which released the 'monkey' used to hammer in the piles. They continued to assist with morning and afternoon teas.

THE FOLLOWING ARTICLES SHOW HOW JOSEPH SMITH AND HIS FAMILY FORMED A FRIENDSHIP WITH THE BLECHYNDEN FAMILY

The weddings between Kate Smith and William McLean and Ethel Smith and George Payne, together with photos, show that members of the Blechynden family warmly took part. The brides were both daughters of Joseph Smith and Eliza Smith (nee Cain).

Obituary.

JOSEPH SMITH

Yet another of those grand old pioneers have passed into the Great Beyond in the person of Joseph Smith, of Bridgetown. The news spread quickly throughout the district on Saturday morning last that this noble old man had passed away at 6.30 that morning. He did his duty to the Empire, for he bore his share of the burden of carrying the flag into fresh lands. The deceased gentleman had been ailing for a little over three weeks, prior to which he enjoyed good health. At the time of his death he was 92 years and 7 months of age, 60 years of which he spent in Bridgetown. The respect in which he was held is evidenced by the fact that a few years ago the older residents of the district combined together and decided to tender him an annual birthday party, and since that time this has been carried out. He leaves a grown up family of six daughters, three sons, and 28 grandchildren to mourn the loss.

The late Mr. Smith was born at Leeds, in Yorkshire, England, and came to this State in his early years. For many years he carried out the work of a pit sawyer in the Busselton district and from there came on to Bridgetown where he took up building and contracting and to-day many of the buildings are still in good order. "The Grange," the first residence of this district of Mr. John Allnutt and the residence occupied to-day by Mr. J. W. Blechynden were

For many years he kept a general store in Bridgetown under very trying conditions for the fact that everything in those days had to come from Bunbury by road. He was a member of the first Health and Road Board and for 25 years faithfully carried the onerous duties which go with these positions. With Mr. J. This was erected under his own supervision and until about ten years ago he was an indefatigable member of the committee and on retiring, as a mark of appreciation, he was made a life member besides which an enlarged photo was procured and hangs at the present day in the institute.

Wedding Bells

MCLEAN—SMITH.

A very popular wedding took place at Bridgetown on Wednesday morning last, when Mr. William McLean was united in the holy bonds of marriage with Miss Kate Smith, the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, of Bridgetown.

The bride groom is an old resident of South Greenbushes, where he is held in high respect, and is one of the best-known cricketers in the South-West. The bride is a native of Bridgetown and enjoys the esteem and affection of the whole of the residents of that town. In addition to the popularity of the bride and bridegroom, more than ordinary interest was centered in the marriage owing to the great esteem and respect in which Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, the parents of the bride, are held by all who have the pleasure to know them. The ceremony took place in the local Anglican Church, the Rev. Mr. Devlin being the officiating minister. There was a large number present. The Church was very prettily decorated by the friends of the bride. The ceremony over the happy couple left the Church as the Wedding March was played by Miss Blechynden. The bride was most becomingly gowned in a handsome dress of cream flowered silk voile, with trained skirt hemmed, finished with design in silk cord, paneled front and outlined with silk buttons, and with vest of tucked net, outlined with guipure insertion and satin ribbons, and wore the customary wreath and veil, and carried a handsome bouquet of asparagus fern, cream roses, and real orange blossom.

Miss Ada Smith, bridesmaid, was beautifully dressed in heliotrope crystalline silk, trimmed with silk fillet; and net insertion, with touches of gold, bodice yoke of silk fillet net, draped with folds, hedged with Edelweiss, caught with buckles of glaze and gold tassels, and carried a bouquet of red roses and ferns, and wore gold necklet and chain, the gift of the bridegroom.

Misses E and L. Smith, nieces of the bride, bridesmaids, were attired in very pretty dresses of taffeta silk, pink and blue respectively, in empire style, with yokes of lace, and carried bouquets of violets and ferns, and wore gold wishbone charms, the gift of the bridegroom.

The happy couple and a numerous concourse of friends then visited the residence, of the bride's parents, when a reception was held, and the wedding breakfast partaken of. The latter was on an extremely lavish scale, rich and dainty eatables being provided in abundance. The wedding cake was

The latter was on an extremely lavish scale, rich and dainty eatables being provided in abundance. The wedding cake was a work of art and was greatly admired. It was formed of six tiers and elaborately iced and ornamented. The cake was a gift by Mrs. Smith, sen., and was made by Mr. Barnes of Bridgetown.

The function at the house was a most pleasant one, everyone being in happy mood. A number of toasts were proposed and honoured with enthusiasm.

Mr. and Mrs. McLean, with the good wishes and congratulations of their many friends, left by the morning train for Busselton, where the honeymoon is to be spent. The bride's travelling dress was of blue cloth skirt, with pleated panels, bodice trimmed with silk cord and buttons, and lace yoke with opal buttons, and hat of white felt, merry widow style, swathed with glaze and white wings.

The presents, which were numerous and costly, included the following:—

PAYNE-SMITH.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Paul's Church, Bridgetown, on Thursday afternoon last when Miss Ethel Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Smith, who are among the very oldest settlers of the Blackwood, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. George Payne, of Bridgetown, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Payne, Gippsland, N.S.W. The Rev. G. H. Devlin officiated. The bride, who entered the church on her father's arm, looked charming in a beautiful white silk striped chiffon voile dress trimmed with raised silk lace and insertion edged with silk valenciennes lace, the skirt being panelled in front with white ivory satin. She wore a beautiful wreath and veil, and in place of the usual shower bouquet carried a white ivory prayer book threaded through each leaf with long and dainty streamers of narrow white ribbon with clusters of small white daisies at the end of each, the effect being beautifully soft.

Although the wedding was a very quiet one, the church had been most happily decorated by the friends of the bride. A rather novel idea was introduced in connection with the wedding bell, which was the centre of attraction. It was suspended from the roof and carried the initials of both the bride and bridegroom on either side. After the ring had been placed on the bride's finger the bell opened and a shower of confetti fell upon the newly-wedded couple. This charming innovation in the wedding ceremony was at least, as far as Bridgetown is concerned, both pretty and new. The bride was supported by two bridesmaids—Miss Ada Smith (sister of the bride) and Miss Maslin. Miss Smith wore a dainty dress of cascade silk beautifully trimmed with white applique and made with empire effect. She wore a handsome green hat carrying a beautiful ostrich plume of paler shade. Miss Maslin, the second bridesmaid, wore a pretty frock maid, wore a pretty frock of white silk muslin relieved with guipure lace and insertion. She wore a pale blue satin straw hat with tiny rosebuds. Both the bridesmaids carried exquisite bouquets tied with white silk streamers.

Mr. C. Blechynden acted as best man and Mr. Harry Hurst as groomsman.

The bridal party left the church amid the usual showers of confetti, and proceeded to "Belvedere," the residence of the bride's parents, where dainty refreshments were partaken of. After the usual toasts were honoured the happy couple left for their new home at Balbarrup. The bride's travelling dress was of a Copenhagen silk voile trimmed with glaze silk and Oriental trimming. She wore a cream satin straw hat with ostrich feather.

Many gifts were received both from the numerous friends of the happy couple in this and the Eastern States.

The following article gives some idea as to how the new town of Bridgetown had progressed by 1888. It was now a bustling thriving country town.

Southern Advertiser (Bunbury, WA: 1888), Tue 19 Jun 1888, pg 7

19 Jun 1888 - BRIDGETOWN. \(nla.gov.au\)

BRIDGETOWN.

THIS pretty little country township lies nestled in the hills on one of the valleys running down to the Blackwood River. It is 61 miles from Bunbury and is the centre of the Blackwood District. Coming in from the Bunbury Road after passing a few cottages, the Police Station, Post Office and Mechanics' Institute are seen on the left hand, with Mr. Moulton's store opposite. The Police Station is a comfortable brick building with a room doing duty as Court House, where Dr. J. A. O'Meehan attends as Police Magistrate on the last Thursday in every month. Serjeant John Bovell is the Clerk of the Court and constable in charge. The Post and Telegraph Office is a new building with every comfort for the telegraphist. The rooms are commodious and airy, and the public room in front is completely shut off from the rest of the house, communication with the operating room being carried on by a sliding window. The living rooms are five in number and the whole form a most comfortable dwelling, which will meet the requirements of the town and district for many years to come. Miss Moulton is the telegraphist and postmistress. The Mechanics' Institute is an imposing looking building with a hall, 40 feet square, and two ante-rooms, one of which is used as a library and the other as a reading room. The library consists of a large number of volumes of useful literature. Mr. A. W. Moulton's store is the oldest established, and he does a thriving business. Just behind the Mechanics' Institute is the Government School, under the able tuition of Miss Mitchell. The attendance is very good and educational requirements of Bridgetown and immediate neighborhood are well looked after. Turning to the left from the school on the summit of a hill are Show Grounds of the Central Southern Districts Agricultural Society, where Shows are held every year in the month of December. The grounds, which are second only to those of Guildford, are enclosed by a close jarrah slab fence, seven feet high, inside which are the stalls and a covered shed for exhibits of produce. This is only the third year of this Society's existence, but it is in a thriving condition, an enlargement of the Grounds now being contemplated, for which funds are already available. Opposite this Ground is the new store of Mr. P. Jenkins, which is a nice sized shop with double front and plenty of room to do a good trade. Hampton Street, the principal thoroughfare runs towards the bridge, which is beyond the town boundary. This bridge has already been fully described in these columns. Suffice it here to say it is the strongest cart bridge in the colony, and has been built in a very workman-ship manner by Mr. G. W. Floyd of Bunbury, who has within the present year completed three new buildings in Bridgetown.

The soil of the town itself and of its immediate vicinity, and indeed for many miles both up and down the river, is some of the finest in Western Australia, and quite equal to some of the very best land of Victoria and the south-eastern districts of South Australia. Fruit growing is largely carried on, all kinds of European varieties growing in profusion. Thousands of acres of splendid land are still open to purchase from the Government and under the present Land can open to purchase from the Government and under the present Land Regulations areas can be taken up on Conditional Purchase at sixpence per acre per annum for 20 years. Here then is the field and the opportunity for settlers with small capital to make a beginning. Here is a district capable of supporting a large producing population, wanting only the men with capital and energy to work it, and facilities to bring their produce to a port of shipment.

The extension of the Bunbury-Boyanap Railway to the Blackwood would immediately promote the settlement of the land and with connection with the Bayswater-Busselton proposed line all the fruit required for consumption in the colony could be grown with a large surplus for export. As it is at present fruit-growers cannot compete with the intercolonial trade as carting a long distance is so expensive. If the Bunbury Railway is extended to the Blackwood and thence to the Albany line, touching at Bridgetown, this village will become one of the most important inland towns in the colony.

If the Bunbury Railway is extended to the Blackwood and thence to the Albany line, touching at Bridgetown, this village will become one of the most important inland towns in the colony.

FIRST CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

1. BLECHYNDEN, JOHN WILLIAM (1861-1931)

John William Blechynden was born on 12 May 1861, registered in Perth, WA [Reg. 5816]. In his own words in a letter from him to John Blechynden from Shanghai, dated 24 Jan 1902, he wrote: "I am still living in the same house; 'Bridgedale', in which we were all born." He was the first child of thirteen to be born to John Blechynden (1833-1900) and Elizabeth Green (1839-1891). His grandfather Harrison Blechynden and grandmother, Charlotte Robus had emigrated from Kent in England to the new Swan River Colony, arriving on 20 Jan 1830. His father John Blechynden who was born in Perth in 1833 had lived in the district of Beverley on the farming property 'Babbyalla' from the age of about nine years.

John Blechynden and his son John William Blechynden

In 1854, John William's father, John Blechynden, walked to the Blackwood district at the age of 21, guided by friendly Aborigines and was so impressed with what he saw that he acquired two pastoral leases along the Blackwood River, with an option to buy ten acres to build a residence. He was one of the first people to appreciate the possibilities of stock raising in the country. In 1857 John Blechynden purchased from The Crown for £10 a 10-acre freehold property. He built a one room hut in 1860 using bricks made from clay on the river and this was the dwelling until a permanent home was built at a later date after his marriage to Elizabeth Green.

John William Blechynden's parents John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green were married in Perth, WA, on 23rd Feb 1860. Following the wedding, John and Elizabeth spent their honeymoon travelling by bullock wagon from Perth to John's holding. Elizabeth found on arrival that conditions were harsh, primitive and that there were few facilities. A year later, while their home 'Bridgedale' was being built their first child, John William Blechynden was born. The home, named 'Bridgedale', was the first brick multi-roomed building in the region. John William Blechynden born in 1861 at 'Bridgedale' was claimed to be the first European born in Bridgetown.

By 1868, three more children had been added to the family: Edwin born 1864, James born 1866 and Charlotte in 1868. John William was intrigued with his cute little sister who won everyone's heart, toddling from one person to another. It was devastating for the family when she died in 1869 at the age of 15 months. John William at the age of seven years would have been very aware of his parents' distress at the funeral and his tiny sister's burial in the Bridgetown Cemetery.

By the time John was fifteen years of age, four more sons had been added to the family: Arthur was born in 1870, Alfred in 1871, Ernest in 1873 and Herbert in 1876. The family now totalled eight boys. It was a very busy household particularly on the frequent occasions when the house was full of visitors.

John, George, Edwin and perhaps James together with many of the local children were initially schooled at 'Bridgedale'. Bridgetown School was established on 1 Feb 1870, in Steere Street and rebuilt on the same site in 1898. As soon as they were old enough the boys were taught to ride. John William at a very early age, accompanied his father, learning farming skills as they worked on John's properties in the area.

Before long another four children were added to the family: Amy born 1877, Clarence Henry born 1879, May born 1881 and Ada born 1883. John William was aged 22 years when baby Ada was born. Sadly, Ada died in 1888 at the age of almost five years.

John William Blechynden would have been in shock when he received the news his mother Elizabeth had died on 8th Apr 1891 of a stroke. She was aged 51 years. His father John aged 58 years took it very hard. The family, with John William, the eldest, a month off his 30th birthday, and the youngest being May just 10 years were in mourning. It was a sad day for family and friends who attended the funeral. Elizabeth Blechynden was buried in the Bridgetown Cemetery.

The following article indicates that for some time John William had been working for Mr C M Davies at Karridale. It shows that in 1892 John William was leaving to take over his father's business. His brother also mentioned was most likely Ernest Charles, who later managed "Greenfields" for a time, (see further on).

From Karridale I learn that Mr. Salom has made a start for the Murchison goldfields, and that Mr. I. F. Pries leaves there to-day to join him. Mr. J. W. Blechynden is also leaving, to take over his father's business at Bridgetown. Mr. Blechynden has been a very useful and trustworthy servant of Mr. M. C. Davies, and will be much missed. I hear that his brother succeeds him in Mr. Davies' employment. Mr. H. Davies has, I hear, no less than four horses in train for the next Perth races. These are the nags reported in my previous letter as having arrived from the eastern colonies in charge of a jockey, who is still looking after them.

Below are segments taken from an article about M C Davies, who John William Blechynden and one of his brothers had been working for at Karridale in 1892.

MAURICE COLEMAN DAVIES (1835 –1913) Australian timber merchant and pastoralist.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/M. C. Davies

Born in London, he emigrated to TAS with his family as a child, and later moved to Blackwood in the Victorian goldfields, then to Melbourne and Adelaide. He then relocated to WA, where he created the M. C. Davies Company, later the M. C. Davies Karri and Jarrah Timber Company, Davies was involved in the difficult task of contracting for timber, and during this time he became interested in the large forests of jarrah and karri in Western Australia. In 1875, he applied for a lease of 1,920 acres (780 ha) of forest in Bunbury, and the following year was granted a licence to cut timber. He then erected two saw mills on the Collie River, which operated for eight years. . .

. . . He eventually obtained timber rights in 1882, and over the following years he consolidated with numerous additional land purchases and licences. His business prospered, and he built numerous saw mills and over 100 kilometres (62 mi) of railway line, including the Flinders Bay Branch Railway, to cart the timber. Jetties were built to enable loading of ships in Hamelin and Flinders Bays, and the town of Karridale was established to house the hundreds of workers employed by Davies. Davies' business became so successful that by 1890 he was responsible for 32% of all timber exported from WA.

For a number of years, John William's father John Blechynden suffered from periods of ill-health and following one of these episodes, accompanied by his daughter Amy who acted as his nurse, went to stay at Beverley on 'Roesland', the property of his brother Charles Edwin Blechynden. Their mother Charlotte Blechynden, John William's grandmother, had previously passed away at 'Roesland', on 13 Sep 1889. A few weeks later the family received the news that their father John Blechynden had died at 'Roesland', on 11 Oct 1900 at the age of 67 years. This was a very sad time for everyone. The funeral was held at St Paul's Church, Edwards Crossing and he was buried at the cemetery there. A memorial headstone was laid next of that of Elizabeth in the Bridgetown Cemetery. John William, who was now aged 39 years, had loved and respected his father – the man who had shaped so much of his life. It was a large void to replace.

Shortly after his father's death, John William's brother Arthur married Clara Elizabeth Chapman. They were married by the Reverend J Brand on 20 May 1891 in the schoolroom which at that time was used for church services in Bridgetown. His brother Alfred Blechynden married Mary Ellen Bovell in 1893 in Greenbushes, followed by George Harrison Blechynden marrying Zela Matilda Gertrude Tyler in Condingup on 25 May 1896. The family remained close and 'Bridgedale' the centre to meet and keep in touch.

John William Blechynden being the eldest of a large family took on much responsibility. He never married having become the head of the family after the death of his father. John and his sisters Amy and May, who also remained single continued living at 'Bridgedale'. They all became very active members in most areas of the community. As the other brothers married and had children, Amy, May and John enjoyed spending much time with their nieces and nephews, who they adored.

John William worked hard and became a leading transport merchant. He had a number of teams on the roads from Boyanup and Donnybrook prior to the extension of the railway to Bridgetown.

*John William Blechynden
and his team of horses*

The two segments from articles following show that John William Blechynden purchased a property named 'Greenfields' in the Boyup Brook District, which was managed for some time by his brother Ernest. Later John William purchased 'Glen Lea' in partnership with Mr Herbert Davies, son of Maurice Coleman Davies for whom he had worked for prior to taking over his father's business.

Late Ernest Charles Blechynden

Before coming to the Upper Blackwood, he managed "Capeldene." the estate of the late Colonel Brazier, and it was while managing the -'Greenfields' estate near Boyup Brook he selected his property from virgin bush.

Another venture of John William was the setting up of a butchering business in Hampton Street, the business later being taken over by two of his brothers, Clarence and Herbert. More can be read about the Butcher shop in the chapters on Clarence and Herbert Blechynden.

Right: The butcher shop was owned by Greg Rees who had a copy of the photo in the shop. The butcher business closed in 2023. The sign H.&C. BLECHYNDEN is still on the store.

Work was progressing on his property 'Greenfields'. An article written in the Bunbury Herald spoke of improvements going on in fencing and the clearing of land in the area and of being shown two of the finest crops of potatoes grown in the colony. The correspondent spoke of a grand future for this district "when we have railway and telegraphic communication".

Bridgetown

(From Our Correspondent.)

Wednesday.

I paid a flying trip through the Warren last week, and improvements seem still to go on in fencing and clearing land.

When at Mr. Charles Young's I was shown some of the finest potatoes, I have ever seen in the colony, and calling at Mr. W. E. Blechynden's I saw another fine sample. The day previous to my calling at Mr. Blechynden's the heavy rains washed a portion of his crop out of the ground.

Without a doubt there is a grand future for this district when we have railway and telegraphic communication. Ploughing is in full swing, and there is every appearance of there being good crops in everything.

As Bridgetown developed John William became involved in the formation of the Nelson Road Board and the Bridgetown Agricultural Society. He took place in most sporting activities in the area and particularly enjoyed cricket and horse racing. John William Blechynden attended many dances and balls and social activities held over the years.

LETTERS

John William Blechynden and the family must have been excited and amazed when John William received an unexpected letter dated 14 Sep 1901, from a cousin also named John Blechynden, born in Northumberland, England, who was a son of Edward Blechynden. This John Blechynden, an engineer living in Shanghai at the time, was a nephew of George Blechynden who came to WA with his cousin Harrison Blechynden on the Minstrel in 1830.

The address in the letter from John Blechynden was given as Shanghai. Therein he wrote: It was only by accident that I found out that there was another John Blechynden in the land of the living. A gentleman Mr. M Davies who was in Shanghai a short time ago from Karridale W.A. was introduced to me and when he heard my name said at once that you must have some relatives in W.A. and gave me your address and said he had known you for many years.

The letter contained a lot of news about the family from England. I was in the in the old country last year after an absence of 22 years (had to take a change on account of health). I spent some time in Kent. Uncle John is well (actually Harrison's father) and hearty and is now over 80 years of age, he is living with my two cousins Frederick and Chas Blechynden who are farming the Norward Farm in the Romney Marsh. I have just sent him a few boxes of cigars.

Letter from John Blechynden of SHANGHAI to John William Blechynden of BRIDGETOWN, 14 Sep 1901

3 KUNGPING ROAD
SHANGHAI
CHINA 14/9/1901
My Dear Cousin,

I have no hesitation whatever in addressing you as above as Blechynden is by no means a common name and knowing that I had either one or two uncles who went to Australia in the early times I take it for granted that you are probably the son of Uncle George (actually grandson? of his (Shanghai John's uncle Harrison). It was only by accident that I found out that there was another John Blechynden in the land of the living. A gentleman Mr. M Davies who was in Shanghai a short time ago from Karridale W.A. was introduced to me and when he heard my name said at once that you must have some relatives in W.A. and gave me your address and said he had known you for many years. Mr Davies is now in Japan and on his return he will stay with us for a few days.

(Myself) I am the son of Edward Blechynden who left Kent and went to the north of England, Northumberland, about 1830 or thereabouts, he married there. My father died 37 years ago at Mooler, Northumberland and my mother 13 years ago at Newcastle on Tyne. Our family was seven in number as follows: Elizabeth, Ann, Mary, George, Edward, John (myself) and Alfred. There are only three living now, Elizabeth now Mrs Inglis who is residing in Auckland NZ, Ann who is living in Newcastle on Tyne and of course myself.

I was in the in the old country last year after an absence of 22 years (had to take a change on account of health). I spent some time in Kent. Uncle John is well and hearty and is now over 80 years of age, he is living with my two cousins Frederick and Chas Blechynden who are farming the Norward Farm in the Romney Marsh. I have just sent him a few boxes of cigars. Uncle Jones who had a seed warehouse in Ashford and Uncle Alfred who was living at Bilsington when I left home 22 years ago are both dead. Alfred was unmarried and Jones had one daughter Agnes who died some 12 years since.

I was born in 1846 at Falstone Northumberland and along with my brother Alfred served our apprenticeship as engineers in Newcastle on Tyne. I left Newcastle first in 1867 and went to Egypt for about three years, then was in Russia for a short time, also at sea as engineer until 1873 when I went to Japan, was there until end of 1878 then went home, married (my first wife) and went out to New Zealand, 'Auckland Province' early in 1879, took a few thousand pounds with me, was running a saw mill, shipbuilding, farming etc and after a run of bad luck, lost practically all I had and left there in 1886 and returned to Japan, my wife with our three children, Alfred, Norah and Isabel, following me up a few months later. I intended proceeding to Victoria, British Colombia, but could not get my affairs in Japan settled up, so my wife with the children sailed for Victoria in the end of 1887. She had only been in Vic a few months when she took suddenly ill and died after a very short illness. I then thought it best to stay in Japan and had the children brought over to Kobe where I was then living (I was managing a large paper mill). I married again over 18 years ago and have four children by the second wife, Kathleen, Edith, Edgar and Edward. We have now been in Shanghai over eight years and have been managing a dry dock engineering and shipbuilding works, but have now started on my own account again, have made a little money, but not enough to retire on. All going well in 3 or 4 years time I should be in a position to retire, will go back to the colonies, no more old country for me. I was about 5 months at home last year and can safely say that out of the whole time there was only 5 weeks that was what one would call decent weather.

There are quite a lot of Blechynden nephews and nieces about N.C on Tyne. My brother George had five sons three of them married with families. My brother Alf who died about 4 years ago was engineering manager atrow, had two sons and one daughter. One of the boys is dead but the eldest now about 19 years of age and his younger sister are now in Edinburgh with their mother who was left in comfortable circumstances. I stayed with them about 9 weeks last year. I shall be delighted to receive an answer to this letter and to know how things are using you in the sunny south. With my kindest regards to you and yours.

I am my dear Cousin,
Yours Truly,
John Blechynden

In a letter dated 24 Jan 1902, John William Blechynden wrote back to his cousin John, who was at that stage living in Shanghai. John Blechynden travelled all over the world. Places mentioned: England, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Japan and China. In 1919 he was residing in Nelson, New Zealand. John Blechynden died 8 Jan 1924, Nelson, New Zealand. Burial 9 Jan 1924, Nelson, New Zealand. More can be read about this John Blechynden and his family in the New Zealand chapter.

LETTER FROM JOHN WILLIAM BLECHYNDEN OF BRIDGETOWN TO HIS COUSIN, 24 JAN 1902

My Dear Cousin,

Having already heard of you through the Davis family I was not surprised at receiving your letter. Which came to hand on 14th Jan. I was exceedingly glad to get it to hear that one member of the family was doing well, not that I can growl myself, as I manage to make a comfortable living.

Before going into the matter, I shall set you right as to my pedigree. About 1829 or 1830 my grandfather Harrison Blechynden and his first cousin, George Blechynden came to this country from Kent with a Mr Brockman, my grandfather being engaged as a foreman for Mr Brockman on a farm. George was a wheel wright and carpenter. After the arrival my grandfather (Harrison Blechynden) married a shipmate named Charlotte Robus by whom he had seven sons and two daughters, namely John (my father), Henry, Sarah, Walter, Annie, Harrison, Edwin Jesse and Joseph all of who married and have large families, my father being the only one who is still not alive, having he died in Beverley where they were all born, in 1900 at the age of 67.

My Grandfather died in 1873 and my grandmother in 1889, while my own Mother died in 1891. George Blechynden, my Grandfather's cousin, remained a bachelor and died in Bridgetown about 12 years ago (1890) aged 84 years. All of my uncles except Walter live near Beverley, which is easily reached by train from here in one day. My uncle Walter lives about 30 miles south of Bridgetown and also has some property 10 miles from here, where his son Ben lives.

I have 8 brothers and 2 sisters living i. e. the eldest myself, John (41), George, Edwin, James, Arthur, Alfred, Ernest, Herbert, Amy, Clarence, Anne May (21). Two girls died when they were very young.

It would be impossible for me to give you a list of the children, of my uncles and aunts, but there must be about a hundred of the younger generation of Blechyndens in W.A. as you will see there is no fear of the family becoming extinct for the present. Although I myself am still a bachelor, three of my younger brothers are married with a family of four each so far, I am still living in the same house; 'Bridgedale', in which we were all born, and I hope to live here for many years yet.

My two sisters and two youngest brothers live with me, the latter assisting me with my business i. e. general dealing (stock particularly) butchering and Auctioneering. Another brother, Ernest manages a farm station for me 'Greenfields' 20 miles north east of Bridgetown.

Till the opening of the railway (3 years ago), I also conducted a carrying business, conveying goods between Bridgetown and Donnybrook in 3 large waggons. With the carrying and the dealing, I did very well, as the carrying brought me in contact with all classes of the community. My three brothers and I managed the business.

Previous to starting my own account, I commenced at the age of 19 years, as a foreman of the 'Jays' sheep station where I remained for 2 years, then I managed the Grange orchards for 4 years and left there for Karridale for M. C. Davis, this being my first acquaintance with the Davis family. I remained there for about 6 years until my mother died, when I returned here and took over my father's estate and started the carrying and other businesses.

Of my married brothers, George, is farming at Dinninup, Arthur is keeping a store in Bridgetown, Alfred is a Gov't Mail Contractor. Of the others, James is farming at Dinninup and Edwin works for a Mr. Hassell on a farm near Albany. As I said the younger ones work for me.

None of us are making a fortune, but we are all in fairly comfortable circumstances, being neither rich nor poor. I would very much like to go over to see you, but I cannot afford to lose the time from my business at present.

I if you can manage to take a trip over here we shall all be pleased to see you and guarantee to give you a good time and introduce you to many pleasant people.

I remain,

Yours faithfully,

John, William Blechynden.

NOTE: Bruce and Leila Blechynden from Boyup Brook, son of J.W.'s brother George, had the original of this letter.

Note: By Leila Blechynden

"There was more to this letter, but relating to Bridgetown and surrounding areas, & not family. Also, the ship which George and Harrison came to Australia was the 'Egyptian' (sic), 1830 from other information we have. (Note: The 'Egyptian', is incorrect and should be the Minstrel.)

By my Grandfather's marriage to Elizabeth Green, we are related to another pioneer family, the Greens. One of whom, Levi Green (brother to Elizabeth) was the founder of Baird's store in Perth. By other family marriages we have connections with the Tuckeys and Beachams of Mandurah, also pioneer families."

Note: Surprisingly JWB had a couple of facts wrong regarding his relatives. John and Sarah were actually born in Perth. Sarah was the second born, not Henry. Annie was third then Henry, a Jesse William who died at 20 months, Walter, Charles, Thomas, Jesse and Joseph.

Following these two letters, both John Blechyndens travelled and visited one another, in WA and New Zealand. More recently Jill Blechynden from New Zealand, his granddaughter attended a Blechynden / Giblett / Jones / Moulton / Needs Reunion 1994 family Tree Reunion in 1994.

It was quite a social time for John William when he attended two more weddings. John William's Uncle John William Blechynden was very much a family man as is shown by this photo taken of a picnic at Uncle John's paddock.

Note: John's brother Arthur Blechynden married Clara Chapman. Their eldest child and daughter Lila Blechynden married Frank Pearce. They had four children: Lesley, Haywood, Elva and Des.

For several years John William had an auctioneering business, holding quarterly sales of stock. Following is an article re a land sale, where his services are required to Sell by public Auction:

Au Revoir. TO MR. JOHN BLECHYNDEN. COMPLIMENTARY SMOKE SOCIAL. On Friday evening last there was a most flattering gathering at the Farmers' Home Hotel, to say au revoir to Mr. John Blechynden at a smoke social tendered in his honour prior to his departure on a trip to New Zealand. Mr. R. C. Williams (the President of the Nelson Agricultural Society, under whose auspices the function was held; occupied the chair, and every seat was filled, many having come from long distances to do honour to the departing guest. The usual loyal toasts having been honoured, The Chairman (Mr. R. C. Williams) proposed the toast of the guest of the evening. They were all pleased to gather together that evening to wish him a good trip and a safe return. The idea of the gathering was first of all promoted by the members of the Council of the Agricultural Society. Mr. Blechynden at first would not hear of it, but they were unanimous that they would not allow him to go on his trip without impressing their good wishes by a gathering of some kind. If anyone deserved credit for what had been done during a long space of time, it was due to their friend and guest, Mr. Blechynden. He was one of their best citizens and one they were all proud to associate with and call their friend. From the even tenor of his life, and the even way in which he went about his work, he was bound to be recognised as one of the leaders of the town. He was quiet and unassuming in his approach, and held their general esteem for the good example he set everyone who	lived in the district. He had the enviable distinction of being the oldest pure-bred West Australian living, by that he meant that both his parents were West Australian born. If he were to stand there all night he could not say too much in his favour. Mr. Wm. Mottram, who supported the toast, said that Mr. Blechynden was held in the greatest esteem by one and all, and everything they heard about him was in terms of the highest praise. No one could accuse their guest of a single action which was not worthy of a gentleman. He hoped he would have a most enjoyable trip, come back to them, and be amongst them for many years. Mr. R. Crawford referred to their guest as one of the most upright Australians it had ever been his lot to meet. He understood the project of establishing a branch of the Australian Natives' Association in Bridgetown was in the air, and if this was so he hoped their guest would be the first chairman they elected. At this stage of the proceedings the Chairman, on behalf of the members of the Nelson Agricultural Society, presented their guest with a handsome case of pipes and tobacco pouch as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held by them. Mr. J. R. Walter said he would simply remark that he regarded Mr. Blechynden as a friend of his. He believed he (Mr. Blechynden) was a friend of many of them. As a friend he wished him a pleasant trip and hoped it would do him all the good in the world. The toast having been drunk with great enthusiasm, Mr. J. W. Blechynden, on rising to respond, was received with repeated applause. He said he felt very much complimented indeed by the kind remarks which had been showered upon him that evening. Such kindness put a man rather in a corner. Prior to that night he

TO MR. JOHN BLECHYNDEN

COMPLIMENTARY, SMOKE

On Friday evening last there was a most flattering gathering at the Farmers' Home Hotel, to say au revoir to Mr. John Blechynden at a smoke social tendered in his honour prior to his departure on a trip to New Zealand.

Mr. R. C. Williams (the President of the Nelson Agricultural Society, under whose auspices the function was held) occupied the chair, and every seat was filled, many having come from long distances to do honour to the departing guest.

The usual loyal toasts having been honoured.

The Chairman (Mr. K. O. Williams) proposed the toast to the guest of the evening. They were all pleased to gather together that evening to wish him a good trip and a safe return. The idea of the gathering was first of all promoted by the members of the Council of the Agricultural Society.

Mr. Blechynden at first would not hear of it, but they were unanimous that they would not allow him to go on his trip without impressing their good wishes by a gathering of some kind. If anyone deserved credit for what had been done during a long space of time, it was due to their friend and guest, Mr. Blechynden. He was one of their best citizens and one they were all proud to associate with and call their friend. From the even tenor of his life, and the even way in which he went about his work, he was bound to be recognised as one of the leaders of the town. He was quiet and unassuming in his approach and held their general esteem for the good example he set everyone who lived in the district. He had the enviable distinction of being the oldest pure-bred West Australian living, by that he meant that both his parents were West Australian born. If he were to stand there all night, he could not say too much in his favour.

Mr. Wm. Mottram, who supported the toast, said that Mr. Blechynden was held in the greatest esteem by one and all, and everything they heard about him was in terms of the highest praise. No one could accuse their guest of a single action which was not worthy of a gentleman. He hoped he would have a most enjoyable trip, come back to them, and be amongst them for many years. Mr. R. Crawford referred to their guest as one of the most upright Australians it had ever been his lot to meet. He understood the project of establishing a branch of the Australian Natives' Association, in Bridgetown was in the air, and if this was so he hoped their guest would be the first chairman they elected.

At this stage of the proceedings the Chairman, on behalf of the members of the Nelson Agricultural Society, presented their guest with a handsome case of pipes and tobacco pouch as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held by them.

Mr. J. R. Walter said he would simply remark that he regarded Mr. Blechynden as a friend of his. He believed he (Mr. Blechynden) was friend of many of them. As a friend he wished him a pleasant trip and hoped it would do him all the good in the world.

The toast having been drunk with great enthusiasm, Mr. J. W. Blechynden, on rising, to respond, was received with repeated applause. He said he felt very much complimented indeed by the kind remarks a corner. Prior to that night he knew he had many friends, but until that evening he had not realised that he had so many friends who were willing to lose time and go to expense to show their friendship the way they had that evening. In the past he had been any use or neighbourly, and had done those things ascribed to him by some (the speakers), it was no more than he should have done, for when I came to the Blackwood 18 or so years ago all the people in the district worked on his behalf and did their best to push him along. He had to thank the people of the district for the position in which he found himself that night. He thanked them for the honour they had done him by inviting his brothers to be present.

Mr. J. C. Rose proposed the toast of "the other members of the Blechynden family." He referred to the many years he had known the members of the family—their guest included. He might mention that Mr. John Blechynden and himself were boys together. In all parts of the State the name of Blechynden was spoken of with respect and honour. They were recognised as men of their word—good fellows and generous to their fellow settlers. They were all ready to do a good turn to their neighbours. He personally had lived in the district for 33 years and knew what he was talking about. As far as his guest was concerned he was the same 25 years ago as he was to-day. He had never been a man who had pushed himself forward in any way. On many occasions he had been asked to accept the Presidency of the Agricultural Society but it was not until 18 months or two years ago that he consented to fill the position. When he did so, he remarked, "If I accept I will make a do of it" and they all knew that he had kept his word.

In responding, Mr. Arthur Blechynden thanked them for their kind reception of the toast of the Blechynden family. On behalf of his brothers and himself, he thanked them for the great courtesy which had been extended to them by inviting them to be present at the function. It was a great surprise to them all when they received the invitation to be present that evening, and he could assure the Council of the Society that they fully appreciated this consideration. He too, advantage of the occasion to say that when he was offered the Commission of the Peace, before he accepted the honour he consulted his brother, and asked his advice. He told him then and he said it again that night that he would be only too pleased to stand back in his favour if his brother would consent to this but he would not do so. Time and again all his brothers and himself had consulted their brother John and sought his advice. They were all pleased that he had decided to take a holiday trip to New Zealand.

Mr. Alf. Blechynden spoke in similar strain. He appreciated the fact that the people of the district thought so well of his brother and family that they would not allow him to leave without giving him a send-off. When he heard that all the brothers were to be invited, he expressed the opinion that the Council of the Society had done more than could reasonably have been expected of them. At the same time they all appreciated the kindly courtesy which had been shown them. Amid some amusement he remarked that his brothers and himself were real "gropers," and although he was one of the family he could not help remarking that his brother was well which had been showered upon him that evening. Such kindness put a man rather in a corner. Prior to that night he knew he had many friends, but until that evening, he had not realised that he had so many friends who were willing to lose time and go to expense to show, their friendship the way they had that evening. one of the family or some one else remarking that his brother was well worthy of the remarks which had been made about him. Mr. James Blechynden also responded in appreciation of the courtesy which had been shown to his brothers and himself. Mr. Fred Brockman proposed the toast of the Nelson district. He was personally more or less acquainted with every district in the State, and was proud of his country. At the same time, no matter where he had been he had always had a warm spot in his heart for the Nelson. It had the greatest possibilities of any district in the State for the production of fruit, dairy produce and potatoes. The Government in the past had given its attention elsewhere since the time that they attained sufficient strength to do anything towards pushing on the development of the land. In the first place they had advanced the development of the Goldfields. Then they pushed on the settlement of the corn lands and the Eastern portion of the State and were now turning their attention very strongly to the Southwestern portion. He expected to see a movement of extraordinary progress during the next ten years. As a matter of fact, he did not think it would require much attention from the Government to bring this about when they had settlers as keenly alive to the possibilities of the district as their guest, with other settlers advancing along the same lines, less prominently perhaps, but on such a good basis that he was convinced the district would advance even if the Government was opposed to it. There were, of course, a few pessimists still left in the country, and he had heard it stated that the land was no good as the cattle all got the rickets. It seemed to him that the rickets must be extending to the human species, for a few days ago when he had occasion to send his team out he enquired for his driver and was told that he had the rickets. (Laughter). He was convinced that within the next few years, outside the metropolitan area, the Nelson district would carry the closest population in Western Australia. The fact that he himself was located in factor in Western Australia. The fact that he himself was located in the district was an evidence that the Government was turning its attention to this portion of the State, for he was now a permanent resident of Bridgetown. It was his desire to push the district forward, and he would be glad to receive any suggestions that the residents or their public institutions would make with this object in view. He felt confident that the Government would be only too pleased to do their part by acting upon any suggestions put forward. He coupled with the toast the name of Mr. J. R. Walter who, in responding, expressed the same confidence. In the future as had been envisaged by Mr. Brockman. Mr. F. E. S. Willmott proposed the toast of the visitors, and Mr. O'Connor in responding urged that if those interested desired to push forward their claim for the extension of the Manjimup railway they should push forward their request without loss of time. Other toasts honoured were "the Ladies," "the Press," and "the Chairman." During the evening music, song and story were provided by Messrs R. Crawford, O'Connor, Potham, Williams, Carter, Rippon, and others.

Mr. James Blechynden also responded in appreciation of the courtesy which had been shown to his brothers and himself.

John William's sisters Amy and May, though very social, with many friends and involved in every aspect concerning Bridgetown never married. John William's brother Herbert Edward Blechynden married 'Nellie' Ellen Frances Bathurst on 8 Jan 1913 in Bridgetown. This marriage was followed by Clarence Henry Blechynden marrying Elizabeth Jane 'Bessie' Farris on 22 Oct 1913, St Paul's Church of England, Bridgetown. All John William's brothers except Edwin were now married. John William Blechynden, a bachelor himself, was by now involved in many committees, with every spare moment he had being devoted to his family and friends.

Bridgetown Notes.

(From Our Correspondent)

At the last meeting of the Bridge town Road Board, Thoughtful John, I mean J. H.(sic) Blechynden, suggested that concerted action should be taken by all the Road Boards in the Nelson Electorate to recognise in some way the splendid services rendered to the community by Lord Forrest, and to express the people's pleasure at his being raised to the Peerage.

Acting on this suggestion, the Secretary was in structed to write to the other Road Boards in the district, inviting them to send delegates to a meeting to be held on the 13th inst with a view to taking common action in furtherance of the above project. Accordingly, on the date named, a meeting was held in the Board Room, Bridgetown, when the following delegates were present: — Greenbushes, Messrs. Lindsay and Gibney; Balingup, Messrs. Wansborough and Wright; Upper Blackwood, Messrs Doust and Smith; Bridgetown, Messrs Smith and Blechynden; Warren Road Board sent a communication to the effect that their meeting was on the 13th. and therefore, they would be unable to send a delegate. They expressed their willingness to co-operate in any scheme for so worthy an object.

Mr. J. H. Smith, chairman of the Bridgetown Road Board, was in the chair, and, after declaring the meeting open, asked Mr. Blechynden, as the mover of the original motion, to open the discussion.

Mr. Blechynden briefly outlined what he thought would be the best and most acceptable means to the end in view, namely, an illuminated address, to be presented to Lord Forrest at a public reception to be held in his honour. He expressed his belief that Lord Forrest would deprecate any great expense and would prize more than anything else our gratitude spontaneously and publicly expressed and made manifest and tangible in the form of an address.

Mr. Gibney moved that the presentation take the form of an illuminated address. This was seconded by Mr. Crawford and carried.

It was resolved, on the motion of Mr. Crawford, that the expenses of the address be borne by the different Road Boards.

Mr. Sparkes moved 'That an executive committee be elected to make arrangements with regard to the address and reception.' This was seconded by Mr. G. Hester and carried.

Mr. Tregurtha was unanimously appointed Hon. Secretary, and the following gentlemen were appointed to the Committee: — Messrs. Blechynden, Lindsay, Wansborough, Doust, and J. C. Rose (Warren), with Mr. J. H. Smith, chairman; members of committee to be able to appoint deputies in their absence.

It was resolved to call a meeting as soon as a reply had been received from Lord Forrest. Sad to relate, the meeting did not conclude until after the pubs had closed.

One would inevitably die of thirst if dependant on local cider for a drink, but it is cheering to hear that the chief engineer of the Apple Squeezing Works will soon have the cheering fluid flowing like a river. He — the chief apple squeezer — has done it all on his own and has fashioned a decent plant out of the most unpromising materials. Will tell you more about it later.

On the 14th inst, about a dozen charitably and patriotically disposed men went out along the Greenbushes Road and put in the day weather boarding Mr. Gilchrist's house. The house is being built by the local Repatriation League, but owing to the difficulty of getting iron, the erection has been delayed. However, as all the material is now on the job, the house should soon be finished. The workmen spent a happy day, the climax being when William Cutmore appeared on the scene with a corkscrew, some corks, and some beer and wine. Of course, the corks were in the bottles, and the corkscrew was to pull 'em out — the corks, I mean. Bill was once a wood butcher — that was before he had that serious disagreement with hard work — but on Sunday he demonstrated that his hand had not lost its cunning. I'm not alluding to the way he pulled the corks, but to the masterly manner in which he drove nails, etc.

On Sunday, the Rev. Hoeking of the Methodist Church preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation. Mr. Hoeking is going to Bunbury. It is to be hoped that he will take and read the "Herald," and that he will be as popular and as useful as he has been in Bridgetown. There is a social to bid him farewell on Tuesday, and I shall be there.

OBITUARY – 1931

The Late Mr. J. W. Blechynden

The First True Born Westralian.

On Monday last after an illness of some three months, the death occurred at his residence in Bridgetown of Mr John William Blechynden at the age of 69 years and eight months.

His death removes of the oldest residents as Mr Blechynden was born in the district. He was the eldest son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, who were among the earliest settlers to arrive in the Nelson District. His was the distinction of being the first child born in the State of Western Australian born parents. He was one of a family of 11, having eight brothers and two sisters, all of whom survive him. The brothers are Messrs Clarence, Herbert, Alfred and Arthur (of Bridgetown), James and George (of Dinninup, Ernest (of Boyup Brook) and Edwin (who is at present ill in hospital in Perth), and the sisters Misses Amy and May, who resided with the deceased gentleman, who was unmarried. OBITUARY.

The Late Mr. J. W. Blechynden

The First True-Born Westralian.

On Monday last, after an illness of some three months, the death occurred at his residence in Bridgetown of Mr John William Blechynden at the age of 69 years and eight months.

His death removes of the oldest residents as Mr Blechynden was born in the district. He was the eldest son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, who were among the earliest settlers to arrive in the Nelson District. His was the distinction of being the first child born in the State of Western Australian born parents. He was one of a family of 11, having eight brothers and two sisters, all of whom survive him. The brothers are Messrs Clarence, Herbert, Alfred and Arthur (of Bridgetown), James and George (of Dinninup, Ernest (of Boyup Brook) and Edwin (who is at present ill in hospital in Perth), and the sisters Misses Amy and May, who resided with the deceased gentleman, who was unmarried. Mr Blechynden spent the whole of his life in the district, with the exception of one period of six years, during which he was associated with the late M C. Davies Coy at Karridale.

The late Mr Blechynden at all times took a very active interest in the civic, business and sporting life of the district, and was held in the highest respect of the whole community. He was one of the first members of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society, and for some time filled the office of President of that body, of which he was elected a life member. He also filled the position of Chairman of the Nelson (now Bridgetown) Road Board for a number of years.

The high esteem in which the deceased gentleman was held was testified to by the very large attendance present at the funeral which took place on Tuesday afternoon. It is stated to be the largest crowd that ever attended a funeral in this district, and among those present were many who had travelled from Perth and other distant places in order to pay their last respects to the deceased. The remains were interred in the family grave in the old Bridgetown cemetery, the last rites being conducted by the Rev. F. Davis. All the deceased's family with the exception of Mr Edwin Blechynden were present.

The pallbearers were Messrs A. Cullen, J. C. Rose, R. C. Williams, H. F. Doust, P. A. Ewing, J. R. Walter, Clarence Doust (Warren), G. F. Mc Gregor, W. Lee Stacey and J. C. Allcott, and the casket was borne by Messrs E. G. Gilbert, S. W. Woolley, H. Davies and E. Bolton. The burial service was conducted by Rev. F. Davis.

A very large number of beautiful floral tributes were placed at the graveside. One wreath, gathered and addressed by a favourite niece, little Dorian, was enclosed in the casket with the remains.

body, of which he was elected a life member. He also filled the position of Chairman of the Nelson (now Bridgetown) Road Board for a number of years.

The deceased gentleman had engaged in many different businesses during his life. In the early days he was one of the leading transport merchants and had a number of teams on the roads from Boyanup and Donnybrook prior to the extension of the railway to Bridgetown. Balbarrup in partnership with the late Mr Herbert Davies. This property was disposed of after the war, to the Repatriation Department. At one time he conducted an auctioneering business, holding quarterly sales of stock, etc, which were frequent enough for the needs of those days. He also conducted a butchering business in the town which was afterwards taken over by two of his brothers. About 12 years ago the late Mr Blechynden retired from his farming interests, but he continued to take a very keen interest in the affairs of the district up until the time of his illness. In his earlier days he was very interested in sporting affairs, and devoted much of his time to these, being particularly keen on cricket and racing.

The high esteem in which the deceased gentleman was held was testimonial to the very large attendance present at the funeral which took place on Tuesday afternoon. It is stated to be the largest crowd that ever attended a funeral in the district, and among those present were many who had travelled from Perth and other distant places in order to pay their last respects the deceased. Obituary
JOHN WILLIAM BLECHYNDEN.
PROMINENT BRIDGETOWN RESIDENT
 John William Blechynden, known to all as J.W.B., a man among men, passed into the great beyond a little after 10 a.m. on Monday morning. He was a grand man and to be such it is necessary to play a noble part, and this part he played to the fullest. He was never known to go back on his word and whenever he gave a promise to do a certain thing he did it, no matter what it cost him in time and labour. He was a quiet, unassuming man who did what he felt was his duty to his fellow men and to the district in which he lived. He did not look for praise and, in fact, again and again refused to be rewarded, even if only by a small present, for the actions he had taken for the betterment of others. Outside the members of the family there are many with aching hearts who mourn the loss of one who stood to them when ill luck had crossed their pathways. There are few in Bridgetown who know the part J.W.B. played in the advancement of the district and its folk in the years gone by. Residents were few and far between in his younger days and with settlement in its infancy very little money could be made. No one had much money and there were no banks in which to place what little they had. He was guide, philosopher and friend to all. First one and then another appealed to J.W.B. to bank their money and this he did without making any charge whatever for the work of keeping the different accounts. When the first bank was opened in Bridgetown he had difficulty in getting one or two to transfer their money to the bank. We have heard many people comment on what J.W.B. had done for them and never yet have we heard one say that he did not play the game. "In fact John is too honest," was a remark very often heard. Just to give one case—and we could quote very many others—of the way he helped those in trouble we want to mention that a settler and his wife battled for years, hard workers too, and then found that the bank had called them up. They appealed to J.W.B. and after a short pause—for he knew the goodness of the couple—he remarked: "Yes I will help you out. I will pay the bank and if you carry on as I advise you will be out of debt in twelve months." His words came true for just a little over 12 months later they were free and they never looked on hard times again. With such a man, who never lets anyone down, it was only natural that a great deal of work went his way. He was appointed executor for numerous estates and so well and faithfully did he carry out his duties—which were honorary with, one exception—that in every case he handed over the estates in a better position than he found them. One family, in particular, were so pleased with the way in which he handled their affairs that at the close of his work for them they handed him a gold watch and chain and he was forced to accept it despite his protests. It would take columns of space to recount the almost numberless kindly and helpful actions of this grand man.

Early in life he commenced to take an interest in public affairs and it was not until a little over twelve months ago that he made up his mind to withdraw from the council of the Agricultural Society, a body in which he had taken a leading part with since the inception. During the 48 years that he has been connected with that society no one had played a bigger part in its progress. For years he was the president and when not carrying out this duty was vice-president or a councillor. At all times he was ready to do his share and more in the work of progress. He never failed to keep a watchful eye on the society's property and when he severed his connection with the council his words were: "Although I am leaving the council you can call on me at any time to give you my hand. I am still prepared to help all I can. In the minds of councillors may be a wish to organise an evening in recognition of the many years that I have been connected with the society. Please do not do this for I will not accept reward." At the next meeting councillors discussed the loss of their staunch supporter from the council and they deputed the president (Mr. Cullen) to buy some useful present and quietly hand it to J.W.B. This was done by Mr. Cullen.

Many years ago J.W.B. became a member of the Road Board and it was not long before the members realised his ability and he was appointed chairman of the Board, a position he held over a lengthy period. His work for ratepayers, as a member and as chairman of the Board, will ever be remembered by the ratepayers of those years. There was hardly a public body in the district that failed to attract his interest. Even though he was not a fruitgrower he became a member of the Fruitgrowers' Association and paid his subscription to help the association along. When the River Improvement League called for members he responded and last year paid five years' subscription in advance. We feel safe in saying there was not a person in the district that gave more to charity than John Blechynden. As appears to him for help never fell on deaf ears. Right through the war period he never ceased giving to the appeals of the Red Cross Society and other bodies. Local appeals met with the same genuine response from him. He was happy in helping others and during recent years the greater part of his happy in helping others and during recent years the greater part of his work was given in the interests of others, particularly the estates of which he had been appointed executor.

As a young man he took an active interest in sport and was recognised as one of the best cricketers in the district. In those days matches used to be played against Pinjarra, Katanning and Bunbury which meant long trips in horse drawn vehicles. For many years he took a leading part in the Bridgetown Race Club. To give some idea of the fair-mindedness of J.W.B. we may mention that he had a partner in a property in the Bridgetown district. His partner passed away and it became necessary to dispose of half interest in the property. When asked if he was prepared to sell he replied: "The property is worth a certain figure. You can buy my share at half that amount or I will buy your share at a similar figure."

When deceased's father and mother, the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden passed away, J.W.B., being the eldest son was left to father the younger members of the family so that not only have the brothers and sisters lost a brother but they have lost one who so nobly played the part of father to them.

On numerous committees, such as the Repatriation Committee, the late John Blechynden played a big part.

Deceased's parents, the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden were, it is believed, the first Western Australian couple to be married in the State.

THE FUNERAL.
 The remains were interred in the old cemetery at Bridgetown on Tuesday afternoon when it was estimated that 400 people attended to pay their last respects. Among those at the graveside were friends from Manjimup, Boyanup Brook, Nannup, Balingup, Mullalup, Kirup and other distant centres. Rev. F. Davis conducted the last rites.

The chief mourners were Messrs. George, Jim, Arthur, Alfred, E. C. and G. H. Blechynden (brothers). The pall bearers were Messrs. Alf Cullen, J. C. Rose, J. R. Walter, C. Allnutt, W. Lee, Steve, H. B. Dount, R. C. Williams, P. A. Ewing, G. F. McGregor (Nannup) and Clarence Dount (Warren).

The bearers were Messrs. H. Davies, Syd Wheatley, E. J. Giblett and T. E. Bolton.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL

Because of John William Blechynden's outstanding services to the town and Agricultural Society it was proposed that the Agriculture Society should do something in memory of his long connection with them. The following newspaper articles tell the story of the proposed memorial to John William Blechynden.

His service to the Bridgetown Agricultural Show can be read in the book SHOWING THE WAY.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL To late John Blechynden

"When we were putting our old friend John Blechynden to rest, I was struck by the neglected condition of the old cemetery," said Mr. J. R. Walter when speaking at the Agricultural Society meeting on Friday last. Continuing Mr. Walter said if the ground was put in order and kept in good condition it would be a good memorial to the memory of John Blechynden, and he would suggest that the society call a meeting of the friends of the deceased and put the position before them. Subsequent lists could be made available and many may be prepared to contribute in this direction. He sincerely hoped that the members would take the matter up.

In support Mr. R. C. Williams mentioned the fence was in a bad state of repair and a recent fire had done a great deal of damage.

Mr. E. Abbots said he understood that the cemetery was only morally under control old St. Paul's vestry.

Mr. P. A. Ewing said that the late John Blechynden was an outstanding man and in the early days was everything to the people of the town. He would like it possible to see a permanent memorial erected in his memory. It appeared to him that if the ground was put in order, it would be allowed to go back again to a neglected state, that was, unless a permanent fund was established, was vested in trustees and known as the John Blechynden memorial fund.

Mr. J. R. Walter: We may be able to get working parties who would undertake to do so much each year.

Mr. Cullen said that like Mr. Ewing he felt that a permanent fund would have to be established. At the same time, he would like to see something more permanent and felt that the Agriculture Society should do something themselves in memory of John Blechynden's long connection with them.

A motion was carried by Mr. Walter that a meeting be called for Tuesday, Jan 27, at 8 pm, in the Parish Hall to discuss; the proposal was carried.

Late John Blechynden

PROPOSAL TO ERECT MEMORIAL GATES

Called by the Bridgetown Agricultural Society a public meeting was held in the Parish Hall on the evening of Feb 20, when Mr. J. R. Walter was voted to the chair. In opening the meeting, the chairman said they had met to discuss the erection of a suitable memorial to their dear old friend John Blechynden. A suggestion had been put forward that the old graveyard and fences of the old cemetery should be put in order but his he understood was being taken in hand. He invited those present to put forward suggestions, that they would decide on something and expressed the wish that would be a fit memorial to their departed friend.

Mr. A. Cullen said that the late John Blechynden took a greater interest in the Agricultural Society than any-thing else in the district and in fact of late years his interest was almost entirely in the Society's grounds. PROPOSAL TO ERECT MEMORIAL GATES

Called by the Bridgetown Agricultural Society a public meeting was held in the Parish Hall on the evening of February 20, when Mr. J. R. Walter was voted to the chair. In opening the meeting the chairman said they had met to discuss the erection of a suitable memorial to their dear old friend, the late John Blechynden. A suggestion had been put forward that the graveyard and fences of the old cemetery should be put in order but this, he understood, was being taken in hand. He invited those present to put forward that they would decide on something suggestions and expressed the wish that would be a fitting memorial to their departed friend.

Mr. A. Cullen said that the late Mr. Blechynden took a greater interest in the Agricultural Society than anything else in the district and in fact of late years his interest was almost entirely in the Society's grounds. A fitting memorial therefore would be the erection of a memorial gate at the main entrance to the ground and would suggest an artistic iron gate, with stone basement, iron pickets and concrete pillars. The gate would have to be placed in such a position that it would not have to be altered when future improvements were carried out. A ticket-seller's room should also be included in the memorial. There were not many people, he felt, who knew John Blechynden as he (the speaker). During the past 25 years he had learned to regard him as one of the finest men he had ever met in his life. He was a cheerful giver and was always ready to help others. He (the speaker) felt it the duty of the district residents to respond to the appeal in the direction of erecting a memorial gate.

In seconding the motion Mr. Alf. Doust said that the late Mr. Blechynden and himself were foundation members of the society and he (the speaker) was the only one left. He knew that if John Blechynden could express a wish it would be to have a memorial at the show ground.

Mr. R. G. Evans said that every word uttered by Mr. Cullen was correct. Whatever the late Mr. Blechynden did he did well. It brought to his mind the great amount of work he had carried out on the roads and never asked a penny for it.

Mr. P. A. Ewing said that they all knew of the great deeds of the late Mr. Blechynden and the proposal put forward should not, in any way, be considered a parochial matter. He suggested that a committee be formed to make an appeal, as wide as possible, for funds to erect the memorial. The J.W.B.'s activities went far afield and he felt that there were many people in other parts who would like to assist. When as much money as possible was raised the committee would know just what they had to spend and could then call for designs for the gate. This would be a memorial that would always be kept in repair which was a very big item in the erection of a memorial.

The following members were then elected to the committee: Messrs A. Cullen, W. Lee Steere, J. R. Walter, P. A. Ewing, R. C. Williams, H. T. Doust, W. R. Connell and Rev. F. Davis.

It was resolved to get in touch with the following gentlemen and ask if they would kindly act as out district committeemen in connection with the appeal: Messrs E. Moore (Balingup), G. McGregor (Nannup), C. I. Doust (Manjimup), N. M. Brazier (Kirup), J. C. Rose (Wilgarrup), Harry Scott (Nannup) and P. D. Forrest (Upper Blackwood).

Mr. Cullen said that their late friend, when alive, would never countenance begging and the effort must therefore be solely in the nature of voluntary giving. He felt it the duty of the people to subscribe to the memorial in honor of one of the greatest sons W.A. had ever produced and one of the greatest the South-West had ever seen.

In endorsing Mr. Cullen's remarks, the chairman said that the appeal must be absolutely voluntary and no matter how little people could give it would willingly be accepted.

Messrs T. W. Smith and R. E. Doust were appointed joint hon. secretaries.

Committee Meeting

Following the public meeting the committee were called together. Mr. Walter was proposed as chairman but expressed the wish to see Mr. Cullen accept the position. Mr. Cullen was then proposed and elected.

On the motion of Rev. F. Davis it was decided to write the Bridgetown Agricultural Society and seek their permission to erect a memorial gate at the main entrance to the show ground.

He was a cheerful giver and was always ready to help others. He (the speaker) felt it was the duty of the district residents to respond to the appeal in the direction of erecting a memorial gate.

Mr. R. G. Evans said that every word uttered by Mr. Cullen was correct. Whatever the late Mr Blechynden did he did well. It brought to his mind the great amount of work he had carried out on the roads and never asked a penny for it.

It was resolved to get in touch with the following gentlemen and ask if they would kindly act as out district committee men in connection with the appeal: Messrs E. Moore (Balingup), G. Following the public meeting the committee was called together. Mr. Walter was proposed as chairman but expressed the wish to see Mr. Cullen accept the position. Mr. Cullen was then proposed and elected.

On the motion of Rev. F. Davis, it was decided to write the Bridgetown Agricultural Society and seek their permission to erect a memorial gate at the main entrance of the show ground.

Memorial Gates

A Splendid Tribute to the late Mr. J. W. Blechynden

At the entrance to the Bridgetown Show Grounds are the beautiful memorial Gates erected to the memory of the late John William Blechynden, who was 45 years a member and 33 years councillor of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society. The visitor immediately impressed the grandeur of this imposing entrance and a more fitting memorial to such a fine gentleman would have been impossible to conceive. The structure was erected for about £170 for the Agricultural Society last year and opened on the day of the last annual Show in November, by the, Premier, Sir James Mitchell, K.C.M.G.

The late Mr Blechynden was one of the early residents of the district and was aged 69 at the time of his demise. He was the eldest son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, who were among the first to settle in the district. Mr Blechynden had the distinction of being - the first child born in this district of Western Australian-born parents and was one of a family of eleven. He spent the Whole of his life in the district with the exception of six years during which time he was associated with the late Mr C. Davies' Coy., at Karridale.

The late Mr Blechynden at all times took a very active interest in the civic, business and sporting life of the district and was held in the highest esteem throughout the district. For a time, he was President of the Agricultural Society and was later elected a life member. He also filled the position of Chairman of the Nelson (now Bridgetown) Road Board. He had engaged in many different businesses during the course of his life. In the very early days, he was one of the leading transport merchants and had a number of teams on the roads carrying goods from Boyanup and Donnybrook prior to the extension of the railway to Bridgetown. He owned a fine property known as "Greenfields" in the Boyup Brook District, which is now owned by Mr W. Steere. He later purchased that valuable property named "Glen Lea," on the banks of the Blackwood. River, eight miles from Bridgetown, in. partnership with the late Mr. Herbert Davies. After the war this property was disposed of to the Repatriation Department. At one time he conducted auctions, bonding quarterly sales of stock, etc., which were quite frequent enough for the needs of those days. He also conducted a butchering business in the town, but this was later taken over by two of his brothers.

About twelve years prior to his demise he retired, from his farming interests, but maintained a very keen interest in the affairs of the district. In early days he was a keen lover of sport and had devoted much of his time to cricket and racing. It is interesting to record that the funeral of the late Mr Blechynden was the largest ever witnessed at Bridgetown, or anywhere in the surrounding districts. The Agricultural Society is certainly to be commended upon forming such an imposing and "lasting memorial the memory of their late councillor and member.

SECOND CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

2. BLECHYNDEN, GEORGE HARRISON (1862-1937) & TYLER/TAYLOR, ZELA (1862-1921)

George Harrison Blechynden was born at 'Bridgedale' in 1862, registered in Perth, WA [Reg. 6744]. He was christened on 2 Nov 1862, Blackwood River, WA. He was the second child born to John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green; his older brother John William being born 12 May 1861.

John William Blechynden, seated and George Harrison Blechynden standing. Eldest and second sons of John Blechynden. Courtesy Jill Feutrill

George's grandfather Harrison Blechynden and his grandmother Charlotte Robus emigrated from Kent, England via the Minstrel, to the new Swan River Colony in 1830. Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus were married soon after their arrival. Their first two children were born in Perth, the eldest being George's father, John, in 1833. At the age of about nine years his father, John, with his parents and sister Sarah moved to the Beverley district and settled on a farming property named 'Babbyalla'. Another eight more living children were added to the family. (See the chapter on Harrison Blechynden).

George's father John Blechynden grew up on 'Babbyalla', working closely with his father Harrison and learning the skills required in most areas of farming. In 1854, at the age of 21 years, John Blechynden accompanied by two Aborigines walked to the Blackwood district. Impressed with what he saw he acquired two pastoral leases along the Blackwood River.

George's parents John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green were married in Perth, WA, on 23 Feb 1860. Following their wedding his father and mother, John and Elizabeth spent their honeymoon travelling by bullock wagon from Perth. Conditions were hard and primitive and there were few facilities. They spent the first couple of years in a mud hut while their larger house 'Bridgedale' was being built and completed in about 1862. (The story of the development of the new town Bridgetown can be read in more detail in the chapters of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green and John William Blechynden.)

George Harrison Blechynden, (John's son, written on back). Courtesy Jill Feutrill.

John William and George were joined by eleven more children: Edwin born 1864, James born 1866 and Charlotte in 1868. Sadly, she died in 1869 at the age of 15 ½ months. Their parents were devastated. Arthur was born in 1870, Alfred in 1871, Ernest in 1873 and Herbert in 1876, Amy born 1877, Clarence Henry born 1879, May born 1881 and Ada born 1883. George was aged 20 years when baby Ada was born. Sadly, Ada died in 1888 at the age of five years.

John and George were initially taught by their mother at 'Bridgedale' then at the new Bridgetown School which was established on 1 Feb 1870.

Their father taught them to ride and handle horses and as the boys grew older, they began to accompany their father helping and learning farming skills. Being the eldest they both learned responsibility at an early age. Eventually taking over their father's business, George's brother John William over time became one of the leading transport merchants. He had a number of teams on the roads from Boyanup and Donnybrook prior to the extension of the railway to Bridgetown.

Back: George Blechynden, son of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green Front: Samuel 'Sam' Edwards, son of Elizabeth 'Anne' Blechynden and Thomas Edwards, and their grandmother Charlotte Blechynden (nee Robus).

George Harrison Blechynden went to Perth to learn the trade as a blacksmith, farrier and wheelwright. (His mother, Elizabeth Green's family were blacksmiths of note.) At the age of 24 years, he moved to the Dinninup district in 1885 and in 1892 was granted 240 acres of land, No. 48/1250 in Nelson district, purchased for one pound ten shillings, later owned by his son George Bruce Wentworth Blechynden.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245 Written and Compiled by E. Blechynden, pg.49, pp1, pg.61, pp4

Three of the nine Blechynden sons, James, George and Edwin came to Dinninup whilst Ernest went to Boyup Brook. George accompanied James to Dinninup and selected land a little closer to Boyup Brook at "Bellside" in 1885. The story of each of these brothers can be read in their own chapters.

Several miles away, across country at Condingup lived the Taylor family. George Blechynden married Zela in her Condingup home.

This map shows the three brothers' properties of 'Springfield', 'Bellside' and 'Rocky Pool'.

Map showing Dinninup

Dinninup, WA: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dinninup>, Western Australia

Dinninup is a small town in the South West region of WA. It is between Boyup Brook and Kojonup. The town's name is Aboriginal in origin and is the name of a brook that is situated close to town. First recorded by surveyors in 1877, the meaning of the name is unknown. Originating as a railway station on the Boyup Brook to Kojonup line, early settlers had requested for land to be set aside for a townsite in 1906. The line was completed in 1910 and the Dinninup station was opened at the same time. The town was gazetted in 1915.

George Harrison Blechynden (1862-1937) married Zela Matilda Gertrude Tyler (1862-1921), adopted surname, Taylor, 25 Mar 1896, in Condingup, WA [Reg. 6], registered as Taylor. Both were aged about 33 years of age.

MARRIAGE.

BLECHYNDEN-TAYLOR—On March 25th at Cundinup, Upper Blackwood, the residence of Joseph Taylor, Esq., by the Rev. Andrew Buchanan. George Harrison, third sic (should be second) son of John Blechynden, Esq., Bridgetown, to Zela Matilda, eldest daughter of Jas. (James) Gordon (sic, should be George) Taylor, and adopted daughter of Joseph Taylor.

Note: Corrections: Zela was the daughter of James George Tyler and Julia Long. (Jas. was written short for James. James Gordon should be James George).

TYLER, ZELA MATILDA GERTRUDE (1862-1921) TAYLOR

Zela Matilda Gertude Tyler was born 27 Dec 1862 in Gingin, WA [Reg. 6815], registered under Tyler. Zela Matilda Gertrude Blechynden (nee Tyler) died 17 Apr 1921 in Dinninup, WA [Reg. 21]. She was the daughter of James George Tayler and Julia Long.

Zela Tyler / Taylor

The following section contains details of Zela's parents JAMES GEORGE TAYLER (1827-1911) TYLER / TYLOR and JULIA LONG (1837- ~1880).

Zela's parents JAMES GEORGE TYLER (1830-1911) and JULIA LONG (1837- ~1880) were married 20 Jun 1861, Perth, WA [Reg. 1654]. Registered under Tyler.

TYLER, JAMES GEORGE TAYLOR (1830-1911) from Nova Scotia, Canada.

Initially there was confusion between James 'George' Tyler a convict from Essex, England and James George Tayler (Tyler) from Nova Scotia in Canada. It was made more confusing with the fact that James George Taylor took on the surname of Tyler and later Tylor, on his arrival in WA.

Data from THE CONVICT RECORDS FROM WA, via "FROM CREATION TO CABBALLUP" by Eugene Herbert, on George and Cecilia Herbert, Chapter 4, p 171-172 cast some doubt as to which was the correct person. It stated James George Tyler, born in Essex in 1836 was convicted of house breaking in 1854, sentenced to 15 years gaol, transported to WA arriving on the William Hammond in 1856. This is not him.

Via Irene Doyle, researcher from the Katanning Library:

SA Gazette: The undermentioned expirees have arrived from Western Australia: - George Tyler, aged 40 years, height 5ft. 5in., light brown hair, grey eyes, fair complexion, and scar over left eye; sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude in 1854, at Ipswich, for house breaking. The same George Tyler was arrested in Perth 1877 then he left for SA on the Madelina in 1878 to Adelaide SA. This George Tyler never came back to WA.

Record showing - James Samuel Taylor (1800-1878) – Convict - from Nova Scotia in Canada:

Via Researcher Irene Doyle:

Convicted in 1850. Court Martial, Montreal, sentenced to 10 years. Arrival, WA via ship Marion, with 280 other convicts. Married Elizabeth Weldon, 1855, Guilford, WA [Reg.834]. Five children.

Via Researcher Irene Doyle:

I have been researching for 30 years and was given the family photo album of the Taylor and Toovey family by Betty Beck my mums cousin, daughter of Horace Taylor, Tylor plus the research she had already done, I am a researcher at Katanning Library where I have lots of Fische from Battye Library and a lot of marital CD at my doorstep, plus I do the ordering for Genealogy Books. Not all info is out there so via family members is a good way to get information. I have been searching but no proof that James was a convict when he came out from California. The story in the Taylor family was that he did something wrong while in Australia or Tasmania that caused him to become a convict. The Taylor family in Canada heard the story of two brothers chasing gold in California and then Australia. We may never know.

Comments via researcher and descendant, Irene Doyle on James Taylor from Nova Scotia, Canada:

My mother was born a Tylor, daughter of Albert George James Tylor, son of James George Taylor /Tylor. My grandfather Albert was born a (Taylor) and all of his siblings all born Taylors. My mother had already told me that the name was changed from Taylor to Tyler when he arrived in Australia. She thinks he was a ship deserter.

James was born in Country Harbour Nova Scotia according to his Death Certificate and family members from Katanning where I live. The Information in some of the Bicentennial books are not always correct. James' father's name was Matthew Taylor, recorded in both his marriage certificate and death certificate. I have been in contact with the Taylor family from Nova Scotia and it was said by Aunt Zela before she died, that James, told the family he went out to California in search of Gold with his brother Isaac and came out from California to Australia. Whether he was convicted in California or Australia I don't know. I don't have a birth certificate for him as the records were destroyed in a fire but as you can see by my grandfather's birth certificate and also all the brothers' and sisters' certificates, they were all born Taylors, not Tylor. My mother Thelma Tylor, daughter of Albert George Tylor, told me the story of James using the name Tyler when he married Julia Long and Annie Toovey. Annie, a midwife, wanted the birth records to be correct and used his proper name Taylor, she also changed it to Tylor as it was the closest to Taylor she could get. My mother told stories, her father told, of her grandfather James's life in Canada, the large family house that he lived in and the horse that they had where he learnt his trade as a blacksmith. She also was told of his grandmother being a Fisher. The Matthew Taylor in Nova Scotia is also a farmer.

Memories passed down and certificates via family members show our James George Taylor came from Nova Scotia in Canada.

DEATH CERTIFICATE JAMES GEORGE TYLOR

*WA death cert No. 5/11, Katanning 27 Jan 1911. His death certificate indicates he had been in Australia for 69 years (arrived, 1842) and that he died at 87 which would give a birth year of *1824, however his marriage certificate from 1861 gives his age as 31, which would make his birth year 1830. It also recorded James was born in Country Harbour, Canada.

Note: 69 years in Australia, (arrived, 1842) by the informant on his death certificate must be incorrect as James would have been only 12 years on arrival in Australia.

 Note from our researcher Irene Doyle: I had my DNA done and had a big DNA connection with the Taylor family in Nova Scotia for Zela's Father James George Taylor (Tylor), so all my hard work confirmed it. Great research Irene.

JAMES GEORGE TYLER'S FAMILY IN NOVA SCOTIA, CANADA:

James George Tyler was born 1830 Guysborough County, Nova Scotia, Canada. Parents: MATTHEW TAYLOR (1793-1858) who married MARGARET JANE FISHER (1802-1890), daughter of WILLIAM FISHER (1772-1811) and MARY WHIDDEN (1778-1870), in 1827 in Forks of St Mary's, Guysborough County, Nova Scotia, Canada. Researcher and descendant Irene Doyle says James' birth date of ~1830 was calculated from his school records from St Mary's, Nova Scotia, Canada and his marriage certificate.

CHILDREN of MATTHEW TAYLOR (1793-1858) AND MARGARET JANE FISHER (1802-1890):

Wentworth Taylor, 1827; James George Taylor, 1830-1911; Eliza Taylor, 1832-1876; Sarah Jane Fox nee Taylor, 1837; Ebenezer Taylor, 1838; Ephraim Taylor, 1842; Rebecaa Mason (nee Taylor), 1844. Ebenezer named his daughter Zela. It is interesting that James George Taylor named his daughter Zela, after his Aunty in Nova Scotia, and his son Horace Wentworth Taylor - Wentworth was a family name in Nova Scotia.

m.1 JAMES GEORGE TYLER (1827-1911) and JULIA LONG (1837- ~1880) were married 20 Jun 1861, Perth, WA [Reg. 1654], registered under Tyler. The marriage certificate records they were married at the Wesleyan Chapel, Perth, WA. Residence at time of marriage, Gingin, he as a blacksmith, she as a governess. His father was recorded as Mathew Tyler, farmer, her father John Long, gentleman.

m.2 JAMES GEORGE TYLER (1827-1911) was married a second time to m.2 ANNIE LOUISA RICHARDSON (NEE TOOVEY) on the 2 Aug 1882 in Albany, WA [Reg No5274], registered under Tyler. It was recorded that he was a widower.

AUSTRALIA BLACKSMITHS: <http://blacksmiths.mygenwebs.com/australia-1.php#T>

James Tyler Tylor, blacksmith & wheelwright. Born about 1830 as James George Taylor at Country Harbour Nova Scotia. In 1861 he married (1) Julia Long (she was the governess at Gingin, WA). Under the name of Tyler, he worked as a blacksmith. At some point Julia ran off with someone else, we don't know what happened to her? James later married (2) Annie Louise Toovey in 1882 at Albany WA; they used the name Tylor, and still do to this day (even though the correct spelling is Taylor). In 1880 (approx.) James worked as a wheelwright in both Albany & Tenderden WA. Between 1883 & 1892 James & Annie owned a Smithy shop at Eticup (note: Eticup no longer exists; was near to Broomhill WA). After 1892 they moved to Katanning WA where James died in 1911. Annie, the district Midwife, died 1937, Katanning. James is listed in both Blacksmiths of Australia & the Wheelwrights Index.

There are interesting web sites giving the history of Eticup which include mention of Taylor as a blacksmith.

LONG JULIA (1837-1880)

There are a lot of confusing facts and myths that have been recorded about Julie Long. See following, much of this is in doubt and thought to have been untrue.

Julia LONG (widow of Francis Frederick Seed). Said to be daughter of Francisca Calvente-y-Formentar (Marquis de Drach) & H. (nee Browne). She arrived 8.8.1857 (cabin) per City of Bristol and was matron of the women passengers, she became 2nd mistress Perth Girls School, Guildford, WA.

Myths: (widow of Francis Frederick Seed):

Via researcher Irene Doyle: Julia Long was never married to Francis Frederick Seed, he was married to Elizabeth Sarah Graham with 1 child, in England – see in the section on Francis Frederick Seed.

Julia Long said that she was the daughter of John Long and Francisca Calvente-y-Formentor her mother was Sarah Brown. The name Francisca Calvente-y-Formentor was a name from a book from the Spanish islands. It is more than likely the name Victor Emile Etienne came from out of a book she read. They are all French names. Her Parents were English, and so was Francis Seed.

JULIA LONG (1837-~1880) Via Le Nepveu and Tylor Family Tree, Ancestry and Researcher Irene Doyle, Census 1841, 1851.

Julia Long was born in 1837, Westminster St George, Hanover Square, Middlesex, England. Parents: JOHN LONG (1795-) AND SARAH BROWN who were married 12 Sep 1815, London, England.

1859	Perth Girls' - and dismissed as before.
1861	Julia Long left for Gingin to take up the position of schoolmistress, postmistress and that of Mrs George Tyler.

Summary by Irene Doyle:

1857 former teacher at Watford Union School England. Came to Australia under 3-7 years contract with the colonial government. Within two months of her appointment to the position of second Mistress Fremantle Girls', Miss Long was suspended for befriending ticket of leave man George Tyler.

1858 – Re-Appointed to the Fremantle Girls'-and dismissed within two months.

1859 Perth Girls'-and dismissed as before George Tyler.

1861 Julia Long left for Gingin to take up position of Schoolmistress, postmistress and that of Mrs George Tyler.

NOTE: There is no mention in the teacher's report of Francis Frederick Seed. Julia went under the name Julia Long. She was cohabitating with George Tyler.

Irene continues: In 1864 Julia Long ran off and left James (George). I can't find her anywhere. James met Annie in Mt Barker WA where they had a Blacksmith shop then moved to Etipup and again started a Smithy Shop and Carpenter. It closed down then they moved to Katanning where Annie was the Midwife in that district and James a Blacksmith.

Julia Long moved from Perth to Gingin and according to WA registration records she and Francis Frederick Seed had a child in 1860. Frances Frederick Seed died the same year. More on this following:

SEED, FRANCIS FREDERICK (1832-1860) Convict Via Badder Clerk Family Tree, Ancestry.

Francis Frederick Seed was born about 1832, baptised 15 Jul 1832, Kirkby, Lonsdale, Westmorland, England. Parents: m.1 FRANCIS FREDERICK SEED (1803-1890) and AGNES DIXON (1801-) who were married 12 Aug 1827.

FRANCIS FREDERICK SEED (1832-1860) married ELIZABETH SARAH GRAHAM 29 Sep, 1853, Gretna Hall, Dumfries, Dumfries Shire, Scotland.

Convict Francis F Seed, aged 22 years was tried in Lancaster, convicted in Aug 1854, transported on the Runnymede and arrived in WA in 1856. Status: married with one child.

CONVICT: FRANCIS FREDERICK SEED (1832-1860)

Convicted at Lancashire Assizes, Sentence term 15 years, Ship Runnymede, Departure Date 11th Jun, 1856, Arrival date 7th Sep 1856, Place of arrival, WA.

ACCORDING TO WA REGISTRATION OF BIRTH RECORDS:

JULIA LONG (1837- ~1880) AND FRANCES FREDRICK SEED (1832-1860) HAD A CHILD IN 1860:

1. VICTOR EMILE ETIENNE TEEDE / SEED (1860-1933) *Frederick

It is thought due to handwriting, Teed has been translated from Seed. *Assuming this is the same child, his name became Frederick Tyler when Julia married James George Tyler.

WA Births registration: <https://bdm.justice.wa.gov.au/apps/pioneersindex/default.aspx>

Teede	Victor	Francis	Long	Gingin	5216	1860
	Emile	TEEDE	Julia
	Etienne

Victor Emile Etienne Teede / Seed / Tyler was born 1860. Gingin, WA [Reg. 5216], registered as Victor Emile Etienne TEEDE, father, Francis, mother, Julia Long.

FRANCIS FREDERICK SEED (1832-1860) died 12 Dec 1860, WA [Reg. 1674], aged 30 (28) years. Place not recorded.

Shortly after the death of Francis Frederick Seed, Julia married James George Tyler.

Note: The child's name was recorded under the surname of Teede (mistaken for Seed). The child was named Victor Emile Etienne (sounds French), no mention of the name Frederick. Frances Frederick Seed died in December in the year the child was born.

One does wonder why the child following the marriage of James and Julia was named Frederick Tyler. Perhaps he was named in honour of Frances Frederick Seed following his death. This is all speculation.

No wonder "Frederick Tyler" as he was renamed after her marriage to James Tyler was later unable to provide proof of his birth. (This sad but fascinating story to follow further on in his own section.)

The following summary and comments re convict Seed. Courtesy researcher Irene Doyle:

Name:	Francis Frederick Seed
Birth Year:	abt 1831
Age:	30
Registration Year:	1861

Colony:		sickness - TB Phthisis
Place of Conviction:	Lancashire, England	Discharged by order 1858-1859 to 1860
Francis Seed		death -12 Dec 1860
Date:	25 Feb 1858
Record Type:	Convict Establishment, Fremantle Casual Sick
Reference Number:	ACC 1156/CS6-CS8

Via Researcher Irene Doyle: Therefore, I don't believe Frederick Seed was the father of Frederick Tyler. He was ill with TB Phthisis in 1858 and died 12 Dec 1860. Frederick was born May 1860 and his baptism was on the 26 Jul 1860 aged five months making Julia to have conceived Fred about Sept 1859. According to the Teachers report, she was with James Tyler. They didn't have a cure for TB in 1860.

Irene Doyle continues:

I spoke to a family member from England that told me Francis Frederick Seed died in Vasse in 1860 where he was working as an accountant. Julia was at the Fremantle Girls School in 1858 then at the Perth Girls School in 1859, she was single until she married James in 1861, she was with James in 1857-1861.

Going by the School report and the fact that Frederick Seed was living in Vasse where he died, I would say she lied about her relationship with him, to cover up that she was not having a relationship with George Tyler and I believe that Frederick Tyler was James' son. So, the widow thing was to save face that she had a child out of wedlock and so she could get the position as School mistress in Gingin.

Julia deserted James George and the children in 1864 and also lied about who her parents were, as I found her brother and his family on the same boat that she came out on. No Marques in the family on both sides. Both names were used as an escape goat. She must have known or heard of a Francis Seed, an accountant or James knew of him.

JULIA LONG (1837-~1880) and JAMES GEORGE TYLER (1827-1911) were married 20 Jun 1861, Perth, WA [Reg. 1654]. Registered under Tyler.

This article shows Julia, now known as Mrs Tyler teaching in Gingin in Sep 1862.

Gingin.
(From a Correspondent.)

On Monday the 18th ult., the inhabitants of Gingin and its vicinity were enlivened by a festival, held to commemorate the inauguration of the first School opened in the district.

Under the energetic superintendence of the Chaplain pro tem. the Rev. G. Sadler, the proceedings commenced with Service in the new Church at noon, at the conclusion of which a procession of children of all ages, headed by two of the eldest girls bearing a banner, then marched from the Church to a field at a short distance, procured for the occasion, where tables loaded with refreshments of various kinds were provided by the liberality of the neighbouring settlers.

The scene soon wore a most lively aspect as the visitors to the number of about 130 dispersed over the field and began playing at cricket, football, quoits, skittles, &c. The day was as fine as could be wished, and the merry makers did not disperse until sundown.

On the following morning the scholars assembled for business, and numbered about 20, as a beginning. There is every reason to hope that under the kind and attentive teaching of their mistress Mrs. Tyler the class-roll will soon be considerably augmented.

In 1854 John York set up post office at Creaton, becoming the first postmaster and Registrar, until 1863. Mrs Tyler, the policeman's wife, and school mistress who lived near the police paddock in the establishing town, became post mistress, and in 1864 John Cockram was contracted for the monthly mail delivery. In 1881 Mrs Hackett was Postmistress, with mail distributed through the Police station.*

Note: Was Mr Tyler a policeman at that time?

JULIA LONG (1837- ~1880) AND JAMES GEORGE TYLER (1836-1937) HAD ONE CHILD:

1. ZELA MATILDA GERTRUDE TYLER (1862-1921)

Zela Matilda Gertrude Tyler was born 27 Dec 1862 in Gingin, WA [Reg. 6815]. Julia and James George Tyler now had two children, Frederick and Zela. Following the Zela and James' marriage, Victor Emile Etienne Teede / Seed took on the name of Frederick Tyler.

As very little children, Zela and Frederick lived with their parents in Gingin. Their mother was teaching and their father working as a blacksmith. Sadly, their parents split up. Their mother met someone else and left in 1864.

https://www.wikitree.com/wiki/Space:James_George_Tylor_101_-_History_Tree

James George Tyler was a Blacksmith at Gingin 1860s where his wife was recorded as a schoolteacher and postmistress 1863-1864. She is reported to have left Gingin suddenly in 1864 (ran off with someone).

It was said she went to Bunbury and drowned. We do not have details re her death.

James Tyler must have found it very difficult coping with two small children after Julia left. When Zela was just a small child, she was given to a couple who did not have any children of their own. They brought her up and she took on the name of Taylor.

Geoff Blechynden commented:

There is a bit of confusion about the names TYLER and TAYLOR.

My understanding is, Zela was brought up as a child by Mr. & Mrs. Joseph Taylor of "Condinup" farm at Dinninup, (easy walking distance from "Bellside") so became Zela Taylor.

It is important to know more about Zela's new parents and their life in Dinninup.

Elizabeth Blechynden has written and compiled an excellent book which tells the story of Dinninup and the early settlers in the district, including Joseph Taylor and the three Blechynden brothers, George, James and Edwin.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245 Written and Compiled by E. Blechynden, pg.1

Such was the history of the first settlers of Dinninup. Joseph Taylor is said to be the first settler in the Dinninup district but his brother John had already settled in York and married Ann Draper whose family had come to W.A. in 1830. He returned to England to bring more of his family to W.A., Joseph being one of them. Joseph wandered down to the Blackwood area and took up "Condinup" in 1880 and Ann Taylor's two Draper nephews followed Joseph soon after. Joseph married Mildred Teede and her brother and sister came to settle in the area as well. Likewise, Harrison Blechynden came to W.A. in 1830, married a fellow passenger on the "Minstrel" and went to Beverley to raise a large family. One of his sons, John, travelled to Bridgetown and again had a large family of nine sons and three daughters who spread throughout the Blackwood district – three coming to Dinninup. Other families such as the Chambers brothers and the Bilstons followed, coming from the eastern states via Kalgoorlie and the gold rush.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245, pgs. 25-27

pg. 25: It is recorded that Joseph's brother John Taylor came to WA on the "Sterling" and to York in 1841. He married Ann Draper in York in 1846, John Taylor died 13 May 1890, York, WA [Reg. 231], aged 69 years.

JOHN TAYLOR married ANN DRAPER (1821-1890) 1846, Perth WA [Reg. 194]. Many years later Zela worked for the Draper family.

pg. 25, 26: Joseph Taylor came out on the "Lady Amhurst" in 1856. Joseph went to John's property "Yangedine" in York, then in 1875 he was described as "a Blackwood sheep farmer" and in 1880 he selected land in that area. He married Mildred Mary Teede in 1866 and with them they brought up Zela, an adopted daughter.

JOSEPH TAYLOR married MILDRED MARY TEEDE (1844-1907) 1866, Beverley, WA [Reg. 2450].

Zela would have been about 4 years of age when they came to Dinninup and Joseph and Ann and built their house at 'Condingup'.

pg. 25: The first settler to arrive in the Dinninup area is considered to be Joseph Taylor, who selected land in 1880 and initially named it "Cundingup", then "Condingup".

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245, pg. 25, Mr & Mrs Joseph Taylor of Condingup

Irene Doyle wrote the following:

With Joseph Taylor, it was not a real adoption, only an expression of love as they had no children of their own. Joseph Taylor is related to my grandmother Mary Elizabeth Draper who married Albert George James Tylor / Taylor, Zela's half- brother. Mary E Draper's father was Robert James Draper and her father's sister was Ann Draper. She married Joseph's Brother John Taylor; Zela went to work for Joseph and his wife through the Draper family.

Mr & Mrs Joseph Taylor of Condingup

Zela's Husband George Blechynden killed himself after Zela Died (from the Book Suicides and Settlers). Zela also worked as a postmistress as did Julia Long. Frederick Tyler Zela's Brother has a real story to tell, very sad as well. I have been writing a book on him he was a Policeman that found corruption in the force and was mistreated badly.

Via Geoff Blechynden: "This is where my grandmother Zela Taylor grew up. The roof behind the tall tank stand is the older of the two houses. When the Blackwood River flooded in 1981 an empty tank on the tank stand in front of the house floated off the stand."

ZELA MATILDA TAYLER (1862-1921), married GEORGE HARRISON BLECHYNDEN (1862-1937) 25 May 1896, in Condingup, WA [Reg. 5], registered under Zela Matilda Taylor.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245, pg.27, pp1: The Taylors left after 15 or so years and Joseph appears to have become a police constable and gaoler in Bunbury from 1895-1898 before his death in 1899.

pg. 3: In 1895, "Condingup" was taken over by Gerald (Paddy) Meagher, who stayed until about 1917.

Joseph Taylor died 28 Apr 1899, at his residence, Cundinup, Blackwood, (his death registered in Bunbury), WA [Reg. 21] aged 62 years. Mildred M Taylor died 1907, Wellington WA [Reg. 25].

The Late Mr. Joseph Taylor — The funeral of the late Mr. Joseph Taylor took place at Bunbury on Sunday, the 30th April, in the Church of England cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Jas. Moore, J.P., W. B. Mitchell, Wallace Prosser and John Gibbs. A large number of friends and principal residents of Bunbury attended the funeral, and many friends sent wreaths. The Rev. A. Buchanan, brother-in-law of deceased, officiated, and the mortuary arrangements were carried out in a satisfactory manner by Messrs. J. and H. Gibbs. Mr. Taylor, who was 62 years of age, died, as was reported in our last issue, at his residence, Cundinup, Blackwood, on Friday last, after an illness of about 18 months. He was born at Benton in Oxford, England, and came to the colony in 1856 in the ship Lady Amhurst, with his four brothers John, Charles, Samuel and George, and four sisters. His only surviving brother is Mr. Samuel Taylor, of York. His two surviving sisters are Mrs. Herrold and Mrs. Butler. He resided at Beverley for about 6 years, at Mount Pleasant in the Williams district for about 5 years, and at Cundinup, Blackwood, up to the time of his death, carrying on business as a successful farmer and grazier. He was married in 1866 to Mildred Mary, the eldest daughter of Mr. G. R. Teede, of York.

PASSING OF A PIONEER

KATANNING, Feb. 8.—Mrs Annie Louisa Tylor one of the oldest known State born pioneers of the lower great Southern districts died on Monday of last week, aged 86 years.

Deceased was a daughter of the late John Toovey, who came to Western Australia in the early forties, and was born at the family's old home at Guildford. Subsequently she moved with her parents to Kojonup, where Mr Toovey conducted the stage-coach plying between Katanning and the southern port. She lived at Tenterden, Etipup, Cranbrook, Lake Matilda, Broomehill and Etipup, and latterly at Katanning.

From her family of nine children there are 45 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. Her husband, the late James Tylor, predeceased her in 1910. Right up to the end Mrs. Tylor was in full possession of her faculties, being able to write letters, read the newspapers and converse on topical matters.

NEWS AND NOTES.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Joseph Taylor, Cundinup, Blackwood, when Zela Matilda, the adopted daughter of Mr. Taylor, was united in matrimony to George Harrison, third son (Ed. should be second son) son of Mr. John Blechynden, Bridgetown. A large party of relatives and friends sat down to a sumptuous luncheon at 1 p.m. The marriage ceremony took place at 3.30 p.m. and was performed by the Rev. A. Buchanan. The bride was very tastefully dressed in pale blue cashmere trimmed with ribbon, lace and orange blossoms, the bridesmaid Miss E. Buchanan, in salmon and cream crepon. The bride was given away by Mr. J. Taylor. Mr. James Blechynden acted as groom's man. Refreshments were handed round after the ceremony. The health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the Rev. A. Buchanan, the bridesmaids by Mr. A. Teede, and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, by Mr G. Hester. The happy couple drove off soon after amid the usual shower of rice, etc.

Miss Florence Armstrong was the first Head teacher. The school temporarily closed in its first year due to being "Beyond reach of pupils" but parents appealed for its reopening and from Feb 1903 Miss Bertha Johnson as the teacher, her salary being £100 per annum. The school catered for 20 children. The Blechynden children from 'Bellside', Dora, Violet, Bruce and Marguerite and Mabel, Ellen, Myra, Hubert and Charles from 'Springfield' are recorded as having attended.*

Dinninup Annual Fete.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS TREE.

The annual Xmas tree was held at Dinninup Hall on December 12, there being a splendid gathering. Mr. R. Bilston (chairman), before declaring the tree open, stated that it would be Mrs. G. Blechynden's last tree, as she was resigning from the position of organiser, which she had capably and kindly filled for twenty years past. The programme for the evening was the National Anthem, songs by school children ("Friends again"), song by Mrs. G. Blechynden and Miss Allen ("A Farewell"). Great praise is due to Miss Allen and others who helped to make the evening such a success especially "Father Christmas," who came in with a wonderful smile to greet all the little children, and they were not disappointed with the presents he brought them. It is hoped that he will continue to come to the hall every year.

Dancing was kept up till three o'clock, Mr. Sinnott kindly acting, as M.C. The proceeds of the evening amounted to -£16 12s. 5d., and not £9 9s. as previously reported.

Since the evening Mrs. George Blechynden was very pleased to receive ten letters from the Dinninup school children in appreciation of the pleasant evening spent, which they considered was the best to date.

Obituary

Mrs. Z. M. Blechynden.

It is with feelings of deep regret that we chronical the death on Apr 17, of Mrs. Zela M. Blechynden, of "Bellside," Dinninup. The deceased lady was highly esteemed by everyone and loved by the children of the district. Her end was not unexpected, and it was well known that Mrs. Blechynden was suffering for many months past with a painful illness borne with great fortitude. Her gentle and kind nature and sunny disposition endeared her to all. Her effort in connection with all charitable matters were well and widely known, and in Church matters Mrs. Blechynden could never work too hard. By some the deceased was called "the mother of the school." To her, all school children were alike, and for very many years Mrs. Blechynden's Xmas tree break-up of the school for Christmas vacation was always looked forward to, as part of the business of young and old alike.

It was her pride that some fourteen or fifteen of her boys had enlisted. In sickness, no indisposition of the weather prevented her from rendering her valuable assistance. Whether accident or sickness, Mrs. Blechynden's able attendance and soothing presence did much towards promoting recovery. As she was termed "the mother of the school," so should she be rightly called "the lady with the lamp." The funeral was the largest seen in the district, people coming from anywhere the sad news had reached. The cortege was quite half a mile long. When passing the school where the school flag was flying half mast, the children came out carrying flowers and marched in procession with the teacher to the new cemetery, Mrs. Blechynden having expressed a wish to be buried there. The pallbearers were. . . The chief mourners were Mr. G. Blechynden (husband), Dora and Margaret (daughters), Bruce (son), Mr. James Blechynden, Mr. John Blechynden, Miss Blechynden, Mrs Arthur Blechynden, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Blechynden, Mr and Mrs. E Blechynden.

It was a sad time for the family with the passing of Zela. Dora was aged 24 years, Violet 23 years, Bruce 21 years and Margaret 17 years.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245, pg.66:

The owner of neighbouring Bellside, George Harrison Blechynden bought the property from Jack Flynn in 1921. His son, Bruce married in 1929 and moved into the Bellside homestead so George moved into a new house above the poplar trees at that time. He resided here until his death with his daughter Margaret.

Note: The new home was on 'Creave Lea' adjacent to 'Bellside' and belonged to the family as well at that time. The 'Bellside' home is still standing but not the second house. George Harrison never got over the death of his wife.

George Harrison Blechynden died on 30 Aug 1937 in Dinninup, (Blackwood), WA. [Reg No. 60]. He was buried in 1937 in Dinninup Cemetery, Dinninup, WA.

FARMER FOUND SHOT.

BOYUP BROOK, Aug. 30. —Mr. George Blechynden, one of the oldest established farmers of the Dinninup district, was found shot early this morning. Death, which had apparently been instantaneous, had been caused by a charge from a shotgun fired through the head. The deceased, who was 74 years of age, had lately been in poor health.

Cutting from May Blechynden's Album.

LATE MR. G. H. BLECHYNDEN

The remains of Mr. George Harrison Blechynden, of "Bellside," Dinninup, were buried at the Dinninup Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon last at 1 p. m. The late Mr Blechynden who was born in Perth, settled on his present farm at Dinninup approximately fifty years ago, he and his brother James being among the first settlers on the Dinninup Brook. In 1896 he married Miss Zela Taylor; the ceremony being performed at "Condinup" and has resided in the district ever since. His wife predeceased him some sixteen years ago and until his son Bruce married, he lived with his family. Mr Blechynden later built another house on the property and resided with his daughter Miss Margaret Blechynden.

The Rev. Dunbar of Lablache, officiated at the graveside where a large number of friends were gathered.

MR. GEO. BLECHYNDEN

The death occurred on Monday morning of Mr. George Blechynden, of Dinninup, at the age of 74. Although the circumstances of his passing were pathetic, there is the consolation that another sufferer has gone where the pains of the body are lulled to rest.

Well known and widely respected, one of a long line of pioneers of the Upper Blackwood and Bridgetown districts, the old gentleman will be missed from Dinninup as his brother John was missed from Bridgetown. So let us forget life's tragedies, and look beyond to a happier reunion with those who have gone before, a panacea to the sorrows of those who are left to mourn.

To his son Bruce, his daughters Margaret, Violet and Dora, and to his brothers and sisters, we join with the whole district in sympathy.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, August 31, leaving his late residence at Dinninup at 12.30 p.m. and proceeded to the Anglican portion of the Dinninup cemetery where the remains were interred. The Rev. W. D. C. Dunbar officiated at the graveside.

Pallbearers were Messrs. R. Byron, R McKenzie, Y. Beatty, W. Draper, A. Abel and J. Harrison.

The chief mourners were the daughters Dora and Violet (Perth), Margaret, (son) Bruce; brothers, Ernest, Bob, Alfred.

Floral tributes from Clara and Arthur, Dorothy and Reub, Mr. and Mrs. Neal, Thelma and Edna, Charles and Hubert, Abel family, loving sister, Jim and M. Fox, S. Tuckey, Bob, Bessie and family, all at Rose Cottage, Margery, Pam and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Crouchley, Dinninup school children, Maude and Youle, all at Bayndup, Mr. and Mrs. R. Byron, May, Mr. and Mrs. F. Gibbs and family, Wilfred and Ivy, uncle Ern and aunt Agnes, Lorna and Reg, Whistler and family.

Funeral directors were W. Brittain and Son, Bunbury.

Dinninup

Miss Violet Blechynden and Miss Hilda Draper held a Xmas concert and dance on the 1st January at the hall in aid of Children's Fund. There was a fairly good attendance of children and adults considering the short notice given. Thanks are due to those who helped to make the evening pleasant, which was opened by singing the National Anthem, played by Miss Tilly Draper. Then Mr Geo. Chidgzy (chairman) distributed the prizes, which was the real treat of the evening to the children. Mrs S. Gibbs and Miss Barr, and Mr. R. Bilston and Mr Vern Chidgzy kindly assisted with music; Mr S. Gibbs, doorkeeper; Mr Percy Chidgzy, M.C.; Recitation by Miss Myra Blechynden, "Santa Claus"; duet by Miss Marguerite and Miss Mabel Blechynden, "Osborn Quad rille"; song by Miss Ethel Sambell, "He Wipes the Tear from every Eye", song by Miss Thompson (Fremantle), "Little Grey Home in the West" and "Till the Boys Come Home," the audience joining in the chorus recitation by Mr Douglas Chidgzy, "A Shilling a Day." Although times are hard £1 5s was collected, and when expenses are paid £2 odd will be handed to the Children Fund, the committee having £1 in hand already. Great praise is due to the young ladies for the way everything was carried out.

THE VERY SAD STORY OF ZELA'S BROTHER, FREDERCK TYLER

VICTOR EMILE ETIENNE TEEDE / SEED (1860-1933) Frederick Tyler

As mentioned previously, it is thought due to handwriting, Teede has been translated from Seed. Victor Emile Etienne Teede / Seed was born 1860. Gingin, WA [Reg. 5216]. Registered as Victor Emile Etienne TEEDE, father, Francis, mother, Julia Long.

Shortly after the death of Francis Frederick Seed, Julia married James George Tyler. Victor's name then became Frederick Tyler.

Irene Doyle wrote: On the left is a photo of John Taylor and wife from Nova Scotia, related to James George Taylor, son Fred Tyler on the right, they look alike. I think Fred is James' son FREDERICK TYLER (1860-1933) married ROSANNA SARAH SMITH (1861-1912), 1 Aug 1886, Perth, WA [Reg. 6283], registered as Frederick Tyler. They did not have any children.

SMITH, ROSANNA SARAH (1861-1912) was born 1861, Perth WA [Reg. 5727]. Parents: John Eugene Walker Smith and Mary Ann Walker. Rosanna Tyler died 1912, Perth, WA [Reg. 721]. On her headstone is written, "She died of a broken heart."

Via family notes:

Julia Tyler had a son, Fred Tyler. He served in the Police Force for a period of 24 years. He used to visit once a year from Bunbury. In 1907 he was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment for shooting at Police Commissioner Hare – see further on in chapter. When he died, his property was lost to the government as they had no birth certificate to prove Fred's identity.

FREDERICK TYLER IMPRISONED FOR SHOOTING POLICE COMMISSIONER HARE, 1907:

In 1907, it must have been an extremely worrying time when Zela's brother, Frederick Tyler, was up before the courts for shooting at Police Commissioner Hare: He was sentenced for 10 years imprisonment.

The anxiety and worry Zela experienced over her brother Frederick Tyler's trial and imprisonment, and the gratitude she felt for those who had spoken up for him are expressed in the dignified letter she wrote on 6 June from Upper Blackwood to the editor of the West Australian newspaper.

SHOOTING AT POLICE COMMISSIONER HARE.

FREDERICK TYLER ON TRIAL.

THE ACCUSED GIVES EVIDENCE.

. . . The indictment set forth that on Apr 23, 1907, Tyler, with intent unlawfully to kill one Frederick Arthur Hare, discharged a loaded firearm, viz., a revolver, at him; and, further, that on Apr 23, 1907, at Perth, Tyler, with intent to do some grievous bodily harm to one Frederick Arthur Hare, unlawfully attempted to strike the said Frederick Arthur Hare with a projectile, viz., a bullet.

Tyler, when asked to plead, said: "I plead guilty to firing a revolver, and can show cause; I am not guilty of any intent." . . .

Before calling evidence Mr. Barker informed the jury that Tyler had served in the police force of this State for a period of 22 years. He had risen to the rank of corporal. In 1901, when stationed at Pingelly, he became involved in a series of complaints, charges, and counter-charges with Inspector Newlands. Investigations which followed showed that the whole of the conduct of Newlands did not meet with the approval of the Commissioner. A board of inquiry was appointed, and in April, 1905, Tyler was charged before this board with making unfounded complaints against his superior officer and with gross insubordination. He was fined 30s., reduced to the rank of a first-class constable, and was removed

SHOOTING AT POLICE COMMISSIONER HARE.

FREDERICK TYLER ON TRIAL.

THE ACCUSED GIVES EVIDENCE.

In the Criminal Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Burnside and a jury, Frederick Tyler was arraigned on a charge of shooting at Police Commissioner Hare. Mr. Barker appeared for the prosecution, and the accused conducted his own defence.

The indictment set forth that on April 23, 1907, Tyler, with intent unlawfully to kill one Frederick Arthur Hare, discharged a loaded firearm, viz., a revolver, at him; and further, that on April 23, 1907, at Perth, Tyler, with intent to do some grievous bodily harm to one Frederick Arthur Hare, unlawfully attempted to strike the said Frederick Arthur Hare with a projectile, viz., a bullet.

Tyler, when asked to plead, said:—"I plead guilty to firing a revolver, and can show cause; I am not guilty of any intent." The Associate having reminded him that he could challenge any of the jurymen as they came to be sworn, accused said:—"So long as there is no relation or connection of Mr. Fred Hare called I will not have any objection to any of them. I only ask that any gentlemen related or connected with Mr. Fred Hare will say so."

Before calling evidence Mr. Barker informed the jury that Tyler had served in the police force of this State for a period of 22 years. He had risen to the rank of corporal. In 1901, when stationed at Pingelly, he became involved in a series of complaints, charges, and counter-charges with Inspector Newland. Investigations which followed showed that the whole of the conduct of Newland did not meet with the approval of the Commissioner. A board of inquiry was appointed, and in April, 1906, Tyler was charged before this board with making unfounded complaints against his superior officer and with gross insubordination. He was fined 30s., reduced to the rank of a first-class constable, and was removed from the charge of the Pingelly station. Almost immediately after the decision of the board had been made known to him Tyler telegraphed his decision of the board had been made known to him Tyler telegraphed his resignation. Since then Tyler had been endeavouring to secure a rehearing of his case, and eventually Mr. Roe, the Police Magistrate, was appointed to investigate the matter. He upheld the finding of the board of inquiry. That decision was communicated to Tyler in February last, and it seemed to have affected him considerably. One letter which he wrote indicated that he was determined to take some drastic steps to have full publicity given to his case. He stated that he would have the matter investigated in one court or another. He had also indulged in conversation indicating his intention of taking some violent action. Mr. Barker then related how Tyler went to Commissioner Hare's office and fired two shots at him. The circumstances were given full publicity recently in the "West Australian."

Evidence was given by Police Commissioner Hare, in which he again recounted his experiences with Tyler in his office. Accused, during lengthy cross-examination of the witness, sought to show that while in charge of the Pingelly station he had requisitioned for supplies, and had not received them; that he had been confined to his room through an accident at Pingelly, and that in consequence of his not being relieved by another officer his wife had to perform his office and stable duties. The witness stated that he was not aware whether these matters had been brought before the board of inquiry which had caused the accused to be punished. He added that if accused had requisitioned for supplies they would have been forwarded. He would not swear that the accused had not requisitioned for the supplies. He had not any grudge against accused nor desire for revenge. On the contrary, he had been his best friend. The Police Benefit Fund Board, of which witness was a member, had sat after accused had left the force. The Board had made accused allowance from the fund as a first-class constable, and not as a corporal, for his resignation was received as that of a first-class constable.

His Honor drew the attention of the accused to the fact that the information being drawn out by his cross-examination of the witness had not any bearing on the case before the Court. Even if he was the most unfairly used man in the world that would not justify his attempting to kill any man.

The accused: I did not try to kill anyone.

His Honor: Very well. You should direct your attention to that.

Dr. Hynes related the evidence given by him in the Police Court concerning his having been called to attend Police Commissioner Hare, and from the charge of the Pingelly station. Almost immediately after the decision of the board had been made known to him Tyler telegraphed his resignation. Since then, Tyler had been endeavouring to secure a rehearing of his case, and eventually Mr. Roe, the Police Magistrate, was appointed to investigate the matter, i.e., upheld the finding of the board of inquiry. That decision was communicated to Tyler in February last, and it seemed to have affected him considerably. One letter which he wrote indicated that he was determined to take some drastic steps to have full publicity given to his case. He stated that he would have the matter investigated in one court or another. He had also indulged in conversation indicating his intention of taking some violent action. Mr. Barker then related how Tyler went to Commissioner Hare's office and fired two shots at him. The circumstances were given full publicity recently in the "West Australian."

... Even if he was the most unfairly used man in the world that would not justify his attempting to kill any man. The Accused: I did not try to kill anyone. . .

TELEGRAMS Trial of Ex-Corporal Tyler SOME STARTLING ASSERTIONS.

The trial of Frederick Tyler for having attempted to kill Commissioner Hare was continued this morning. Tyler addressed the jury at length, reciting grievances against the heads of the force. He declared that he was persecuted by Inspector Newland and eventually tried before a Board packed by Inspector Newland, on charges preferred by the latter.

THIRD CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

3. BLECHYNDEN, EDWIN (1864-1936)

Edwin Blechynden was the third child and son to be born to John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green on 1 Aug 1864 in Bridgetown, (Geegelup), WA [Reg. 7985], (recorded as Geejelup under Bletchynden). His grandparents Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden emigrated from Kent England to the newly established Swan River Colony on the Minstrel, 20 Jan 1830. They had ten children, the oldest of which was Edwin's father, John Blechynden. The story of his Beverley pioneering grandparents and his father John Blechynden and mother, Elizabeth Green can be read in their individual chapters.

When Edwin was born his brother, John William was aged three years and George two years. Over the next 19 years, ten more children were added to the family: James born 1866 and Charlotte in 1868. (Sadly, she died in 1869 at the age of 1 year). Arthur was born in 1870, Alfred in 1871, Ernest in 1873 and Herbert in 1876, Amy born 1877, Clarence Henry born 1879, May born 1881 and Ada born 1883. Edwin was aged 19 years when the last baby, Ada was born. Ada died in 1888 at the age of five years. The family was devastated.

Edwin Blechynden

Edwin idolized his older brothers but due to being close in age, he and his younger brother James, became very close and were later to farm together. Their home 'Bridgedale' was now completed and Edwin grew up amongst this very busy and rapidly developing family. Bridgetown was in its very early stages, but over the next few years this quickly changed. He and his brothers and sisters as pioneers of the district were very much a part in its development.

Initially the children were taught by their mother and a teacher, Miss Gardiner, at 'Bridgedale', the Bridgetown School being established on 1 Feb 1870. As with the older boys, Edwin and James were taught to ride and care for horses as soon as they were old enough. Working as a young boy with his father, Edwin quickly learned the skills related to farming.

'SPRINGFIELD', 'BELLSIDE' AND 'ROCKY POOL' - DINNINUP

Book: Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245 written and compiled by E Blechynden: Chapter 5, pg.49.
Three of the nine Blechynden sons, James, George and Edwin came to Dinninup whilst Ernest went to Boyup Brook. George accompanied James to Dinninup and selected land a little closer to Boyup Brook at "Bellside" in 1885. Edwin came to Asplin Siding, "Rocky Pool", on the Blackwood River and Ernest to "Greenfield", Boyup Brook.

George and Edwin Blechynden worked together to help brother James establish himself at Dinninup and later George took up property and named his place 'Bellside'. For a number of years Edwin farmed 'Springfield' with his brother James at Dinninup. He then sold out to James and began developing the property at 'Rocky Pool' which he eventually sold to Mr. T Taylor. He then purchased a small property adjacent to his brother Ernest.

This map shows the properties of 'Springfield', 'Bellside' and 'Rocky Pool'.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245, pg.70.

Edwin Blechynden, James and George's brother took up Rocky Pool in 1885 and built a small cottage. He never married.

... His cottage was a simple single room with a fireplace at one end for cooking and warmth and his bed at the other. When his sister came to visit, he built on another room, the same size and with a fireplace as well.

His death removes of the oldest residents as Mr Blechynden was born in the district. He was the eldest son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, who were among the earliest settlers to arrive in the Nelson district. His was the distinction of being the first child born in the State of West Australian-born parents. He was one of a family of 11, having eight brothers and two sisters, all of whom survive him. The brothers are Messrs, Clarence, Herbert, Alfred and Arthur (of Bridgetown), James and George (of Dinninup), Ernest (of Boyup Brook) and Edwin (who is at present ill in hospital in Perth), and the sisters Misses Amy and May, who resided with the deceased gentleman, who was unmarried. The remains were interred in the family grave in the old Bridgetown cemetery, the last rites being conducted by the Rev. F Davis. All the deceased's family with the exception of Mr Edwin Blechynden were present.

Edwin Blechynden died on 31 Jan 1936 in Perth, WA [Reg. 257].

He was buried on 1 Feb 1936 in Karrakatta Cemetery, Anglican, Karrakatta, WA.

BLECHYNDEN—On January 21, 1936, at Perth, Edwin, third son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden of Bridgetown, loving brother of John (deceased), George, James, Arthur, Alfred, Ernest, Herbert (deceased), Clarence, Amy and May; aged 71 years. At rest.

THE LATE MR. EDWIN BLECHYNDEN

The death occurred at Perth on Friday last, January 31, at the age of seventy-one, of Mr. Edwin Blechynden. The late Mr. Blechynden first settled with Mr. James Blechynden at "Springfield," Dinninup approximately twenty-five years ago, being one of the earliest settlers in that district. He later sold out his portion to his brother and took up the Rocky Pool property which he sold, after developing it to the present owner, Mr. T. Taylor. He then purchased a small property adjacent to Mr. E. C. Blechynden of which he disposed a couple of years ago and since then has resided in Perth. The remains were interred in the Anglican portion of the Karrakatta cemetery.

FOURTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

4. BLECHYNDEN, JAMES 'JIM' (1866-1939) & JOHNSON, BERTHA GODSCHALL (1881-1921)

James 'Jim' Blechynden, was the fourth child and son born to John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green on 29 Jun 1866 in Geegelup, Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 9282], (note, it is spelt Gegelup and Bletchynden on his registration). His father John was the eldest son of ten living children born to Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden who emigrated from Kent England to the newly established Swan River Colony on the Minstrel on 20 Jan 1830. The story of his Beverley pioneering grandparents and his father, John Blechynden, and mother, Elizabeth Green, can be read in their individual chapters.

When James was born, his brother, John William, was aged five years George four years and Edwin two years. Their parents were delighted with four boys and they kept their mother busy from morning until night.

James Blechynden

John William and James Blechynden

Over the next 17 years, nine more children were added to the family. The fifth child, a girl, Charlotte was born in 1868. Sadly, she died in 1869 at the age of one year. Arthur was born in 1870, Alfred in 1871, Ernest in 1873 and Herbert in 1876, Amy born 1877, Clarence Henry born 1879, May born 1881 and Ada born 1883. James was aged 17 years when baby Ada was born. Sadly, Ada died in 1888 at the age of five years.

James was very close to his brothers John, George and Edwin and one can imagine they caused their mother many a headache with their pranks. Initially, the older children were taught at Bridgedale until the opening of the Bridgetown School on 1 Feb 1870. In his teens James joined his brother John and carried the mail from Bunbury to Balbarup on horseback. Like his brothers he was a keen cricket player and became one of the outstanding bowlers of his day.

In about 1884 James took up farming when he purchased 3,000 acres at Dinninup and called the property 'Springfield'. Initially, his brothers George and Edwin came to help him establish his property. Records show he employed 15 Ticket of Leave men in 1886 and 1887. James was only 20 years of age. Over many years he was successful in breeding stud merinos of excellent quality.

James became acquainted with and began to court a young lady by the name of Bertha Johnson. She had recently been the teacher at Dinninup and had taken up the position as the first teacher in Boyup Brook.

BOYUP BROOK: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Boyup_Brook,_Western_Australia

By 1882 there were nineteen families in the area. In 1896 land was set aside for a future town and the Upper Blackwood Road Board district (which became the Shire of Boyup Brook in 1961) was created as a separate local government area. Boyup Brook was declared a town on 9 February 1900. The district had an area of 1,240 square miles (3,200 km²), and in December 1900 an estimated population of 400. Milestones in the town's early history include: the town's first building was opened, a school, with 15 students (1900); a railway line from Donnybrook reached Boyup Brook (1909); the Agricultural Hall was opened (1910); a permanent policeman was assigned to the town, the hotel was opened and the railway line extended from Boyup Brook to Kojonup and Katanning (1911); an official post office was established (1912) (An unofficial post office had existed for three years prior to that); land in the town site was opened for leasing (1914); the Upper Blackwood Soldiers' Memorial Hospital was opened (1924); electricity was generated and distributed within the town site (c. 1930); and the town hall was opened (1936).

DINNINUP: <http://www.mingor.net/localities/dinninup.html>

A small rural centre in the Shire of Boyup Brook, on the Boyup Brook - Arthur Road, approximately 15 kilometres east of Boyup Brook. The town owes its existence to the construction of the Boyup Brook to Kojonup railway line which passed through what is now the townsite in 1908. Dinninup got its name from the nearby Dinninup Brook. Dinninup station was built in 1910. Gazetting of the town followed 5 years later. The railway line and station have now been removed.

First School in Dinninup, built in 1902, at which Bertha Johnson taught.

The first teacher was Miss Florence Armstrong. Bertha Johnson followed her in 1903 (ex Boyup Brook) Bertha married James Blechynden in 1904 and would not have taught thereafter as married women were not allowed to work.

Bertha Godschall Johnson was the first teacher at the Boyup Brook School, opened in 1900 with 14 students. It is believed that she got lost coming from Balingup to Boyup Brook and had to spend the night in the bush. The next day she breakfasted with the Abel family then found her way to the school. Bertha was the second teacher at the small Dinninup School, teaching her younger brother who was much appreciated company for her.

Courtesy of Dan Sayer: Some background info on this one... The postcard was sent by Robert Godschall Johnson to his sister Bertha Johnson - who was married to James Blechynden at Dinninup. Robert had been sent to Gallipoli in 1915 but had been there only one month when he contracted mumps and was sent back to Egypt to recover. A lucky escape, I reckon - although mumps in an adult male is not pleasant! This postcard was sent while he was in a field hospital in Gallipoli. After recovering, he was posted to Egypt, France and the UK until his discharge in Australia in 1920. Robert was awarded the Meritorious Service Medal.

Memory Lane, DINNINUP 6245 written and compiled by E Blechynden: Chapter 5, pg.49.

Three of the nine Blechynden sons, James, George and Edwin came to Dinninup whilst Ernest went to Boyup Brook. George accompanied James to Dinninup and selected land a little closer to Boyup Brook at "Bellside" in 1885. Edwin came to Asplin Siding, "Rocky Pool", on the Blackwood River and Ernest to "Greenfield", Boyup Brook.

This map shows the properties of 'Springfield', 'Bellside' and 'Rocky Pool'.

James and Bertha Blechynden brought up their family on 'Springfield' which quickly developed into a viable farm, James becoming one of the most successful merino sheep and stud breeders in the area.

SPRINGFIELD

SUCCESSFUL DINNINUP STUD

Breeding of High-Class Merino Sheep

The name of Springfield stands high among sheep breeders and wool men generally in this state. Mr. James Blechynden, the owner has devoted considerable time and attention to improving his flock and the results are now apparent in the successes he has obtained of late, in the securing of the highest show awards, in the values obtained for his wool, and in the prices realized for stud stock when submitted to public auction.

At the last Upper Blackwood Show in Class A only, Springfield obtained 13 first prizes, 12 seconds, one champion, a silver cup donated by Mr. F. E. S. Willmott for the highest number of points in the livestock sections, a silver cup donated by Dalgety and Co. for the best locally bred merino ram and a special prize of £2 2s donated by Elder Smith and Co. for the best strong wool ram. Open class.

Paying up to £400 for stud rams from the eastern States and up to £100 for one breed in Mr. Blechynden is now reaping his reward in the prices his stud sheep are now realising and, in the weight, and quality of wool his flock are cutting.

For example, at the last shearing, one of his prize rams cut 30lbs of wool, while 1007 sheep, which included 258 lambs, cut 25 bales of wool weighing 8494lbs, the lambs cutting 237 lbs. Some of his ewes when sold at the recent Katanning stud sales realized up to £6 each.

Although usually securing top prices at the wool sales in recent years, it was decided to ship this year's clip direct to London through Dalgety and Co. It is this close attention to breeding on the part of

SPRINGFIELD

SUCCESSFUL DINNINUP STUD

Breeding of High-Class Merino Sheep

The name of Springfield stands high among sheep breeders and wool men generally in this State. Mr. James Blechynden, the owner, has devoted considerable time and attention to improving his flock and the results are now apparent in the successes he has obtained of late, in the securing of the highest show awards, in the values obtained for his wool, and in the prices realized for stud stock when submitted to public auction.

At the last Upper Blackwood show, in Class A only, Springfield secured 13 first prizes, 12 seconds, one champion, a silver Cup donated by Mr. F. E. S. Willmott for highest number of points in the live stock sections, a silver Cup donated by Dalgety and Co. for the best locally bred merino ram and a special prize of £2 2s. donated by Elder, Smith and Co. for the best strong wool ram, open class.

Paying up to £400 for stud rams from the Eastern States and up to £100 for one breed in Western Australia, Mr. Blechynden is now reaping his reward in the prices his stud sheep are now realising and in the weight and quality of wool his flock are cutting.

For example at the last shearing, one of his prize rams cut 30lbs. of wool, while 1007 sheep, which included 258 lambs, cut 25 bales of wool, weighing 8494lbs., the lambs cutting 237lbs.. Some of his ewes when sold at the recent Katanning stud sales, realised up to £6 each.

Although usually securing top prices at the wool sales in recent years, it was decided to ship this year's clip direct to London through Dalgety and Co. It is this close attention to breeding, on the part of Springfield and other studs, that has increased the average by about 3lbs. per sheep during.

Springfield and other studs, that has increased the average by about 3lbs per sheep during the last 10 years, over the flocks of WA, a progressive spirit which it is hoped will see more widely extended in the future.

James Blechynden was the third Upper Blackwood Road Board Chairman.

The Boyup Brook District High School has three 'houses' named Forrest, Lee Steere and Blechynden after the first three chairmen.

A Willing worker.

Despite his age, 32 ½ years, "Bravo" is still able to draw loads of wood for his owner, Mr. James Blechynden standing alongside, at "Springfield," Dinninup.

DEATH OF BERTHA MAY GODSCHALL BLECHYNDEN (NEE JOHNSON) (1881-1921)

Bertha died on 29 Mar 1921, WA [Reg. 50]. James 'Jim' Blechynden and his family were devastated. The children at this stage were aged approximately as follows: Mabel, 16; Ellen, 15; Myra, 13; Charles, 11 and Hubert, nine. One can imagine the older girls were a great help in the next few years with the younger children. James and Bertha had been married for 16 years.

Dinninup

LATE- MRS JAMES BLECHYNDEN.

Quite a gloom was cast over the district with the sad news that Mrs James Blechynden, of "Springfield," Dinninup, had passed away at St Clair's Hospital, Bunbury. The deceased lady, who was well-known throughout this district for many years, was greatly esteemed and respected by old and young alike. Always to the fore in charitable matters, Mrs. Blechynden's efforts in Red Cross will always be remembered as being mainly responsible for the success of the local branch of that organisation. She leaves many sorrowing friends to sympathise with the bereaved husband and family.

DEATH OF JAMES BLECHYNDEN (1866-1939)

James Blechynden had been for many weeks in the hospital in great weakness before the end came in the early hours of Monday, November 20. A man of deep piety and simple faith, prayer had been his great support in his hours of weakness and weariness, and he was buried from the church on Tuesday, November 21. To his children and his surviving brothers and sister we would offer our sympathy.

OBITUARY

LATE MR. JAMES BLECHYNDEN

The death of Mr. James Blechynden of Dinninup, occurred at the Bridgetown Hospital in the early hours of the morning of November 20, 1939, after a long illness.

The late Mr. Blechynden who was born 73 years ago last May, was the fourth son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden and brother of Mr. E. C. Blechynden of Boyup Brook. He spent his youthful days in and around Bridgetown and when in his teens carried the mail from Bunbury to Balbarup on horseback. The sport he most enjoyed was cricket, being an outstanding bowler of his day.

The late Mr. Blechynden was one of the pioneers of this district, to which he came over fifty years ago, and settled in Dinninup on the property which he named "Springfield". He married the first school teacher at Boyup Brook, Miss Bertha Johnson, who predeceased him by twenty years (ed. 18 years). The Merino stud which he established was highly looked upon by breeders in this and surrounding districts and his stud rams were eagerly sought after. He was a member and successful exhibitor of the Bridgetown and Upper Blackwood shows for many years and was also one of the first members of the Upper Blackwood Road Board on which he served for a great number of years. Three daughters and two sons are left to mourn the loss of a fine gentleman and good farmer.

The funeral took place in the Anglican portion of the Bridgetown Cemetery at 2.30 p.m. last Tuesday, was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Ellen Blechynden

LEE-STEERE—BLECHYNDEN.

A wedding of interest to residents of the Upper Blackwood district was solemnised at St. Paul's Church, Bridgetown, on Tuesday, April 5, when Ellen May, second daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. James Blechynden, of Springfield, Dinninup, was married to Mr. James Lee-Steere, third son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lee-Steere, of Jayes, Boyup Brook. The Rev. F. Davis officiated. The bride, who entered the prettily decorated church on the arm of her eldest brother, Mr. Charles Blechynden, wore a lovely frock of ivory georgette. The long-sleeved bodice fitted closely to the figure, and was finished at the wrists and hips with slightly flared frills. The skirt was fully flared, and reached to the ankles. A beautifully embroidered tulle veil, worn off the face, was arranged to form a train, and held in place with a wreath of orange blossom. A sheaf of white gladioli and fern completed a charming toilette. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Myra Blechynden, who was gracefully frocked in blue floral georgette. Over the sleeveless frock, which reached to the ankles, a smart long-sleeved bolero was worn. Her large picture hat was of beige lace straw, and a bouquet of dahlias was carried. The duties of best man were carried out by Mr. Dudley Parker. After the ceremony Mr. C. Blechynden and Miss A. Blechynden (aunt of the bride), becomingly attired in biscuit crepe de chine with black straw hat, and carrying a bouquet of shaded gold roses, received their guests at Scott's Hotel. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lee-Steere, the latter being smartly dressed in figured georgette of autumn tonings, with hat to match. Her bouquet was of red dahlias and fern. Regret was expressed that the bride's father was not sufficiently recovered from a recent operation to be present. The usual toasts were honored, and later the happy couple left by car for their home at Winninup, the bride going away in a smart ensemble of beige satin, with small felt hat to tone.

3. BLECHYNDEN, MYRA AMY (1908-1999) was born 15 Aug 1908, Wellington, WA [Reg. 351]. She married DUDLEY BETTS PARKER (1908-1977) 28 Aug 1935, Blackwood, WA [Reg. 38]. Myra died 31 May 1999, Boyup Brook, WA.

PARKER-BLECHYNDEN

A wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends was solemnised at the Dinninup Agricultural Hall on Wednesday afternoon, August 28, when Myra, youngest daughter of Mr. James Blechynden, of Dinninup, and the late Mrs Blechynden said "I will" to Dudley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Parker of Perth.

The ceremony was performed by Archdeacon Burbidge and the hall was prettily decorated with flowers.

DUDLEY BETTS PARKER (1908-1977) was born 24 Aug 1908, Claremont, WA [Reg. 28]. Service Number - W70795, Place of enlistment - BOYUP BROOK, WA. Dudley died 17 May 1977, Bridgetown, WA.

loss of Myra Parker.

MYRA PARKER, daughter of James and Bertha Blechynden passed away in Boyup Brook on May 31. She was a sister to Mabel Sambell, Ellen Lee-Steere and Charles and Hubert Blechynden.

Myra's mother Bertha, was the first teacher in Boyup Brook and Dinninup Schools while her father James, established the farm "Springfield," where Richard and Liz Blechynden farm today.

Town's mourning the loss of Myra Parker

MYRA Parker, daughter of James and Bertha Blechynden passed away in Boyup Brook on May 31. She was a sister to Mabel Sambell, Ellen Lee-Steere and Charles and Hubert Blechynden.

Myra's mother, Bertha, was the first teacher in Dinninup and Boyup Brook schools while her father, James, established the farm "Springfield" where Richard and Liz Blechynden farm today.

Myra's mother died when she was 12 and her elder sister had to be "mother".

Myra first attended school at Dinninup and then continued her education at Bunbury.

Her dream was to become a teacher but was never realised due to the belief that girls didn't need a good education.

She came home to the farm to allow her sister to attend school.

Making butter, garments, washing, meals all had to be done without the mod cons of today. The jobs were shared and each child developed skills beyond their years to maintain a happy home.

Myra married Dudley Parker in 1935 and moved to Mayanup where they developed a farm together.

Firstly with dairy cattle and then later, sheep and cropping and in particular, Flax.

Their family consisted of Melissa, Hedley (dec), Daniel, Neville, Anthea and Cedric.

They were strong members of the Mayanup Community. Myra combined a family, the farm and also joined Red Cross, the CWA and attended the local Anglican Church.

The Mayanup Race Club allowed them the honour of breeding and training the cup winner, Langley Lass, named after their farm.

In later years, she travelled to USA to see her younger son who was on a RAAF exchange.

With her life long friend, Alison Inglis, they cruised the Pacific and shared a friendship built on trust and happiness.

In December 1997, Myra moved to the 'Citizens' Lodge in Boyup Brook.

Her lifetime on the farm had spanned nearly 90 years although it had been a hard but rewarding life.

Her family had been given the privilege of having her for so long.

Her belief that she had lived in a caring community in Boyup Brook was re-assuring as she closed her eyes and was re-united with her Dudley.

It would have been their 64th wedding anniversary on August 28.

BLECHYNDEN-SWINEY

The marriage was solemnised at "Franklands," at 6.30p.m., on Saturday, August 31, of Hubert John, younger son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Blechynden of "Springfield," Dinninup, to Beatrice Clare, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. A. Swiney of "Frankland," Frankland River. The Rev. R. W. Laurie officiated. The alter was arranged with white rosebuds and hyacinths.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a beautiful frock of ivory satin, the corsage fashioned with a heart shaped neck and long sleeves ending in a point over the wrists and a long full circular skirt. The top of the sleeves were finished with quilted embroidery to match similar trimming at the neck-line. Her long tulle veil was held in place with a semi-circlet, of white camellias, and she carried a bouquet of pale pink lupins. . .

EMBROIDERED NAMES – CUSHION COVER

Julie Birch wrote:

“My grandmother – Trixie’s sister - used this embroidered chair covering to make a cushion cover many years ago. It was discovered under another cover on a very old cane chair. From memory it was made by a CWA group. Each lady (some men too) did their own name. It would have been done in the 1920s or 30 s when they were young farmers wives.”

Captain Soot AND THE FAIRIES. SPLENDID DINNINUP CANTATA.

A very successful and enjoyable function in the form of a children's concert organised by the teacher of the Dinninup school (Mrs. Williams) writes our correspondent, took place in the Dinninup Hall on Friday evening, April 23. Although the weather was somewhat inclement, a large number of people attended and one and all were highly pleased with the very creditable performance of the children on the whole, whilst in some instances the items were rendered in a manner that must have been very satisfactory to the teacher who, without a doubt for the efficient, manner in which the children trained.

Among the many items staged, the cantata "Soot and the Fairies," takes pride of place. The stage was artistically arranged as a woodland glen in Fairyland, and the dresses of the fairies themselves made an attractive and beautiful display.

Following was the concert programme: Overture, Mrs. Williams; Prologue, Eileen Beatty and Walter Gibbs; Recitation, "Peppermint," Allan Williams; Song, "There is music more melodious," Company; Dialogue, "Pious," May Gibbs, Eileen Beatty, Gladys Draper; Recitation, "Selfishness," Colin Chidzey; Song, "Granny," Cyril Beatty and company; Recitation, Joan Dabbs and Shirley Chidzey; Dialogue, Crooked Answers, Hubert Blechynden and company; Recitation, Joyce Chidzey; Song ("The Chinaman," A. Blechynden and company; Recitation "Sixty Years Ago," Kathleen Beatty; Dialogue, "Turned Out," May Gibbs, H. Blechynden and W. Gibbs; Recitation, "What Smith Minor Thinks," Jack Herald; Recitation "Red Thread of Honour," Walter Gibbs; Song, "Whispering Hope," May Gibbs and Eileen Beatty; Recitation "Priest and the Mulberry Tree" Hubert Blechynden; Song, "Upon a Farm," Company; Recitation, "The Tea Party," Kathleen Beatty and company; Cantata, "Soot and the Fairies," Company; Epilogue, May Gibbs, and Hubert Blechynden; Finish "God Save the King," Company.

*Eileen Beatty made a very stately "Queen," and carried off her part to perfection, whilst Hubert Blechynden's impersonation of "Captain Soot" was highly enjoyable. Prizes were awarded to the best all round performers and were won by the following: girls—Eileen Beatty 1st; Joan Dabbs 2nd. Boys Jack Herald 1st; A. Blechynden 2nd. Miss Moira Lyons, of Bunbury, made a very efficient accompanist and with Miss. BOYUP BROOK SHIRE COUNCIL – PIONEERS DAY ADDRESS - GUEST SPEAKER: MR. HUBERT JOHN BLECHYNDEN (Address was actually read by Mr. Richard Blechynden. Hubert and Trixie Blechynden were on an around Australian trip with friends so were unable to attend. Several paragraphs, applicable have been typed out from this article.

The first settler to arrive in the Dinninup District is considered to be Joseph Taylor, who selected land in 1880. . . The property was later taken over by Gerald "Paddy" Meagher and in 1917 was bought by Gerald Lovell and at present is owned by John Giles . . .

Joseph Taylor was followed closely by George Draper in 1882, coming from York . . .

JAMES BLECHYNDEN followed closely on George Draper. He was born at "Bridgedale", the Blechynden House in Bridgetown, and took up 3,000 acres and called the property "SPRINGFIELD". He later married Bertha Johnson, who was the first school- teacher in Boyup Brook. The property is now being farmed by the third generation of Blechyndens.

GEORGE AND EDWIN BLECHYNDEN came to help brother JAMES establish himself at Dinninup and later George took up property and named his place "BELLSIDE". "Denninup Hill", which is now called "Dinninup Hill", east of Dinninup, was another one of the early properties and was run by Edward Lilley, who later leased the place to George Nelson . . .

While on their trip around Australia Hubert and Trixie and their friends went up to the Mt. Gambier lookout over the lake. The effort of getting up there caused Hubert to suffer a heart attack and tragically he died on 13 Aug 1982.

Mr Blechynden, the youngest child of Bertha and James Blechynden, was born at "Springfield", Dinninup, 70 years ago. His life was spent at "Springfield." In 1940 he married Beatrice Clare Swiney, of Frankland, and the couple had four sons —Robert, who died in infancy, Richard, Timothy and Roger. Mr Blechynden was a very popular and well respected resident of the Upper Blackwood district.	Keenly interested in all community activities, he was a great asset to the church, the agricultural society and local sporting clubs, and was a willing helper at local busy bees. Many will remember seeing Mr Blechynden ride his horse Arizona at the Mayanup races. Mr Blechynden, a worthy member of a pioneer family, had a lively sense of humour and was a good neighbour and friend to many. By request the hymns "The Lord is my Shepherd" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were sung during the memorial service as well as "The Lord's Prayer" by local singer David Rees.

FIFTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

5. BLECHYNDEN, CHARLOTTE JANE (1868-1869)

Life for John and Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green) at their home at 'Bridgedale', Bridgetown, was hectic with four energetic sons: John William who had been born in 1861, George Harrison in 1862, Edwin in 1864 and James in 1866. Their father, John Blechynden was the eldest son and child of Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus. Their mother, Elizabeth Jane Green was the third child of George Green and Jane Beacham. Both were from pioneering families who had emigrated to the new Swan River Colony from Kent, England. John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green were married on 23 Feb 1860 in St. George's Cathedral, Perth, WA. The story of this couple and their parents can be read in their individual chapters.

Expecting their fifth child, they were highly delighted with the birth of their first daughter Charlotte Jane Blechynden who was born on 2 Mar 1868, Geejelup (Geegeelup), WA. She was named after her grandmother Charlotte Robus, and Jane was her mother's second name.

She was a beautiful baby and the boys were in awe of this tiny addition to the family. John William was now aged almost 7 years, George 5 ½ years, Edwin 3 ½ and James almost 2 years. They adored their little sister and as she learned to walk, spent much time playing with her and making her laugh.

Elizabeth and John were devastated when their beautiful little daughter, Charlotte Jane Blechynden became ill and died on 17 Jun 1869 aged 15 months. The whole family mourned her loss and she was buried in Jun 1869 in the old Bridgetown Pioneer Cemetery, WA, now a park.

Charlotte is remembered along with her sister Ada and father John on her mother's headstone on the recently restored headstone located on her sister May's gravesite in the Bridgetown Cemetery.

SIXTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

6. BLECHYNDEN, ARTHUR (1870-1941) & CHAPMAN, CLARA AGNES (1869-1961)

Arthur Blechynden was born in Bridgetown, WA, on 2 Apr 1870, [Reg. 12186]. He was baptised 20 Jul 1870 in Bridgetown. Elizabeth and John Blechynden now had five boys: John William almost 9 years, George aged 8 years, Edwin aged 6 years and James aged almost 4 years. He was never to know his sister Charlotte who was born in 1868 and died at the age of 15 months in 1869. By the time Arthur was almost thirteen years another seven children were added to the family: Alfred born in 1871, Ernest Charles born in 1873, Herbert Edward born in 1875, Amy born in 1877, Clarence Henry born in 1879, May born in 1881 and Ada Jane in 1883. The family now totalled 12 children. At this stage his oldest brother John William was aged 22 years. John William, George, Edwin and James were all away from home most of the time working and forming their own lives. Sadly, Ada died on 17 Oct 1888 at the age of 4½. What a sad day for the family when she joined her sister Charlotte and was buried in the Bridgetown Cemetery.

Arthur Blechynden

Arthur's grandparents Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden emigrated from Kent, England to the newly established Swan River Colony on the Minstrel 20 Jan 1830. Arthur's father, John Blechynden, was one of the first white settlers in Bridgetown. He came overland to the Blackwood River from Beverley with Aboriginal guides and in 1858 took up land which later became part of the town site. The story of his Beverley pioneering grandparents and his father John Blechynden and mother, Elizabeth Green can be read in their individual chapters.

Arthur was educated at the Bridgetown Primary School which was opened on 1 Feb 1870. Bridgetown grew steadily throughout the 1870s and by 1879 the town could boast several stores and public houses.

Arthur remembered the virgin forest around Bridgetown being so open that, in his boyhood, he could gallop through the forest at breakneck speed without any need to check his horse. Axes and cross-cut saws were used for clearing at this time. The ring-barked giant trees were left standing to die with the pasture growing around them, or they were stacked up and burnt. Arthur remembered watching, as a young boy, the red glow from the fires burning all around the hills of Bridgetown.

The Blackwood Times recorded a memory of one of Arthur's experiences at the age of thirteen years:

HARDSHIPS RECALLED

When relating his experiences of past years at the Bridgetown Road Board gathering of members and ex-members on Feb 6 Mr. Arthur Blechynden stated that when he was about 13 years of age his father wanted him to take a few sheep to Bunbury and he had to walk the distance. The first night he stayed with Mr. Alf Doust and eventually reached his destination.

ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN (2 Apr 1870 – 3 Oct 1941)

A brief work history compiled by Ken and Angela Blechynden in 1985 from earlier family history discussions they held with Arthur's sons Reuben John and Raymond Arthur Blechynden.

ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN was very much a “BRIDGETOWN” man. He did his schooling in Bridgetown and left at an early age to help his father John grow wool and some wheat at a 200-acre farm called “HILLFARM”, 1 ½ miles south of Bridgetown towards Manjimup. While at “Hillfarm” they did a lot of contract carting of wool etc to Bunbury from Bridgetown with a six-horse wagon team. This was a three-day trip in the late 1880’s and they usually stayed overnight at MULLALYUP and at TRIGWELLS INN in DONNYBROOK. “Hillfarm” was originally run by John. Arthur ran the farm for many years until it was taken over by another part of the family. During their stay at “Hillfarm” they built a small cottage on the farm about 2 ½ miles along the present South Western Highway. The only evidence of the house in 1985 was a solitary fruit tree. Arthur was very competent and experienced with horses and there was apparently more than one night he stayed up all night trying to cure an ill horse.

From ‘HILLFARM’ Arthur leased ALLNUTS farm “WESLINGTON” at BALINGUP for 3 years before moving to “LILLYDALE” farm, 5 miles out of Bridgetown towards Perth. After 6 years “LILLYDALE” was sold to Mr Knight and eventually ended up belonging to the Hesters after whom Hesters Hill was named. In 1901 Arthur opened a general store at the southern end of the main street of Bridgetown. This store and attached residence have since been demolished and a tyre outlet built in its place (opposite SCOTTS TAVERN). After leaving the general store, Arthur had a nearby hardware store for some time. Next Arthur moved to a house called “WOODCOTTAGE” which is one street back from the railway line behind St Paul’s Church in Bridgetown. While at Woodcottage Arthur farmed at YERRAMINUP on the YERRIMINUP RIVER which is a western tributary of the PERUP RIVER.

At YERRAMINUP Arthur bred both cattle and horses on his 6,000-acre lease. He also tried to breed sheep at YERRAMINUP but this was a disaster. He bought 100 special sheep out to the farm but all except one, who hid under a log, were killed by dingoes. His children used to visit him at Yerraminup during school vacation.

Arthur left Yerraminup and leased a property called “Wetcop” on the Blackwood River at Maranup Ford for 5 years. This was a large farm of several thousand acres with 40 acres of orchards.

When he left “Wetcop” Arthur moved to “Lowlands”. A house on the northern outskirts of Bridgetown. He spent the rest of his working life as a sleeper carter/timberman mainly in the Manjimup and Hester area. Arthur eventually retired to Woodcottage to grow vegetables (3000 onions on ½ an acre). After a twelve month stay in hospital, Arthur died from cancer on 3 Oct 1941. He is buried in Bridgetown.

The next two pages contain information about Clara's parents, Thomas George Chapman (1825-1897) and Selina Gardiner (1829-1874) and their family:

THOMAS GEORGE CHAPMAN (1825-1897) and SELINA GARDINER (1829-1874) were married 7 Jan 1849, Marshall Waller Clifton's Office, WA [Reg. No. 248].

THOMAS GEORGE CHAPMAN (1825-1897) was born 17 Mar 1825, Newington, Surrey, England, son of THOMAS CHAPMAN (1786-1840) and ELIZABETH HARDING (1790-1833). He was baptised 6 Apr 1825 at St. Mary Newington, Southwark, Surrey, England. Both parents died, and Thomas became a ward of the Children's Friend Society. Ten-year-old Thomas Chapman emigrated from London, England and arrived at the Swan River Colony via the Giraffe, on 30 Dec 1835, the youngest of thirteen children (three girls and ten boys) sent to the colony by the Children's Friend Society. Thomas was indentured to Lieutenant Henry Bull at 'Ellen's Brook', Upper Swan. Thomas George Chapman died 17 May 1897, Preston, WA [Reg. 2647].

ARTHUR and CLARA BLECHYNDEN:

Arthur Blechynden became a vestry member and with many others worked towards the funding and building and consecration of Paul's Anglican church in Bridgetown in which many members of our Blechynden family were christened, married and had their funeral service.

ST PAUL'S CHURCH, BRIDGETOWN:

The laying of the Foundation Stone of St Paul's Church Bridgetown was held 26 Jan 1911. A meeting to discuss the building of St Paul's Church, Bridgetown, was held, in Jun 1911. The Consecration of the church was held in Aug 1911. The following articles give an indication of this momentous occasion for the Church of England parishioners of the town. For those interested follow the link below.

This article following signed by Arthur Blechynden Church Warden, shows members of the Blechynden family together with others from the community were involved in the church as wardens and vestrymen. Vestry man, Arthur Blechynden, retiring warden, was chosen to be a Representative to the Ruri-Decanal Conference. The summary of the year's meetings shows the affection the parishioners had for Rev Devlin offering a vote for sympathy to him following the death of his mother. At the May meeting of the Vestry a letter was read from the Bishop asking the Rector to resign the living of Bridgetown, and offering him the living of Karridale. Many letters were written to the Bishop asking that he remain at Bridgetown. Sadly, this was not meant to be.

Allnutt, E. J. Mitchell, Alex. Forrest, C. S. Doust, S. J. Moulton, C. J. James, E. A. Haines, and H. E. Blechynden.

Representative to Ruri-Decanal Conference, Mr. Arthur Blechynden.

Auditors: Messrs. Thos. Rossiter and J. W. Blechynden, re-elected.

Votes of Thanks.

The Rector had, in the conclusion of his report, thanked the Churchwardens and Vestry, and the lay readers and all helpers in Church work; and votes of thanks were passed to the organists, the choir, the ladies who had collected for the funds, and the Auditors.

Vote of Sympathy.

Moved in very feeling terms by Mr. Fretwell, a vote of deep sympathy) was, passed to the Rector in the bereavement which he had recently suffered in the passing away of his mother. The Rector replied briefly, thanking those present for their kind thoughts and feelings, and the meeting closed.

Wardens' Report.

The following report from the Wardens was read of the meetings for the year 1910-11: -

At the annual parishioners' meeting air. E. W. Bolton was appointed Rector's Warden; Mr. A. Blechynden was elected People's Warden; and the following' gentlemen were elected Vestrymen: Messrs. Maslin, Allnutt, Taylor, Haines, Hill, Rose, Fretwell, Mitchell, Forrest and Hester. At the same meeting it was carried that a petition be signed by those parishioners who wished it, and afterwards forwarded to the Bishop requesting him to allow the Rector to remain.

At the May meeting of the Vestry a letter was read from the Bishop asking the Rector to resign the living of Bridgetown, and offering him the living of Karridale. At this stage the Rector left and it was carried unanimously that the Vestry has every confidence in the Rector and strongly hoped that the Bishop will not remove him from the Parish, it was also carried that the Vestry endorse Mr. Devlin's, action in regard to the late Mrs. Galley's interment.

At the June meeting tenders were opened for the building of the new Church, but as the lowest was £1,436 it was decided not to accept any, but to re-open the question in September in better weather.

At the same meeting it was carried by 7 to 3 that the Vestry was still in accord with the Rector, and with the petition which had been forwarded to the Bishop.

At the September meeting it was arranged to get a lower tender from Messrs. Moyes and Gibbs, the amount of which seemed to be satisfactory. This was eventually arranged. At this meeting the Rev. R. R. Taylor resigned, after being a vestryman for two years, owing to leaving the district.

At the meeting held in October, guarantors for the building debt of the new Church were arranged, being as follows: - R. E. Warburton, T. Wheatley, G. A. Haines, J. C. Rose, J. Allnutt and E. W. Bolton. Also at this meeting it was arranged to borrow the new Church debt from the Commercial Bank. The new Church contract was also arranged at this meeting.

At the December meeting it was carried that Mr. Allnutt and Mrs. Dean shall lay the foundation stones of the new Church.

At the meeting in January it was arranged that the foundation stone of the new Church be laid on January 26th; also that a social be held in the evening.

At the February meeting, letters from the Bishop were again read re the transfer of Mr. Devlin, and were again opposed by a majority of the members, and it was carried by 6 to 1 of the members of the Vestry that the old petition be again carried round as a means of showing it had been signed in a bona fide manner, which was afterwards done and sent to the Bishop, with the result of 193 signatures instead of 191.

In April various matters were discussed relating to the Church building.

discussed relating to the Church building. The second petition from the parishioners petitioning against the Rector's transfer had been handed in.

At this meeting the People's Warden reported that in taking round the petition, he learned that a large majority of the parishioners desired the Rector should have leave of absence for at least three months to recruit his health. At the same meeting it was unanimously carried that a letter be written to the Bishop asking him to grant the Rector three months' leave of absence, at least as soon after the completion of the new Church as possible. During April other matters were discussed such as pews, one tender coming in which was considered too high; also the style of pulpit, a memorial window, etc., your Vestry is pleased to report that the new Church which appears to be well built, is now nearly completed.

We are sorry to report that the Parish indebtedness is about £135, which is largely accounted for by the amounts raised for building purposes, also the ladies giving up collecting, and also the unsettled state of the Parish. We beg to thank the ladies for one item which has disappeared from the Church accounts—that is, the cleaning—which has been done by the ladies during the past year, and through this a considerable saving has been made.

TRANSCRIPTION

St, Paul's Church, Bridgetown W.A. August 1911

"On 9th Dec 1910 I placed the first concrete in the trenches. On 10th Dec, I laid the first two stones in the N.E. corner of the building. On 26th January 1911 the foundation stone was laid by Mr John Allnutt and Mrs L.C. Dean laid a stone on behalf of the St. Paul's Ladies Guild. On 11th August the building was opened and consecrated and on Sunday 13th Aug. I conducted services at 8 am, 11 am, 3 pm and 7.30 pm and preached my first five and farewell sermons in the church for the building of which I have worked for over six years.

Presented on Nov. 8th to Mr. Arthur Blechynden). Geoffrey Devlin 6/4 Rector of Bridgetown."

Note: The pencilled arrow and printing were added by Jill Feutrill some years ago when Mr Arthur Blechynden was first deciphered as being Mrs Arthur Blechynden. Mr Arthur Blechynden was the 6th child of John and Elizabeth Blechynden builders of 'Bridgedale', Bridgetown.

Arthur Blechynden was a farmer between 1892 and 1895 in "Westlington", Balingup, WA. He resided at Lowlands in 1917 in Bridgetown, WA. Bridgetown store assistant, then farmer. Leased 'Westlington' from J. Allnutt for 3 years and returned to Bridgetown about 1898.

The story of this family can be read in more detail in Pioneers of the Preston.

WW1 AND WW2: Their sons joined up and went overseas: WW1 Leslie and Reuben, WW2 Raymond. The family was devastated when they heard that Leslie had been killed in action on 1 Jul 1917 in Belgium. His young life, so full of promise, had been cut short. For the rest of her life Clara always dressed in black. (More details can be read about Les and Reub in their individual chapters.)

Clara Agnes Blechynden (nee Chapman) and Arthur Blechynden celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in May 1941, just months before Arthur's death. After a twelve month stay in hospital, Arthur died on 3 Oct 1941. He was buried in the Anglican section of the cemetery in Bridgetown. He died without knowing whether his son Ray was still alive. On the day of Arthur's death news came that Ray was a prisoner of war. Ray's brother Reuben had received a card saying he was in a temporary prison camp; well and unwounded. The official records reveal that on 4 June 1941 he was listed as missing and his name transferred to an x list. Four days later he was 'Believed to be a POW'. On 19 February 1942 he was officially reported as a prisoner of war whose place of detention was Stalag 8b in Germany and his mother was notified.

ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN
Following on a long period of ill health Mr. Arthur Blechynden died in the Bridgetown Hospital early this morning. The deceased gentleman was 71 years of age at the time of his death. He was a native of Bridgetown where he spent the whole of his life, and during a long period of that time took a keen interest in the public life of his native town and district. Fifty-five years ago the late Mr Blechynden was carting with teams between Bunbury and Bridgetown, taking goods and returning with stores. In 1891 he married Miss Clara Chapman, of Preston, and their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated on May 20 last. During the greater part of his life Mr. Blechynden had been engaged in farming pursuits. He was a life member of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society, for a number of years a member of the Bridgetown Road Board, and a member of the Cemetery Board. Of kindly disposition and very lovable nature, the late Mr. Blechynden was highly esteemed by everyone with whom he came in contact, and the deepest sympathy of all will be extended to his bereaved family.	The deceased is survived by his widow, four daughters and two sons; one other son (Leslie) died in the first Great War. The daughters are Lila (Mrs. F. Pearce), Ivy (Mrs. Hyden), Gladys (Mrs. Allan Chapman, Lowden), Edith (Mrs. A. Shadbolt, Muckinbudin). Sons are Reuben (Mullalyup), and Roy (A.I.F.), who is reported missing and believed to be a prisoner of war. The funeral will be held tomorrow (Saturday), the cortege leaving for the Cemetery following a church service to be held at 3 p.m.

ECHO OF OLD DAYS

WHEN HORSE TEAMS RAN TO BUNBURY

The death occurred at the Bridgetown Hospital on Friday morning last of Mr. Arthur Blechynden, at the age of 71 years, following an illness that had extended over a lengthy period. Some months ago he underwent a serious operation when it was realised that he could live for only a few months. We join in extending sympathy to the bereaved widow, daughters Mrs. F. H. Pearce, Mrs. W. A. Hyder and Mrs. Allan Chapman (Bridgetown), and Mrs. A. Shadbolt (Muckinbudin) and sons Mr. R. J. Blechynden (Mullalyup) and Private Ray Blechynden (prisoner of war in Germany). Another son, Leslie, met his death in the 1914-18 war.

The late Mr. Blechynden was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden, who were the first people to settle in the town of Bridgetown then known as Blackwood. The late Mr. Hester also took up his residence three miles north of Bridgetown at the same time. As a young man he followed farming pursuits and joined his father in running horse teams to Bunbury and return to serve the districts en route with their requirements. For several years he engaged in a general business in Bridgetown in the premises now conducted by Mr. A. Rodgers. Leaving this he again went farming and contracting and carried on until his retirement. Deceased was a man who thoroughly understood horses and their ailments and many people have been thankful for the help he had given in this direction. He married Miss Clara Chapman, of Donnybrook, and they celebrated their golden wedding in May last.

Mr. Blechynden always took an active interest in the progress of the district. For over 50 years he was a member of the Agricultural Society and quite recently he and Mrs Blechynden were honoured with life membership of that body. Before the Health Board was linked with the Road Board Mr. Blechynden was a member and he also became a member of the Road Board for many years. Until quite recently he was a member of the Cemetery Board as a representative of St. Paul's Church.

His many friends admired Arthur Blechynden and know that they lost a true friend.

Prior to the funeral a service was held at St. Paul's Church, the service being conducted by Canon E. H. Strugnell, who feelingly referred to the passing of the late Mr. Blechynden and the good life that he had led.

The funeral was largely attended. The carriers were Messrs G. Thomson, T. E. Bolton, G. E. Warburton, and W. G. Meares. The pall-bearers were Messrs T. E. Smith, R. E. Doust, H. J. Smith, W. K. Waltr and H. M. Browne.

The funeral arrangements were in the hands of Messrs Moyes and Son.

Deceased was a man who thoroughly understood horses and their ailments, and many people have been thankful for the help he had given in this direction. He married Miss Clara Chapman of Donnybrook and they celebrated their golden wedding in May last.

Mr Blechynden always took an active interest in the progress of the district. For over 50 years he was a member of the Agricultural Society and quite recently he and Mrs Blechynden were honoured with life membership of that body. Before the Health Board was linked with the Road Board Mr Blechynden was a member and he also became a member of the Road Board for many years. Until quite recently he was a member of the Cemetery Board as a representative of St Paul's Church. His many friends admired Arthur Blechynden and know that they have lost a true friend. . .

ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN
GRANDFATHER ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN AS I REMEMBER HIM

By his Granddaughter Jill (Blechynden) Feutrill

Arthur Blechynden fifth son of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Blechynden nee Green.

Arthur Blechynden was born 2 Apr 1870 in Bridgetown and grew up at Bridgedale, the home established on the banks of the Blackwood River on land chosen by his father John Blechynden first settler in the area.

*Grandfather Arthur Blechynden and his granddaughter

Arthur married Clara Agnes (Chapman) Blechynden 20 May 1891 at Bridgetown. Seven children were born to Arthur and Clara, three sons and four daughters: Lila, Reuben, Leslie, Ivy, Gladys, Edith, Raymond.

Arthur was a kind man, warm hearted and good humoured. He was ready always to help anyone in need of assistance. He never spoke ill of another person. He loved his wife and children dearly and that love extended to all his grandchildren.

Arthur was a farmer, and a good one. Starting out when very young by helping his father John Blechynden on John's property 'Hillside,' he went on later to lease a number of properties including a large area of land at Perup River south of Bridgetown.

Arthur was skilled at handling livestock, particularly horses, animals that he had a special liking for and an affinity with; he excelled at nursing them when they were sick or injured and was wonderful at gentling them; it might even be said he was the 'horse whisperer' of his day. His own horses were loved pets as well as working farm animals.

Grandpa Blechynden as I called him, was close to seventy and used a walking stick by the time I knew him. He came over from Bridgetown quite often to stay at Dororeu, his son Reuben's Mullalyup farming property close to Balingup. Grandpa still liked to help my father here and there if and when he could.

I still picture him sitting in front of the open fire with my parents of a winter evening when he was staying with us and how he used to chuckle when I kissed him goodnight on the bald patch on top of his head to 'make the hair grow.'

Another memory I love is of how Grandpa, leaning on his walking stick, used to appear in the kitchen just before mealtimes where he headed for the Metters wood stove to crack open the oven door or peep under the lids of pots simmering on the stove top to see what was in store for lunch or dinner.

'Now, now, off you go, Nosey Parker,' my mother Dorothy would say, laughing and pretending to shoo him away and off Grandpa would go chuckling to himself in his endearing way. He enjoyed my mother's cooking and considered her a very good cook which indeed she was.

Grandpa also stayed with us for a time during his illness with cancer. We were fortunate in having a fully qualified nursing sister able to come, live in and help care for him when he became bedridden and needed constant attention.

Sister, as we called her, was dedicated to her work and very kind. Every day she dressed in her white uniform and white veil, adding a bright red nurse's cape if the day were cold.

A nursing sister also cared for Grandpa Blechynden at Lucieville, the Yornup home of Dad's sister Lila, where Grandpa was staying before he later died in Bridgetown Hospital.

The last memory I have of Grandpa is from his last days at Lucieville during which a special family occasion took place. The occasion was the Christening of Lynden Shadbolt, the small son of Grandpa's daughter Edith and her husband Harry Shadbolt.

Grandpa was too ill by then to attend church so the Christening took place in his bedroom at Lucieville with all the family around him. I can still see him lying back and, ill though he was, chuckling his old loving chuckle when Lynden cried when his head became wet during the ceremony.

I believe the Christening font was brought especially for the occasion from St Paul's Anglican Church in Bridgetown, the church Grandpa supported all his life.

Arthur Blechynden died 3 Oct 1941 aged 71. He is buried at Bridgetown.

Deeply loved, Grandfather Arthur Blechynden will be remembered always with love and respect.

Following Arthur's death Clara lived for another 19 years. She missed her soul mate but was surrounded and embraced by her loving family.

Clara Blechynden passed away at the Knutsford Hospital in Claremont 19 May 1961. She was ninety-two years of age. Her funeral was held 22 May 1961 at St Paul's Church, Bridgetown. She was buried next to her husband in the Church of England section of the Bridgetown cemetery.

Obituary in Blackwood Times May 1961:

Bridgetown Pioneer

BRIDGETOWN: A member of an old pioneering family of the Bridgetown district, Clara Agnes Blechynden, died at the Knutsford Hospital, Claremont, on May 19, at the age of 92.

The late Mrs Blechynden was born at the "Preston" on 30 November 1869. She was the fifth daughter of the late Thomas George and Selina Chapman who were very early settlers in that district.

She was always ready to talk of old times a favourite story was that as a child she used to walk 11 miles along a "bush" track for the mail with her dog for protection and company and that one day it killed a dingo that was too venturesome.

She went to Bridgetown 75 years ago to live with her brother in-law and sister, the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Doust, who at that time owned the hotel now known as Scott's Hotel.

In her early married life she was a keen horsewoman and liked to ride as far as Donnybrook and the Preston to visit her relations and friends.

Mrs Blechynden was an active member of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society and a life member at the time of her death. She was also a keen worker for her church, the Red Cross Society and other bodies.

The annual show, races and picnics were the main social events in the early days. The opening of the bridge across the Blackwood River and later the coming of the railway were great events in her life.

In 1891 she married Arthur Blechynden the fifth son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, the first settlers in the town of Bridgetown proper.

John Blechynden came across country from Beverley with native guides more than 100 years ago. He selected land on the Blackwood River, built a house, which is still standing between the old and new traffic bridges and then brought his wife to it.

After their marriage, Arthur and Clara Blechynden lived at Weslington, near Balingup for several years, leasing the property from the late John Alnutt. Their two eldest children were born there. Later they lived at Lillydale.

In 1899 they gave up farming and for some years had a general store in Bridgetown, so their children could attend school.

There were three sons and four daughters of the marriage (two sons and three daughters are still living) 16 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren.

Mrs Blechynden survived her husband by 19 years and was the late survivor of the Chapman family of that generation.

There are still some people who remember Mrs Blechynden for her kindness in the early days; she was always one of the first to give a helping hand in sickness or trouble.

The funeral took place at St Paul's Church Bridgetown, on Tuesday May 22.

1. BLECHYNDEN, LILA ELIZABETH (1892-1981)

Lila Elizabeth Blechynden was born on the 13 Aug 1892, at 'Weslington', Blackwood, WA [Reg. 1632]. Lila Elizabeth Blechynden died 9 Feb 1981, Blackwood, WA.
Lila Blechynden

Lila Elizabeth Blechynden was the first child of the seven born to Clara Chapman and Arthur Blechynden. Lila was christened by the Reverend John Brand on 18 Sep 1892.

The Blechynden children attended Bridgetown School. Being the eldest child Lila was of great assistance to her mother, helping to look after her brothers and sisters. At 20 years of age Lila was the at-home midwife when her youngest sibling Raymond was born on the kitchen table in 1912.

Lila was a good musician. She learnt to play the piano and the harmonium from Lucy Pearce at the Pearce farm 'Lucieville' located 5 miles south of Bridgetown. It was there that she met Frank Hayward Pearce whom she later married.

LILA married FRANK HAYWOOD PEARCE (1882-1939), on the 30 Aug 1916, Blackwood, WA [Reg. 26] in St Paul's Anglican Church in Bridgetown. Together they had four children: Lesley Lucy, Haywood Astley, Elva Lila and Desmond

Wedding photo Frank Pearce and Lila Blechynden

Frank was born 5 Aug 1882 in Ballarat, VIC [Reg. 13526]. He was the third of five children of JAMES PEARCE and LUCY JANE JAMES. Frank died 28 Aug 1939 in Bridgetown Hospital, WA [Reg. 51].

JAMES PEARCE (1850-1906) and LUCY JANE JAMES (1854-1910) were married in Ballarat, VIC [Ref. No. 4122] in Dec 1877. In 1904 Frank, with brothers Walter and Edwin, travelled across Australia to join their eldest brother, Harold Pearce, to take up land and settle in Bridgetown, WA. Their sister Lucy Ann followed soon after to join her brothers on their farm.

Following the death of their father, James, and their maternal grandmother, Lucy, their mother (also called Lucy) joined her children on their family farm in 1907. The Pearce's called the Bridgetown property 'Lucieville' after their former Melbourne home which had been named after the three Lucy's in the family.

Frank Pearce died on the 28 Aug 1939 in Bridgetown Hospital from a stroke. He was buried in the Bridgetown Cemetery. After Frank's death, Lila and her four children continued to run 'Lucieville'. Later it became the property of Lila's youngest son, Desmond.

During World War II, Haywood left to join the Air Force in 1942. Before de-mobbing, Flight Sergeant Haywood Pearce, Service Number 43611, flew over 'Lucieville' in a Beaufort and took aerial shots of the farm and Bridgetown.

Lesley, Haywood, Elva and Desmond married and had children of their own. Grandchildren and great-grandchildren made their appearance and the family tree continues to grow.

'Lucieville' was a fine property with magnificent gardens, a well-used tennis court and many outbuildings. Like most mixed farming properties in the 1900's, apples were produced and packed on the property. It had a dairy herd and was self-sufficient in most things. Lila left Lucieville in 1948 in the capable hands of her son Desmond and his wife Stella. Lila lived with her daughter Elva for most of the rest of her life with many visits to the rest of her family. People who knew her remember her as an extremely kind and gentle lady. She was an active member of the Red Cross for 65 years and participated in many charitable works. She was also a keen exhibitor and great worker for the local Agricultural Society Show.

In later years when, Lila and Frank's grandson Michael took over the property, 'Lucieville' Farm Chalets and farm stays was developed and a grand reception centre established in the old homestead. International visitors are frequent and the business is still well respected and run by the family.

2. BLECHYNDEN, REUBEN JOHN (1895-1981)

REUBEN JOHN BLECHYNDEN

DOROTHY HOPE MUNYARD
1897-1979

Reuben John Blechynden (1895-1981) was the eldest son of Arthur Blechynden and his wife Clara (Chapman) Blechynden of Bridgetown. Arthur was the fifth son of Elizabeth (nee Green) and John Blechynden first settlers in Bridgetown, John having followed the Blackwood River from the source near Beverley to the area that became Bridgetown. Clara was the penultimate daughter of Selina (nee Gardiner) and Thomas Chapman of the Preston.

Reuben John Blechynden was born on 20 Feb 1895 at Weslington, a Balingup property his father Arthur Blechynden was leasing at the time from a Mr Allnutt. Arthur and Clara later moved back to farming at Bridgetown, around the time Reuben was three years old.

Reub, as he was known, attended the Bridgetown State School and finished his education in Perth. On leaving school he was first employed in the Bridgetown office of the law firm then known as Messrs Stanley Money and Walker. Later he served for eight years on the staff of the W.A. Bank at Perth and Fremantle. His enlistment into the Australian Armed Forces at the outbreak of World War One interrupted his years at the bank until his return home.

Reub enlisted in 1916 and served first in the 10th Light Horse and then with the Imperial Camel Corps.

At the Second Battle of Gaza 19, Apr 1917, he was captured by the Turks and held in a POW camp at Yarbashi Turkey where he was compelled to work breaking stones on the railway. Later he was appointed food controller and eventually appointed auditor for a German company building the Bagdad railway.

During his captivity as a P.O.W. Reub and two others managed to escape but unfortunately, when nearing the British lines at Damascus they were recaptured.

After his release at the end of the war Reub was first sent to Britain and nursed back to health at a camp hospital at Sutton Veny, England, arriving home in WA in March 1919. He received his discharge in July 1919.

Left: Reuben John Blechynden near Gaza WW1 on the camel he called Ray.

Reub met his future wife Dorothy Hope Munyard before leaving to serve overseas during World War One and they became engaged when he returned home.

Dorothy Hope Munyard was the eldest daughter of Arthur Stephen Munyard and Edith (nee Biggin) Munyard of Hensman Road Subiaco. Dorothy, addressed sometimes as Dot, was the eldest of nine children. She was educated at Subiaco State School and at Stott's Business College in Perth.

After Dorothy and Reub became engaged, Reub resigned from the bank and bought a South West orchard and farming property at Mullalyup, close to Balingup. The property, bought from a Mr Poole, Reub named 'Dororeu', a compilation of the names Dorothy and Reuben. It became the couple's home soon after the wedding.

The marriage took place on Jan 24, 1923, at St. Mary's Anglican Church West Perth. Dorothy's sister Clarice (Claire) and Reub's sister Gladys were Dorothy's bridesmaids; Dr Cyril Carlin was Reub's best man, Mr Cecil Saunders groomsmen. The marriage celebrant was the Rev. C.O.L. Riley, afterwards Bishop Riley.

In World War One Reub and his future best man, Dr Cyril Carlin, both enlisted in the 10th Light Horse on 1st March 1916. Reub's number was 2812, Cyril's was 2813.

Reub ran sheep and cattle on Dororeu and grew a large orchard producing apples, nectarines, peaches and pears. He was a good farmer and orchardist who took pride in his work. Dororeu was a productive property and a district show place.

Dorothy was a good cook, famous for her hot scones. Like most countrywomen she preserved fruit, made jams, chutneys and other preserves – her ripe tomato chutney was renowned.

Reub and Dorothy always had the welfare of the South West at heart. Active in the communities of both Mullalyup and Balingup they were members of the golf and tennis clubs, exhibited flowers, produce and other items in the annual agricultural shows and supported the community in a great many ways that increased over the years.

Reub was a member of the Balingup Road Board from 1942 and became Chairman in 1946, holding the position for nine years. He was president of the Balingup Primary Producers Association for many years, also president of the Balingup golf and tennis clubs. He was a patron and member of the Balingup bowling club, patron of the girls' hockey club and a member of the Institute for the Blind.

Reub was appointed a Justice of the Peace on 22 Jun 1938, remaining a J.P. until his resignation on his eighty-third birthday 20 Feb 1978, three years before he died in 1981 at the age of 86. He was also a member of the Justices Association.

The details of Reub's Justice service in his own handwriting appear below with a transcription by his daughter Jill who also later added the words at the top i.e., R. J. Blechynden (Reuben John).

The farm had an apple orchard but much of the surrounding acreage was uncleared. Arthur Blechynden, Reub's father, helped in the early days in the clearing of more land for pasture and in extending the orchards, also assisting Reub in other farm undertakings.

Just before the outbreak of World War Two alterations and additions were carried out on the Dororeu home, extending the verandas and lining the weatherboard rooms making them lighter and more comfortable. The extended verandas enabled the catching of cool breezes right around the house in the hot summer months.

Following the visit Reub and Dorothy received a Christmas Greeting card from the Duke and Duchess

The card reads:

In the 1950's Reub Blechynden appeared in a 'This Week's Personality' feature published in the Bridgetown newspaper the Blackwood Times, issue of 24 Mar 1950. A copy of the cutting from the newspaper is below. A transcription of the interview content is as follows:

Mr R. J. Blechynden J.P. is believed to be the oldest locally born resident living in Balingup. He was born at "Weslington," on February 20th 1895, and is a son of Mr Arthur Blechynden who married of the late Mr and Mrs Chapman who were early reston.

Mr R.J. Blechynden is a man of varied interests who has the welfare of the South West at heart.

Mr John Blechynden, his paternal grandfather, was the first man to settle at Bridgetown, coming from Beverley, travelling overland. He built his home near the bridge crossing the Blackwood River at Bridgetown.

Mr R.J. Blechynden attended the State School at Bridgetown and later went to Perth to finish his education. He served for 3/1/2 years in World War 1, firstly with the 10th Light Horse and then with the Imperial Camel Corps. He was captured and taken prisoner by the Turks and was compelled to work breaking stones on the railway. Later he was appointed food controller and eventually appointed auditor for a German company building the Bagdad railway.

PRISONER OF WAR

While a prisoner of war he managed to escape with two others but they were re-captured when nearing the British lines at Damascus.

Mr Blechynden was for some years in Mr Ewing's office at Bridgetown, the firm then being known as Messrs Stanley, Money and Walker. He was also on the staff of the W.A. Bank for eight years, being stationed at Perth and Fremantle, before returning to Balingup.

Leaving the bank 27 years ago to take up farming, he eventually acquired the property known as 'Dororeu' on which thrives an orchard of approximately 30 acres. Numerous sheep and cattle are also run.

Mr Blechynden was appointed a Justice of the Peace 13 years ago. He is a member of the Justices' Association and he has held office in the following associations: -

Balingup *P.P.A. (president for eight years); Balingup Golf Club (president for eight years); Balingup Tennis Club (president for the last nine years) and a member for 26 years.

He is also patron and member of the Bowling Club, patron of the Girls' Hockey Club and a member of the Institute for the Blind.

Mr Blechynden has for eight years been a member of the local road board, being vice-chairman for three years and chairman for four years. He is still chairman of the board.

Interested in all sports, he has a great belief in the potentialities of the South West, and is striving hard to make Balingup an even better place to live.

He married Dorothy, eldest daughter of Mr and the late Mrs A.S. Munyard, of Subiaco and has one daughter, Dorothy Jill.

S-W People Who Will Receive The Queen

BUSSELTON, Tues: Every local authority from Harvey to Augusta and Margaret River has been invited to send two representatives to Busselton to form the official party to meet Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The only people outside the official local bodies to be included in the party will be the district's only VC winner, Mr. Cliff Sadler, and his wife.

The Royal party will visit Busselton on March 30, 1954.

Twelve South West road board chairmen and their wives, and the Mayor and Mayoress of Bunbury have been invited.

The road boards invited are Harvey, Dardanup, Capel, Augusta, Margaret River, Nannup, Manjimup, Bridgetown, Balingup, Preston, Greenbushes, Collie and Upper Blackwood.

All Members

All members of the Busselton Road Board, their wives and the Board's secretary will be there.

Because of the rigid timetable, no other invitations will be issued.

It has been suggested to the Busselton Road Board's organising committee that other South West boards may wish to share in the purchase of souvenir pennants that the Busselton board will distribute to Busselton schoolchildren on the day.

That would mean other boards could give local schoolchildren pennants.

Thousands Will Be There

BUSSELTON, Tues: It is estimated that about 15,000 people will come to Busselton on the day of the Royal visit.

Busselton is the only town in the South West, apart from Albany, on the Royal itinerary.

Visitors should bring their own food, because all facilities in the district will be heavily taxed.

The town is seeking the help of a big Perth catering firm.

Reub and Dorothy Blechynden were also privileged to receive an invitation, as did other South West Road Board Chairmen and their wives, to meet Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh at a Civic Reception on 30 Mar 1954 at Busselton W.A., one of the South West centres on the itinerary of the Royal Visit to Australia in that year.

A rehearsal for the reception was held a day or two before the visit to ensure that everything went smoothly and that everyone involved in the occasion knew what to do and how to address the Queen and Prince Phillip.

The Australian Army was involved in security for the occasion including the forming of a guard of honour in front of the enormous crowds lining the roads of the royal procession from the Busselton Airport (then located off what became Queen Elizabeth Avenue) to the town centre.

Douglas Feutrill, husband of Jill Feutrill who wrote this dedication, in training at the time with the C.M.F. (Citizen Military Forces) was privileged to take part in the guard of honour.

Reub retired from the Balingup Road Board in 1955; he was Chairman of the Board from 1946; on his retirement he was presented with an illuminated address in recognition of his service to the board and to the community. Mr W. Wringe, the new Board Chairman made the presentation on behalf of all the board members.

Unfortunately, the parchment colouring has blurred over the years and the lettering faded.

BALINGUP ROAD BOARD

To

Reuben John Blechynden Esq. J.P.

On your retirement from the Balingup Road Board after thirteen years of service to the District, I ask you to accept this token of the appreciation of the ratepayers, the members and myself, in recognition of those services, so ably rendered.

During your Chairmanship over the last nine years the scope of the Board's functions have widened and its responsibilities increased.

That the Board has been able to carry out its duties smoothly and efficiently in this period has been due, in no small measure, to your wise and conscientious leadership.

It is with extreme regret that your resignation has been accepted.

You will carry with you the best wishes of the whole community for your future.

April 16th, 1955

W. Wringe Chairman

Reub and Dorothy Blechynden retired to Busselton in the 1960's having sold their property, Dororeu. They bought a home in Duchess Street Busselton built many years earlier for a Miss Layman and styled after a cottage in England. Reub and Dorothy enjoyed living there until just before the end of their lives.

Reub and Dorothy Blechynden will be remembered by many for their positive outlook on life and their generous help and friendliness to others. Dorothy Hope Blechynden died at Busselton on 14 May 1979. Reuben John Blechynden died at Busselton on 30 Jun 1981.

An obituary for Reuben John Blechynden, some passages similar in content to the Blackwood Times interview with him in 1950, appeared in the Busselton Margaret Times, the South Western Times and the Warren Blackwood Times; three newspapers of the South West districts of where Reub Blechynden was respected and known so well.

First settler's grandson dies

THE grandson of the first settler in Bridgetown died at Busselton recently (30/6/1981)

Reuben John Blechynden, who was 86, was a grandson of John Blechynden, who came overland from Beverley to Bridgetown in 1857.

Mr Reuben Blechynden was a well-known resident of the Bridgetown and Balingup districts before retiring from his Balingup farm about 15 years ago to live at Busselton.

He was born at "Weslington" Balingup, on February 20, 1895, the second child and first son of the late Arthur and Clara Blechynden, of Bridgetown. His mother was a daughter of the Chapman family, early pioneers of the Precinct district.

While Mr Blechynden was still a small child his parents returned to Bridgetown to farm, and he attended the Bridgetown State school, later going to Perth to complete his education.

On leaving school he was for some years with the firm of Bridgetown solicitors then known as Messrs Stanley Money and Walker. Later he was on the staff of the W.A. Bank for eight years, stationed at Perth and Fremantle, before returning to Balingup where he took up land and farmed until his retirement.

He served for 31 years in the Great War, first with the 10th Light Horse and then with the Imperial Camel Corps. He was captured and taken prisoner by the Turks and compelled to work at breaking stones on the railway.

Later he was made food controller and eventually appointed auditor for a German company building the Baghdad railway. During this time he managed to escape with two others, but they were recaptured when nearing the British lines at Damascus.

Mr Blechynden always had the welfare of the South-West at heart and contributed to the community in many ways. He was a Justice of the Peace and a member of the Justices' Association.

He was chairman of the Balingup Road Board (now part of the Donnybrook-Balingup Shire Council) from 1946 until his resignation in 1955. He was a member of the board from 1942.

He was president of the Balingup Primary Producers' Association for many years, and also president of the Balingup golf and tennis clubs. He was a patron and member of the Balingup ber of the Balingup Bowling Club, patron of the girls' hockey club and a member of the Institute for the Blind.

He married Dorothy Hope Munyard in St Mary's Church, West Perth, on January 24, 1923. The service was performed by the Rev C. L. Riley, later Bishop of Mulinbudin.

Mrs Blechynden, who was the eldest child of the late Mr and Mrs Arthur Stephen Munyard, of Subiaco, predeceased her husband two years ago.

Mr Blechynden was the second child in a family of seven, and is survived by a brother, R. A. Blechynden, of Busselton, and two sisters, Mrs A. Chapman, of Mandurah, and Mrs H. Shadbolt, of Mulinbudin.

He was privately cremated at Bunbury and leaves a daughter, Mrs D. E. Feutrell, of Busselton, and four grandchildren.

A transcription of the obituary following. Warren Blackwood Times, Wed Jul 15, 1981:

FIRST SETTLER'S GRANDSON DIES

The grandson of the first settler in Bridgetown died at Busselton recently. Reuben John Blechynden who was 86 was a grandson of John Blechynden who came overland from Beverley to Bridgetown in 1857.

Mr Reuben Blechynden was a well-known resident of the Bridgetown and Balingup districts before retiring from his Balingup farm about 15 years ago to live at Busselton.

He was born at Weslington Balingup on February 20, 1895, the second child and first son of the late Arthur and Clara Blechynden of Bridgetown. His mother was a daughter of the Chapman family, early pioneers of the Preston district.

While Mr Blechynden was still a small child his parents returned to Bridgetown to farm and he attended the Bridgetown State School, later going to Perth to finish his education.

On leaving school he was for some years with the firm of Bridgetown solicitors then known as Messrs Stanley Money and Walker. Later he was on the staff of the W.A. Bank for eight years, stationed at Perth and Fremantle, before returning to Balingup where he took up land and farmed until his retirement.

He served for 3½ years in the Great War, first with the 10th Light Horse and then with the Imperial Camel Corps. He was captured and taken prisoner by the Turks and compelled to work at breaking stones on the railway.

Later he was made food controller and eventually appointed auditor for a German company building the Baghdad railway. During this time, he managed to escape with two others but they were recaptured when nearing the British lines at Damascus.

Mr Blechynden always had the welfare of the South West at heart and contributed to the community in many ways. He was a Justice of the Peace and a member of the Justices Association. He was chairman of the Balingup Road Board from 1946 until his resignation in 1955. He was a member of the board from 1942.

R. J. Blechynden Busselton 1955

He was president of the Balingup Primary Produces Association for many years, and also president of the Balingup golf and tennis clubs. He was a patron and member of the Balingup Bowling Club, patron of the girls' hockey club and a member of the Institute for the Blind.

He married Dorothy Hope Munyard in St Mary's Church, West Perth, on Jan 24, 1923. The service was performed by the Rev C.L Riley, later Bishop Riley.

Mrs Blechynden, who was the eldest child of the late Mr and Mrs Arthur Stephen Munyard, of Subiaco, pre-deceased her husband two years ago.

Mr Blechynden was the second child in a family of seven and is survived by a brother R.A. Blechynden of Busselton and two sisters, Mrs A. Chapman, of Mandurah, and Mrs H. Shadbolt of Mukinbudin.

He was privately cremated at Bunbury and leaves a daughter Mrs D.E. Feutrill of Busselton, and four grandchildren.

A framed life size enlargement of the above photograph of my Uncle Les had pride of place on a dining room wall in the home of my parents Dorothy and Reuben Blechynden. Uncle Les, my father's brother, was therefore part of my life from the very beginning. Although I never knew his personal physical presence, I have always felt his spiritual presence and the goodness about him. I have loved and will always love him very dearly as I know others do and others will continue to do in years to come through the treasured memories passed down by those who knew him as he was long ago.

*Leslie Thomas
Blechynden, WW1*

Leslie Thomas Blechynden was born 28 Oct 1897, 'Lilydale', Blackwood, WA [Reg. 69]. He was the third child, one of seven born to Arthur Blechynden and Clara Chapman.

Leslie's early education was at Bridgetown State School where he showed much scholastic promise.

He won a scholarship to Perth Modern School and was an inaugural student of the school, studying there from 1 Feb 1911 until the end of 1914.

He became a prefect and was a member of the PMS cadet corps winners of the State Cadet Championship in 1912.

Pictured below is Leslie Blechynden's Sphinx badge. The Sphinx was the Perth Modern School emblem. The PMS motto was Savoir C'est Pouvoir (Knowledge is Power). The sphinx was chosen as the school emblem because the Sphinx was said to represent knowledge and wisdom.

Back of Sphinx Badge

Leslie's Sphinx badge was made in the first batch produced for PMS students by Perth jeweller J.C. Taylor. The reverse of Leslie's badge has the jeweller's name J.C. Taylor and the word sterling inscribed and a scratched number 147 at one side. It is thought the number may mean the 147th badge made. The reverse of Leslie Blechynden's PMS Sphinx badge. It appears to be for wearing attached to a hat. Unfortunately, one attachment pin is missing.

Leslie completed his schooling and left Perth Modern School at the end of 1914. He was then employed as a clerk for the firm Hatch Bros, Perth stockbrokers. His lodging address was given as: Miss Hatch 143 Monger Street West Leederville. This address, apart from the addition of what is presumably the property name, is the same address as that of Leslie's older brother Reuben Blechynden who had the address 'Merlinleigh' 143 Monger Street West Leederville printed on small personal cards in 1915.

On 1 Sep 1916 Leslie Blechynden enlisted in the Australian Armed Forces to serve overseas in World War One. At the time of enlistment Leslie was serving in 86th Infantry, a Militia unit, probably in E Company that was based in Leederville. After he enlisted for war service, he was assigned to the 48th Battalion, a unit that grew out of the 16th Battalion when the size of the AIF was doubled in 1916. When Leslie joined the 48th Battalion it formed part of the 4th Division.

Leslie's parents Clara and Arthur Blechynden considered Leslie too young to enlist as his elder brother Reuben had done. Leslie's reply was, 'Surely you know I would not let old Reub go to war on his own.'

On 28 Oct 1916, a fortnight before Leslie sailed away to war, his mother Clara gave him a small and beautiful book of the New Testament. Leslie carried this with him overseas. After Leslie was killed in action on 1 Jul 1917 the Testament was returned to Arthur and Clara with Leslie's other Effects. On 28 Oct 1922 Clara passed the Testament gift on to her youngest son Raymond Arthur Blechynden.

Four images of the small and lovely New Testament given to her son Leslie Blechynden by his mother Clara as a parting gift before he sailed away to serve in World War One.

These four images are courtesy of Raymond Blechynden's son Ken in whose possession the Testament now rests.

So, Leslie sailed away on 9 Nov 1916 aboard the troopship Argyllshire. But he and Reuben were not together at the front as they may have hoped. Reub was with the 10th Light Horse and the Imperial Camel Corps in the Middle East and Leslie was posted to the Western Front in Europe.

He disembarked the Argyllshire at Devonshire U.K. 10 Jan 1917, marched to training at Codford U.K. 11 Jan 1917 and was in France taken on strength of 48th Battalion by 21 Jun 1917. Tragically, he died of wounds received in action at Hill 63 Belgium on 1 Jul 1917.

The War Diary for July 1917 shows that Leslie, with the 48th battalion was based at Ploegsteert, Belgium, 16 kms south of Ypres on 1 Jul 1917. The diary states that '... on 1 Jul 1917 'Shelling fairly heavy during the night and early morning ...'

Leslie was severely wounded by a bursting shell just after taking up gas guard duty on Hill 63 near Ploegsteert Wood. He was taken to a nearby dressing station for treatment but died soon after. Like many before him and many after him who lost their lives in war, Leslie was only nineteen.

The Testament listed would be the small and beautiful New Testament, Leslie's gift from his mother Clara.

Nobody in the family could have known when Raymond received the Testament from his mother, Clara, that World War One 'The War to End All Wars' would be followed very soon by World War Two and that Raymond would also leave home to fight overseas. Very happily, Raymond in WW2, like his oldest brother Reuben in WW1, returned home safely when peace ensued.

Frank Pearce, husband of Leslie's oldest sister Lila (nee Blechynden) Pearce, had the sad duty of writing to Australian military authorities to forward Leslie's certificate of death in order for Frank to prove Leslie's will. A copy and translation of the Frank Pearce letter follow.

The post card following is as it was in Leslie’s brother Reub’s keepsakes. It seems an attempt was made at the time the card was received to remove the official note pasted over what Leslie had written, but only a little can be deciphered. The date in the top left corner says: ‘Taken 3rd (March or May)? 1917.’ The tiny part of the message to be seen says, ‘With best love from Les.’

The front of the postcard has the photograph of Leslie shown at the beginning of this tribute. It is a much-loved photograph of Uncle Les copied for, received by, and treasured by many members of the Blechynden families.

Pioneers of the Preston was researched and compiled by Dianne Black, Janet Holman and Jean Northover. The book has further information and many copies of letters and newspaper articles. Some of the information and copies of photographs and other items concerning Leslie are included below for the above tribute to Leslie by his niece Jill Feutrill.

EXCERPTS from PIONEERS OF THE PRESTON:

Leslie Thomas Blechynden is on the Roll of Honour at the Australian War Memorial in Canberra, Memorial Panel: 145.

For the rest of her life his sister Edith kept a number of cherished items relating to Les, including two memorial pamphlets and an epaulet from his jacket. These have recently been given to the Bridgetown RSL and are currently on display. Leslie's mother, Clara, had the badge from his uniform framed and presented it to 'Lila Pearce with love from Mother.' Lila shared this memory of Leslie with her sister Edith.

4. BLECHYNDEN, IVY MAY (1900-1956) was born on the 19 Jun 1900, Blackwood, WA [Reg. 90]. Ivy May Blechynden died 6 Mar 1956, Fremantle, WA [Reg. 115]. Sadly, she was crossing Canning Highway near Canning Bridge when she was knocked down by a utility, receiving massive injuries.

Ivy May Blechynden

Ivy was raised in Bridgetown and regularly attended Sunday School at St Paul's Anglican Church in Bridgetown, then became a teacher herself. It was at one of the dances held at the Yornup Hall located eight miles south of Bridgetown where Ivy met her future husband 'Archie' Hyder.

Ivy was married on the 5 Jun 1929 to WILLIAM ARCHIBALD HYDER, 'ARCHIE', Blackwood, WA [Reg. 27]. They were married in St Paul's Anglican Church in Bridgetown and settled on the Hyder family farm 'Exeter' in Yornup.

WILLIAM ARCHIBALD HYDER (1894-1980)

William Archibald Hyder was born on the 4 Feb 1894 at Wintersell, Longfield, Surrey, England, Parents WILLIAM EXETER HYDER and ELLEN EADE FELDWICK. William Archibald Hyder died on the 16 Feb 1980 at the Quadriplegic Centre, Shenton Park, WA.

William Archibald Hyder served in WW1: Service Number - 5781: Place of Birth - Eden Bridge England: Place of Enlistment - Blackboy Hill WA: Next of Kin - (Father) HYDER William (mother) FELDWICK Ellen Eadie. 'Archie' was a signaller which usually meant he was close to the frontline. His war record is well recorded in "Pioneers of the Preston".

'Archie' seated on the right, the person standing is unknown.

Archie and Ivy began their married life on 'Exeter' and eventually took over the Hyder family farm, at Yornup. They had two children. Their first child, Geoffrey, only lived two days. Their next child was a girl and they named her Norma.

Norma and Ivy

Ivy, having learned many skills from her mother, quickly adapted to being a farmer's wife, working alongside her husband to help run the farm. This included establishing a large flower and vegetable garden. Ivy used fruit from the orchard to make jams and preserves. From the dairy came milk, cream and homemade butter.

Archie Hyder with a load of wool bales on his truck on 'Exeter'.

Ivy and 'Archie' became strong members of the Yornup community serving on many committees and helping with a range of community activities. Their daughter Norma attended the Yornup School which was eventually closed down in 1995.

In 1949 Archie and Ivy sold their farm and moved to Perth where Archie became a supervisor with the Land Settlement Scheme for Returned Service Men from World War 11. Ivy continued with her charity in Perth. In 1955 Archie became paralysed from the waist down. The cause of the paralysis was never discovered. One year later Ivy died tragically being hit by a vehicle while crossing the Canning Highway near Canning Bridge. The accident was witnessed by Archie and Norma. This was a sad and distressing time for the family.

Following rehab, Archie became very talented at painting crockery, pottery-making and other crafts. Archie was featured in a number of newspaper articles.

William Archibald Hyder 'Archie' (Bill) passed away on 18 Feb 1980 at the Quadriplegic Centre, Shenton Park. Ivy and Archie are buried together at the Fremantle Cemetery.

5. BLECHYNDEN, GLADYS AGNES (1903-1993)

Gladys Agnes Blechynden was born on the 22 Nov 1903, Bridgetown, WA, registered in 1904, [Reg. 88]. Gladys Agnes Chapman (nee Blechynden) died 8 Mar 1993, at Craigleigh Nursing home, Berwick St, Kensington, Perth, WA.

Gladys was christened at St Paul's Church, Bridgetown, 27 Dec 1903.

Her father Arthur was a storekeeper in Bridgetown at the time. Gladys was five years old when her little sister Edith arrived in 1908 and eight years old when Raymond, the last child in the family, was born in 1912.

As many countries in Europe became involved in World War I, the ominous threat of war became closer to home. Many young men in the district signed up to join the services; among them were 'Glad's' brothers, Reub and Les. During this time Glad, with her mother and sisters, worked for the Red Cross making parcels to send to servicemen overseas. In 1916, on Aug 30, Gladys and her sister Ivy were proud to be attendants at the wedding of their sister Lila to Frank Pearce.

Gladys and Edith (seated)

Everyone became very concerned when Reub was reported missing and it became known he was a prisoner of war. Gladys was fourteen years old when her brother Leslie was killed in action overseas on 1 Jul 1917. It was a very sad and worrying time for the family. Close bonds between Lila, Ivy, Gladys and Edith were formed in their childhood and continued all during their lives, adding joy in times of happiness, sustaining them in times of sadness.

For a time, Gladys worked as a secretary and cashier in one of the main stores, Lakes, in Bridgetown which was situated on the corner of the main street (opposite where the town hall is today). She worked in an office on a mezzanine floor at the back of the shop. The money was sent to her from the front of the shop by placing it in a container which then was sent whizzing along a wire erected above head height. She then sent the change back.

In Jan 1923 Gladys Chapman, seated, (sister of the groom) and Claire Munyard (sister of the bride) looked lovely as they acted as bridesmaids at Reuben Blechynden's wedding to Dorothy Munyard. Gladys seated.

After her sister Ivy married Archie Hyder in June 1929, Gladys took Ivy's place working for their Uncle Joe Chapman in Bunbury. It was while there that Gladys Blechynden was courted by Joe's nephew Allen Chapman. Allen grew up on his father's farm 'Woodland' Preston. His early life is told in detail in other family projects. It is highly likely that Allen and Glad knew one another from childhood, meeting at family gatherings and weddings.

GLADYS AGNES BLECHYNDEN was married on the 16 Jul 1932 to ALLEN JAMES CHAPMAN, Wellington, WA [Reg. 92].

ALLEN JAMES CHAPMAN (1909-1987)

Allen James Chapman was born 6 Feb 1909, Preston, WA [Reg. 106], son of Thomas George Hambledon Chapman (1867-1941) and Sarah Jane Gibbs (1868-1850). Allen James Chapman died on the 26 Apr 1987, Pinjarra, WA.

George and Sarah Chapman and Arthur and Clara Blechynden gave their blessing for Gladys Agnes Chapman to marry Allen James Chapman in the Roeland's Church on the 16 Jul 1932. Allen Chapman and Gladys Blechynden were cousins. After their marriage Gladys and Allen lived with Allen's parents at 'Woodland', Preston, for a number of years. Allen continued to work on the farm and off farm as a contract shearer.

The family later left 'Woodland' and moved to a small hut on 'Exeter' at Yornup, the property owned by Archie Hyder and his wife Ivy, Glad's sister. While there, Jean and Leslie attended the Yornup School. The family then moved to Sawyers farm, also at Yornup, prior to moving to Hampton Street in Bridgetown. Allen Chapman was a farming contractor and shearer and was often away for long lengths of time. Glad found much support and love from her family and friends who lived nearby. Jean, Les and Neville then attended school in Bridgetown.

Allen developed a love for fishing and he and the family enjoyed many a holiday at Dunsborough. As the children grew up Allen and Gladys began thinking of the future and the decision was made to move to Dunsborough where they built a new home overlooking Geographe Bay.

Allen and Glad, proud grandparents.

Relatives remember visiting the Chapman family at their home in Dunsborough where they lived for many years and being made most welcome.

Allen Chapman was an excellent shearer and, with a large team over many years, travelled to many different areas of the state from Narembeen to the Murchison and Pilbara. He was a keen gardener and kept a large vegetable garden both in Bridgetown and Dunsborough.

Glad and Allen sold their home in Dunsborough and moved to a duplex in Cooper Street in Mandurah where they spent many happy years.

Their next move was to a villa in the retirement home at Pinjarra. Allen James Chapman died 26 Apr 1987 at Pinjarra, aged seventy-eight years. He was cremated at the Fremantle Cemetery (Anglican Section CN4 No 22).

Glad remained in her villa for a short time but then moved to the Craigleigh Nursing Home in Perth where she was closer to family. Gladys Agnes Chapman (nee Blechynden) died on 8 Mar 1993 at the Craigleigh Nursing Home, Kensington, Perth, aged eighty-nine years. She was cremated 12 Mar 1993 at the Fremantle Cemetery, (With Allen at Fremantle Cremation Section CN4 No 22, Anglican).

6. BLECHYNDEN, EDITH AMY (1908-2000)

Edith Amy Blechynden was born on the 16 Feb 1908, Bridgetown, (Blackwood), WA [Reg. 36]. Edith Amy Blechynden died on the 28 Dec 2000, Mukinbudin, WA.

Edith was christened in St Paul's Anglican Church in Bridgetown on 8 Apr 1908. Edith attended school in Bridgetown and became a very accomplished piano player.

Edith Blechynden

When she left school, Edith became a governess/teacher beginning in Bridgetown then working Collie, Mardella (between Mundijong and Serpentine), Bilbarrin (16 kilometres NE of Corrigin) then eventually at North Mukinbudin. It was in Mukinbudin where she met her future husband "Harry" Shadbolt.

EDITH AMY BLECHYNDEN married JAMES HENRY SHADBOLT, 'HARRY', Perth, WA [Reg. 1506] in 1934.

JAMES HENRY SHADBOLT (1903-1983)

James Henry Shadbolt was born on the 1 Apr 1903, in Neilborough, Bendigo, VIC. He was the son of EDWARD WILLIAM SHADBOLT (1864-1953) and EMILY CHARLOTTE STRUGNELL (1875-1951). James Henry Shadbolt died on the 25 Jun 1983, Mukinbudin, WA.

Edith Blechynden

Harry Shadbolt

Edith and Harry settled on the Shadbolt farm "Wattoning" which Harry had established. "Wattoning" was located about 15 kilometres north of Mukinbudin and is a historically significant area. The extended Shadbolt family have extensive farming interests throughout the Mukinbudin area.

Later on in their farming days, Harry and Edith moved to "Cleomine" located 11 kilometres north of Mukinbudin. A big benefit of the move there was that scheme water was available. "Cleomine" is also of historical significance and there was a small school on the property which Edith and Harry's children attended for a period of time. The old homestead is now in ruins and the school has gone.

CHILDREN OF EDITH AMY BLECHYNDEN and JAMES HENRY SHADBOLT: Barbara Jean, Margaret Joan, Lynden John and Noela Lila Shadbolt

There is much more information about Edith Shadbolt nee Blechynden and her life with Harry Shadbolt on pages 316-322 in the magnificent book 'Pioneers of the Preston'. Prints are still available via Di Black. Many members of Arthur and Clara's family have a copy of if you want more information.

Other than Margaret and her family the other children have moved on from Mukinbudin but there is an extremely large number of other Shadbolts in the Mukinbudin district.

Cleomine has significant associations with George Lansdell and his activities associated with horses and the development of a settlement. It also has associations with generations of Mukinbudin settlers, and soldier settlers, as a social and recreational venue, as well as a place for the purchase of stores. Associations with Harry Shadbolt and the introduction of the school on the site are significant.

7th CHILD OF ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN & CLARA AGNES CHAPMAN7. BLECHYNDEN, RAYMOND ARTHUR (1912-1990)*Written and compiled by his son Ken Blechynden

Raymond Arthur Blechynden was born on the 6 Jul 1912, at 'Lowlands', Bridgetown, (Blackwood), WA, [Reg. 92]. He was the seventh child of Arthur and Clara Blechynden nee Chapman. Raymond Arthur Blechynden died on the 18 May 1990, at Busselton, WA.

Raymond Blechynden

Ray was born on the kitchen table at 'Lowlands' and his oldest sister Lila was the midwife. Ray did all his schooling at the Bridgetown School. Ray helped his mother Clara in the garden and became a keen gardener himself. He was also a very keen cyclist and did many very long-distance bike rides on unsealed roads.

After leaving school he worked for his sister, Lila, and her husband Frank Pearce on their property 'Lucieville' located five miles south of Bridgetown. Below is the small hut he lived in while there. Frank and Eddie Pearce had adjoining properties and Ray purchased part of Eddie's farm. Ray named his newly acquired 160-acre property 'LERL CRAIG' after the first initial of his parents and siblings. It was named long before he met his future wife Thelma Joan Marshall. 'LERL CRAIG' is located on the South Western Highway about two miles (three kilometres) north of Yornup and contained the old "Springside" school site which by then had been relocated to Yornup.

RAYMOND ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN was in the 2/11TH BATTALION, AIF during WW2 and served in Palestine, Egypt, Tripoli, Greece and Crete. Ray was a skilled Bren Gunner but became a prisoner of war when the Germans captured Crete. He was detained at Stalag V111B located in German occupied land at Lamsdorf, Poland near the border of Germany. He escaped several times and on one occasion he was handcuffed for 67 days as punishment.

After the war RAYMOND ARTHUR BLECHYNDEN married THELMA "JOAN" MARSHALL, on 25 May 1946 in Claremont, WA [Reg. 1360]. They had met before the war when Joan was living in Bridgetown with her parents.

THELMA JOAN MARSHALL (1916-2004)

Thelma Joan Marshall was born on the 8 Aug 1916, in Cue, WA [Reg. 64]. Joan was the daughter of James Henry and Irene May Marshall, nee Baron. Joan had two sisters, Stella (Nicholls) and Beryl (Cartwright). Thelma Joan Marshall died 23 Mar 2004, Bridgetown, WA.

LERL CRAIG was developed and run as a dairy farm for many years. When Ray's war caused injuries, which were caused from service in World War II, prevented him from doing everything which had to be done to run a busy mixed farm, he and Joan decided to set up a commercial fruit packing shed on the property. The trigger to diversify finally came when Ray could no longer bend down to put the milking machine cups on his milking cow herd.

This enterprise was very successful packing and exporting fruit for up to 23 local orchardists and employed up to 14 people in the season. It did require a huge amount of work for them and their family

In about 1963 a 1000 acre mainly undeveloped property was purchased and named LANGURA, meaning emu. This farm, located 5 miles south of LERL CRAIG also on South Western Highway, was gradually developed and mainly used as a successful sheep farming property.

Ray and Joan had three children: Arthur James dec, Kenneth John and Peter Graeme Blechynden, all of whom married and had children. Son Peter and wife Donna still run LERL CRAIG which has changed significantly over the years.

Ray and Joan eventually retired to Busselton. Two of their sons Arthur (dec) and Peter took over the farms. Ken and his wife Angela, nee Jones, have helped Di Black put this Blechynden project together.

Ray and Joan were cremated and their ashes spread in the memorial garden at the historic St Mary's Anglican Church in Busselton. See story about Harrison's cousin George Blechynden for more about the significance of that church.

SEVENTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

7. BLECHYNDEN, ALFRED 'ALTY' (1871-1941) & BOVELL, MARY ELLEN (1872-1946)

Alty Blechynden was born on 13 Nov 1871 in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 13491]. He was the seventh child to be born to John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green. His oldest brother John was aged 10 years, George, 9; Edwin, 7; James, 5; and Arthur, 1 year 7 months. He was never to know his sister Charlotte who had died, the year before he was born, at the age of 15 months. It was a busy household, his five older brothers full of mischief and energy. By the time he was four years of age, two more boys; Ernest, born in 1873, and Herbert, born in Jan 1875, had been added to the family.

Alfred Blechynden

The two older boys, John William and George, were now earning their keep, working with their father on the farm and with their knowledge of handling horses becoming involved in the transport of goods and mail between Bridgetown and the surrounding districts. Edwin, James, Arthur, and Alfred attended the Bridgetown School which had been established on 1 Feb 1870. They were encouraged to do chores around the house and helped look after the younger ones.

There was great excitement in the Blechynden home when their mother gave birth to another daughter, who was named Amy. The boys all adored their little sister as she developed and grew. By the time Alfred was 12 years in 1883, three more children had been added to the family, another brother and two sisters: Clarence, May and Ada. The family now consisted of nine boys and three girls.

Alfred's older brothers were by now all working. John aged 22; George, 20; Edwin, 18; James, 16; and Arthur, 14. Alfred, by this time able to ride a horse, began working with his father on the farm and helping his brothers in the transport business. It was a very, sad, time for the whole family when their sister Ada died in 1888 at the age of almost five years.

ALFRED 'ALTY' BLECHYNDEN (1871-1941) married MARY ELLEN BOVELL (1872-1946) in 1893 in Greenbushes, WA [Reg. 249], daughter of JOHN BOVELL and MARY ANN LIVINGSTON.

BOVELL, MARY ELLEN (1872-1946) was born 1 Jan 1872, Albany, WA [Reg. 13845], father, JOHN BOVELL (1844-1900) and mother, MARY ANN LIVINGSTON (1847-1917) who were married 21 Sep 1866, in County Antrim, Ireland. [FHL Film No. 101496 Ref. ID: pg170 cn47]. Note: According to family tree records Mary Ann Livingston was born Stephenson.

The following two pages contain information about Mary Ellen Bovell's parents John Bovell (1844-1900) and Mary Ann Livingston (1847-1917) and family:

BOVELL, JOHN (1844-1900) (Via Spence Sparrow, Kendal Family Tree) was born 1844, Cullybackey, County Antrim, Ireland, son of JAMES BOVELL (1800-) and ELIZA SPENCE (1800-). He died 25 Dec 1900 at his residence at Mullalyup, WA [Reg. 26]. Registered in 1901.

Emigration: John Bovell arrived on the Palestine, Perth, WA, with his wife Mary, 05 Aug 1868.

LIVINGSTON, MARY ANN (1847-1917)

Mary Ann Livingston was born about 1847, County Antrim, Northern Ireland.

Mary Ann Bovell, Livingston, (nee Stephenson) died 10 Apr 1917, at her residence in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 6].

The Ship Inn or the Blackwood Inn

The Blackwood Inn is located on the South Western Highway in the small township of Mullalyup, situated halfway between Kirup and Balingup, approximately 200 kilometres south-east of Perth. The Blackwood Inn was built as one of the first staging inns on the road linking Bunbury to Bridgetown. As a staging inn, it played an important role in an era before the railway and motor car linked the towns of the south-west by providing a place where travellers could rest their horses, enjoy refreshments and take shelter overnight.

There, is some uncertainty as to the actual date of construction of Blackwood Inn. The first contract to transport the colony's mail between Bunbury and Bridgetown was let on 4 April 1864. Staging inns were established at Donnybrook, around 1862, and another at Balingup to accommodate travellers. The existence of outbuildings in close proximity to Blackwood Inn, and originally on the same title, suggest that inn might originally have been a farm homestead and that it accommodated the travellers on this service.

The style of the building, a late rendition of the Old Colonial Georgian, also suggests a date of construction in the mid-nineteenth century. The construction of the building has been attributed to John Coverley but is more likely to have been his father William who is listed as the grantee for Nelson Location 23 in which Blackwood Inn is sited. On 13 Sep 1873, Thomas Maslin, described as a farmer, is cited as the owner on the first certificate of title issued under the Transfer of Land Act. The next transfer is, in 1889, to John Bovell.

John Bovell was born in Ireland, in 1847, and arrived in WA aboard the Palestine on 5 Aug 1868, with his wife Mary.

John Bovell

He proceeded to settle at Mullalyup where he took up a land grant. In 1882, he was Lance Corporal (Police) and Bailiff at the local Bridgetown Court. He was due to be transferred to Victoria Plains in 1889, but retired instead and, according to Erikson, "became licensee of the Blackwood Arms at Mullalyup where he had established a farm".

On 19 Jun 1889, Nelson Location 23 was officially transferred to John Bovell, cited as "of the Blackwood Hotel Keeper" and a 'Wayside Houses Licence' was issued to John Bovell, in the same month.

A short description of John Bovell, in a book published in 1895, provides a contemporary picture of his activities:

"Mr. John Bovell., the present proprietor of the "Blackwood Inn" and surrounding farm lands, was born in 1846 in County Antrim, Ireland, and landed in WA in 1869, when he immediately joined the police in which he remained until 1889, and on retiring took over the "Blackwood Inn" and farm, which consists of 340 acres freehold, and 15,000 acres leasehold, and is admirably adapted for fruit, wheat, potatoes and oats. There are a number of cattle on the estate, which are apparently doing well, but Mr. Bovell is justly proud of his potato crops, which surpass most others grown in the district. The hotel is pleasantly situated on the Blackwood Road, and one can obtain food and refreshment of the best, provided by a genial host. Mr. Bovell, in the course of his police career, aided in the capture of some of the greatest scoundrels of the day, and relates with gusto some of his varied and trying experiences."

Bovell died in December 1900, and his wife and sons continued to run the Inn. 10 Jan 1901, probate of Bovell's will was granted to his son, William James, and Alfred Blechynden. An advertisement in a journal printed by the Morning Herald (c. 1908) paints a glowing picture of the attractions of the Blackwood Inn and the district.

Blackwood Inn, Mullalyup, WA.

The caption below a photograph of the Blackwood Inn reads as follows: "Oldest Hotel in the district. Licensed for over 20 years. Favourite Resort of Visitors from all over the State. Horses and vehicles on hire. Post Office and Telephone on the premises. Table of the best - Fruit from our own Orchard and Dairy Produce from our own Cows. Ideal Climate, Beautiful Scenery, Comfortable Home, Reasonable Tariff and the Best Liquors".

In May 1909, the property was leased to John Edward Hawes for a period of five years. At the expiration of this, the property was leased to William Henry Oliver, for a further period of five years. In October 1919, the property was transferred to Joseph Spencer Bovell who owned it until July 1927, when the property was transferred to William Ramsey and Kenneth Griffin, and passed out of Bovell family ownership.

ALFRED 'ALTY' BLECHYNDEN (1871-1941) and MARY ELLEN BOVELL (1872-1946) had nine children as below. More details re each child follow at the end of the chapter.

Mail coach made a day to remember

A number of newspaper articles, almost identical. Second one transcribed on next pg, via Trove and cuttings from May Blechynden's Album.

58 THE WEST AUSTRALIAN SATURDAY JANUARY 18 1986

COUNTRY SPECIAL

A READER RECALLS:

Mail coach made a day to remember

MANY settlers will recall the days of the mail coach, of which the late Mr Alfred Blechynden, of Bridgetown, was contractor for many years. The coach was a double-seated vehicle, and carried mail and passengers.

Thirty years ago it left Bridgetown at 7am serving the settlers en route, mostly by placing the mail in boxes at the roadside, through Yornup, Wilgarup, Balbarrup, to Manjimup Post Office and then on to Jarndup, as Jardee was then called.

About 28 or 30 years ago, when the railway came through, many settlers took up land in this locality, mostly coming from Eastern States and England.

Novel box

Then mail days were the most eagerly looked-forward-to days of the week, and how novel to those people from England was our box at "Cosy Creek."

It was almost a district box, in the form of a kerosene case with part of one side open and nailed to a huge jarrah tree which still stands at the entrance to Beith Road on the Balbarrup Road.

Judging by the quantity of mail delivered there at that time, it was almost a post office—in addition to the settlers, a number of sleeper cutters were camped in the vicinity.

Soon after 9.30am folk would begin to assemble at the box. Some of the settlers lived from three to five miles East from Balbarrup, and all looked forward to a friendly chat while waiting, as this was their best opportunity to meet.

Usually, punctually at 10am, we would hear the "trot-trot" of the horses coming over the hill. Soon they would be drawn up and a cheery "Good morning" greeted us all.

At that time Dave Bovell was driver (Alfred Blechynden's brother-in-law). Dave later enlisted for service in the Great War. Mr Alty Blechynden, who took Dave's place, was succeeded by his son, Alfred.

Orders

When the mail had been handed out, numerous and various were the orders given for articles to be brought out from Manjimup on the return journey, but whatever it may have been, very seldom was anything forgotten.

Dealing with letters and stamps necessitated the driver's hands being without gloves and during winter we often had driving cold winds, hail and rain, but even though the drivers were wet and shivering the mail had to come through just the same.

During the very hot or very cold weather, there would be a relay of horses kept at Mr Arthur Reeves' place, to be changed on both the outward and return journeys.

About the year 1917, Mr Blechynden replaced the horse-drawn coach with a motor car for the run.

By this time quite a number of the sleeper cutters had enlisted, so although there was not the same excitement on mail day, there was anxiety more than ever for letters and papers bringing news of the war and our men.

Through all those years the feeling and good fellowship existed, not only between mailmen and settlers but also among everyone in general.

Beginners

There were lots of beginners, none of us wealthy, but we were always prepared to help each other.

In earlier days the mail was brought right from Bunbury to the old Balbarrup Post Office.

Since Palgarup Mill opened and the mail is sent to Manjimup and sidings by train, we no longer have a roadside mail, excepting from Bridgetown to Palgarup on the Balbarrup Road for those settlers not near to a post office.

It behoves us all to place on record the brave work of our pioneer mailmen and their good service to our district. — C SHAW

About 70 years ago, when the railway came through, many settlers took up land in this locality, mostly coming from the Eastern States and England.

Then mail days were the most eagerly looked-forward-to days of the week.

One mail box of interest was at "Cosy Creek". It was almost a district box, in the form of a kerosene case with part of one side open and nailed to a huge jarrah tree which still stands at the entrance to Beith Road (on the Balbarrup road).

Judging by the quantity of mail delivered there at that time it was almost a post office, as, in addition to the settlers, a number of sleeper cutters were camped in the vicinity.

Soon after 9.30am the folk would begin to assemble at the box. Some of the settlers lived from three to five miles east from Balbarrup, and all looked forward to a friendly chat while waiting as this was their best opportunity to meet.

Usually, punctually at 10am, they would hear the "trot-trot" of the horse coming over the hill. Soon they would be drawn up and a cheery "good morning" greeted them all.

At that time Dave Bovell was driver. Dave later enlisted for service in the Great War and Mr Alty Blechynden who took Dave's place was afterwards succeeded by his son, Alfred.

When the mail had been handed out, many and various were the orders given for articles to be brought out from Manjimup on the return journey, but whatever it may have been, very seldom was anything forgotten.

Dealing with letters and stamps necessitated the driver's hands being without gloves and during winter driving cold winds, hail and rain, kept the driver wet and shivering.

Usually coffee and perhaps hot toasted scones would be made for the driver who would be most grateful.

During the very hot or very cold weather, there would be a relay of horses kept at Mr Arthur Reeves' place, to be changed on both the outward and return journeys.

About the year 1917, Mr Alfred Blechynden replaced the horse-drawn coach with a motor car for the run, in the interests of both speed and comfort.

By this time quite a number of the sleeper cutters had enlisted, so although there was not the same excitement on mail day there was anxiety more than ever for letters and papers bringing news of the war and the men.

Through all those years the feeling and good fellowship existed, not only between mailmen and settlers but also among everyone in general. There were lots of beginners, none wealthy, but all were always prepared to help each other.

Mr Alfred Blechynden died in 1941, and another link in the growth of the Warren district was gone. (Contributed).

The following article is an interesting one which is transcribed for easier reading, about the delivery of mail and the first Post Office at Boyup Brook during this time:

Boyup Brook Post Office.

They're off! Look at 'em! Coming up the straight. Crash! Over she goes!

Letters, parcels, mail-bags litter the trail, two frantic, kicking horses kicking free of the wreckage of the Royal Mail and continue their mad stampede with broken traces and harness dangling and flapping about their legs.

This happened about 30 years ago at shields' cross-roads, about six miles out of Boyup. The driver on that occasion was Mr Powers, from Bridgetown. Something had frightened the horses at one of the 10 gates which had to be opened and shut along the mail route. Powers walked on to Jayes, and securing a turnout, returned to the wreckage, gathered up the littered mail and continued on his journey.

In those days the mail contractor was Mr Alty Blechynden and the route he followed was as hereunder.—

Bi-weekly service (1) From Bridgetown to Dwalganup, Nix, Jayes, Dinninup, Condinup, Dickson's, Abel's, Greenfields, Bridgetown. (2) Bridgetown to Greenfields, Abel's, Dickson's, Condinup, Dinninup, Jayes, Nix, Dwalganup, Bridgetown.

From Dwalganup the mail was taken on horseback by Mr Ted Forrest to Moulton's, Sinnott's, Maslin's, Norlup, Johnson's, Landerdale, Spencer's, Davies', Dwalganup. The Kojonup mail met the Bridgetown mail at Dinninup. Later other routes were opened, run by Mr E. Blechynden, Butterly Bros, and others. Mr Alty Blechynden commenced on the Upper Blackwood route about 1901 for six years prior to that the mail am. was carried on horseback by Mr Jack May. Often in winter, when the river was flooded, riders swam their horse across the icy waters to post and receive their letters. They do such "heroic" things to-day. Too cold!

Except for heavy floods and accidents settlers could place every reliance on the times of delivery, but when trucks and cars were first introduced on the old route, they could not. Time after time the mail was bogged in creeks over which the horses would have scampered.

The first post office in Boyup was the school. Later Mrs Norris went near the present railway and the post office went there. In 1930, the existing building was built, in accordance with a standard laid down by the Federal authorities for country centres. Under the old Postal regulations, a room suitable for a post office had to be provided in a suitable position in someone's house. For this the master or mistress received, £60 per annum. The hours ranged from 6 a m. to midnight.

In those days, or nights, receivers would be taken from the phones and across the wires to outlying stations would float the strains of someone's piano, violin, mouth-organ or vocal effort. Radio loud speakers have replaced this form of entertainment. Mrs Wauchope was postmistress at the school for a number of years. The mail was then brought from Bridgetown by Mr Alty Blechynden, the old route being altered to take in the Boyup townsite. Mrs Norrish next had the office at her house, Miss Norrish being the postmistress. After her came he sic, during whose term the shooting affair which so startled the district took place. Then came Miss Ryan, Mr Orr, Mrs Meagher, Mr Roberts, Mr Metcher and Mr Simpson.

To-day we have a fully equipped up-to-date post office, with a master and two assistants, run in a most capable and efficient manner.

In July, 1921, there were 10 subscribers on the telephone. The number gradually increased, until today we have 46. In November, 1929, private mail boxes were put in.

There are now four inward and three outward mails, also a bi-weekly road mail run by Mr H. Hopkins. For many years the road mail was carried by Mr Herb Thorley, of Bridgetown. Much more could be said, especially of interest about the old days of buggy and horseback mails, but those picturesque times have given place to expensive cars and more expensive aeroplanes—in other districts.

The next article tells of when Alfred Blechynden was attacked by a bull, while on horseback:

ALFRED BLECHYNDEN Driven Off by Cattle Dog

Bridgetown, Nov 14 – Attacked by a bull while on horseback a few days ago, Mr. A. Blechynden, of Bridgetown, suffered bruises and lacerations to a leg as a result of being forced against a barbed-wire fence and the horse received several cuts, The bull was driven off by a cattle dog.

While riding the horse in one of his paddocks, Mr Blechynden passed fairly close to a bull that had been dehorned. The animal suddenly charged and striking the horse just behind the forelegs, almost carried it and the rider for about six yards, forcing them onto a barbed-wire fence. The cattle dog immediately tackled the bull, distracting his attention for a moment, but the bull again charged the horse and rider and again jammed them against the fence. Once again, the dog came to the rescue and severely heeling the bull, drove him off.

BRIDGETOWN CLUB

ROBERT GREY

A DOUBLE BLECHYNDEN'S THREE WINNERS

The Bridgetown Trotting Club held their eighth electric light meeting on Saturday evening when the attendance was only fair which was rather surprising in view of the fact that the evening was an excellent one for outdoor sports. On the whole the fields were better and the racing more interesting than at the previous meeting. The two chief events drew the largest fields and the racing was particularly keen but an unfortunate incident occurred in the January Mile which robbed the race of interest. Two horses got away to a flying start and the starter sent off a second shot to bring them back on their marks. Most of the drivers failed to hear this and consequently covered a full lap before the warning to pull up was given. No further cartridges were available on the track and the race was started by calling "Go." It was unfortunate that several horses were very late in getting away particularly Ostenette and Lady Tennessee and consequently their chance of winning was nil. In fact, Connell, the driver of Ostenette, was standing alongside his spider when the race started. At the close of this event Blechynden, the driver of Hilton Derby, was asked to explain his reason for forcing a passage, it being alleged that he forced through and caused Alf Fayette to hit up against Tarabon's spider. The stewards, with the exception of Mr. Alf Blechynden, who refused to take part; by reason of the driver being his son, held an enquiry and fined Blechynden £2.

Despite the fine mentioned Blechynden had a very successful night. He piloted Robert Grey to victory twice also gained third place with this horse. He also drove the winner of the main event, Hilton Derby, and was second in the January Mile with the same horse. Hilton Derby put up the excellent time of 2 26 in the Haggerty Cup and was only half a second slower in the mile race. . .

Via Lori M Blechynden: " My father and 3 uncles were/are all into harness racing and later Thoroughbreds too. Pope Blechynden (mentioned above and my Dad's Uncle) had the Capel Pub and was also into racing. Rogan Josh spent time in the paddock next door (as a tourist attraction of sorts) after winning the Melbourne Cup in 1999, thanks to Pope's son Terry. Rogan Josh is now living out his years at Living Legends in Melbourne. Fun fact, my partner was his veterinarian in Perth before he went to be trained by Bart Cummings.

Alfred Blechynden died 17 Jan 1941 in Bridgetown Hospital, WA. The funeral was held, 20 Jan 1941, at a service at St Paul's Church, Bridgetown, WA, burial at the Bridgetown Cemetery.

Mary Ellen Bovell died 10 Apr 1946, "Fermoy" Hospital, Northam, WA. The last remains were brought from Northam to Bridgetown. A memorial service was held at the St. Paul's Church, the Rev. Pelham Thorman officiating, which following the internment took place at the Bridgetown Cemetery.

The 2/ tote introduced for the first time was not well patronised.

Six horses started in the Encourage Stakes and during the preliminary Padlock endeavoured to jump a damp patch in the track and came down, fortunately without injury. Mari Heather was late off the mark and was not able to make up the ground was not able to make up the ground lost. Rowa Stretta set up a good pace with Fay Merton and Padlock with Meladonis commencing to pick up ground. Running for the bell the four horses were well bunched and in the run home Rowa Stretta had about two yards to spare at the post. Meladonis was fourth while Lord Windsor pulled up.

The field of four were away smartly in the Manjimup Handicap the position over the first three laps being Robert Grey, Lord George, Fay Merton and Simple Patch. Simple Patch did not settle into his usual swinging stride and broke on several occasions to drop back. Commencing the final lap Lord George was almost on even terms with Robert Grey, Johnny Fayette being 40 yards back. With a quarter of a lap to go Lord George broke and dropped back and was 15 yards behind the winner at the post.

In the Balingup Handicap Meladonis was the only one late in getting away but the field settled down quickly with Rowa Stretta, Padlock, Meladonis, Hilton Medlow and Robert Grey in that order. The horses were well bunched at the end of the second lap with Meladonis in second position and Robert Grey in third place. Starting the final lap Robert Grey had his head in front of Rowa Stretta and Padlock. Meladonis was handy but broke and dropped out. Robert Grey went on to beat Rowa Stretta by five yards with Padlock 40 yards back. Hilton Medlow was fourth.

The best field of the night, nine horses, went on their marks for the Haggerty Cup, no less than four horses being jacked down to 2's. Lelaine and Tarabon caused trouble at the start. Lelaine came down on the track and it was sometime before a start could be made. Lucky Boy was late in getting away and dropped to the rear of the field. Toddling Heather and Bob's Fancy set a merry pace at the head of the field followed by Alf Fayette, Tarabon and Hilton Derby, Simple Patch, Ostenette and Lucky Boy being well back. In next lap Hilton Derby and Tarabon commenced to make a run and drew up quickly on the leaders; the former continued his run to go to the head of the field and hold that position to the close. Toddling Heather dropped back to fourth position, places being filled by Bob's Fancy and Tarabon.

Four horses went on their marks in the Harvey Handicap with Robert

MR. ALTY BLECHYNDEN

It is with regret that we record the death early on Sunday morning of Mr. Alfred Blechynden, of Rowe street, Bridgetown, at the age of 69 years. The late Mr. Blechynden had not been well for some time but the duration of his last illness was barely a week.

He was born at Bridgetown, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden, one of the first settlers in the district (his brother John, who died some years ago, being the first white male born in Bridgetown) and during his long life had done much to open up the country and assist in the progress of the district. For a number of years he was a member of the Bridgetown Road Board and for many years he carried out mail contracts in the district both by horse and motor. He was married at Greenbushes at the age of 21 years and leaves a wife and nine children to mourn their sad loss, one of them, Morris, being with the A.I.F.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place in the Church of England portion of the Bridgetown cemetery on Monday afternoon, the last sad rites being performed by the Rev. T. O. Hurst. Pall bearers were Messrs. C. V. Draper, J. H. Smith, M. J. Crowd, M. H. Campbell, W. J. Giblett and D. McClure; carriers were Messrs. K. Walter, V. A. Doust, Jack McAlinden and Jack May. Messrs. W. Moyes and Son, funeral directors, carried out the arrangements.

Floral tributes were placed on the grave as follows:

Domes: Miss Hodgkin and Jack; "B" Coy., A.I.F. Boys at Naval Base, Wexham; Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and Owen; Mrs. Connell and Eileen; Mr. and Mrs. K. Walter; Reub, Dorothy and Jill; Mr. and Mrs. Ramage, Olive and Harold; Arthur, Clara and Ray; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. Obituary MARY ELLEN BLECHYNDEN (1872-1946)

We regret to record the death at 'Fermoy' Hospital Northam, on April 9, following a serious operation of Mary Ellen Blechynden, relict of the late Alfred Blechynden. With her passing, there breaks yet another link in the chain of those early pioneering families who blazed the track of the South-West. The late Mrs. Blechynden was the daughter of the late John and Mary Ann Bovell and was born in Albany 74 years ago. For the greater part of her life, she resided in the Bridgetown district and was married at Greenbushes by the Rev Brand to Alfred, the son of the late John Blechynden. She was widely known, well liked, and had a very wide circle of friends, especially among all the early pioneering families who in their day bore the vicissitudes and difficulties associated with establishing their homes in the trackless forests of the South-West. Like that of other well-known families the name of Blechynden will be forever associated with the early development of the lower South-West.

The last remains were brought from Northam to Bridgetown. A memorial service was held at the St. Paul's Church, the Rev. Pelham Thorman officiating, which following the interment took place at the Bridgetown Cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs Henry Doust, M. H. Campbell, M. J. Crowd, Keith Walter, -J. H. Smith, carriers Messrs A. T. Moulton, F. Moriarty, F. N. McAlinden and J. Draper.

The large assemblage that followed the cortege and the many floral tributes received were attributed to her many sterling qualities.

Wreaths were sent by: Gert and Alan; Son and Maud; Noel and Myrtle; Nick, Molly, Roland and Gillian; Minna, Freda and Maurice; Alice and John; Bill and Joan, Judith and Barbara; Colin, Nancy and little Marylin; Bob, Don Vernon and Ross; auntie May; aunt Aggie J and Jean; Mary, 'and family (Mullalyup); Dave and family; uncle Frank; Bob, Bessie and family; Howard and Betty; aunt Nellie and Audrey; Ernest, Agnes Reg and Lorna; Clara and Ray; Dorothy and John, Glenpennant cousins; all at Glentullock; Alma, Era and family; Walter, Enid and children; Frank and Evelyn Giblett; Ada Giblett, Dingup; C. Like that of other well-known families the name of Blechynden will be for ever associated with the early development of the lower South-West. She leaves behind to mourn her passing ten children and a very large number of relatives, to whom much sympathy is expressed at their sad loss.

The last remains were brought from Northam to Bridgetown. A memorial service was held at St. Paul's Church, the Rev. Pelham Thorman officiating, following which the interment took place at the Bridgetown Cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs Henry Doust, M. H. Campbell, M. J. Crowd, Keith Walter, J. H. Smith, carriers Messrs A. T. Moulton, F. Moriarty, F. N. McAlinden and J. Draper.

The large assemblage that followed the cortege and the many floral tributes received were a tribute to her many sterling qualities.

Wreaths were sent by:
Gert and Alan; Son and Maud; Noel and Myrtle; Nick, Molly, Roland and Gillian; Minna, Freda and Maurice; Alice and John; Bill and Joan, Judith and Barbara; Colin, Nancy and little Martin; Bob, Don, Vernon and Ross; auntie May; aunt Aggie, Hill View. Bridgetown, June 21.

Dear Aunt Mary, -I am once more going to write you a letter for the competition. In my last letter I said I would tell you about the Empire Day festival. The Bridgetown school children were very disappointed, because they could not go to Bunbury, as the train did not start from Bridgetown. But I think we all had a very enjoyable day up here. We went to school in the morning, and at 2 o'clock all the children marched up to the ground where the sports were held. The ladies provided refreshments. Some of the races were sack-races for boys and girls, three legged races, and the boys had high jumping; at the finish there was a tug-o'-war. After all, had had some tea, "God Save the King" was sung and then we came home. I was glad to see the little baby's photograph in the "Western Mail" that has been so ill. I think he is a nice little fellow. I do hope that the little boy that has pneumonia will not have another bad turn. It is very hard on little babies to be ill. My youngest brother has not been well lately, but is getting well again. I have had toothache very badly and my face was all swollen up for five days. The weather has been very wet and cold these last few weeks. One of our little canaries died the other day with the cold. I have one hundred and seventy post-cards now, but I want a lot more to fill my album; it holds five hundred cards. My sister Minna has a nice lot also. There is going to be a concert and a plain and fancy-dress ball in aid of the new hall on the 25th of this month. The Silver Chain concert is to be on July 1; we were going to have had it on the 4th, but a circus is coming down on that day. My sister is learning to ride, and she is getting on very well. I will now close, with fond love to Nurse. Babs., and yourself, - I am your loving niece,

GERTRUDE A. BLECHYNDEN, age 14 years.

GOLD MEDAL AWARDED TO GERTRUDE BLECHYNDEN.

(1910, Aug 6) We publish this week the Silver Chain good service medal, which has been awarded to Gertrude Blechynden for the splendid work she did for the Silver Chain in organising a children's plain and fancy-dress ball in Bridgetown. The ball resulted in the sum of £17 10s. 8d. being sent to the "Western Mail" office to help forward the work. The trustees of the Silver Chain desire to express their deepest thanks to Miss Gertrude Blechynden and her friends for this help, which made possible much being done for the sick and distressed through Nurse Cherry and Nurse Tait, which would otherwise have been impossible. It is through such unselfish workers that the Silver Chain has been enabled to grow in strength and helpfulness.

Brierley-Blechynden

Brierley-Blechynden

A quiet wedding, of considerable interest to Bridgetown and Albany people, was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, Bridgetown on Wednesday the 11th December at 2 p.m. when Gertrude Agnes, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Alfred Blechynden of Bridgetown, was married to Mr Alan Brierley of "Bargalup" Mt. Barker, only son of Mrs and the late Mr B. Brierley of "Barcroft", Perth Road, Albany.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. Davis and the church was very prettily decorated by the sisters and friends of the bride, with an archway of pink roses and canterbury bells, from which was suspended a good luck horse shoe, and a big wedding bell was also suspended in the doorway of the church. Each pew on the aisle side was also decorated.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an attractive frock of Alice blue Crepe Kateka with plain well cut skirt and cowl effects at the neck, the long full sleeves being finished at the wrist with silver buttons. With this was worn a smart navy blue straw hat with feather to match the frock, and navy blue shoes. A lovely bouquet of pink carnations and fern tied with silver, (kindly made by Miss Clarice Hill) was carried by the bride.

The little bridesmaid, being Miss Dorien Blechynden, cousin of the bride, wore a sweet girlish frock of pale pink sand crepe shirred at the neck and waistline and hat to match. She carried a posy of blue delphiniums.

Mr J. A. Barnsby, of Albany, carried out the duties of best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Hotel Bridgetown, where Mrs Blechynden (mother of the bride) received the guests, wearing a black and white silk moracain frock and black hat to match and she was assisted by Mrs Brierley (mother of the bridegroom) wearing a grey crepe de chene frock and coat and hat to match.

The dining room, where the reception was held, was beautifully decorated with pink roses and a wedding bell was suspended from the centre of the room. A pretty horseshoe of pink roses was formed at the back of where the bride and bridegroom were seated. Rev. Davis acted as toast master and the customary toasts were honoured after which the happy couple left by car for their honeymoon, Mrs Brierley wearing a smart navy blue travelling coat over her frock.

BOUNDY - BLECHYNDEN.

On Thursday the 12th inst., the marriage was solemnised in St. Paul's Church, Bridgetown, of William Stanley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Boundy, and Minna Elizabeth, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Blechynden, both of Bridgetown. The church was beautifully decorated by the friends of the bride, and suspended from one of the three arches, where the bridal couple stood, was a handsome wedding bell that was greatly admired. The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by the Rev. Fred Davis. The bride entered the church on her father's arm, the choir singing "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," and as the couple moved up to the altar the hymn "Lead us Heavenly Father" was sung.

The bride was dressed in white satin, the left side of the skirt, and the latest long loose sleeves being carried out in radium lace and finishings of silver beads; the bridal veil was prettily embroidered and fell to the ground forming a train; a bouquet of white dahlias, cosmos, and asparagus fern, and streamers of white satin ribbon completed a becoming toilet. The bride was attended by her two younger sisters, who were attired in simple frocks of lemon crepe de chene respectively embroidered in mauve and French blue, wearing Leghorn hats with lining of bands of narrow ribbon to match, the embroidery on their frocks, and finished with hand made yellow roses; they carried bouquets of prettily tinged yellow dahlias with narrow streamers of mauve and blue ribbon, and wearing plain gold bangles (the gift of the bridegroom) Mr. Cecil Campbell capably carried out the duties of best man.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. F. Davis.

After the ceremony relatives and friends were invited to afternoon friends were invited to afternoon tea at the Parish Hall where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Blechynden. Mrs. Blechynden wore a smart dress of black crepe de chene with loose side panels, a bodice finished with beads, and a vest of gold lace. She wore a black straw hat with large black bow finished with a smart mount, and carried a bouquet of red and pink carnations and asparagus.

The health of the happy couple was proposed by Rev. F. Davis, who remarked that it was a coincidence that it was the day and time of his own silver wedding. The toast was responded to by the bridegroom. Other toasts were the "Bridesmaids" by the bridegroom; "Parents of the bride and bridegroom" by Mr. P. A. Ewing; and the chairman by Mr. Keith Walter.

The happy couple left amidst showers of confetti and good wishes by motor en route to Perth and Rockingham, the bride travelling in a light slate grey gaberdine tailored frock with the sleeves and long cream front handsomely braided in grey and terra cotta, with hat en-suite, and shoes and stockings to match. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a leather suitcase, and the bridegroom's gift to the bride a silver manicure set of unusual design. The bridal dresses were the work of Mrs. M. Campbell, a personal friend of the bride.

Many beautiful presents and congratulatory telegrams were received. To conclude a happy day a dance was held in the Parish Hall that evening.

OBITUARY

Late Miss Cynthia Boundy

Very suddenly on Thursday last the death occurred at her home, Albany, of Cynthia Stanley Boundy, only daughter of Mrs Stanley Boundy and the late W. Stanley Boundy, of Bridgetown, and granddaughter of Mr and Mrs Alty Blechynden, of Bridgetown.

The deceased, who was aged 10 years and 2 months, died at about 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon, following an attack of influenza. On Friday the remains were brought to Bridgetown, where the funeral took place on Saturday. Prior to the obsequies a service was held at St. Paul's Church, where eight Brownies formed a guard as the cortege moved off. Her body was laid to rest in the Church of England portion, next to her late father, the Rev. F. Davis officiating.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs C. H. Blechynden, M. H. Campbell, M. J. Crowe, and E. Abbotts. Many beautiful floral tributes were received.

Cynthia was popular with everyone who knew her, and everyone loved her happy and bright spirit. Her sudden death came as a shock to her many friends.

Cruelty.

Maud Minard Barnes petitioned for divorce from Henry Heathcote Barnes, manager at Jubilee Downs Station, Fitzroy Crossing, in the Kimberley district, on the ground of cruelty. Petitioner, who was represented by Mr. Gordon James (instructed by Messrs. Stone, James and Co.), said that respondent was her cousin and became her husband in 1916, in New South Wales. In 1920, they came to Western Australia. They went to the Kimberley district where respondent obtained work as a stockman and kangaroo hunter. Petitioner used to help him in his work. Subsequently he obtained an interest in a pastoral property and became manager of Jubilee Downs Station. In 1926 he commenced drinking heavily and began treating her in a brutal way. He used to thrash her and had threatened to kill her. In May of this year she became so frightened that she left him. A decree nisi, returnable in six months, was granted.

This is a section of the item 'TWO YOUNG ADVENTURERS' in Pope Blechynden's section further on. It explains when Pope and a mate met up with John near Derby:

".....Next day they went by mail on their way to the station, Jublee Downs (sic. Jubilee Downs) being met half way by Johnno Blechynden who was on his way into Derby droving. They got off the mail coach here and were put on to help drove straight away. Both thought this was a great life but Bob said he was a bit stiff and was looking for a mantlepiece the next morning. Of course, "Pope" was more used to riding and did not feel it quite so much. They are rather sorry they did not have their voices trained before they left as they were put on as night watchman for two hours at a time (watching the bullocks) and had to walk round these bullocks singing all the time.

MAN DIES IN SMASH AT MOORA

MOORA. Sun.-Alfred John Blechynden (51), grazier of Moora, was killed instantly in a road accident on Friday night. The utility truck he was driving left the road and crashed into a tree eight miles south of the town. Mr. Blechynden's neck was broken and his chest severely crushed. He was dead when found by a passing motorist about 7.10 p.m. It is believed that the utility skidded and then failed to take a bend. Mr. Blechynden's watch had stopped at 6.20 p.m., and this is thought to have been the time at which the accident occurred.

DEATH OF MR. A. J. BLECHYNDEN

The friends of the late Mr. Alfred J. Blechynden, eldest son of the late Alfred and Mary Ellen Blechynden, of Bridgetown, will regret to hear of his death on June 13 when he was killed in a motor accident at Moora.

DEATH OF MR. A. J. BLECHYNDEN

The friends of the late Mr. Alfred J. Blechynden, eldest son of the late Alfred and Mary Ellen Blechynden, of Bridgetown, will regret to hear of his death on June 13 when he was killed in a motor accident at Moora.

The late Mr. Blechynden was born in Bridgetown and spent his younger days with his parents in that town. He left at an early age to live in the North-West where he resided until a few years ago when he purchased a grazing property at Moora where he and his wife lived until his death.

He had a very bright personality and made many friends wherever he went. He leaves a widow to mourn her loss.

The funeral took place on Monday, June 16 after a service at the Church of England conducted by the Rev. J. Bewers.

Many friends from Moora, Perth, Manjimup and Bridgetown attended the funeral.

Floral tributes were received from the following:

Noel and Iris Blechynden had a dairy farm on the Boyup Brook Road near the Jayes Road turnoff for many years until they retired.

Noel originally worked on Giblett's property 'Hillfarm' located on South Western Highway about two miles south of Bridgetown. This is the property Noel's grandfather John Blechynden first had then it was farmed by Noel's uncle Arthur Blechynden for many years. Arthur eventually moved off the property then it seems the Giblett's purchased it. See Arthur's section for more details but it seems John or Arthur built a small building for accommodation and a dairy. When Noel lived there the Giblett's built a house for Noel and his family to live in while running the dairy farm. The cottage, house and large barn style shed have all since gone, the main house demolished for a highway realignment.

In about 1946 - 1948 Noel left 'Hillfarm' and the family moved to Moora for about two years to help his brother 'Johnno' who became ill. While in Moora, the property mentioned in the article below came on the market. It was purchased by Pope Blechynden on Noel's behalf.

PROPERTY SALES

Mr. Pope Blechynden, of Bridgetown, has purchased Mr J. Tucak's property on the Bridgetown-Boyup Brook Road. The area of the property is 160 acres and Mr. Blechynden proposes devoting it to dairying.

It seems this property was purchased by Pope on behalf of Noel. It is presumed the farm purchase was arranged by Pope then transferred to Noel as in those days it was difficult to arrange remote purchases. The farm may have been purchased by someone else if Pope hadn't helped out.

When Noel and family left Moora, they moved back south onto the above property which they named "LANSDOWN". It is here they raised their family and lived there for the rest of their working life. This farm was at the Bridgetown/Boyup Brook shire boundary and the back of the farm extended down to Jayes Road.

EULOGY FOR IRIS MYRTLE BLECHYNDEN (NEE PIGGOTT):

Iris Myrtle Blechynden second eldest child of Frederick Charles & Elizabeth Gertrude Piggott. Born 25/09/1911 at Bridgetown. Myrtle spent most of her school years at Donnybrook and after leaving school she worked as a housekeeper for the Crowd family. During this period of time she met and married Noel (Bricky) Blechynden. They started their family on the 1st of May 1930 with their first of four boys, with the birth of Alfred Charles (Bob) Followed on the 6th of July by Donald. During this time Myrtle & Bricky lived in an old stone house belonging to the Moulton family. Later moving to a house on the Gibletts farm where Bricky was working. It was here that Vernon was born on the 31/12/1937 and Ross on the 21/07/1939. After about 7 years the family went to Moora to look after Bricky's brother's farm for twelve months. Returning to live on their own farm half between Bridgetown and Boyup Brook. They farmed this property until March 1964 when they sold to the next door neighbors and moved to 48 Gibson Street Mandurah. It was while living here that Myrtle lost Bricky after a heart attack in September 1970. She continued to live at Gibson street until November 1995 when she moved to Randell Street and finally to Wearne house in April 1999.

WEDDINGS.
South Perth
Blechynden-Tulip.

A pretty wedding was solemnised in the Perth College chapel on January 5, when Nick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Blechynden, of Bridgetown, and Mollie, daughter of Mr. H. H. Tulip, of Mt. Lawley, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arch-deacon Riley, and Miss Margaret Cunningham officiated at the organ.

The bride was given away by her father and looked charming in a white satin gown, with long sleeves, and a cowl collar. The veil fell from a cap of lace circled with orange blossom, and she carried a shower bouquet.

The bridesmaid, Miss Alice Blechynden, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed in powder blue pebble crepe, with pink hat and pink bouquet of roses. Shirley and June Veale, twin nieces of the bride, as train bearers, added to the prettiness of the scene. They were dressed in dainty, long pink frocks, with puff sleeves and quaint headdress, and carried posies. Mr. Bill Blechynden, brother of the bridegroom was best man.

After the service Mr. Tulip and his daughter, Mrs. Veale, received the guests in the Masonic Hall, where the wedding breakfast was held.

Mr. S. Jackson presided, and after the customary toasts had been honoured, dancing was indulged in.

Mrs. Veale wore an ensemble of navy and white marocain, and carried a posy of old gold roses. Mrs. Blechynden, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in black georgette and lace and carried a posy of red roses. Sister Blechynden, of Albany, wore white and brown crepe de chine.

Numerous telegrams were received by the happy couple from relatives and friends far and near. Later in the evening the bridal couple left for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy and white ensemble. Mr. and Mrs. Nick Blechynden will make their future home in Bridgetown.

MARY ANN PICKETT (1863-1941) - MARY MARIA PICKET John’s mother:

Via Moran-Harding Family Tree and York Families and Footsteps.

There is some confusion with the Christian names of Mary Ann Pickett or Mary Maria Pickett: Mary Ann and Mary Maria are possibly the same person?

Mary Maria Pickett born 13 Aug 1863 York WA [Reg No. 7325], parents: PATRICK PICKET and ELIZA GARRIGAN, (note spelling of both as registered). Baptised 18 Apr 1864 Parents Patrick and Elizabeth Pickett. Her name recorded by a private researcher: Maria Anna with (Mary Ann) in brackets. I could not find her as Maria or Mary Ann in WA BDMs.

Searching death and service records for confirmation as to her Christian names.

WA Deaths: Two recordings for the death of Mary Horne.

Mary A Horne (nee Pickett) died 1944, Perth, WA [Reg. 2266].

Mary Horne died 1941, Perth, WA [Reg. 1612].

Service records of Frederick Horne, his mother is written as Mary Ann.

The very large book on the side table is the family bible referred to earlier on in Alfred's chapter.

The bible mentioned in this photo was given to M.E. Blechynden in 1896 by Alfred Blechynden and has most of the family Births, Deaths and Marriages since then recorded therein. Alice became custodian for some time and continued the recordings for many years until she died and it seems fitting that her own birth death entries be included here at the end of her section.

TWO YOUNG ADVENTURERS

"POPE" BLECHYNDEN AND BOB GRAHAM

Quite a few letters have been received from the parents of these two boys since they left for the North-West and, so far, have had quite a bit of experience.

The boat went right up to Wyndham where they were shown over the meat works by a friend, Jack Downey who, by the way, used to be in this town. The works were wonderful and it was very interesting to watch the different processes.

They returned to Derby and leaving the boat went to the hotel where they were welcomed by the proprietor of the hotel and shown round, everyone being quite friendly to them and made them feel that they liked the place straight away. Next day they went by mail on their way to the station, Jubilee Downs (sic. Jubilee Downs) being met half way by Johnno Blechynden who was on his way into Derby droving. They got off the mail coach here and were put on to help drove straight away. Both thought this was a great life but Bob said he was a bit stiff and was looking for a mantlepiece the next morning. Of course, "Pope" was more used to riding and did not feel it quite so much.

They are rather sorry they did not have their voices trained before they left as they were put on as night watchman for two hours at a time (watching the bullocks) and had to walk round these bullocks singing all the time. Returning to Derby with the bullocks they were invited to have a game of tennis against the two "cracks" of that town. Bob and "Pope" beat them 6-0, so these two men think there must be some tennis players down in the South-West.

The last word received is that Maurice is on Mount Anderson station and is driving a "donkey" team of 46 into Derby with wool, he being boss which he says is a decent feeling and the old nigger belts the donkeys for him when they need it. He will be a full-blown donkey driver soon as he has three trips to his credit and it takes 14 days for each one.

Bob is on another station "Nookan Bar" (sic. Noonkanbah) quite a lot and says it is great. Of course, they will see a lot of one another at various times and have a good talk about their experiences.

So far there is no talk of them being "home sick" although they miss the sport. They both say they miss a good old game of football, and wish both the Warriors and Rovers a good season.

Wedding... of the Week

BLECHYNDEN—AWCOCK

A wedding of great interest was solemnised at St. Brigid's Church, Bridgetown, on January 7, the contracting parties being Catherine, only daughter of Mrs. C. Awcock, of Bridgetown, and the late Mr. P. Awcock, to Maurice, fifth son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Blechynden. The Rev. Father Kelliher officiated.

The bride who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Jim Awcock, was beautifully gowned in white slipper satin, featuring long, tight sleeves, fitting bodice (high neckline with net insert which was embroidered with white sequins. The full gathered skirt fell into deep folds and formed a train. Her lovely circular tulle veil, loaned by Mrs. McInnes, was held in place with sprigs of orange blossom. She carried a sheath of carnations, rosebuds and erica.

The bride was attended by Miss Marjorie Meares, who looked charming in buttercup crepe romaine, embroidered with blue sequins. She wore a wreath of primroses with a short blue net veil and carried a bouquet of carnations and delphiniums.

After the ceremony about 60 relatives and intimate friends were entertained at a sherry party at Scott's Hotel, the guests being received by the bride's mother, Mrs. Awcock, assisted by Mrs. A. Brierley, sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Awcock wore a black beaded tin back crepe frock, featuring a beige lace yoke, with matching accessories and a spray of frangipanni.

Mrs. Brierley was attired in black tin back crepe with beaded yoke. She wore black accessories.

After the usual toasts were honoured the bride cut the beautiful three-tier wedding cake, which was made by her mother. Later in the evening the bridal couple left for their honeymoon, by car, the bride travelling in a slim fitting dark red moss crepe frock with half peplum and embossed yoke. She wore a beautiful string of pearls and white accessories.

Many thanks to Pope and Kit's daughter Sally Turner who provided much of the following information on Pope and Kit's history.

Pope and Kit managed the Scott's Hotel for the family estate from about 1946. As above, Kit became the licensee on 29 April 1946. The hotel was held in a trust at the time after the death of Felix (Dick) Scott in 1946.

MAURICE GREEN 'POPE' BOVELL BLECHYNDEN AND CATHERINE 'KITTY' AWCOCK HAD THREE CHILDREN: Terrence Alfred, Sally and Dixie.

It seems there was a major trotting event, the SOUTH WEST DERBY MEETING held on 24 Jan 1948 in Bridgetown. One of the feature races was the POPE BLECHYNDEN MILE. Presumably this was sponsored by Pope. The next two items refer to this race:

POPE BLECHYNDEN MILE
Of £34. Scr. mark 2.32

Fairfield, Heather Wyn and General Daly were scratched, and once again backers' calculations were out, the 6/1 Prince Olaredo winning in brilliant fashion by six yards from Druggist, who went out a hot 2/1 on favourite and there was also a lot of money for Rockonda, which was backed down to 6/4. Druggist got well away from Secret Folly and Rockonda, with Broad Lady hemmed in on the rails and that was the order racing for the bell when Prince Olaredo made a burst to take the lead and passed the post first with Druggist six yards back and Rockonda another yard back.

Betting 5/1 Prince Olaredo (40yds), 2/1 on Druggist (scr.), 6/4 Rockonda (scr.), 5/1 Secret Folly (scr.); 8/1 Broad Lady (10yds).

Publicans
Get Together

Messrs. Dave Jack, Pope Blechynden, Glen McAlinden and George Fenton, licensees of Bridgetown's four hotels, met on Thursday of last week in an endeavour to bring about uniformity of liquor prices in Bridgetown. It had been reported that the price of one brand of wine in one hotel was a shilling cheaper than in another.

Mr. George Fenton said after the meeting that the sole object of the get-together was to stabilise prices and raise the standard of the hotels in the Bridgetown district. He said that in the past prices had been worked out on Perth values and each publican had placed his own price on wines and liqueurs. This had brought about slight differences in the price of some brands. In the future, however, all hotels would place the same charge on wines and liqueurs. The hotel-keepers of Bridgetown will also endeavour to improve service to the public, he said.

It is interesting that Kit was the licensee yet Pope is written up as the Publican.

PROPERTY SALES
Mr. Pope Blechynden, of Bridgetown, has purchased Mr J. Tucak's property on the Bridgetown-Boyup Brook road. The area of the property is 160 acres and Mr. Blechynden proposes devoting it to dairying.

Sally Turner commented:

It seems this property may have been purchased on behalf of Pope's brother Noel, who was helping out on a family farm at Moora at the time. It is presumed the farm purchase was arranged by Pope then transferred to Noel as in those days it was difficult to arrange remote purchases. The farm may have been purchased by someone else if Pope hadn't helped out.

The hotel was sold later and Pope and Kit moved to a small, mixed farm at Ferguson Valley about 1950. The farm was about 7 kilometres East of Dardanup, next to where St. Aiden's Winery is today.

In about 1955/56 they moved to Guildford to a small "tuck shop" and grocery on Johnson St. About 1957/58 they moved to North Perth while Pope gained more Bar experience working at a club in the city. And, about 1958/59 they took a 3-year lease on the Lancelin Inn. Following this, they moved back to Perth (Monash St. Como) whilst looking for a pub to buy in the south west.

They took a lease on the Capel Inn in 1962, then purchased it in 1967 from Mr Percy Payne of Bunbury. About 1980 they retired to Bunbury and their son Terry took over the Capel Inn.

WEDDING BELLS —oOo— BLECHYNDEN—WHITE On Monday, May 8, at the Church of England, Bridgetown, a pretty wedding was solemnised by the Rev. E. H. Strugnell between Nancy, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. White, of Greenbushes, and Colin, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Blechynden, of Bridgetown. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, looked charming in a frock of white satin, cut on medieval lines, with long sleeves and train, her veil was of tulle and she carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Margaret and Dorothy White (sisters of the bride). They were daintily frocked in midnight blue tulle over taffeta, made on early Victorian lines, full skirts, puff sleeves and bodices trimmed with gold lime. They wore gold haloes and carried bouquets of gold roses. Messrs. Maurice Blechynden and Will White carried out duties as best man and groomsman respectively. The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride.	After the ceremony the breakfast and reception were held in the Bridgetown Lesser Hall. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a cinnamon wool de chene frock with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was frocked in blue and white sheer georgette with accessories to match. The Rev. E. H. Strugnell presided and proposed the loyal toast, followed by that of the bride and bridegroom. The toast of the bride's parents was proposed by Mr. Dilks, and that of the bridegroom's parents by Mr. Campbell. At the conclusion of the breakfast the bride cut the cake, after which a dance was held. Later in the evening the happy pair left by car for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy satin frock with matching accessories, a navy pill-box hat and a long fur coat (present from the bridegroom). They were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents.

It is interesting that there were two Colin Blechynden's who married a Nancy. COLIN HORACE BLECHYNDEN (1916-1996) married NANCY ELIZABETH POPE (1920-2003), 1939, in Perth, WA. He is descended from the Charles Edwin Blechynden line from Beverley. I wondered if they knew of one another.

Julie Isherwood commented: With regards the two Colin Blechyndens, I was aware of this. Dad always referred to them as the Beverley ones and we would be proud to be the Bridgetown ones. I am sure the other Colin would say the same. Both Colin's had sons and I believe they both worked for Wesfarmers. My dad in Bunbury and Beverley Colin in Beverley. At different times their sons passed away and each Colin Received sympathy cards for the loss of their sons. This is a vivid memory for me.

Colin Bovell Blechynden (1917-1999) with the assistance of the research of Ken and Angela Blechynden, compiled a soft covered book, 8 x 11 inches in 1993 for family, which contained individual family Trees, photos and cuttings from newspapers. A copy of this was donated to the National Trust display at 'Bridgedale'.

EIGHT CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

8. BLECHYNDEN, ERNEST CHARLES (1873-1949) & MOORE, AGNES BLINCO (1880-1959)

Ernest Charles Blechynden was born on 13 Jul 1873 in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 14933], registered by Sarah Jane Green in Perth, (his mother Elizabeth's younger sister, 9th child of George Green and Jane Beacham).

Ernest Charles Blechynden

His father John Blechynden was one of the first settlers in the Blackwood District having walked accompanied by two Aborigines from Beverley seeking viable land on which to apply for an allocation to farm. John married Ernest's mother Elizabeth Green in 1860 and they built the first home 'Bridgedale', in the newly surveyed town which was named Bridgetown. The story of his father and mother can be read in their own chapters.

Ernest, the eighth child was born into an already large family, the family consisting of 7 boys: John William aged 12 years, George - 11 years, Edwin - 9 years, James - 6 years and Arthur - 3 and Alfred 2 years. He was never to know his sister Charlotte who had died before he was born at the age of 15 months. One can imagine the chaos at times with so many boys full of energy. This was added to when son number 7, Herbert Edward was born in 1875.

The older children attended the Bridgetown School which had been established on 1 Feb 1870, were encouraged to do chores around the house and garden and were taught how to ride and care for a horse. One can imagine the boys loved to ride their horses helping on their father's farm.

There was great excitement in the Blechynden home when their mother gave birth to a daughter named Amy who was born in March 1877. The boys all adored their little sister as she developed and grew.

By the time Ernest was 10 years in 1883, three more children had been added to the family, another brother and two sisters: Clarence, May and Ada. The family now consisted of nine boys and three girls.

Ernest's older brothers were by now all working. John aged 22, George - 20, Edwin - 18, James -16 and Arthur 14. Ernest and Alfred were gradually introduced to working with their father on the farm and with their knowledge of handling horses becoming involved in the transport of goods and mail between Bridgetown and the surrounding districts. It was a shock for the family when their sister Ada died in 1888 at the age of almost five years.

Ernest Charles Blechynden became a mail carrier, by horseback through the Warren and Blackwood Districts and for four years drove one of John Blechynden's supply teams from Bunbury to Bridgetown and later from Donnybrook to Bridgetown. He carted the first load of tin smelted in Greenbushes.

The southwest of WA rapidly changed as settlers gradually acquired their own land and small townships were formed. The need for a railway became apparent. A railway line was constructed between Bunbury to Donnybrook and from there to Bridgetown. The following article portrayed vividly the opening of this section of the railway

FESTIVITIES AT BRIDGETOWN OPENING OF THE RAILWAY.

ANNUAL SHOW.

Bridgetown, December 1.
 Bridgetown was en fete to-day, not only on account of the opening of the Donnybrook-Bridgetown railway line but also owing to the annual show in connection with the Nelson Agricultural Society. The special train from Bunbury and Busselton arrived at about 10.30, and on entering the station yard passed under a floral arch, on which were inscribed the words "Our engine means the development, advancement, and prosperity of our town and country. Blackwood, the garden of the colony. God Save the Queen." The engine severed the ribbon of blue and white, the colors of the district, which was held by Mrs. J. Allnutt, one of the oldest lady residents of the district, and Miss Prudence Walter, the eldest daughter of Mr. W. A. G. Walter, R.M. On arriving at the station the passengers to the number of about 600 disembarked, and the demonstration committee presented an address of welcome to Mr. F. H. Piesse, M.L.A., the Commissioner for Railways, who was accompanied by Mr. G. Throssell, M.L.A., the Commissioner for Crown Lands, and Mr. R. W. Pennefather, M.L.A., the Attorney-General.

In replying to the address, Mr. Piesse dilated on the effect which the opening of the railway would have on the future of the district. He expressed his regret that he had been unable to be present on the day when the first train was run. He congratulated them on fixing the date for the opening of the railway on the same day as the annual show, as it enabled visitors to the district to obtain an idea of its resources.

An adjournment was then made to the Nelson Agricultural Society's Show Ground, where Mr. J. R. Walter, the president of the society, presented an address of welcome to the Commissioner for Crown Lands. In reply, Mr. Throssell stated that his more intimate acquaintance with the resources of the colony was constantly convincing him that there were districts in other parts of the colony equally as fertile as the eastern districts.

The show, on the whole, was a distinct advance on that of last year, and proved one of the most successful ever held in connection with the society. Horses were well represented, and the same may be said of the cattle. The sheep formed an unusually strong section. Pigs were well represented. The produce was a good section, and the exhibits of cabbages were the best ever shown in the south-west. All the other sections were interesting, and the machinery was good. This is a decided innovation, as in former years there were never any exhibits of machinery worth mentioning. The attendance was unusually good.

Subsequently deputations from the council of the Agricultural Society waited on the Director of Public Works and the Commissioner for Crown Lands regarding the snagging of the river for a couple of miles on each side of the bridge, and the reservation of 20 acres on the commonage for the purpose of an agricultural society's ground. Sympathetic replies were given in both cases.

In 1898 Ernest was aged 25 years. "Before coming to the Upper Blackwood, he managed 'Capeldene', the estate of Col Brazier at Donnybrook and it was while managing the 'Greenfields' estate near Boyup Brook that he selected his property from virgin bush. He named his property 'Highbury'. This he worked into a prosperous farm during which time he became one of the first members of the Upper Blackwood Road Board.

BOYUP BROOK: <https://www.boyupbrook.wa.gov.au/township-history.aspx>

Boyup Brook was declared a town site on Feb 9, 1900 and a school was constructed in the same year. After the railway from Donnybrook was extended to reach Boyup Brook town site in 1909, Boyup Brook became the commercial and administrative centre for the district.

With hard work, Ernest's property 'Highbury' was now becoming established. During this time Ernest met a young woman named Agnes Blinco Moore from Capel. She was the youngest child of 12 children born to John Arthur Moore and Mary Eliza Stallard. More details of this family following.

All Saints Anglican Church: <https://allsaintsdonnybrook.org/about-us/>

All Saints' Anglican Church is the oldest public building in Donnybrook and is a very fine example of a building constructed of Donnybrook stone. It is the only Anglican Church building of Donnybrook stone in the south-west and one of a few public buildings of Donnybrook stone in the state.

Foundation stone dated 1906... On 29 Jun 1907, Bishop Goldsmith, of Bunbury, dedicated the Church, 'one of the most handsome and stately edifices in the Diocese' (Western Mail ibid)

WEDDING BELLS.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the Anglican Church, Donnybrook, on Tuesday last, 23rd. inst, at 11.15 a.m., the contracting parties being Miss Agnes B. Moore, seventh daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, senr., of Capel, to Mr. Ernest C. Blechynden, of Boyup Brook, Upper Blackwood, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden, of Bridgetown. Miss Blechynden, sister of the bridegroom, officiated at the organ. The church was nicely decorated with greenstuff, and up the aisle were tastefully arranged emblems in floral form of Faith, Hope and Charity, the three cardinal virtues. The bridesmaid was Miss Elsie Trigwell. Mr. Herbert Blechynden, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. A great number of friends from the surrounding districts were in attendance to witness the tying of the nuptial knot, which was performed by the Rev. P. J. Ryall, B.A., Rector of Donnybrook, assisted by the Rev. W. Patrick. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a beautiful embroidered dress of white Indian lawn with transparent yoke, trimmed with rich muslin insertion with wreath, and wore a lovely hand-worked veil, carrying in her hand a pretty bouquet of flowers. The bridesmaid, a niece of the bride, wore a pretty white muslin dress, trimmed with deep insertion, stylish merry widow hat trimmed with pink and blue.

The mother of the bride wore a black lustre relieved with white lace, black bonnet with touch of white.

Mrs. V. C. Mitchell (bride's sister), black silk costume, hat to match.

Mrs. Charlie Trigwell, blue spotted voile with suitable hat.

Mrs. Dawson (bride's sister), of the Vasse, brown costume, pretty brown hat.

Mrs. Thurtle, another sister from the Vasse, cream striped silk.

Mrs. Walter Moore, white silk and pretty white hat.

Miss Moore, white and pink striped muslin and dainty hat.

Miss Laurie Moore, white muslin trimmed with embroidery.

Miss Blechynden, dark blue spot voile, vest of white lace and cream hat.

Miss Amy Blechynden, pretty cream

More on Agnes and Ernest in this chapter.

In a handwritten family tree, information given to one of the Blechynden researchers, a second child was indicated, named Mary? WA BDMs show no records of a child named Mary to this couple. Perhaps Agnes had a miscarriage and the child was stillborn.

KIRUP: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kirup,_Western_Australia

Kirup, originally named Upper Capel, then Kirup, is situated between Donnybrook and Balingup on the South Western Highway, 228 kilometres (142 mi) south of Perth, in the upper reaches of the Capel River valley. Settlement at Upper Capel began in the 1870s with Joseph Cookworthy's Rockfield cattle station, managed by John Moore. At that time all supplies were transported from Bunbury by bullock wagon, or horseback.^[2] By 1890 Upper Capel could field a cricket team, which played teams from Ferguson, Upper Preston and Greenbushes. The Upper Capel railway siding was constructed in late 1897 as part of the new Donnybrook to Bridgetown railway line.

Interesting Interview

On a short visit to Boyup last week were Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall, of Wagin.

Mr. Cornwall remembers Boyup almost fifty years ago. At that time there was little or no settlement in the Upper Blackwood District. Boyup as a township, of course, did not exist, it was merely bush. The Jayes (Sir James Lee Steere) lease was taken in Boyup, extending as far as Rocky Pool. Other lease-holders in the district were Draper and Horley, at Moodiarup, and Mann, at Benjinup.

Interesting Interview

On a short visit to Boyup last week were Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall, of Wagin.

Mr. Cornwall remembers Boyup almost fifty years ago. At that time there was little or no settlement in the Upper Blackwood District. Boyup as a township, of course, did not exist, it was merely bush. The Jayes (Sir James Lee Steere) lease was taken in Boyup, extending as far as Rocky Pool. Other lease-holders in the district were Draper and Horley, at Moodiarup, and Mann, at Benjinup.

Mr. Cornwall's father landed in W.A. in the year 1839, or '40, in company with three others—the grandfathers of the Kattanning Piesse's, Andrews and Taylors. Piesse went into business in Perth, Taylor to Yangigin, and Andrews to Noran Lake.

Mr. Cornwall's father selected land at Beaufort, and in the estate there now exists location 1, 2, 3 and 4, also location V, which was selected under the old alphabetical system in force in those early days. There were no roads, no railways, no motor cars, only trackless bush for those old pioneers to travel. They had large areas on which to pasture sheep, which were a much harder strain than the present highly bred varieties, which need all sorts of chemical and artificial luxuries. Their flocks were shepherded, by men who lived in rush huts their rations being taken to them by pack horses or buggies. Dingoes were plentiful, and at night the shepherds would light fires around a large circumference, and with dogs, keep the flocks within bounds. Each shepherd had usually a thousand sheep. The old-time dingo was not as big a variety as to-day. Interbreeding with tame dogs increased their size. The kelpie was first seen in W.A., in 1909, prior to which the dogs mostly used were the Bob-tailed Smithfield, the Bardie Collie and the Smithfield, the Bardie Collie and the German Collie. On various occasions sheep dogs were killed by the dingoes, but it is stated that sluts, which went wild were not molested. This led to the introduction of larger and stronger dogs, which would hunt and fight dingoes.

If a man were seen in the bush to-day lighting fires and herding his sheep within their radius, he would be run in for contravening the bushfires Act, or sent to Claremont by the first train, but that is how the old shepherds managed without fences, in country alive with wild dogs. Later, run fences were erected, many of which still stand to-day and will still be standing when half of our high-tension chain lightning fences have burnt and rusted away.

In the year 1883, the present Mr. Cornwall brought a mob of sheep from Beaufort to where Mr. J. Inglis now lives. That country was owned by a Mr. Mann, who leased about 20,000 acres. The sheep were pastured on this lease for the summer, then taken back to Beaufort. Later on, Mr. Mann fenced in 10,000 acres with an eight-wire fence. Giblett bought land from Mann, the Blechyndens bought it from Giblett, and in 1903, W Lee Steere bought it from John Blechynden. Abels selected on the Jay's lease also Kaufmann. Joe Taylor owned Condinup, which later became Meagher's.

Mr. Cornwall says that there were few surveys in those old days. The lease boundaries were left to the discretion of the pioneer and his shepherds.

EARLY SETTLER'S DEATH

BOYUP BROOK, Aug. 3: Ernest Charles Blechynden, the seventh son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, pioneers of Bridgetown, died suddenly at his home at Boyup Brook on Monday and was buried in the Boyup Brook cemetery yesterday. In his early days Mr. Blechynden carried mail on horseback in the Warren and Blackwood districts and drove supply teams to Bunbury and Bridgetown before the railway line was built. He was later manager of the estate of the late Col. Brazier at Donnybrook, where he married Agnes Moore in 1909. For years he was a member of the Upper Blackwood Road Board and a number of other district organisations. Mr. Blechynden is survived by a widow and son.

EARLY SETTLERS' DEATH - ERNEST CHARLES BLECHYNDEN (1873-1949)

ERNEST Charles Blechynden, seventh son of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, of Bridgetown, passed away suddenly and unexpectedly at his home, "Hilbury," Boyup Brook, on Aug 1.

So, came peacefully and painfully the end of a long and useful life of a good husband and father, a man of high moral standard, and a public spirited, pioneer of the Boyup Brook district.

To his widow and only son especially, the sympathy of all who knew him goes out.

The late Mr. Blechynden married Miss Agnes Moore, daughter of the late John Moore, well known farmer of the Preston district, in All Saint's Church, Donnybrook in 1909. There is only one son of the union, Reginald Ernest, who has for a number of years been managing the property "Hilbury." Prior to his marriage, deceased was a mail carrier (horseback) through the Warren and Blackwood districts, and for four years drove one of John Blechynden's supply teams from Bunbury to Bridgetown, and later from Donnybrook to Bridgetown. This was before the railway came to Donnybrook and from there to Bridgetown. He carted the first load of tin smelted in Greenbushes.

Before coming to the Upper Blackwood, he managed "Capeldene," the estate of the late Colonel Brazier, and it was while managing the "Greenfields" estate near Boyup Brook he selected his property from virgin bush. This he worked into a prosperous farm, during which time he became one of the first members of the Upper Blackwood Road Board, when Jayes was the centre of the district, and later for six years was a member after the centre was moved to Boyup Brook.

Late Mr. Blechynden was president and secretary of the old PPA and Progress association; secretary of the Anglican Church Committee when St. Saviour's Church was being built and later for many years a member of the Upper Blackwood Soldier's Memorial Hospital Building Committee.

SERVICE AND FUNERAL

After service in St. Saviours Church, conducted by the Rev. King, his remains were laid to rest in the Anglican portion of the Boyup Brook Cemetery. There was a large attendance at the funeral of relatives and friends from Upper Blackwood, Bridgetown and other districts. Chief mourners were his widow, his son and his son's wife. Others were his brother Charles, and his sister Mary. He leaves a widow, one son, one brother and one sister. Pall bearers were Messrs. M. Abel, R. Connolly, G. Barron, D. Doust, P. Proctor and G. R. Whitham. Funeral arrangements were in the hands of Messrs. Moyes and Sons, of Bridgetown.

Blechynden, of Boyup Brook and Miss Lorna Beatrice Barron, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Barron, also of Boyup Brook. Rev. F. Blackwell, of Mundaring performed the ceremony. The organist was Mr. E. Parker. The church was filled to overflowing and by conclusion of the ceremony a large crowd had assembled at the entrance. During the signing of the register a solo "My Prayer" was rendered by Mrs. D. Elliot. The bride was given away by her father and wore a bridal dress of white satin and lace, with Peter Pan collar buttoned down the front. Sleeves were long, finishing in points at back of the hands. The bodice was finished with a basque and the skirt fitted her girlish figure and fell gracefully to the ground in a long train. The full length embroidered lace veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. White satin shoes and a satin trimmed horseshoe hung from the waist completed this charming ensemble. She held a sheath of roses, carnations and lilies. The bride was attended by her old school-fellow, Miss Marion Dent, who was daintily frocked in pink satin with silver lame and silver flowers. Her pink tulle veil was fastened to a silver plaited halo. Silver shoes and a sheath of roses and lilies with pink tonings, enhanced this exquisite toilette. She was the recipient of a handsome present from the bridegroom. Duties of best man were undertaken by the brother of the bride, Mr. Gordon Barron.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held in the Boyup Brook Hall, attended by relatives of the newly married couple, at which the usual toasts were honoured.

After the breakfast nearly 300 guests were received in the hall by the parents of the bride and bridegroom; the bride's mother being becomingly gowned in blue floral crepe de chine, material of which was cut on the cross. On the waist band she wore a large silver buckle, her hat trimmed with a white feather matched the gown, and black shoes and a posie of pink roses completed the attractive attire.

The mother of the bridegroom was elegantly frocked in black satin and lace, with black silk velvet coatee, black hat, black shoes, and a posie of pink roses added distinction to the graceful flocking.

The Boyup Brook "Supreme" orchestra provided the music for dancing, and the programme was in the hands of Mr. Ernest Parker as M.C. Many encores were accorded the musicians, no long intervals were allowed between dances and an atmosphere of merriment prevailed throughout.

The supper was a delight to everyone, neither expense nor trouble being spared in assuring one of the best suppers set out on tables on the stage of the hall. At one end of the stage a large silver bell was suspended from the ceiling. Streamers trailed from the brightly lit centre above the tables to the walls. Tables were decorated with glass vases holding pink roses, double stock and Geraldton wax.

During the evening the health of the bride and bridegroom was drunk by the guests in the main hall, glasses containing wine were handed round. The toast by the M.C. was ably responded to by the bridegroom and acknowledged by cheers and the singing of "They Are Jolly Good Fellows," after which the happy couple left on their honeymoon. The bride travelled in a black and red swing suit, red gloves, red bag, black hat trimmed with a red feather, and black patent suede shoes. There was much cheering and merriment as the car glided away with a collection of gadgets tied behind, and so departed on her honeymoon one of the prettiest brides from the Upper Blackwood.

Thus were united two of the oldest and highly respected pioneering families of the district.

1937. WEDDING
BLECHYNDEN—BARRON

Two of the old farming families of Boyup Brook were united on Wednesday, July 28 when Lorna Beatrice, second daughter of Mr and Mrs. S. T. Barron, of "Norwood" Boyup Brook, was married to Reginald Ernest, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Blechynden, of Boyup Brook.

The ceremony, which took place at the Boyup Brook Methodist Church at 6.30 p.m., was performed by the Rev. Blackwell, who had specially motored from Mundaring. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and bridal creeper. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, made a charming picture in her long trained frock of white satin, made with long sleeves and a lace basque. The fine embroidered veil hung in folds over the train and was held in place with a coronet of orange blossom. A beautiful bouquet of white roses and fern completed her toilet. The bridesmaid, Miss Marion Dent, wore a becoming frock of pink satin fashioned on long slimming lines, the sleeves being full at the shoulder and fitted into the waist. Her head-dress was of tulle embroidered with pink flowers and she carried a bouquet of toning roses. Mr. Gordon Barron (brother of the bride) was best man. The organ was played by Mr. Ernest Parker and during the signing of the register Mrs. Elliott sang "My Prayer."

[the-flax-mill-information-sheet \(boyupbrook.wa.gov.au\)](http://the-flax-mill-information-sheet (boyupbrook.wa.gov.au))

The Flax Mill at Boyup Brook is quoted as being 'History'. Well rightly so, it was a very large piece of Boyup's past. Built in 1941 for the treatment of flax grown in the area and necessary for war-time equipment for the armed forces. Tents, parachute harnesses, webbing, tarpaulins etc. were made from the flax fibre. One item alone that was manufactured for a munitions job was fire hose. The total hose manufactured equated to 28,000 miles long and 3" wide made entirely from Australian flax. Flax was also used in linoleum floor coverings. In the 50's the second and third grade tow (short fibre) were sold to Japan to be used in cigarette papers and elsewhere in the world flax is used in the manufacture of clothing. Flax is the only fibre which becomes stronger when wet allowing the very coarse fibre to be used for ropes to tie up ships when docking.

Over 400 people were involved in the flax production throughout the district. The beer quota for The Boyup Brook hotel increased to more than all four Bridgetown hotels together. One of the main reasons for the collapse of the flax industry in Australia was that the price of flax fell rapidly when the Russians flooded the market with low grade flax. In the early 60's Bunnings, Cullity Timbers and Hearn Bros. were to form a company to make chipboard out of the flax shives and wood chips but this proposal was to fall through due to the decline of the building industry at the time. After the closure of the mill sadly an auction was held and the workings were sold leaving only the buildings as a memory of the past . .

MR. REG BLECHYNDEN

Mr. Reg Blechynden, who resides at 'Hilbury', Boyup Brook, relates some of the happenings and experiences which took place in the early days of Boyup Brook. Mr. Reg Blechynden's father was among some of the first settlers in the district and together with his wife faced the difficulties and dangers of the early pioneers. As a young person, Reg Blechynden remembers some of the first buildings to be erected in the township, especially those of the first store keepers.

Mr. Reg Blechynden's father, assisted by Reg's elder brother Arthur, carted one of the first loads of wool from Jayes to Bunbury for shipment to London. Taking the first load they started off with a four-wheeled waggon and an eight horse team. They had only proceeded twelve to fourteen miles on the journey when misjudging the height of an overhanging limb above the track, had the misfortune to have the three top bales of wool dragged off the load. The father and son were in rather sorry predicament as it was impossible to reload the wool by themselves. There was only one way to solve the problem and that was to walk the twelve or fourteen miles back to Jayes and obtain help. This Arthur did, and with the aid of three or four employees reloaded the wool and proceeded on their merry way. For many years afterwards this tree was known as 'wool bale' tree, to the amusement of future teamsters.

Two very interesting and valuable antiques are still in Mr. Blechynden's possession. They are two ancient match-duelling pistols, which his grandfather, Mr. John Blechynden, brought out from England when he came. These pistols were complete with powder flask, etc. The only occasion on which Reg Blechynden had the necessity to use them was when he had a duelling match with a young bull which had kept himself and a native up a tree for some time, and afterwards Reg made sure that he did not wait for the signal to fire, but got his shot in first and with the desired effect.

Although the early settlers endeavoured to a great extent to make life as smooth as possible, they often had to face distressing circumstances which they could not avoid, and among some of the saddest incidents was the passing of a friendly neighbour. To offset this was the kind heartedness of womenfolk who helped with kindness and immaculate attention to bring infants into the world. Others, including menfolk, had the unenviable task of helping in a decent and reverent exit from this world. Mr. Reg Blechynden's father, on no fewer than twelve occasions, had to travel long distances to procure a coffin for a respected neighbour who had passed on. His wife also walked distances to assist in the preparation and laying out for a burial. Mr. Reg Blechynden relates how on one occasion a neighbour died and he, then five years old, and his mother walked two and a half miles through thick bush country carrying a kerosene lantern to attend to the laying out of a neighbour's mother, as no undertakers were available in those days close at hand.

The first crop of wheat sown on Mr. Jim Blechynden's property at Dinninup had to be harvested by Jim and Reg with the aid of their father and a native using sickles. The harvesting was completed the day before Christmas as some were going to ride to Bridgetown to celebrate the day. As the last piece of crop was being cut, a kangaroo rat ran out and the native with practised precision threw his sickle at it killing it instantly, and in great ecstasy cried out: "By crikey, boss, I have white fellah Christmas now." This property is now owned by Mr. Hubert Blechynden.

Reginald was a member of the Little Grove Bush Fire Brigade and held the position as secretary.

Reginald Ernest Blechynden died 9 Dec 1986 in Manjimup, WA. More on his life can be read in his Obituary below. He was buried in the Boyup Brook Cemetery.

DEATH OF BOYUP FARMER

Obituary

A DESCENDENT of a well-known and respected pioneering family, Reginald Ernest Blechynden of Boyup Brook, died recently at the Warren District Hospital, Manjimup, after a long illness.

The son of Ernest and Agnes Blechynden of Boyup Brook, Reginald Blechynden (75) was born at Bridgetown.

There were no medical facilities at Boyup Brook at that time and Mr Blechynden had to take his wife to Bridgetown where she was attended by Nurse McAlinden at Blechynden House, Bridgetown.

Reginald Blechynden was a farmer for most of his life in the Boyup Brook district. He was a member of the Royal Australian Air Force for four years during the World War and represented the stock firm, Dalgety's, at Boyup Brook for eight years.

Mr Blechynden and his wife also lived in Albany for a period of 10 years.

Throughout his life he took an active interest in the community affairs of Boyup Brook. He was a well-known sportsman with wide interests and played cricket, tennis and golf. He won his first Boyup Brook golfing championship in 1933.

At various times in his life, he served as president of the football club, secretary of the Bush Fire Brigade, president of the golf club, a foundation and life member and past president of the Boyup Brook Club and was a past president of the Blackwood District Golf Association.

Mr Blechynden was also a member of the Boyup Brook branch of the RSL for over 40 years and for 24 years he was a justice of the peace in the district.

He suffered from ill health for many years and was forced to gradually withdraw from the activities that he had assisted in developing at Boyup Brook.

He is survived by his wife Lorna.

NINTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

9. BLECHYNDEN, HERBERT 'DUB' (1875-1935) & BATHURST, ELLEN FRANCES (1875-1961)

Herbert 'Dub' Blechynden was born on 5 Jan 1875 in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 16527]. He was baptised 18 Jul 1875, Bunbury, WA.

Herbert Blechynden. Courtesy Brian Blechynden via sister Margaret via her Aunty Audrey.

He was born into an already large family of seven boys and one girl: John William was almost 14 years; George Harrison, 13 years; Edwin, 11 years; James, 8 years; Arthur, 4 years; Alfred, 3 years; Ernest, 1 1/2 years. Herbert was not to know his sister Charlotte who had been born in 1868 and who had died in Jun 1869. John William and George were often away helping their father on the farm. Edwin James and Arthur were attending the Bridgetown School which had commenced in 1870. Over the next eight years, four more children were added to the family: Amy in 1877, Clarence in 1879, May in 1881 and Ada in 1883. Sadly, Ada died in 1888. The family now totalled nine boys and two girls.

The story of his grandparents, Harrison Blechynden and Elizabeth Robus, who emigrated from Kent, England, in 1830 to the new Swan River Colony can be read in their own chapter. His father John Blechynden was one of the first settlers in the Blackwood District having walked, accompanied by two Aborigines, from Beverley (where he grew up), seeking viable land on which to apply for an allocation to farm. John married Elizabeth Green in 1860 and they built the first home 'Bridgedale', in the newly surveyed town which was named Bridgetown. The story of his father and mother can also be read in their own chapter.

Herbert and Clarence grew up together and like their brothers were taught to ride and care for horses at an early age. As they grew older, they helped their father on the farm. Their oldest brother John had commenced a butchery business in Hampton St. When they left school, the two young men began to work and acquire the skills needed in the butchery.

These skills were to last a lifetime. Herbert Edward Blechynden and his brother Clarence (Bob) Blechynden took over the butchery business. Herbert continued with the butchery business until Jun 1935 just prior to his death. It still has the name H.&C. BLECHYNDEN over the shop.

Cropped photo showing the people in more detail. Most likely Clarence, Herbert and John William Blechynden are the three together.

The shop was owned by Greg Rees in which he proudly displayed the photo behind the counter. The butcher business was closed in 2023 when Greg retired.

A young woman named Ellen 'Nellie' Frances Bathurst from Middlesex, England, described as a domestic, emigrated from London, England on the Orient arriving in Fremantle, WA on 26 Aug 1909. She caught the eye of Herbert and they began courting.

HERBERT EDWARD BLECHYNDEN (1875-1935) married ELLEN FRANCES BATHURST (1875-1961), youngest daughter of the late GUY BRITON BATHURST of London, England, on 8 Jan 1913 in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 2].

Joy Bells.

BLECHYNDEN-BATHURST.

The little Church of St. Paul's, Bridgetown, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, morning, when the Rev. P. Davis, assisted by Canon Adams, of Bunbury, officiated at the ceremony which united, Herbert Edward Blechynden to Ellen Frances Bathurst. The Church looked exceedingly well and refreshing being trimmed and decorated with wild asparagus, palm leaves and pampas grass, to which was suspended a wedding bell, relieved with variegated ivy, being attached to a white satin wedding knot.

The bride entered the Church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. Wise, to the rendition of the well-known old hymn "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and wore graceful gown of ivory silk crepe-de-chine trimmed with cross-over corsage, together with a lovely yoke, of lace and a cluster of orange blossoms. The skirt was of pannier effect, the front panel being inset with lace. A handsome large tagel straw hat, trimmed with lancer plumes and French roses with a veil of real lace completed her becoming costume. The bridesmaids were Miss Mina Blechynden (niece of the bridegroom) and Miss Wise (niece of the bride). Miss Blechynden was gowned in pale blue striped silk voile with ruchings and cream lace. This pretty costume was relieved with a large white crinoline hat, trimmed with forget-me-nots and marguerites, with dainty shoes and stockings to match. Miss Wise was frocked mauve crepe-de-chine trimmed with white silk lace. A handsome white chip hat trimmed with white satin ribbon and mauve sweet peas together, with pretty shoes and stockings to match, completed an effective costume. The bridegroom's gifts were: To the bride, handsome gold brooch and dressing case: to the bridesmaids, gold brooches. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a dressing case. Mr. Clarence Blechynden was best man and Mr. Walter Mears the post of groomsman.

After the ceremony ended, the friends and guests repaired from the Church to Scott's Hotel, where the wedding breakfast was held. Mrs. Wise, sister of the bride, received the guests and was gowned in grey crepe trimmed with black braid and cream lace. A dainty grey chip hat trimmed with black silk relieved this handsome costume. In the hall the bride and bridegroom, received the congratulations of all. The many handsome and useful wedding gifts, details of which will appear below, were to be seen and after viewing them the guests turned their attention to the breakfast table which was prettily ornamented with various flowers placed amongst the delicacies. The usual complimentary speeches were made by the Rev. F. Darts, the Bridegroom, the groomsman and Mr. J. Allnutt.

Mr. and Mrs. Blechynden were motored to Bunbury by the bridegroom's brother, Mr. J. W. Blechynden, where the honeymoon will be spent. Mrs. Blechynden travelled in a dainty costume of sage green silk with oriental trimmings and hat to match. Several telegrams and letters) of congratulation were received by the happy couple. Herbert and Nellie's daughter Audrey lived with her family in their home in 8 Phillips Street Bridgetown, about half a kilometre from Blechynden House, (Bridgedale).

Herbert and Ellen's grandson Brian Blechynden confirms his grandparents lived in this house at 8 Phillips Street, Bridgetown

Electoral Roll:

1903, 1906, 1910, 1917, Herbert Edward Blechynden, Bridgetown, butcher.

1925, 1931 Herbert Edward Blechynden, Phillip St, Bridgetown, butcher, Ellen Francis, home duties.

1943, Ellen Francis Blechynden, Phillip Street, Home duties.

Herbert also had a farm in Bovell Street, Kangaroo Gully. It was located about 2.5 kilometres south west of the town centre and his grandson Brian Blechynden recalls he ran cattle and sheep on the property. As per Herbert's Obituary, he built a new home on the property but it seems he died before moving in. Brian is fairly sure the house burnt down many years ago. As mentioned elsewhere, Brian commented Herbert's in-laws, the Marshalls, lived and farmed opposite Herbert's property. Thank you, Brian.

Herbert Edward Blechynden was a member of the Druids, being one of the Foundation members in 1899 and became chief druid of the South West. More on this can be read in his obituary following a bit later.

Courtesy Libby Peacock: I took a photo of this certificate on the wall of John Blechyndens' house - Bridgedale, in Bridgetown- several years ago - I was fascinated. It's hard to read I know but it says that H.E. Blechynden was chief Druid of the SW - I know I've always been a bush baby - maybe it's in our DNA

The Late Mr. H. Blechynden

The death occurred on Thursday week last of Mr Herbert Blechynden (Dub), the eighth son of the late Mr and Mrs John Blechynden. He had lived in Bridgetown all his life and in 1913 married Miss Bathurst of England, there being two children of the marriage, namely Andrey and John. The late Mr Blechynden entered into partnership with Mr C. H. Blechynden with whom he continued until June of this year. Recently he built a new brick house on his property about three miles out and intended moving in there this coming week. He had not been well for the past few months and on Wednesday last went out to bring in the final mob of his sheep for shearing. As he did not return Mr Bartlett went out and found his horse standing without a rider and upon looking round he discovered Mr Blechynden lying unconscious on the ground. He brought him to the local hospital where it was found he was suffering from blood pressure and he passed away about three o'clock the next day.

In Memoriam

He was part of us, unnoticed, till
He fell beside the way, and lay still.
And then we missed the charm, the simple grace
The sweetness of his life; and in its place
A void; a something missing, and we feel
A keen regret, that only time can heal.
In this mad world, a man like him, was salt,
To stay putrescence, and condone the fault
Of many: and in him there was the heaven,
That gives man hope, and stays the wrath of heaven
Yet all unconscious with meek steps he trod
The path of duty.—The beloved of God.

What wealth can buy a shrine within the heart.
What gifts demand regret when they depart,
But now his feet are on the farther shore
The fragrance of his life is evermore,
An inspiration unto us who stay.

The passing away of our well beloved brother, Bro. Herbert Blechynden, (Dub).

Bro. Blechynden joined the Davids' Lodge in Bridgetown on August 10th, 1899, being one of the foundation members. The late Bro. George Stephens was the secretary at that early date, and the lodge had many of the leading citizens of Bridgetown, Bros. R. C. Williams, H. Deane, C. Dunt, W. J. Flecken, J. J. McAlinden, W. Reid, J. Maslin, J. Moriarty, and many others.

The late Bro Blechynden filled all the offices with the exception of the offices with the exception of secretary and treasurer, and held at one time the highest rank that the lodge could confer, that of District President. This ranked him as an officer of the Grand Lodge. In this office he carried out his duties in a very efficient manner, indeed since then, and for many years he has acted as one of the lodge trustees. His passing came as a cruel shock to all the members, more especially the old members, who knew his sterling worth. The late Bro. Blechynden, in spite of his tireless energy, was of a most retiring nature, he did not aspire to be in the front ranks, but was content at all times to act even in the humblest position, content to assist. He was white right through, and a thorough gentleman, kind and courteous, ever ready to help even the youngest, without thought of praise or publicity. An ideal member and brother, never too busy to help a struggling brother in the difficult path of life. We feel sure he will have a great welcome in that 'House not made with hands', eternal in the Heavens.

Motion of Condolence

On Friday afternoon last, at the Fruitgrowers' meeting, Bridgetown, the chairman, Mr W. P. Scott, moved a motion of condolence to the relations of the late Mr Herbert Blechynden. Same was carried, all members standing in silence.

The passing over of our well-beloved brother, Bro. Herbert Blechynden (Dub). Bro. Blechynden joined the Druids Lodge in Bridgetown on August 10th. 1899, being one of the foundation members. The late Bro. George Stephens was the secretary at that early date, and the lodge had many of the leading citizens of Bridgetown, Bros. R.C. Williams, H. Doust, C Doust, W. J. Fleeton, J, J. McAlinden, V. Reid, J. Maslin, J. Moriarty, and many others. The late Mr Blechynden filled all the offices with the exception of secretary and treasurer, and held at one time the highest rank that the lodge could confer, that of District President. This ranked him as an officer of the Grand Lodge. In this office he carried out his duties in very efficient manner, indeed since then, and for many years he has acted one of the lodge trustees. His passing came as a cruel shock to all the members, more especially the old members, who knew his sterling worth. The late Bro. Blechynden spite of his tireless energy, was of a most retiring nature, he did not aspire to be in the front ranks, but was content at all times to act even in the humblest position, content to assist.

He was white light through, and a thorough gentleman, kind and courteous, ever ready to help even the youngest, without thought of praise or publicity. An ideal member and brother, never too busy to help a struggling brother in the difficult path of life. We feel sure he will have a great welcome, in that 'House not made with hands', eternal in the Heavens.

Motion of Condolence

On Friday' afternoon last at the Fruitgrowers meeting, Bridgetown, the chairman, Mr W. P. Scott, moved a motion of condolence to the relations of the late Mr Herbert Blechynden- Same was carried, all members standing in silence.

1. BLECHYNDEN, AUDREY (1915-2007)

Audrey Blechynden was born 28 Jan 1915, Blackwood, WA [Reg. 25]. Sadly, Audrey was born with a disability, spina bifida.

Audrey lived with her family in their home in Hampton Street, not far from Blechynden House, (Bridgedale).

"She was 'bright as button' and must have had an extremely frustrating and sad life being stuck inside the body she was given. I would like to think that now days she would have had a better chance of expressing herself using technology."

Audrey Blechynden, April 1923

Audrey used to visit her Aunties (Amy and Aunt May) at 'Bridgedale' every Sunday.

Audrey Blechynden's memories of Bridgedale:

Blechynden House:

"I used to go there a lot, the dining room was the loungeroom, it had a long table with beautiful full back chairs against the wall, a cupboard each side of the fireplace, one had an afternoon tea set in it.

Dorothy Blechynden (nee Marshall), John's wife with Audrey.

The other had bits in it for the table, a tea pot with a cover over the teapot with a parrot on it with shining eyes that went over the handle.

With biscuit tines and odds and ends. A mantelpiece over the fireplace, a clock in the middle, and little green vases.

The father and mother had the main bedroom.

Two big queen beds these beds were crème with brass knobs.

Wardrobe, chest of drawers on the other side.

Audrey Blechynden, daughter of Herbert and Nellie, Geegelup, celebrating one of her birthdays, Leslie Pearce at the back

In the Kitchen:

Go down a wooden step from the passage to get into the kitchen, wooden table for working on, a draw on the end of the table where they kept cooking utensils like knives etc. for cooking. Large shelves on the side of the wall held a big mincer and very large skillets for making jam in.

Big wooden stove with a big space at the back where they hung the linen to dry. Up above were racks for warming the plates and keeping the food warm. At the end of the stove was a copper, as long as the stove was wide. It had a lid and a top and was always full of hot water.

They had a pair of bellows hanging up beside the stove that they used to start up the fire. There was an enamel jug and dipper sitting on a worn board and that was used to get cold water with.

Hanging up under the verandah was a very long canvas water bag with a tap at the bottom, which was for drinking water. Also, on the verandah was a very thin wooden stand with holes in it that held a wash basin and soap dish and that's where you washed up before you went in.

In the wash house was a large copper used for washing clothes, also a long bench for putting tubs on. Outside was the clothesline for large tablecloths etc.

"In the garden there was a very large fig and mulberry tree. There were apple trees, plum trees and a grapevine. On one side of the path was a bed of blue and white flag lilies. Also, in the garden were many flowerpots with many different plants. In the early spring the garden was full of jonquils and many other plants that were in a typical English garden.

John Blechynden was the eldest, he had to go to Bunbury in a large van. The roads were brittle, no more than a track. He had to pick up provisions, stores and clothing. It took him a week to get there, three days to load up and a further week to return."

Note: John Blechynden was the eldest son of Harrison. John William Blechynden was the eldest son of John. John and John William both went to Bunbury by van /wagon at some stage.

Dr Dickinson came from Bunbury in a horse and sulky, he came to Bridgetown once a month. My father broke his leg one time as he was getting up onto the cart, he slipped and fell off and his leg went through the spoke of the wheel. A Mr Smith cut down two saplings and splinted the leg.”

COMMUNITY NEWS: Milestone birthday

A DIRECT descendant of Bridgetown’s founding Families celebrated her 90th birthday surrounded by friends and family members.

Audrey Blechynden was the guest of honour at an afternoon tea party held at Geegelup Village Hostel recently.

Celebrations started with singing old favourites led by Peg Campbell on the piano followed by an afternoon tea.

Miss Blechynden’s sister-in-law Dorothy and nephew Brian were at the party to help her celebrate.

Miss Blechynden shares her birth date with another long-time Bridgetown resident and Geegelup Hostel resident Jack Cox, who turned 84.

Via Barbara Davies:

Audrey Blechynden was born in Bridgetown on January 28, 1915 to Herbert and Eileen nee Bathurst.

Sadly, she was born with a physical disability in a time when there was very little in the way of help available. She never attended school, got married or had children.

She remained at home caring for her sick mother after her father’s death. After her mother’s death she lived independently for some time before her family decided she was unable to live alone any longer.

She moved into Moonya Lodge, an aged care facility in Manjimup until Geegelup was built in 1955. She is one of the original residents of Geegelup Hostel and has been a favourite of staff and residents alike. Those who know her best describe her as a very intelligent lady who learnt about world events via her radio. Staff from the hostel describe her as a loyal friend to others with a great sense of humour and a love of animals.

Barbara Davies got to know Audrey through a common interest in Budgerigars. She met Miss Blechynden after her pet died and the hostel contacted Mrs Davies who bred them to get another. She also describes Miss Blechynden as intelligent with a great memory and fascinating stories of her life.

Miss Blechynden's brother John fought in World War II before returning to the district. He and his wife had two sons and a daughter, with many of their descendants still in the district.

Miss Blechynden's grandfather John Blechynden was one of two settlers who arrived in the area that would later be named Bridgetown. That house, Bridgedale House has been restored and is run by volunteers and the National heritage Trust.

One of the ladies who came out to my afternoon tea wrote this and it was read out to us all.

Audrey has a lovely printed copy framed on her dressing table. "Norah" was always making up little verses think you may have read one about a Drs visit to Audrey. Time for a laugh – you cut the unused part of a page off and sent it down in your letter!!! This is part of it. Gave us a giggle so was worth the mistake.

AUDREY

It won't be the same "up on the hill".
Audrey won't be there
She will leave a gap
That none can fill.
We will hear the tap
Of her walking frame still
But Audrey won't be there
We will think of the thoughtless things
We may have said and done
We will think of how Audrey loved us all
And dearly loved some fun
But she isn't going so far away
We must often pay a call
And we wish her every happiness
This comes from one and all.
May God go with you Audrey.

MR and MRS J. BLECHYNDEN, of Bridgetown, have pleasure in announcing the 2nd Anniversary of their Wedding, which took place at Wesley Church, Perth, on November 27, 1943. Rev Butler officiating.

JOHN BATHURST BLECHYNDEN (1916-1990) AND DOROTHY PATRICIA MARSHALL (1921-2010) HAD THREE CHILDREN: Margaret, Brian and Alan Blechynden.

John and Dorothy lived in Steere Street Bridgetown and initially raised their children in Bridgetown. John worked for many years for the Shell Oil Company in Bridgetown. Dorothy did various jobs around Bridgetown working in the fruit season and cleaning. They moved to Bunbury in 1964, when John transferred to the Shell Co there and their three children did their schooling at Bunbury Senior High School. John and Dorothy later moved to Perth, first to Kelmscott then into Amaroo retirement village in Gosnells.

Dorothy was one of four siblings. She is seen here with her three brothers: (L-R) Eric, Edward and William Marshall.

The Marshall's lived and farmed at Kangaroo Gully, just 2.5 – 3 kilometres South East of the centre of Bridgetown, opposite Herbert and Ellen's farm in Bovell Street.

TENTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

10. BLECHYNDEN, AMY (1877-1938)

Note, to avoid repetition, the combined story of Amy, the 10th child of John and Elizabeth, and her sister May, the 12th child, is told in May's chapter.

Amy Blechynden was born on 17 Mar 1877 at 'Bridgedale', Bridgetown, registered in Perth, WA [Reg. 17970]. She was the tenth child born to John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green who were married in Perth in 1860. Her parents John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green were both descended from pioneering families who had emigrated from England to the new Swan River Colony. More can be read about them in their individual chapters.

Amy Blechynden

In 1854, Amy's father, John Blechynden, at the age of twenty-one years, walked from his home 'Babbyalla' in Beverley to the Blackwood district, guided by friendly Aborigines. He was so impressed with what he saw that he acquired two pastoral leases along the Blackwood River. Following their marriage her parents built the first home which they called 'Bridgedale' in the newly zoned town Bridgetown.

Amy was born into a large and bustling family. John William was aged almost 16; George Harrison, 14; Edwin, 13; James, almost 11; (Charlotte Jane born in 1868, sadly had died in 1869); Arthur, 6; Alfred, 5; Ernest Charles, 3; and Herbert Edward, 2. Having lost their daughter Charlotte eight years previously, John and Elizabeth were delighted to welcome their daughter Amy into a family of nine boys. Clarence Henry was born in 1879, followed by two more girls: May in 1881 and Ada Jane in 1883. Sadly, the threesome of girls turned into two when Ada died on 17 Oct 1955.

Amy attended the Bridgetown Primary School. She resided in Bridgedale, in Hampton St. Bridgetown, WA. Amy remained single. She and her sister May were very involved in the Red Cross and the Bridgetown Agricultural Society, both receiving life memberships.

Amy Blechynden died on 19 May 1938 in Hampton Street, Bridgetown. She was 61. She was buried in May 1938 in Bridgetown Cemetery, Bridgetown, WA.

For more information on Amy, please see the combined article on her and her sister May, John and Elizabeth's 12th child, which follows the story of Clarence Henry 'Bob', John and Elizabeth's 11th child.

ELEVENTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

11. BLECHYNDEN, CLARENCE HENRY 'BOB' (1879-1952) & FARRIS, ELIZABETH JANE (1884-1972)

Clarence Henry 'Bob' Blechynden was born on 21 Apr 1879 in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 19939], the eleventh child of John Blechynden (1833-1900) and Elizabeth Green (1839-1891).

He was born into a large family of eight boys and one girl: John William, 18 years; George Harrison, 16 years; Edwin, 15 years; James, almost 13 years; Arthur, 9 years; Alfred, 7 years; Ernest, 5 years; Herbert, 4 years and Amy, 2 years. He was not to know Charlotte, their first girl born into the family in 1868, who sadly, had died in 1869. The older boys John, George, and Edwin were working, helping their father on the farm and with teams of horses began delivering mail and goods in the district. James, Arthur, Alfred and Ernest were attending the Bridgetown School which had been established in 1870. Two more girls were added to the family: May in 1881 and Ada in 1883. Sadly, Ada died in 1888. The family now totalled nine boys and two girls.

The story of his grandparents Harrison Blechynden (1802-1873) and Charlotte Augusta Robus (1812-1889) who emigrated from Kent, England in 1830 to the new Swan River Colony can be read in their own chapter. His father, John Blechynden (1833-1900), was one of the first settlers in the Blackwood District having walked accompanied by two Aborigines from Beverley, (where he grew up), seeking viable land on which to apply for an allocation to farm. John married Elizabeth Green (1839-1891) in 1860 and they built the first home 'Bridgedale', in the newly surveyed town which was named Bridgetown. The story of Bob's father and mother can also be read in their own chapter.

People in front including, most probably, Clarence, Herbert and John Blechynden are the three together. Photo courtesy Greg Ree who closed the business in 2023.

Clarence and Hubert grew up together and like their brothers were taught to ride and care for horses at an early age. Clarence's early life was spent on carting merchandise and stores from Bunbury for his oldest brother John William who had several horse teams. John had also commenced a butchery business in Hampton St. The two young men began to work with John and acquire the skills needed in the butchery.

Full and (below) cropped photo of the Blechynden Butcher Shop, Bridgetown.

These skills were to last a lifetime. Clarence (Bob) Blechynden and his brother Herbert Edward Blechynden took over the butchery business. Clarence retired and took up fruit growing. Herbert continued running the business until just prior to his death in 1935.

The shop was owned by Greg Rees until he closed it in 2023 when he retired. He proudly displayed the photo behind the counter. He is connected to the Blechynden family through a distant connection via the Doust's and the Muir's.

The butcher's shop still has the name H.C. BLECHYNDEN over the shop.

Clarence met and began courting Elizabeth Jane 'Bessie' Farris who had arrived in WA recently from Essex, England with her mother and brothers and sisters. She was registered on the Electoral Roll in 1913, Bridgetown, domestic duties.

CLARENCE HENRY BLECHYNDEN (1879-1952) married ELIZABETH JANE 'BESSIE' FARRIS (1884-1972), 22 Oct 1913, St Paul's Church of England, Bridgetown, (Blackwood), WA [Reg. 32]. She was born Jan 1884, Custom House, Essex, England, daughter of THOMAS FARRIS (1851-1908) RN, and mother, ELIZABETH ANN HINDE (1861-) Residence in 1891 and 1901, West Hampshire, Essex, England. Bessie died 15 Jun 1972, Forrest, WA.

JOY BELLS

BLECHYNDEN-FARRIS.

"Bright and happy is the bride that the summer's sun shines upon" is not always the case in Bridgetown, but still the rain has its disadvantages, and the many friends of Mr. Clarence Henry Blechynden and Miss Bessie Farris, eldest daughter of Mr. Thomas Farris, R.N. (London) and Mrs. Farris, of Bridgetown, were most pleased when the early showery morning of Wednesday turned into pleasant weather at 11 a.m., and the pretty afternoon wedding ceremony could be held without using the necessary umbrellas usually sought for on such occasions. St. Paul's Church had been decorated by a willing army of girl friends and the pretty little Church looked charming. White climbing roses had been employed, and bamboo and asparagus fern provided the relief of green. Mr. Roland Farris, eldest brother, gave his sister away, and she looked very sweet in her charming dress of white satin trimmed with Brussels lace; the bodice of Russian effect with wide waist band, was let in at the front with dainty lace; the front and train of the skirt was let in with lace and was accompanied with a handsome satin panier, finished with glass dots. She wore the customary wreath and veil and carried a Prayer Book. In reporting, it is usual to mention the bridegroom's gift at this period of the account, but it was not visible, for it was a handsome silver articles for her dressing table, and obviously was not to be worn. The bridesmaid, Miss Nellie Farris, (sister of the bride) did wear the bridegroom's gift, a handsome gold bracelet, and her pretty frock was much admired, showing up the bride's dainty whiteness in a most effective way. She was costumed in a shell pink crepe-de-chine; the bodice being daintily trimmed with white pleated ribbon; the skirt was artistically draped and she was caught round the waist with a chine ribbon sash. The hat was of white underlined with lace and trimmed with pink with lace and trimmed with pink rosebuds. Mr. Blechynden was supported by Mr. Walter Meares and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. Davis. After the ceremony Mrs. Farris held a reception at the Mechanics' Institute, where plenty of space was available for the many smartly dressed women, who were all close friends of either the Blechyndens or the Farris. Mrs. Farris wore a charming dress of black silk of crepe and skirt design, the vest being of Paris lace. The hat was of lemon ermine, was underlined with black, and was supported with a peacock blue mount. Mrs. Farris was supported by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Blechynden. The wedding party received the congratulations of their many friends just inside those present by wishing them all was sweetly decorated for the occasion. The tables, which were uniquely arranged, were decorated with the most beautiful of roses, tuberoses, ferns, and other classes of greenery, the decorations being the work of Mr. and Mrs. R. Crawford, of the Freemasons Hotel. After she guests had indulged in a good chat, the Rev. F. Davis, in proposing the toast of the bride and bridegroom, said it was not necessary to say they were well known, but he would be content in saying that he was voicing the opinion of those present by wishing them all the good things of life. To go through life people had to pass through many phases, both good and unpleasant, but he felt sure that a couple equally yoked, would be able to assist one another in fighting the unpleasant side of nature. Before the toast was completed, Mr. J. Allnutt, J.P., supported the remarks. In responding, the bridegroom said he appreciated all the kind things which had been said of his wife and himself, and in conclusion proposed the health of the bridesmaid, to which Mr. Walter Meares responded. The last toast was proposed by Mr. John Blechynden, and it was that of the caterers, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, to which Mr. Crawford tendered his many thanks.

Mrs. Blechynden changed her frock about one o'clock the bridal pair about one o'clock the bridal pair left for Bunbury per motor with Mr. John Blechynden at the wheel. The bride wore a coat and skirt of a soft dull blue shade with a cutaway coat trimmed with pearl buttons of the same colour. A black velvet hat with lances plumes and roses completed the effect.

After spending the honeymoon in Perth they will take up their residence in Bridgetown. A splendid array of presents was laid out on the stage of the Hall, everything from household requisites to the smallest trifles having been given to the young couple.

Mr. Roland Farris, eldest brother, gave his sister away, and she looked very sweet in her charming dress of white satin trimmed with Brussels lace; the bodice of Russian effect with wide waist band, was let in at the front with dainty lace; the- front and train of the skirt, was let in with lace and was accompanied with a handsome satin panier, finished with glass dots. She wore the customary wreath and veil and carried a Prayer Book. In reporting, it is usual to mention the bridegroom's gift at this period of the account, but it was not visible, for it was a set of handsome articles for her dressing table and obviously -was not to be worn. The bridesmaid, Miss Nellie Farris, (sister of the bride) did wear the bridegroom's gift, a handsome gold bracelet, and her pretty frock was much admired, showing up, this bride's dainty whiteness in a most effective way. She was costumed in shell pink crepe-de-chine; the bodice being daintily trimmed with white pleated minion; the skirt was artistically draped, and she was caught round, the waist with a chine ribbon sash. The hat was of white underlined with lace and trimmed, with pink rosebuds. Mr. Blechynden was supported by Mr. Walter Mears, and the Ceremony was performed by the Rev F. Davis. After the ceremony Mrs. Farris held a reception at the Mechanics' Institute, where plenty of space was available for the many smartly dressed women who were all close friends of either the Blechynden's or the Farris'. Mrs Farris wore a charming dress of black silk of coatee and skirt design, the vest being of Paris lace. The hat was of lemon crinoline, was under- lined with black, and was supported with' a peacock blue mount. Mrs. Farris was supported by Mr and Mrs Herbert Blechynden. The wedding party received the congratulations of their many friends just inside the entrance to the Hall, which was sweetly decorated for the occasion.

The tables, which were uniquely arranged, were decorated with the most beautiful of roses, tuberoses, ferns, and other classes of greenery, the decorations being the work of Mr. and Mrs. R. Crawford, of the Freemasons Hotel.

After the guests had indulged in a good chat, the Rev. F. Davis, in proposing the toast of, the bride and bridegroom, said it was not necessary to say they were well known, but he would be content, in saying that he was voicing the opinion of those present by "wishing them all the good things of life". To go through life people had to pass through many phrases, both good and unpleasant, but he felt sure that a couple equally yoked, would be able to assist one another in fighting the unpleasant side of nature. Before the toast was completed, Mr. J. Allnutt, J.P. supported the remarks. In responding, the bride groom said he appreciated all the kind things which had been said of his wife and himself, and in conclusion proposed the health of the bridesmaid, to which Mr. Walter Mears responded. The last toast was proposed by Mr. John Blechynden, and it was that of the caterers, Mr and Mrs Crawford, to which Mr. Crawford tendered his many thanks.

Mrs. Blechynden changed her frock about one o'clock the bridal pair left for Bunbury per motor with Mr John Blechynden at the wheel. The bride wore a coat and skirt of a soft dull blue shade with a cutaway coat trimmed; with pearl buttons of the same colour. A black sage hat with lancer plumes and roses completed the effect.

After spending their honeymoon in Perth, they will take up their residence in Bridgetown. A splendid array of presents was laid out on the stage of the Hall, everything from household requisites to the smallest trifles having been given to the young couple.

The following presents were noticed:

He died 19 May 1918, Killed In Action Western Front, Picardie, France. Buried at Ribemont Cemetery, Somme, Picardie, France.

CLARENCE HENRY BLECHYNDEN and ELIZABETH JANE 'BESSIE' FARRIS had six children, the details of which are in their own sections following. Tragically, their fourth born son Ernest Farris Blechynden died on 21 Apr 1921 at the rectory, Bridgetown. at the age of two years. His parents must have been devastated. Tragedy was to strike again with the death of their fifth child Angus Ferris Blechynden at the age of 20 years. Condolences poured in as can be seen from his obituary in his own section further on.

Clarence Blechynden continued his work with his brother Herbert Blechynden in the butchery business in Hampton St. Afterwards he took up land as an orchardist and sheep farmer in the Little Basin area north of Bridgetown. He was a member of the Agricultural Society and played cricket.

Upper Blackwood Progress Association.

The first annual general meeting of the above was held at Boyup on Saturday, the 11th inst., at 2 p.m. There was a fair attendance present.

The meeting was thrown open for a general discussion on the question of securing a Resident Medical Officer for the Upper Blackwood district.

A letter from the Colonial Secretary on the subject was discussed at great length, and finally a subcommittee of three were appointed to go fully into the matter and to report at the next meeting.

A suggestion from the Railway Department to change the name of Boyup was also discussed, and. It was decided to retain the name of Boyup.

Several other matters were dealt with and accounts amounting to £1 1s. were passed for payment.

The report and balance sheet were then read and both passed as satisfactory, the latter showing a credit balance of £2 8s.5½d.

The election of officers for the ensuing year then took place and resulted as follows: —

President: Mr A. Cailles.

Treasurer: Mr Geo- Stephens.

Auditors: Messrs P. Thompson and W. J. Treloar.

Secretary: Mr. E. C. Blechynden.

ESSAYS
THE BRIDGETOWN SHOW

Dorien Blechynden: "What I saw at the Bridgetown Show."
Every town or district has a yearly show. The farmers now have a chance to show the best of their year's produce. These things are sometimes given first or second prizes. The show of most interest to the people is the Royal Show which is held in the Claremont show ground every year. The second show of most interest is the Bridgetown show. The producer is always preparing for the next show; he never stops working with his exhibits. The grounds are a little out of the town and on the side of the hill. There are iron gates at the entrance. The cattle pens are on the right hand side of the gates going into the grounds and the pigs and sheep are on the left hand side going in. As you are getting near the gates you can hear the cheap jacks shouting and all the little children calling to each other. All the cars are together on the left hand side going in. The exhibit hall is just just about opposite the gates, over the other side of the trotting ring.

The tea rooms are up in one corner of the ground. In front of the hall is the grand stand. In the hall are flowers, cookery, preserves, children's school work, apples, vegetables, photography, needlework, dairy produce, and fruits. Some boys from the Bridgetown school led horses, cows, young calves, and other young stock. Some boys let their calves go but some kept them in order. They had horse jumping, racing, and other games. There were many sideshows and cheapjacks there. I saw a young girl among four large snakes and four bob-tail goannas, and many other things. There were some lovely pine trees shading the seats for all the people to sit upon. There were nice cool drinks, ice creams and other things served by some of the members of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society. Afternoon tea was given as well. Soon after five o'clock some of the people began to collect their exhibits to bring home again, and gradually the ground is clearing up and everyone going home after a long and happy day.

In 1936, at the age of 12 years, Dorien wrote this delightful essay following about the Bridgetown Show

TWELTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

12. BLECHYNDEN, MAY (1881-1955)

May Blechynden was born on 14 Mar 1881 in Bridgetown, WA [Reg. 21710], the twelfth child and third daughter born to Elizabeth Green and John Blechynden. She was born into a family of nine sons and one daughter, (sadly she was not to know her sister Charlotte Jane who had died at 15 months in 1869). The boys ages ranged from John William the eldest, almost 20 years, to the youngest Clarence, who was two years. Her sister Amy (their tenth child) was aged almost four. One can imagine their parents would have been delighted with another daughter to grow up with Amy. This delight was magnified when in two years-time, another daughter, Ada was born in 1883, making the girls a threesome.

May Blechynden

The story of her grandparents Harrison Blechynden (1802-1873) and Charlotte Augusta Robus (1812-1889) who emigrated from Kent, England in 1830 to the new Swan River Colony can be read in their own chapter. As mentioned in other chapters, her father John Blechynden (1833-1900) was one of the first settlers in the Blackwood District having walked accompanied by two Aborigines from Beverley, (where he grew up), seeking viable land on which to apply for an allocation to farm. John married Elizabeth Green (1839-1891) in 1860 and they built the first home 'Bridgedale', in the newly surveyed town which was named Bridgetown. The story of May's parents can be read in their own chapter.

May remained single. More details of her life can be read in the combined chapter of Amy and May Blechynden following.

May Blechynden died on 17 Oct 1955, aged 74 years, Bridgetown, (Blackwood), WA, [Reg No. 81]. She was buried in 1955 in Bridgetown Cemetery, Bridgetown, WA. See also the end of this section.

The following twelve pages were written and put together by Dianne Black for the Bridgetown Historical Society featuring women from the past who lived in Bridgetown. The material and photos in this document have come from various Blechynden family members, records and old newspaper cuttings. Note that a few changes have been made since and added to this article - thank you to Angela and Ken Blechynden and Jill Feutrill (nee Blechynden).

AMY BLECHYNDEN (1877-1938) & MAY BLECHYNDEN (1881-1955)

By Dianne Black (nee Pearce)

Amy and May Blechynden were born, grew up and spent their whole lives in Bridgetown. They were born in the very, early days of Bridgetown and watched the newly gazetted town slowly begin to grow and thrive. Following their parents pioneering spirit they were quick to offer their skills in many areas and became valued members of the community. The girls did not marry but it is believed May in particular had many suitors. They were part of a very, large family and as their brothers married and children appeared on the scene, they enthusiastically adopted the role of favourite aunts. As children, my father Haywood Pearce (deceased) and his cousin Jill Feutrill (nee Blechynden) were both fond of their great-aunts.

Amy at the back and May Blechynden

Amy and May were the daughters of Elizabeth (nee Green) 1839-1891 and John Blechynden 1833-1900 who were married in Perth in 1860. Elizabeth Green and John Blechynden were born in the early days of the Swan River Colony. It is believed they were the first Western Australian born white couple to be married in the State. The story of how they came to the Blackwood District and built their home 'Bridgedale' (also known as 'Blechynden House') can be read in the earlier story of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green).

John and Elizabeth Blechynden had thirteen children, nine sons and four daughters: John William 1861-1931, George Harrison 1862-1937, Edwin 1864-1934, James 1866-1939, Charlotte Jane 1868-1869, Arthur 1870-1941, Alfred William 1871-1941, Ernest Charles 1873-1949, Herbert Edward 1875-1935, Amy 1877-1938, Clarence Henry 1879-1952, May Blechynden 1881-1955 and Ada Jane 1883-1888. Sadly, two of their daughters, Charlotte Jane and Ada Jane did not survive to adulthood.

Amy Blechynden was born on the 17 Mar 1877 into a family of nine brothers. Her mother then aged thirty-eight, must have been delighted to, at last, have a daughter to make up for the loss of baby Charlotte Jane. At Amy's birth her oldest brother, John, aged sixteen, was almost a man. A younger brother, Clarence, was born two years after Amy on 21 Apr 1879.

May Blechynden aged nine years

Celebrations were in order when another daughter, May Blechynden was born on 14 Mar 1881 on her father's birthday. Amy turned four years of age three days later. To their mother Elizabeth's absolute delight yet another daughter, Ada Jane was born on 23 May 1883. One can imagine that the next few years were happy ones as Elizabeth taught her three girls skills such as cooking and sewing and all the things that girls need to know in running a household.

Amy and May with their dog.

Christmas was always a special time and Christmas 1887, with all the family together would have been no exception. Elizabeth, although likely weary at this busy time for mothers, must have been full of happiness as she watched her nine sons and three small daughters enjoying Christmas, a magic time for the youngest ones, Clarence at eight years old, Amy ten, May six and Ada four. But great sadness struck in the New Year when on 2 Jan 1888 at the tender age of four years, seven months little Ada passed away. It was almost more than a mother could bear and the family shared her grief.

Amy and May went to the Bridgetown School and the newspaper article shows that Amy and May were taught by Miss Mitchell, as was their brother Herbert in 7th Standard.

Bridgetown Government School.

THE examination of Bridgetown government School took place on Tuesday, 18th Dec., 83 children being present. The examination was conducted by the Rev. A. Buchanan, at whose invitation John Allnutt, Esq., attended and rendered excellent assistance. The examination passed off in a most satisfactory manner, the courteous teacher, Miss Mitchell, as usual, making the work of the day quite a pleasure to the examiners. This school maintains its high position in regard to discipline and progress. The good people of Bridgetown have in Miss Mitchell, besides a good teacher, a true friend to their children. It was to be regretted that there were no parents present, not even a lady to examine the needlework, of which a good deal was shown; under these circumstances the examiners did their best in deciding upon the merits of the sewing. At the close of the examination Mr Allnutt kindly consented to hand the prizes to the successful scholars as follows:—

7th Standard.—1, Edith Maslin, Herbert Blechynden.
6th Standard.—1, Thomas Maslin, Charles Doust.
5th Standard.—1, Amy Blechynden, Elizabeth Smith.
4th Standard.—1, Margaret Galley, Dolly Moulton, equal, C. Doust.
3rd Standard.—1, Isabella Maslin, Alice McAlinden.
2nd Standard.—1, Jane May, Frank Doust.
1st Standard, 1st division.—1, May Blechynden, John May.
1st Standard, 2nd division.—1, Josephine O'Toole, Lucy Galley.
Needlework. Inspector's prize.—1, Amy Blechynden, 2nd E. Smith.
Mr. Moulton kindly sent a packet of gifts, so that every child present received something; and after a round of cheers for Miss Mitchell, and a verse of the National Anthem the children separated in the best of spirits.

The girls and their brothers were heart- broken and their father John devastated when on 8 Apr 1891, only three years after the death of Ada, Elizabeth, the mother of the family, died of a cerebral embolism or stroke. At the time, May, aged ten, Clarence twelve, Amy fourteen, Herbert sixteen, Ernest aged seventeen and Alfred nineteen, were all at home but the rest of the family were away working.

One can imagine that Amy, became the mother figure and looked after the younger ones. May grew up fast as she helped her sister with the cooking, washing and housekeeping, using the knowledge from their mother's teaching that was to stay with them all their lives. As the girls grew up suitors began calling. Many an outing and picnic with friends and family was enjoyed.

Boronia Picnic, at Bunbury End Green Bush, 1897

Notes via Jill Feutrill (nee Blechynden).

Bunbury End was an early-days settlement a short way from, and north of, Greenbushes, hence the unusual name of Bunbury End, meaning closer to Bunbury than was Greenbushes! When I was small there used to be a few clearings with palms and a lonely chimney or two left at Bunbury End signifying a settlement was there some time earlier.

NOTE: going by the handwriting it seems back then Greenbushes used to be two words. I think the shortening of bushes in the reverse photo description title probably means the writer ran out of space! To the best of my knowledge, it's always been Greenbushes/Green Bushes - named after the unusual green of some native bushes growing there. I do not know who wrote on the reverse of the photograph or who altered the date. #

Amy was twenty-one years old and May seventeen when the two girls, one can imagine, dressed for the occasion, joined their father and brothers at the official opening of the Bridgetown Railway Station on 1st Dec 1898. The opening of the railway was a huge moment for the town and an indication that was beginning to thrive.

Bridgetown historical Society: <https://www.bridgetownhistoricalsociety.org.au/>

See also the very descriptive article of the official opening of the railway in the section on the eighth Child of John Blechynden (1833-1900) and Elizabeth Green (1839-18910, Ernest Charles Blechynden (1873-1949) and Agnes Blinco Moore (1880-1959).

"This photo was taken in Oct 1898. The official opening of the railway station had been booked for the end of October, but regrettably none of the dignitaries from Perth could attend, so the official opening was postponed until 1 Dec 1898. This photo is of the unofficial opening. The railway actually ran trains from Donnybrook to Bridgetown from July 1898!"

The Blechynden family also joined in the excitement felt within the town when the first Agricultural Show was held on 10 Dec 1885 and again when WA gained the right of Self Government in 1890.

Sadly, John Blechynden did not live to see the other five states join to form the Commonwealth of Australia in 1901. John Blechynden died on 14 Oct 1900 at Roesland, his brother Edwin's residence at Beverley. It was a sad moment for the family. John's daughter Amy was with him at his death. He was buried on 16 Oct 1900 in St. Paul's Old Cemetery C/E section, Beverley. His death notice stated: 'His eldest daughter Amy was with him at the time of his death and two of his sons Messrs J.W. and Arthur Blechynden on the receipt of a wire stating the doctor had no hope of their father's recovery travelled all night but did not reach Beverley before his demise...'

At happier times in their lives Amy and May attended many weddings, the first being those of their brothers: Arthur Blechynden married Clara Agnes Chapman 20 May, 1891; Alfred Blechynden married Mary Ellen Bovell 21 Aug, 1893; George Harrison Blechynden married Zela Matilda Tyler 25 May, 1896; James Blechynden married Bertha May Godschall Johnson in 1903; Ernest Charles Blechynden married Agnes Blinco Moore 23 Feb, 1909; Herbert Edward Blechynden married Ellen Francis Bathurst 8 Jan, 1913 followed by Clarence 'Bob' Henry Blechynden who married Elizabeth Farris. John William and Edwin remained single.

Dear Lucy, Amy forwarding the 1/6 promised and trust it will meet with your approval. The remaining days of Easter passed by pleasantly. Sunday morning I rose early and drove with the to Group Brook to meet the train and the train visited Mrs. Blanchard and William's brothers. Sunday after a great deal of preparation, arrived at the house. But I was intent to go but Tom came up and I was not many girls were there and I thought dressed and reached the hall after.
The room was packed and I was some-de lightful dance but left shortly after supper. Monday evening I continued and school at the well. Tuesday morning I was for me and had a most enjoyable time until Monday morning. We have taken to play cards and somehow, it is progressing slowly. But his leg troubles him at times. The men are away but we enjoy them from home. Saturday we are all well.
My day does not seem to regain her strength. Just for a time is improving.
Give my love. Tell my little friends my love to all. I am to the last uncle's and friends, your brother, and from Amy

Dear Lucy.

Am forwarding the PC I promised and trust it will meet with your approval. The remaining days of Easter passed by pleasantly. Thursday morning I rose early and drove with Wil to Bogup Brook to meet the train. Saw the train visitor Mrs Wauchope and William's orchards. Friday, after a great deal of persuasion I went to the dance. Did not intend to go, but Tom came up and others not many girls were there and I hurriedly dressed and reached the hall at ten. The room was packed and I had some delightful dances but left directly after supper. Monday school commenced and scholars attending well. Friday Mrs Forrest drove over for me and I had the most enjoyable time until Monday morning. We have taken to play Casino at home now. Gil is progressing slowly with his leg troubles here at times. The other men are away but we expect them home next Saturday. We are all well. Mrs Hales does not seem to regain her strength. Trust Mrs Pearce is improving. Give her my love. Tell Mr Eddy I found my books in a too dilapidated condition to forward him. How is the lost Uncle going? I send my regards to your brother.. Love from Amy.

Amy and May's oldest brother John William Blechynden remained single as did Edwin. Others in the family married or left in pursuit of their own lives. John William and his sisters lived together at Bridgedale. The stork had his time cut out as members of the family were blessed with children numerous times, providing much joy for Amy and May in their roles as aunts and later as great-aunts. They enjoyed an active family life, always taking part in christenings, birthdays and other family celebrations and gave much support and sympathy at funerals.

May Blechynden, Agnes Blechynden (nee Moore) wife of Ernest Blechynden, and Amy Blechynden, children, Betty Blechynden and Reg Blechynden taken at Bridgedale, Bridgetown

The First World War saw the beginning of the Red Cross; Amy and May were two of the first to join. They waited anxiously for news of the many young men from the area who joined up and served overseas. Among those were their nephews Leslie and Reuben Blechynden, sons of Arthur and Clara Blechynden and Amos Doust, son of Clara's sister Elizabeth and Henry Doust. Reuben Blechynden became a prisoner of war. Tragically Leslie Blechynden and Amos Doust were killed in action.

John William became a very well respected, active and loved member of the community. Many people knew him as, and affectionately referred to him as, Uncle John. Amy and May looked after him, supporting him in all his endeavours and were themselves involved in many of his business and civic interests.

When John William Blechynden died after a three-month illness on 12 Jan 1931, 'The local community lost a friend to all'. In his Will dated 25 May 1927 he left £3,000 and property in trust for Amy and May so they could be provided for as they had no formal working skills. Their brother John's bequest enabled them to continue their valuable charitable work for the rest of their lives. Amy was fifty- three and May forty-nine when John died in 1931. John's two unmarried sisters continued to live at Bridgedale.

The following was quoted from John William's obituary in 1931:

"John, 'at all times took a very active interest in the civic business and sporting life of the district and was held in the highest respect of the whole community. He was one of the first members of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society and for some time filled the office of president of that body, of which he was elected a life member. He also filled the position of Chairman of the Nelson (now Bridgetown Road Board) for a number, of years. The deceased gentleman had engaged in many different businesses during his life. In the early days he was one of the leading transport merchants and had a number of teams on the roads carrying goods from Boyanup and Donnybrook prior to the extension of the railway to Bridgetown. . ."

During his lifetime John William owned farming property and at one time 'conducted an auctioneering business and a butchering business in town'. Amy and May were excellent cooks and one can imagine they hosted many a meeting and function at Bridgedale. They used their skills at the Bridgetown Agricultural Show every year providing morning and afternoon teas to the public, working tirelessly as they enjoyed chatting with family, friends and acquaintances from the community. In later years they were awarded life membership of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society.

Following are a couple of letters written to their 'Auntie' by Amy and May in 1934.

History: John Blechynden (~1563-1607) married Margaret Ashenden (~1563-1596) on 26th May 1578, in Nonington, Kent. There are memorials to him and his wife Margaret in Aldington Church. See section 1, Kent, England.

Translation of Mural Tablet Inscription in Aldington Church.

Here lies enclosed under solid marble the body of John Blechynden gentleman of arms, having Symnels as his seat, whom fatal internal stone at length overwhelmed in a sad fate, and an early death removed - being then married a second time, and parent of a numerous offspring - from the earth he drew last strands of his life at Monkton, Isle of Thanet, Kent. Thus he lies buried. "but virtue endures beyond the grave"

Died 19th Sept 1607, aged 52.

Question: Who was Dear Auntie?

Surmising: Charles Blechynden and John Blechynden were brothers, sons of Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus. The letter was in the possession of Lindsay Adams a descendant of Charles Blechynden. The letter was signed from Amy and May, daughters of John Blechynden and nieces of Charles Blechynden and Caroline Davies.

Charles Edwin Blechynden (1848-1918) married Caroline Mary Davies (1850-1942) in 1872, Beverley, WA. In the letter with the post card, dated 20 Dec 1934, Amy and May wrote Dear Auntie. Caroline would have been Amy and May's Aunt. Caroline Mary Blechynden (nee Davies) died 8 Nov 1942, aged 92 years. At Beverley. At the time of the letter dated 1934, she would have been 84 years.

The following has been inserted in the Introduction to the Blechynden story. On 14 Jul 2019, a copy of two letters were given via Lindsay Adams, the great-grandson of Horace and Amy 'Ella' to Jill Feutrill (daughter of Reuben Blechynden). 'Reub' was the grandson of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green. Reuben Blechynden's Letter to Ella Blechynden (Nee Craig), was dated 23 Jun 1962. He wrote, Dear cousin Ella. In Amy 'Ella' Craig's (Nee Blechynden's) response to Reub Blechynden, dated July 22-1962, she wrote, Dear Cousin Reuben.

In 1888 Charles Edwin Blechynden purchased 'Roesland', Beverley. Following the evacuation of 'Babbyalla', his mother Charlotte Blechynden and brother Joseph moved to live with Charles and his wife Caroline.

I think it is highly likely that the letter to Dear Auntie, was written to Caroline Blechynden as Caroline was Amy and May's Aunty. Following the death and funeral of Charlotte Blechynden, correspondence continued between the families from Beverley and Bridgetown. Elizabeth Blechynden (nee Green) died 1891 and John Blechynden died 1900, hence Amy and May became the matriarchs of their family. Caroline Blechynden (nee Davies) lived until 92 she was quite likely still very lucid.

When WW2 broke out in the late 1930's, they anxiously waited and watched for news of many members of their family who joined up and served overseas. Among them was their nephew Raymond Blechynden, the youngest son of Clara and Arthur Blechynden. He became a prisoner of war. Haywood Pearce, eldest son of their niece Lila Blechynden and Frank Pearce, trained in VIC then served overseas flying Beaufort Bombers in New Guinea. Fortunately, he survived and on return was the talk of the town when he flew a Beaufort over Bridgetown to take photos before demobbing. Amy and May continued to work with the Red Cross. As a result of their dedication and hard work they were awarded medals for their long service with the Red Cross.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP MISSES BLECHYNDEN HONOURED

For many years Misses Amy and May Blechynden have been outstanding workers for the Bridgetown Agricultural Society and at every show they were to the fore in arranging food for the refreshment stalls and taking an active part on show day. The help of the ladies in this direction, socially and financially, as mentioned on many previous occasions in this paper, have played a big part in the success of the shows. The day has arrived when the Misses Blechynden cannot take any further part in such work and we know that they regret this very much. Mr. W. K. Walter (elder son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Walter who are life members of the society) when speaking at the half-yearly meeting on Monday evening said he had been asked by an old councillor (and at this stage added "I think you know who it is") to propose that the Misses Blechynden be made honorary life members of the society. He eulogised their work for the society year after year and he felt the time had arrived when the society should show their appreciation in the direction proposed.

Mr. A. Cullen said that during his long association with the society he knew well the wonderful work of the Misses Blechynden and whilst they had been thanked again and again the proposal now before the meeting he knew would be appreciated.

The president (Mr. E. J. Giblett) said that when Mrs. Giblett took over the duties last year of making arrangements for the refreshments she went to the Misses Blechynden and was agreeably surprised to obtain from them a carefully prepared list of everything that would be required on show day. This had been a wonderful help and showed the careful manner in which the ladies concerned had undertaken the work. The motion to make the ladies life members was taken unanimously.

A snapshot taken of Amy and May having afternoon tea on the veranda at 'Bridgedale'. I've no idea who was there to take the pic, but the chair in the foreground is a beautiful chair and shows what nice things were in the home. I'm guessing the snap was taken earlyish 1930's. Great Aunt Amy, in the dark jacket, used to be pretty plump, but here has lost a great deal of weight, possibly a sign of the illness that led to her death in 1938. (Great Auntie May is the one in glasses wearing white clothing and sitting on Amy's left). I can't tell if the chair cover is a brocade or a tapestry, possibly hand-worked if the latter. Courtesy Pam Sounness.

Amy Blechynden became unwell and died on 19 May 1938 in Hampton Street, Bridgetown. She was aged sixty-one years. She was buried in May 1938 in Bridgetown Cemetery, Bridgetown, WA. It was a sad time for May who had not only lost a sister but her best friend.

*God saw that she was weary
The hill too steep to climb
So, he took her gently by the hand
And whispered
Peace be thine*

OBITUARY - LATE MISS AMY BLECHYNDEN

The death occurred at Bridgetown on Thursday evening of last week of Miss Amy Blechynden, second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Blechynden. Her father, the late Mr. John Blechynden was one of the first of two pioneers to select a home in Bridgetown. The late Miss Blechynden passed peacefully away in her sleep about two hours after retiring. About 18 months ago she underwent a serious operation and since that time has not enjoyed good health. She was born in Perth 61 years ago and practically the whole of her life was spent in Bridgetown. For very many years she was Superintendent of St. Paul's Sunday School and up to a few years ago was one of the leaders in the church choir. During her life she played an outstanding part in the provision of luncheon and afternoon tea at the many shows held by the Bridgetown Agricultural Society and in appreciation of such valuable service the council of the Agricultural Society quite recently conferred the honour of life membership on her and also her sister, Miss May Blechynden. Deceased was also an active member of the Red Cross Society, particularly during the Great War, when the Bridgetown branch was considered one of the most active in the country districts of the State. The late Miss Blechynden was ever ready to do a good turn for those in need and in numerous ways she helped to lighten the burden of other people.

The Funeral

The remains were interred in the old cemetery of Bridgetown on Saturday afternoon when there was a particularly large gathering of friends not only from Bridgetown, but from many other centres in the South-West. The service was conducted by Rev. E. H. Strugnell at St. Paul's Church and he also conducted the last rites at the grave - side.

The funeral arrangements were in the hands of Messrs W. Moyes and Son.

The chief mourners at the graveside were Messrs Alf., James, Arthur, Ernest and Charles Blechynden (brothers).

The pall bearers were: Messrs R. C. Williams, T. E. Smith, W. K. Walter, J. J. McAlinden, Thos. Wheatley, C. Allnutt, A. Cullen, C. E. Doust, W. J. Giblett, and Dr. Dodwell-Browne.

The coffin was borne to the graveside by Messrs J. Draper, H. J. Smith, T. E. Bolton and V. A. Doust.

The president of the Bridgetown Agricultural Society (Mr. E. J. Giblett) referred to the death of Miss Amy Blechynden at the meeting last week and a motion of sympathy to the family was carried.

BEREAVEMENT NOTICE
THE Sister and Brothers of the late Amy Blechynden, of Bridgetown, wish to THANK all kind friends and relatives for kind acts received during her illness, and for telegrams, letters, cards, floral tributes and personal expressions of sympathy in their recent sad loss. Will all please accept this as a personal expression of gratitude.

Red Cross Society.— We regret that in a recent report appearing in this paper covering the annual meeting of the Bridgetown Red Cross Society we omitted to mention the reference made to the late Miss Amy Blechynden. At this meeting the president (Mrs H. M. Dallas) referred to the passing of the late Miss Blechynden who, she said, had been one of the outstanding workers for the society over a lengthy period. The meeting decided that a letter of sympathy should be forwarded to Miss May Blechynden.

May, now fifty-seven years old, must have initially felt very alone, but she was surrounded by an enormous family unit and had a large group of friends and acquaintances. She also had friends in Busselton and spent many happy times by the sea while visiting them. After Amy died in 1938, May sold the property for £2,000 in 1950. At that time the house had been converted into two flats. She left Bridgedale and lived on her property in Hampton Street Bridgetown next door to her brother Clarence (Bob) Blechynden.

May was the last child of John and Elizabeth to survive. She was now the Matriarch of the Bridgetown Blechynden family.

By the mid-1960s 'Bridgedale' had deteriorated so badly it was due for demolition. This was not to be and the home became acknowledged as part of our State Heritage and operated by volunteers was open to the public. Much has happened since then. For details on the history and what became of the original home, go to the section on Bridgedale.

May Blechynden

May Blechynden died on 17 Oct 1955 at the age of seventy-four. She was greatly missed by all members of the Blechynden and associated families and members of the Bridgetown community who had known and loved her.

LAST OF PIONEERING FAMILY PASSES

Miss May Blechynden, daughter of the late John and Elizabeth Blechynden, passed away suddenly at the Bridgetown Hospital on Monday, October 17. The late Miss Blechynden was aged 74.

Her funeral took place at the Church of England portion of the Bridgetown Cemetery on Tuesday, October 18, after a service held at the Anglican Church, Bridgetown, with the Reverend V. Howells officiating.

Deceased will be sadly missed by the people of Bridgetown. She was an active member of many organisations including the local branch of the Red Cross, the C.W.A., St. Paul's Guild, Mothers' Union and the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary.

Her father, the late John Blechynden, was the first man to build on the townsite of Bridgetown and the old home still stands on the bank of the Blackwood River, originally known as "Bridgedale", where the family lived for many years. Miss Blechynden was the last link of the original Blechynden family.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Percy A. Ewing, W. K. Walter, W. S. Meares snr., W. A. Doust, H. E. Armstrong, Irving Wheatley, J. C. Draper and H. J. Smith.

What a wonderful life these two women lived, serving the community tirelessly and giving their all. They were much loved by family and were always there in times of crisis. Although I was not to know them in life, I am proud to be the great-great-niece of these two remarkable women.

MAY BLECHYNDEN'S NEWSPAPER CUTTINGS

Over many years, May added cuttings on the Blechynden family and friends from the local newspapers.

What a valuable treasure she has left.

(From the collection of data from her album, currently in the possession of Ken and Angela Blechynden), many of the cuttings have been translated and can be viewed in the individual Blechynden chapters.

The over-all cuttings added up to 50 pages, so the decision was made to put them into their own section.

Trove, which was not created during May's lifetime, has made it possible to add many more.

The scrap book. Courtesy Ken Blechynden, was handed down from his father, Ray, after he and Reub Blechynden handled the will and estate of "Auntie May Blechynden".

THIRTEENTH CHILD OF JOHN BLECHYNDEN & ELIZABETH GREEN

13. BLECHYNDEN, ADA JANE (1883-1888)

Ada Jane Blechynden was born into a large family on 23 May 1883, Geejelup (sic, Geegilup), WA [Reg. 105527]. She was the thirteenth child of John Blechynden and Elizabeth Green. who were married on 23 Feb 1860 in St. George's Cathedral, Perth, WA. Her father, John Blechynden was the eldest child of Harrison Blechynden and Charlotte Robus, and her mother, Elizabeth Jane Green was the third child of George Green and Jane Beacham. Both were from pioneering families who had emigrated to the new Swan River Colony in WA from Kent, England. More details can be found in their individual chapters. Ada was one of four girls and nine boys: John William aged 21 years, George Harrison aged 20 ½ years, Edwin aged 18 ¾ years and James almost 17 years. (Ada was not to know her sister Charlotte Jane who sadly died at the age of 13 months in 1869), Arthur aged 13 years, Alfred 11 ½, Ernest aged 9 ¾, Herbert aged 7 years, Amy 6 years, Clarence almost 4 years and May aged 2 years.

The family lived at 'Bridgedale' which was the first house to be built in the newly zoned town called Bridgetown. Her older brothers John William, George, Edwin and James were by now working away from home as they began to establish lives of their own. Arthur had finished school and went to work with his father on his farm. During the day Alfred, Ernest, Herbert and Amy attended the Bridgetown Primary School. As baby Ada learned to walk and grew, she and May as the youngest of the children, played together and were the best of friends.

Tragically, Ada Jane Blechynden died on 2 Jan 1888, aged 4 ¾ years. It was a very sad day for the family when she joined her sister Charlotte and was buried in 1888 in the old Bridgetown Pioneer Cemetery, now a park.

Ada is remembered along with her sister Charlotte and father John on her mother's headstone located on the recently restored grave of her sister May's gravesite in Bridgetown

2. SARAH BLECHYNDEN (1841-1930) & JOHN PAGE (1831-1917)

Sarah was Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden's second child.
She was born on 3 Mar 1841 in Perth.

On 30 Nov 1867, Sarah² married John Page in the Anglican Holy Trinity Church in York, WA.

They had six children.

John passed away on 27 Feb 1917 and Sarah on 2 Oct 1930 both at 'Spring Hill', Quindanning. They are buried together at the Quindanning Cemetery.

² We do not have a younger photo of Sarah. We can imagine there was a similarity in looks to her sister Anne Elizabeth, above.

Sarah Blechynden was baptised on 28 Mar 1841 by J.B. White, Chaplain, in Perth, WA. At the time of her birth, her brother John, born in Mar 1833, was almost nine years of age. Pondering the age gap makes one wonder if her mother, Charlotte, may have had a couple of miscarriages during this time.

Copy of Baptism records of John and Sarah Blechynden

Sarah's second name was Harrison, after her father's christian name and her grandmother's surname.

After completing his indentures working for William Brockman as a carpenter, her father, Harrison Blechynden, successfully obtained an allotment of land and was recorded as working as a butcher. Times were hard and fraught with difficulty in the new colony. Just before Sarah's birth, her parents' dreams came crashing down when they lost their allotment on 18 Nov 1840 due to non-payment of location dues. (For more in-depth information re ownership and conditions at that time, see the earlier chapter on Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden.)

Interestingly, her father's profession was recorded on her baptism certificate as being a yeoman: definition, (a man holding and cultivating a small landed estate; a freeholder). Looking towards the future for their family, Harrison and Charlotte Blechynden, with their children, John and Sarah - just a toddler at the time, travelled to lease a virgin property in the recently surveyed district of Beverley.

Beverley, Our journey through time, pg. 24:

By July 1837, it was estimated that 23 white settlers had lost their lives. . . Barracks were established at John Mann's property at the Dale, aptly named the Barracks, and at Turkey Cock Creek on 'St Aubyns'. Patrols were mounted from these barracks and at times the military also provided armed escorts across the Darling Range.

It is surmised that the Blechynden's initially stayed at 'St Aubyns', the soldiers from the barracks providing protection. On 19 Mar 1842, her sister Elizabeth was born, her birth registered as at 'St Aubyns', WA [Reg. 195], the property of Edward Pomeroy Barrett-Lennard (1799 -1878).

A fourth child, Henry George was born 6 Oct 1843, registered as 'Babbalalla' (sic, should be 'Babbyalla'), Beverley, WA [Reg. 278]. By this time, they had moved across to their newly built home. 'Babbyalla' was the property next door to 'St Aubyns'. and at that stage was owned by William Tanner.

BEVERLEY Our journey though time: BEVERLEY: early locations and original grantees, showing 'St Aubyns', 'Babbyalla' and the future townsite of Beverley.

BEVERLEY Our journey though time pg. 75.

In 1844 West Guildford gentleman farmer Edward Hamersley acquired 'Babbyalla' Estate immediately south of 'St Aubyns'. He leased the property to Harrison Blechynden.

Their fifth child, another boy Jesse William, was born in 1845, also registered at 'Babballall', (sic, should be 'Babbyalla'), WA [Reg. 564]. One can imagine their mother was kept very busy with five children. John was aged 12 years of age, the others all under four. Walter Edward, number six, was born 16 Jun 1846, 'Babalalla', (sic, should be 'Babbyalla'), WA [Reg. 808].

Their happiness was crushed when almost six months later Jessie, died in 11 Dec 1846, WA [Reg. 233], aged 20 months.

Four more children were added to the family: Charles Edwin born 15 Mar 1848, 'Babbalilla', (sic, should be 'Babbyalla'), WA [Reg. No. 1098], Thomas Harrison born 9 Sep 1849, York, WA Reg. No. 1376], Jesse William born 9 Jun 1851, Beverley, WA [Reg. 1705] and Joseph Blechynden born 9 Feb 1853, York, WA [Reg. 2018], registered under Blechenden. At this stage Sarah, was now almost 12 years and her brother John, 20 years. Sarah and Elizabeth would have taken on a great deal of responsibility helping their mother look after the younger ones.

No schools had been established in the district and the first one in Beverley was recorded about 1872. Some basic schooling was taught to the children by their mother and father who were both educated and John who would have had some schooling in Perth.

The two girls became very proficient at helping their mother, looking after the younger ones, learning to cook, washing and cleaning, working in the vegetable garden and looking after the domestic animals. As the children grew older, they all had set chores to do. Her brothers John and Henry George were busy from dawn until dusk, working on the farm, which had become a large and busy concern.

By 1852, a small service area consisting of a mud bat store and a wheelwright was being established at Edwards Crossing which was 13 kilometres away. One can imagine the family would have travelled by horse and cart to shop at the store for goods. Annual shows were recorded as taking place at York which was 28.5 kms - 17.7 miles away. One can also visualise the family travelling in their horse drawn wagon, entering and participating in different events at the show, socialising and mixing with other families.

In 1854, her oldest brother John walked to the Blackwood district at the age of 21, guided by two Aborigines, and was so impressed with what he saw that he acquired two pastoral leases along the Blackwood River. Six years later John Blechynden married Elizabeth Green on 23 of Feb 1860, at St George's Cathedral in Perth. Sarah, aged 19 years and her sister Elizabeth, aged 18 years, would have enjoyed promenading at the wedding celebrations in the big city, attired in their best dresses and hats. The newlyweds spent their honeymoon travelling by bullock wagon to the primitive mud brick cottage which had been built on the north bank of the Blackwood River.

Sarah was now quite grown up and looking to the future. One can imagine it was not long before Sarah made her way to Bridgetown to visit her new sister-in-law and help with the birth of her first babies. It has been said she had some schooling in Bridgetown. It is known that John and Elizabeth's home was used as a school room for some time. Quite likely this was where Sarah had some formal learning. It is possible while in the newly named town of Bridgetown that she first met John Henry Markham Page, a convict who had obtained his Ticket of Leave, on the 6 Feb 1857, and a Conditional Pardon on 10 May 1860.

Speculating: Many people gathered at Bridgedale, the home of her brother John Blechynden at times for church services. Pioneering as farmers in the newly settled district, John Blechynden and John Markham Page may have known one another. It is highly likely that this is how Sarah was introduced to John. His address was recorded as Blackwood on their marriage certificate.

Sarah was aged 21 years when her sister 'Anne' Elizabeth was married 5 Mar 1862 to Thomas Edwards at 'Mount Pleasant', Edwards Crossing, Beverley. Most likely, she was her bridesmaid.

Romance bloomed and SARAH HARRISON BLECHYNDEN (1841-1930) was married 30 Nov 1867 in York, Anglican Holy Trinity Church, to JOHN HENRY MARKHAM PAGE (1831-1917). As mentioned previously, on their marriage certificate his address was recorded as Blackwood. This was John Henry Markham Page's second marriage, more details to follow:

One can imagine that most of the family plus many friends from the Beverley district would have gathered to help celebrate Sarah and John Page's marriage. Sarah at the time of her marriage was 26 and John Page 34 years. Her siblings were aged as follows: John 34, Elizabeth 25, Henry 24, Walter 21, Charles 19, Thomas 18, Jesse 16 and Joseph 14 years of age. Quite likely Elizabeth stood in as her Matron of honour. One wonders if her brother John and Elizabeth and children would have made the trip from Bridgetown to join them.

LIFE WAS HARD IN ENGLAND:

Life was hard in England in the 1840s and 50s. About 50% of the people were now living in towns. It was a time of rising crime and increasing squalor. Many laborers were without sufficient work to support their families. To feed their families they turned to crime. At the age of 17 years, in 1848 and most probably out of work, John Markham Page plus a couple of others, ran amuck. John Henry Markham Page was committed by Rev. W. Lloyd, charged on the 11 Jun 1848 at Hornton, Oxford, England – more details following. Three years later he married Esther Upton.

m.1 JOHN HENRY MARKHAM PAGE (1831-1917) married ESTHER UPTON (1826-1895) 21 Dec 1851, St John the Baptist Church, Hornton, Oxfordshire, England. John Page, bachelor, labourer of Hornton, son of James, labourer, witnessed by John Upton and Ann.

Two databases of records created by the Convict Establishment of in the Australian Colonies, 1787-1901. Records contain details of convicts both prior to and during their sentence of transportation. Our databases contain Character Book and General Register entries for all London convicts for the entire convict period of 1850-1868.

Origins and Content Character Books

Western Australian Character Books contain a record of each convict prisoner as they entered the convict establishment at Fremantle.

The books were intended to keep a record of the personal details, physical descriptions, and conviction histories of each new arrival, along with information regarding their 'character' prior to and during sentence. 'Character' was a term used to denote the behavioural and perceived moral qualities of each convict. A good character' might describe a convict with no previous convictions, or who had exhibited exemplary behaviour since their incarceration, likewise a 'bad character' might be given to a convict with a long history of prior offending, or who consistently contravened the rules and regulations of the Convict Establishment. The Character Books contain the name and register number of each convict, the date they arrived in the colony and the prison from which they came, as well as a convict's age, trade, marital status, and literacy levels. The books also record details of the crime for which a convict was transported, as well as any known previous convictions.

Family sources have hinted that Sarah “ran away from home to marry John Page.” The family story also says that Sarah's father Harrison gave them some land as a wedding gift. We have no recording or indication of where this land was, or its size. It is understandable perhaps why her father being strict with his girls was concerned that she wanted to marry someone who had been a convict, had been married before, fathered a child, and was ten years older than her.

John Page was now a free man and it seems that with time and some thought Harrison and Charlotte accepted the union.

"The Williams" book by H G Cowin (published 1971) recorded the following:

"John Page acquired a pastoral lease on Warrenning Gully during 1864 (before his marriage 1867) - descendants of the same name still occupy portions of the same lease in 1999. Warrenning Gully Farm, Zilko Rd, Quindanning, WA. John was recorded as farming at Williams 1879-1899.

<http://inherit.stateheritage.wa.gov.au/Public/Inventory/PrintSingleRecord/1ee9f806-4bae-4539-af0d-6c17b10212d0>

Physical Description: Warrenning Gully is a tributary of the Williams River. It drains country to the north running almost parallel to the river which it joins west of the Quindanning bridge and it crosses the Marradong Road 1 km north of the Quindanning townsite.

History: An early pastoralist first in the area was John Page who, in 1864, acquired a lease hold on the Warrenning Gully. His descendants farmed portions of the original lease for many years. A young baby (1 day) was buried at "Salt Spring", on the Page property in 1907. The origin of the name is not known, but is likely to have been derived from an Aboriginal word. Another derivative is "Warrenine Soils" which is a rich, red soil associated with dolerite rock.

Quindanning, WA: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Quindanning,_Western_Australia

Quindanning is a small town located halfway between Boddington and Williams along the Pinjarra-Williams Road. At the 2006 census, Quindanning had a population of 163.

The town is named after Quindanning Pool, located along the Williams River. The name is of Aboriginal origin, and was first recorded in 1835 when it was discovered by Alfred Hillman. Low-level agricultural settlement occurred in the 1830s. By 1900, a school and racecourse had been built and in 1907 a townsite was surveyed and gazetted around it.

John Henry Markham Page's Probate record listed property he owned. Some of these properties were described as follows:

Williams Location 362 (100 acres) can be found in Certificate of Title Volume 17 Folio 386
 Williams Location 223 (97 acres) can be found in Certificate of Title Volume 626 Folio 36
 Williams Location 208 (40 acres) can be found in Certificate of Title Volume 17 Folio 386
 Williams Location 345 (100 acres) can be found in Certificate of Title Volume 596 Folio 89

 Thank you to Jeff Osborne for his research and assistance.

Comments via Landgate:

Landgate historical records typically did not include reference to farm names. However, a search of some old compilation surveys covering this area and a google search has allowed me to identify the following products.

Country Grant issued to John Page for Williams Location 223.

A couple of weeks later an Original Grant issued to John Page for the same Williams Location. This record was used to record ownership and encumbrances registered over the land during the time the record was active (1886-1915).

Continuing with the story of Sarah Harrison Blechynden and John Markham Page and their family:

Almost two years after they were married, Sarah and John's first child Susannah Markham Page, was born on 5 Oct 1869 at William's Bridge, Quindanning, WA [Reg. 11851]. Their second child James Henry Page, recorded under John Henry, later known as Jimmy, was born 1 Aug 1871, at William's Bridge, Quindanning, WA [Reg No. 13640]. It appears that Susannah and James Henry were baptised most probably on the same day, 5 May 1873, at Beverley.

Sarah's brother Charles Edwin Blechynden (1848-1918) was married in 1872 at St Paul's Anglican Church Beverley, to Caroline Mary Davies (1850-1942). John Henry was only eight months old but presumably the Pages would have gone across to Beverley for the wedding.

Sarah would have been shocked when she received the news her father Harrison Blechynden, had passed away on 17 Jul 1873 at Beverley, aged 71 years. The funeral was held at St Paul's Church, Edwards Crossing and he was laid to rest in the Cemetery at Edwards Crossing, Beverley, WA. It would have been a sad day as Sarah and John attended the funeral with their two small children: Susannah aged 3 ¾ and Jimmy almost 2 years, with other members of her family and friends who came to pay their respects to one of the first pioneers of the Beverley district.

Three months later her brother Walter Edward Blechynden (1846-1940) was married 27 Oct 1873 at the Picton Anglican Church Bunbury, to Jane Needs (1855-1938). One can imagine that Sarah, John and their two children Susan and Jimmy may have travelled to Bunbury for the wedding.

Their third child Martha Markham Page was born in 16 Apr 1874 also at Quindanning, WA [Reg. 15587]. Sarah and John would have enjoyed showing off their two children and new baby when they joined the family to help celebrate the wedding of her brother, Henry George Blechynden when he was married at the Catholic Church in York to Mary Ann Reilly on 27 May 1874.

The next three children were recorded as being born at William's Bridge. John Page, known as Johnny, was born on 30 Sep 1876, WA [Reg. 17530]. Their eldest child Susannah was almost seven years when they attended the wedding of Thomas Harrison Blechynden (1849-1933), who was married 24 Sep 1877, at the Northam Anglican Church to Annie Maria Dunham (1850-1933). Johnny was followed by Maria Page who was born 26 Mar 1879, WA [Reg. 19899] and Bertha Page born 15 Sep 1881, WA [Reg. 22263]. Sarah was kept extremely busy with her six children: Two sons and four daughters: Susannah (Susan) 12 years, James (Jimmy) 10 years, Martha 7 years, John (Johnny) 5 years, Maria 4 years and baby Bertha.

Another one of Sarah's brother's, Jesse William Blechynden, was married 13 Sep 1882 York to Emma Sarah Dunham (1862-1947). Emma Sarah and Anna Maria Dunham were sisters.

Big changes occurred in 1888 for Sarah's mother Charlotte Blechynden, when Bevan Hamersley inherited the property of 'Babbyalla' Estate and took up residence there in 1888. Charlotte went to live with Sarah's brother Charles Edwin and family at 'Roesland'.

A year later, Charlotte Blechynden died on 13 Sep 1889, at 'Roesland', Beverley. This was a very sad time for the whole family as she had been a loving mother and remained strong for them all. The funeral was held at St Paul's Church, Edwards Crossing and she was buried in the church's small cemetery next to her husband Harrison Blechynden. Sarah and John's children were aged: Susan – 20 years, Jimmy – 18 years, Martha – 15 years, Johnny – 13 years, Maria – 10 years and Bertha just 8 years. It would have been a large gathering. At the time of Charlotte's death eight out of Harrison and her nine living children were married and numbered 46 grandchildren, including one fostered.

Sarah's last brother Joseph Blechynden (1853-1938) was married 4 Oct 1893, at St Mary's Anglican Church, Beverley to Grace Emma Hancock (1858-1947).

Sarah and John's children grew up on the farm and were taught at a very young age, to ride a horse. The girls were taught home skills by their mother and the boys began helping on the farm, developing farming skills at an early age.

SUMMARY - SARAH HARRISON BLECHYNDEN AND JOHN HENRY MARKHAM PAGE HAD SIX CHILDREN:

More details on these children following in their own chapters.

1. SUSANNAH MARKHAM PAGE (1869-1960)
 2. JAMES HENRY PAGE (1871-1947)
 3. MARTHA MARKHAM PAGE (1874-1957)
 4. JOHN PAGE (1876-1939)

Situated close to the Williams/Quindanning Road some 400 metres east of the Quindanning Hall. The building had a residence attached and W.G. Clayer was the first teacher. This structure cost £517, was roofed with corrugated iron with outer walls of timber but without ceiling or lining. The school was situated between the two Cape Lilac trees on this site.

Mail Service at Quindanning:

<http://inherit.stateheritage.wa.gov.au/Public/Inventory/Details/98a87653-fc30-4baf-83a3-a7ab55a53de5>

In June 1889 George Lilley secured a contract to convey a fortnightly mail service from Williams River to Wandering via Daylerking, Marradong and Bannister River. This contract was for three years, at a cost of £48 per annum, the mail to be carried on horseback.

It was not until the beginning of 1895 that a change of mailmen took place. Then a settler living north-east of Williams, by name William Down secured a contract to carry the mail in a spring vehicle for three years at a figure of £45 per annum. This was a weekly service and the schedule was so arranged that he should arrive at the post office Williams at 2.30 pm thus enabling the staff at the local office sufficient time to sort the mail in time for William Henry Bingham to depart at 3:15pm with a regular mail for Daylerking.

... At a later period, an exchange was established at Quindanning. The name Daylerking was discontinued and Quindanning became the official title so far as post office records were concerned.

WEDDING CELEBRATIONS:

There were times of celebration when each of their children found partners, married and had families of their own. Soon grandchildren began to arrive to the delight of Sarah and John.

The first wedding of Sarah and John's children was when their eldest daughter Susannah Markham Page (1869-1960) married Daniel Henrickson (1854-1938) on 17 Sep 1889 at Williams Bridge, WA [Reg. 215]. This was just 4 days after the death of her grandmother, Charlotte Blechynden.

The next wedding was when James 'John' Henry Page (1871-1947) married Mary Ellen King (1876-1955) in 27 Jan 1894 in the Wesley Methodist Church in Perth, WA [Reg. 16].

The three younger girls were the next to marry: Martha Markham Page (1875-1957) married Manasseh (Sic) 'John' Borton Bailey (1875-1957) at Williams River in 1897, WA [Reg. No. 1606]. Bertha Page (1881-1944) married Joseph 'Joe' Edward Bailey at Williams Bridge in 1902, WA [Reg. 1983], brother of Manassa John Borton Bailey who married her sister, Martha Markham Page. And, Maria Page (1879-1960) married Robert Edward 'Bob' Carrotts at Williams Bridge 1 Sep 1903, WA [Reg. 2042].

The last to marry was when John Page (1876-1939) married Matilda Jane Guttrey (1890-1964) 15 Mar 1910 in St Alban's Church, Marradong, Williams, WA [Reg. 6], registered under Guttry.

MORE DETAILS ON EACH OF THE CHILDREN OF SARAH HARRISON BLECHYNDEN AND JOHN HENRY MARKHAM PAGE FOLLOWING:

FIRST CHILD OF SARAH BLECHYNDEN & JOHN PAGE

1. PAGE, SUSANNAH MARKHAM (1869-1960) & HENRICKSON, DANIEL (1854-1938)

Susannah Markham Page was born 5 Oct 1869 at William's Bridge, Quindanning, WA [Reg. 11851]. She was baptised in 1873. Her mother, Sarah, was aged 28.

Susannah Markham Henrickson (nee Page)

SUSANNAH MARKHAM PAGE (1869-1960) married DANIEL HENRICKSON (1854-1938) on 17 Sep 1889 at Mount Pleasant Church, Arthur River, Williams Bridge, WA [Reg. 215]. C/E. Susannah was 20 years of age and Daniel 35 years. They had eleven children as follows:

1. HENRICKSON, JAMES HENRY (1889-1892),
2. HENRICKSON, LEWIS ANDREW (1891-1986),
3. HENRICKSON, ANNIE EMILY (1893-1978),
4. HENRICKSON, MARTHA 'MATT' MARKHAM (1895-1984),
5. HENRICKSON, CHARLES ERNEST (1897-1980),
6. HENRICKSON, BERTHA SUSANNA (1899-1989),
7. HENRICKSON, SARAH 'MAY' (1901-1930),
8. HENRICKSON, ELIZA 'PEARL' (1903-1987),
9. HENRICKSON, ETHEL 'BEATRICE' (1906-1911),
10. HENRICKSON, IRMA 'IRM' MARGARETTA (1908-1996), and
11. HENRICKSON, GERTRUDE 'GERT' EMMELINE (1911-2011)

More details on the marriage, the Henrickson's and Sarah and Daniel's children further on. Firstly, there is a little about Susannah's younger life.

Being the eldest of the children, Susannah had to mind sheep in the bush. The paddocks were not fenced. During these periods she was alone, the only company she had were the friendly Aborigines who kept watch on her in case of any accidents. Her father apparently was a strict parent. The only schooling that she received was during 12 months spent with the Blechynden's, (Uncle John and Aunt Elizabeth in Bridgetown). A school was later built in 1893, in Quindanning about five miles from the farm.

As Sarah and John Page worked to establish themselves and bring up their family, we need to emphasise the hardships experienced in this new colony due to the lack of infrastructure and isolation. In these undeveloped areas of virgin bush at this time there were no fences, no schools, hospitals or churches. It was a big responsibility for Susannah as a very young girl of eleven years being sent out to mind the sheep.

The following is a long, repetitive and at times amusing article in which John Page, was charged with stealing three ewes and three lambs, belonging to Mr. William Lavender, a sheep farmer, at the Williams, on the 23 Jun 1881. John Page was acquitted.

Susannah, the daughter of John Page, then just eleven years, (the last witness) who was in charge of the flock was brought before the judge and discussions followed as to whether she was old enough and had enough understanding as to the difference between right and wrong. The fact that she had never been to a church or school was the subject of some disbelief.

Following is a transcribed summary of this very lengthy article to emphasise the isolation and lack of infrastructure and the expectations and disbelief by others as to lack of experience of this very young girl. See snapshot of the whole article. To view the full four-page article follow the link.

Supreme Court-Criminal Sittings.

(Before His Honor the Chief Justice and Common Juries.)

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5.

SHEEP STEALING.

JOHN PAGE, a farmer, was charged with stealing three ewes and three lambs, belonging to Mr. William Lavender, a sheep farmer, at the Williams, on the 23rd, Jun.

Image: A snapshot of the article on sheep stealing, Mr John Page versus Mr William Lavender.

The Attorney General, in opening the case, said although from the small number of sheep alleged to have been stolen, the case might not appear a very serious one. It was very important, in view of recent legislation, as showing the value of earmarks as a means of identification.

Mr. William Lavender, the prosecutor, said the flock from which the sheep in question were stolen, was in charge of his sons, William and Thomas, not far from the prisoner's homestead, . . . The mark on his (the prosecutor's) sheep was a notch out of the back of each ear (with the exception of 900 sheep, which he had recently bought from Mr. Stephen Monger, which bore a "fox mark," or a slant on each ear). He found three of his ewes and three lambs at the prisoner's place. One of the ewes had a fox mark on one ear, the other ear being completely cut off. . . (The sheep at this stage were produced in court, and conducted themselves, in a very decorous manner, throughout the proceedings.)

William Lavender, jun. (a lad 15 years old, son of the prosecutor), who was employed in minding his father's sheep-and who spoke in such a singular tone of voice, and with such a peculiar idiom, as to elicit from the Chief Justice the remark that he must surely be imitating the sheep themselves -said he noticed three ewes and three lambs belonging to his father in the prisoner's flock, in charge of his daughter, Susannah Page. He had missed them about three weeks previously. . . Thomas Lavender, another son of the prosecutor's, gave evidence to the same effect as his brother did. . .

Cross-examined by Mr. Parker: The prisoner when asked how many of my father's sheep he had amongst his own, said he had none that he knew of, but that if there were any, we could have them, that we could go and look for ourselves. Sheep of ours which had previously joined the prisoner's flock had been returned by him. Our sheep often became intermixed in this way. I had eleven hundred sheep in my charge. I knew them all by sight, and could pick out every one of the eleven hundred, without any difficulty, if mixed up with another person's flock.

Susannah Page, a girl eleven years old, daughter of the prisoner, was the next witness called. In reply to the Chief Justice, she said she had never been to a Church or a school. She supposed she had a mother, but she had never received any education. She had never been taught the difference between right and wrong. Had never been taught to pray. Had sometimes heard something about God, but knew nothing about a Creator.

His Honor remarked that he had never met such a case in the books, and asked the Attorney General if the child was put forward by the prosecution as a competent witness? Did he propose to administer the oath to her?

The Attorney General said that, when she was examined before the committing magistrate, questions to the same effect were put to her, and she replied very differently to what she had done now.

Mr. Rossellotty, the committing magistrate, was then questioned on the subject. He said the girl when examined before him, had several searching questions put to her, of the same tenour as those put by the Chief Justice, and that she answered in such a manner as to satisfy him as to her fitness for giving evidence. She said that she knew the difference between right and wrong, that she had been in the habit of saying her prayers occasionally, and that she knew she was bound to speak the truth; whereupon she was sworn. She did not display such gross ignorance then as she did now.

Note: One can imagine Susannah would have been terrified and overwhelmed by the loud voices and questions.

The Attorney General then suggested that her evidence might be taken, for what it was worth. According to Archibald, an infant of any age might be accepted as a witness, provided such infant appeared to the presiding Judge sufficiently to understand the moral obligation of an oath; and the competency of a witness depended not upon his age but upon his understanding.

The girl was then placed in the witness box, and examined by the Attorney General. She said she remembered the two Lavenders coming to look for the sheep, and that she told them that they were her father's. Tom Lavender agreed that they were her father's, but Willie Lavender maintained otherwise. She did not know who branded them. They were in her father's flock from the time he bought them. She did not know where they were bought. It was not true, they had fresh earmarks when the Lavenders saw them in her father's flock. The earmarks were old and healed, like those on the sheep. (Before the committing magistrate, witness admitted that the sheep were Lavender's.) She said she had been questioned on the subject by Sergeant Patton, but that he so frightened her that she did not know what she told him.

Mr. Parker then addressed the jury on behalf of the prisoner, contending that not a tittle of evidence had been adduced to connect him with the larceny of the sheep, or the mutilation of their ears, - even supposing the jury were satisfied as to the identifications of the sheep.

The Attorney General having replied, and His Honor having summed up, the jury retired to consider their verdict, and, after about ten minutes deliberation, acquitted the prisoner, who was thereupon discharged from custody.

Following is an article regarding a case in which a young man named James Deverill was brought before the court for the alleged indecent assault of Susannah Page. The jury after a retirement of half an hour acquitted the prisoner, warning him to, "Be more careful in future".

The article shows that Susannah was still minding the sheep for her father, sometimes staying out overnight at a station about a mile off but when this happened, she always had a younger brother with her. She had a good and trusting relationship with her mother.

The article gives an indication of the life and her family at the age of sixteen years. A few quotations from it have been added below. Refer to the link if you want to read it in its entirety.

Supreme Court.
CRIMINAL SITTINGS
FRIDAY, DEC, 18TH.
(Before His Honor Mr. Justice Stone.)
The Court opened at half-past ten.
INDECENT ASSAULT AT THE WILLIAMS.
James Deverill a young man of apparently twenty years of age, was charged with indecently assaulting and beating Susannah Page. The prisoner pleaded not guilty.
The Attorney General appeared for the Crown and Mr. S. J. Parker for the prisoner.
Susannah Page, a girl of sixteen, said I know the prisoner; I have a brother and sister; I have been away with the sheep; I was some few weeks ago with the sheep. I left home at six in the morning and turned to come home at about four o'clock in the afternoon when the prisoner came up to me; "he said" Let's have a look at your possum; I had an opossum, which he saw. I continued to draw the sheep homewards; the prisoner followed me about; something was said about the sheep; he kept following me and caught hold of me round my waist, and a struggle ensued; I said "Leave me alone or I'll tell my mother when I get home; I get the best of the struggle and I said I would tell my mother I have never let him take any liberties with me, nor has he ever attempted to do so before."
Cross-examined; I do not know much of the prisoner; I have only seen him once or twice; on the day in question I had not seen him for two years; have never seen him in bed; he came on me suddenly; I was trying to hide from him, but he saw me too quickly. I tried to hide from him because I never liked him; I knew of him by talk; I don't remember pricking him with pins under the table; never had meals with him; I do not go to shepherds' huts; I never have my sheep; never went to Mr. Lilly's shepherd; knew Mr. Ainsworth a schoolmaster at the Williams; he never came to me in the bush; I pointed out the spot where the prisoner molested me to Farley a few days afterwards; the country was pretty open; when the prisoner kept following me I got frightened and tried to get the sheep along quicker.
Re-examined; I never liked him from what I had heard of him; I did not in any way consent; tried all I could to get away; what I had heard of him; I did not in any way consent; tried all I could to get away; there is not a word of truth in what has been insinuated.

By the foreman of the jury; I often stay in a hut all night with a sister and a little brother.
By the Court; when I met my mother as I was returning with the sheep, she was going towards the well; I told her at once.
Sarah Page, mother of Susannah, said I have six children; Susannah was sixteen last October, she used to mind the sheep; sometimes she stayed all night from home at a station about a mile off, but she always had a younger brother with her; she was with the sheep on the 24th of Nov.; she came home about dusk; I was in the paddock about 40 or 50 yards from the house; she was excited and before I could say anything, she told me what had occurred, she looked as if she had been crying, and she burst out crying the moment she spoke to me; a few days afterwards my husband returned from Perth, and steps were taken in the matter; I never saw or heard of my daughter being guilty of any improprieties with men; I heard of Mr. Ainsworth seeing her in his walks, and spoke to Mr. Withers about it and had it stopped.
Cross-examined; Deverill's father lives two or three miles off; he left his father's house when quite a child; he was living at Lilly's when this took place; up to six months ago he often staid and had a meal with us; Susannah knew him very well; she may have pricked him with pins under the table two or three years ago when they were children; when Ainsworth came across her in the bush, it was she who told me of it; Ainsworth gave her some presents for washing his things for him; Martin gave her a concertina and some other things but it was with my knowledge; (His Honor) girls often receive presents without anything being meant by it. There was no rain near the time of the occurrence.
Re-examined; if there was rain I do not remember it; my daughter was generally in the bush and might be away when the prisoner came; Martin gave her the concertina because her father had often promised and never given her one.
George Lilly, a farmer on the Williams, said the prisoner was at work for me last Nov. on the 24th of that month I sent him after some horses; this was about sundown; on his return I asked him why he had been so long and he replied he could not find the horses; I said that was no excuse, that the horses were put out under the fence and that I heard the bell; the next day, in consequence of what I had heard, I asked him if it was true that when I sent him for the horses he was molesting Susannah Page; he only laughed; I then said did you really interfere with her; he replied he did, he said he threw her down on the ground and had a long tussle with her; I asked him what he threw her down for; his reply was to the effect that it was for an improper purpose and that he did not succeed; I asked him "if he ill-used her," he said he did not.

Cross-examined; The general reputation of the girl; not good have seen her with my shepherd when the sheep lay up in the middle of the day for water; they were having some dinner; this is the only time I have seen her in company in the bush; I have seen Martin and the family altogether at Pages; the girl bears the character of going about the bush with men; I know Martin to have given her presents; I supplied some of them.
Re-examined; I did not care what Martin did with his money; At the Williams I did not say of the girl what I say now; I was not asked.
Attorney General; do you consider that the fact of a man speaking to a girl in the bush is ground for calling her a bad character?
Witness; No; not unless they were seen together often; I did not see Ainsworth speak to her more than once; I was first told of the present affair by a Mr. Fox.
By the foreman of the jury; when the prisoner told me of his conduct I did not reprove him, but told him if he was not more careful he would get himself into trouble.
Joseph Farley, Sergeant of Police, said; I was taken by Susannah Page to the spot where the occurrence took place; a girl crying out there could not be heard at Page's house; no track remained; there was rain shortly before I went; on the same day, the 4th of December, I met the prisoner; I asked his name and he told me; he knew me; I told him I had a warrant and read the contents; he said "she was just as bad as I was; whenever she met me she was always talking about the same thing; there have always been the same sayings on when we have been talking together, and my mother and sister have been outside; my sister knows that Miss Page has been wanting to come and see me; my brother James has often seen her take liberties with me.

Cross-examined; I have never heard anything against the girl's character till Deverill's statement; her family are respectable, hard working people. I should have been sure to have heard of it if such was the case the Williams is a very bad place for scandal; if you were to believe people there you would think there was not a chaste woman in the place.
Re-examined; I have known of scandals without any ground for them.
James Page said I have seen the prisoner at my father's house; I have never witnessed any familiarities between my sister Susannah and the prisoner.
Cross-examined; the prisoner used to come to our place a good deal; this way when he was working for my father; my sister was then engaged out. I have never seen the prisoner and my sister together; nor have I seen Martin come into my sister's room, which she was in bed or my sister following him out.
Susannah Page (freshed) gave some very contradictory evidence as to some details.
His Honor asked the Attorney General if he proposed to go on, in the face of the very contradictory statements which in a charge of this character it was so necessary should be free from doubt.
The Attorney General said that, if he addressed the jury, he should feel called on to comment on certain parts of the evidence, but as His Honor had thrown out such a strong hint he should leave the case entirely in the hands of the Court—a course in which Mr. Parker concurred.
His Honor told the jury that it was necessary that before convicting the prisoner they must be fully satisfied that on the one essential point the prosecutrix was speaking the truth and that in arriving at a conclusion they must look at all the circumstances.
The jury after a retirement of half an hour acquitted the prisoner.
His Honor told the prisoner that the jury had given him the benefit of the doubt on account of many of the untruthful statements of the girl. Be more careful in future.
This concluded the business of the session.

Following are brief extracts of the rest of the proceedings and the Jury's decision.

Cross-examined; I have never heard anything against the girl's character till Deverell's statement; her family are respectable, hard-working people. . .

James Page said I have seen the prisoner at my father's house: I have never witnessed any familiarities between my sister Susannah and the prisoner. . .

Cross-examined; the prisoner used to come to our place a good deal: this way when he was working for my father my sister was then camped cut. The jury after a retirement of half an hour acquitted the prisoner. His honor told the prisoner that the jury had given him the benefit of the doubt on account of many the untruthful statements, of the girl. Be more careful in future. This concluded the business of the session.

Contemplating: Family stories have been passed down that the only schooling she received was during 12 months spent with the Blechynden's, (Uncle John and Aunt Elizabeth in Bridgetown). Following the court case perhaps the decision was made for Susannah to spend some time away from the bush with her loving relatives in Bridgetown.

SUSANNAH MARKHAM PAGE (1869-1960) married DANIEL HENRICKSON (1854-1938) on 17 Sep 1889 at Mount Pleasant Church, Arthur River, Williams Bridge, WA [Reg. 215]. C/E. Susannah was 20 years of age and Daniel 35 years.

The marriage certificate records Susannah Page and Daniel Henrickson as being married in the Church of England, Mount Pleasant, Arthur River, in 1889.

Daniel was recorded as being a bachelor and Susannah as a Spinster. Daniel Henrickson's profession was a watchmaker. The address of both was Williams. His father's name was written as Sheen Henrickson, farmer, Susannah's father, John Page, farmer.

Following are a few paragraphs on the Church of England in the Williams district at that time.

inHERIT - Holy Trinity Anglican Church - Shire of Williams

This church was one of three churches inspired by the work of the Rev. Joseph (Holy Joe) Withers - the others being Mount Pleasant (Arthur River) and Kojonup (Eticup).

In 1879 the Reverend Joseph Withers, formerly of Bunbury, was stationed at The Williams River and holding divine services at five different places. However, during 1880 a reserve of 50 acres was set aside for a Church of England parsonage at Bannister townsite which is situated about five miles east of the present townsite of Williams. A building to be known as The Parsonage was built of pug and stone. (1). Site 241. Soon after his arrival at the Bannister townsite, the Reverend Withers began to agitate for the erection of a church building near the Williams River bridge with the result that in January 1882, a reserve, (No 508A), was set aside for a church. The first Church of England was built of locally made bricks during 1882 and consecrated in January 1883. However, its proximity to the river and the low-lying nature of the site resulted in damage to the foundations and structure. This building remained in use for 38 years and finally it was declared unsafe for regular worship, resulting in land being acquired over the river in the new townsite and a new Church built in 1925. (2). A large Olive tree marks the site of the first church. . .

. . . Withers remained at Williams until the end of 1887 and in 1889 his replacement was Rev. F.G. Gillett.

WILLIAMS

Latitude 33° 01' S Longitude 116° 54' E

The townsite of Williams is located in the great southern agricultural region, 160 km south east of Perth and 32 km west south west of Narrogin. Land in the vicinity of Williams was settled in the 1830's, but the area only slowly developed in the 1830's and 40's. In the early 1850's the arrival of convicts in WA resulted in the road from Kelmscott to Albany being developed, and a bridge built over the Williams River. An Inn was built near the bridge, and in 1869 a Police Station was built on the south side of the river.

As most of the land in the area was privately owned, settlers in the area petitioned the government in 1894 to purchase private land on the north side of the Williams River adjacent to the Albany Road Bridge to create a townsite. After negotiations 140 acres were purchased from Mr E Hamersley, survey of lots made, and the townsite of Williams gazetted in 1897. Although only costing 5 pounds per acre, attempts to recover the cost by selling blocks was unsuccessful, and the costs had to be reduced in 1899 before blocks would sell.

In 1902 farm land south of Williams was subdivided by the government and sold as Marjidin Estate. Portion of the land was reserved for government purposes, and when the route of the new Narrogin to Darkan railway was decided in 1905, a subdivisional scheme of 1/4 acre blocks was surveyed and in 1906 was gazetted as the townsite of Marjidin. The Williams railway station was in the townsite, and December 1906 the name of the station was altered to Marjidin. This action so upset the Williams community that 6 months later the name was changed back to Williams, and soon after the Marjidin townsite was renamed as an extension of Williams.

Williams derives its name from the Williams River which flows through the townsite. The river was discovered by the explorer Thomas Bannister in 1831, and first shown named on an 1833 map. It is believed named by Governor Stirling in 1832, most likely after King William IV who ascended the throne in 1831. The name has been shown on maps as William's River and William River.

HENRICKSON, DANIEL / TANELI ERKINPOIKA HEIKKILÄ (1854-1938)

*PLEASE NOTE: DANIEL HENRICKSON (1854-1938)- IS NOT - the Daniel

Henrickson mentioned on a number of Family Trees in Ancestry, as being born in Kymi Huruksela Rysa, Finland whose parents were: AAREN HENRICK HENRICKSON (1833-1868) and ANNA MARIA SYLVARDOTTER (1837-).

Daniel Henrickson

RECENT RESULTS FROM DNA

DANIEL HENRICKSON

Daniel Henrickson (Taneli Erkinpoika Heikkilä) was born 16 Mar 1854 in Heikkilä, Oulainen, Finland. His father's name was, Erkki Juhonpoika Heikkilä, mother, Liisa Juhontytär Heikkilä. Nationality of both his mother and father, Finnish. Daniel often quoted his father's name as Aaron in various forms. Maybe that was his English version of Erkki.

Taneli Erkinpoika Heikkilä (born Mar 16 1854 Oulainen) was not married with anyone in Finland, according to Raahe parish office and there is absolutely no note of marriage. (Sanna Heikkilä)

The DNA evidence in 2021 and earlier suggests strongly that sailor Daniel Heikkilä from Brahestad deserted 1876 in Philadelphia can be identified as sailor Daniel Henrickson arriving 1882 to Australia. (Antti Alfthan)

Daniel was born in Oulainen, Finland March 16 1854, youngest in the family. His mother died when Daniel was 10, father and the eldest brother died in the Great Famine 1868 in Finland, only Daniel and his elder brother Antti (Anders, Andrew) surviving. Both moved later to a major port city Raahe (Brahestad) enlisting as sailors. Birth year 1860 in Daniel's later documents is obviously incorrect. (AA)

Daniel stated he arrived in Australia from New Zealand in 1883 per the (Duke of Sutherland) at Port Adelaide where he resided for nine months. He worked on the Midland Railway with Mr Keane over three years, and in Williams 40 years. He also lived in London, England, about four years and New Zealand for two years. Daniel Henrickson died 13 February 1938, farm residence, Boddington, (registered as Williams), WA [Reg. 22]. He was buried 15 Feb, 1938, at Quindanning Cemetery. On his Statutory Declaration below he states his father was Aaron Henrickson yet on his marriage certificate his father's name is written as Sheen Henrickson. On his death certificate his father is documented as Aaron Henrickson. Maybe 'Sheen' was a nickname Daniel used for his father when he married Susannah although it more likely a misinterpretation of his accent by the person who wrote it down.

Note: Debbie, his granddaughter has over many, years researched extensively by correspondence and Internet to find out more about Daniel's family.

Statutory Declaration: Daniel Henrikson

Records from the WA Postal Directory show that following his time working for the Midland Railway, Daniel Henrikson worked as a Blacksmith and farmer in the Boddington, Williams and Quindanning area. There are records of another Henrickson in the Post Office Directories. 1902 Henrickson and Knutson, contractors, 31 Barrack St, Perth: Henry Henrickson (H and Knutson)

Via Debbie Miles: The Statutory Declaration also stated Daniel HENRICKSON was born 15 Aug 1860 Priastadt, Finland. (I, Debbie MILES, haven't found the place "Priastadt" in any records & feel that it was miss interpretation of spelling). "Kristinestad" may be the correct place in Finland?) Recent research suggests it was probably Oulainen.

Daniel's nationality was Finnish & his father's name may have been "Aaron". He arrived from New Zealand on an unknown date in the year 1883, per the ship "Duke of Sutherland". Disembarked at the Port of Adelaide, SA. Daniel HENRICKSON resided at Adelaide for 9mths. On the Midland Railway, WA, with Mr KEANE over 3 years, and in Williams District 40 years. After leaving Finland and before arriving in Australia, Daniel resided in London, ENG for about years, New Zealand, two years.

My own knowledge of my grandfather separates into two segments, [1] personal and [2] hearsay or word of mouth. I was six years of age when he died, so segment [1] is very limited and sketchy, nonetheless it is committed to writing and appears as under.

[1] To me he emerges as a very old, quiet and gentle man wearing a 'King Edward' type beard, always in a suit with waist coat and wearing a felt hat. I often saw him sitting in the sun smoking his 'peeper' [pipe]. I rarely heard him speak, although when he sometimes did speak to me, I remember that I had to ask my mother [his daughter Pearl] "what did he say" for he spoke in a heavy Finnish accent. When he died in bed in the 'old home' off the Bannister Road out of Boddington, he was surrounded by most of his family (including granny Henrickson) as well as many grandchildren. The funeral service was conducted in the old church at Marradong on a warm but not hot sunny day.

[2] During my early to mid-teens [about 1944], and when granny Henrickson made her customary yearly visit, staying for about a month at a time before moving on to visit another of her daughters, I recall that sometimes talking with her about earlier days in the 'bush' some anecdotes about Dan would come up.

She told me one time that all the crew on a merchant sailing boat (including Daniel) were frightened out of their minds when they saw a huge sea monster 'as large as the boat itself' swimming along just under the surface of the sea and traveling at the same speed as the boat and in a parallel direction. This apparently continued for several hours.

On another occasion Dan went to town [unspecified] in the dray to sell produce and buy merchandise for the farm, but on the way back to the farm, he was assaulted by an unknown assailant in the dark and was left lying by the roadside. Granny was alarmed when the horse/dray arrived back at the farm about midnight without Dan. She and two of the older daughters went back in the dray along the road until they found Dan, still lying by the road, and brought him back to the farm where he spent some weeks recovering. She said that he was in the habit of buying a bottle of rum to drink when he was travelling in the cold at night. This was one such occasion.

During the Second World War, when granny was on a customary visit, she surprised Pearl and Arthur by producing a revolver and a set of small scales that had once belonged to Dan. She said that she trusted Arthur and wanted him to look after these items as they had once belonged to Dan. She also said that Dan had once shot and killed a man, but did not elaborate further. Her reason for selecting Arthur as the custodian was as she said, she did not want them to fall into the wrong hands. The revolver itself is of cheap Belgian origin and relatively common in the 19th Century. The scales were held together with rotting green cord and could have been used to weigh a range of things, including gold dust.

Irma, Gert and Pearl seem to have been most successful in extracting information from their father. As young girls they would sit around him as he sat in a chair and smoked his pipe in the afternoon sun. He taught them to count in Finnish, and on occasion told them a little of his life in Finland. My mother and two aunts at various times relayed something of what he told them. His home town was situated about 14 miles inside the Russo-Finnish border of the 1860's. This border since changed due to the various wars that raged in Europe at the time. The phonetic name of this town sounded like "Koomeny", but this sound would have been influenced by his heavy Finnish accent. His father was the village "doctor", which probably meant that he was a barber who also tended the sick and performed amputations. Who knows?

Dan, at about the age of 14 years left Finland with his older brother and travelled to England where they both enlisted in the British Merchant Navy. They sailed around the world as crew members for a number of years before being assigned to different sailing boats. It has been reported that he arrived in New Zealand and stayed for several years. He moved on to Australia and at some stage Dan 'jumped' ship when it berthed in Melbourne and seemed to drift toward the Victorian goldfields. History reveals that during the Victorian gold rush whole ship's crew often deserted to journey to the fields, only to return several months later. It is by no means certain that Dan also visited the goldfields, but may have occurred. The first gold was discovered in Western Australia in the Kimberley region in 1885.

He then appears in South West Australia around the Bridgetown area where he married and adopted a life that included blacksmithing and small mixed farming. He gained a reputation of being able to fix almost anything and appears to have gained universal respect, being referred to as 'Old Dan'. At the same time as the family grew, they seem to have moved from place to place throughout the South-West, as share farmers, only setting roots as they came to Boddington where he finally died.

Summary, including information from other sources.

Summary, including information from other sources.

Dan left Finland at about the age of 14 years. His occupation was subsequently recorded as 'farm worker'. He joined the British Merchant Navy and circumnavigated the world several times, and 'jumped ship' in Melbourne. He must have had a sense of adventure. In later life it was noted that he signed his name on the birth certificate of one of his elder children with an "X". He neither read nor wrote English. He was very quiet and engaged in conversation infrequently. He retained his heavy Finnish accent and used many Finnish words in his conversation. He was dexterous and able to understand mechanical problems, fix and repair all manner of items [probably influenced by his time in the merchant navy]. He was adaptable and able to work within the Australian farming community, running a farm, assisting others when required.

It could be concluded from this fragmentary evidence that he had little or no school education, either in Finland or Australia, and that this may have contributed to his reserved nature. To compensate for this lack of formal schooling he acquired manual skills [probably as a member of the merchant fleet], which were to be a great attribute in later farming life. He became an adept blacksmith, which would be greatly sought after within rural communities.

He may have left the Merchant Navy in New Zealand, moved to Melbourne, Adelaide and possibly Bunbury. It is hard to imagine him as a surveyor in the WA goldfields for he was unable to read or write in English, but he may have been a staff man or assistant to a qualified surveyor. His alleged appearance in Adelaide could be explained in terms of him working his passage on coastal shipping that finally saw him in Bunbury. At the time this Southwest port was thriving with inter and intra state shipping and it is not far west from the Bridgetown area where Dan worked, married and returned to a rural existence.

The evidence supporting this scenario is not strong, but it is a likely story. Dan is a man surrounded in mystery mainly because of an absence of definitive evidence as to his travels and this is probably all that will ever be known of him. We can be certain of three things concerning Dan, first that he left Finland, second that he settled in WA and third, that he had a large family.

Other observations.

Dan's father came from Sweden and settled in Finland [Ilenrickson is a Swedish name]. This is a form of reverse migration for the time as most migration was in the reverse direction, from Finland into southern Sweden.

That Dan had 'shot a man' there is no information to support or deny this. The Belgian revolver he possessed could have been acquired at any time in his life and used in self-

Other observations.

Dan's father came from Sweden and settled in Finland [Henrickson is a Swedish name]. This is a form of reverse migration for the time as most migration was in the reverse direction, from Finland into southern Sweden.

That Dan had 'shot a man' there is no information to support or deny this. The Belgian revolver he possessed could have been acquired at any time in his life and used in self-defence.

This may also explain why he kept moving from place to place, and it may also explain why he spoke so rarely and why so little is known of him before he married and of his previous life.

Another family story told by daughter "Irma" TURTON (nee HENRICKSON):

"As far as she can remember learning from "Granny" (Susannah HENRICKSON), Grandfather Aaron HENRICKSON was a doctor? He wanted Daniel to follow in his footsteps. However, He was more interested in the sea. His brother Andrew went with the father to California to study medicine.

Grandfather, "Daniel HENRICKSON" spoke only "broken English" all his life & found it difficult to communicate with his family. Sometimes his wife assumed that from Daniel's stories, that he had a brother Andrew and at least three sisters, named: Pearl, Annie and Herma. These names he passed on to his own daughters. Whether or not there were more in the family, she doesn't know.

Daniel joined a ship and took three years of world sailing before eventually reaching Australia. There he left ship and wandered the countryside finding work. Eventually he could turn to his hand to blacksmithing, a farrier and watchmaker. He also could make and build with clay bricks.

Once a family man, he did most of the machining of clothes for the family. As she (Irma) remembers him, he liked going down the "Pub". He also was a little quick tempered! His eye sight was first class, right up to the time of his death in 1938. Never needing to wear glasses.

Each night he would retire to bed early, 8.30pm with the words "Well Mummy, time for bed". He always wore a waist coat and always the sleeves of his shirt rolled down. From Irma's memory, the family lived in an old house of TUNBRIDGE's before going to the farm. Not sure if it was before in the "Humpy" on the Boddington block. She thinks it could have been while waiting for said, "Humpy" to be built.

When the move was made to the farm, the older members of the family had either married or were working. The younger ones stayed with one or other of the married sisters to enable them to attend school.

Daniel would always take the family in the buggy to any of the country dances around the area. Built a fire and had a meal, then bedded down the children in the hall or buggy. He liked to have a beer with his mates.

In the farm yard, was a big Fig tree. Under it he built a Bow Shed, for the Christmas and other family gatherings. One of the visitors she remembers, was Nora BLECHYNDEN, who was Susannah's 1st cousin, one generation removed."
